JOHNSON TO TAKE NRA 'CHISELERS' TO COURT IN 10 DAYS

Orders State Directors to Go Directly to Federal Prosecutors Without Waiting on Washington.

112 CONSUMER COUNCILS DECIDED ON

McCarl Upholds Order Bidders on Government Contracts Must Certify Compliance With Code.

y the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Court ction against NRA code "chisel-rs" was ordered today by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson.

"The time has come," said the dministrator of the NRA in leters to all code authorities and field epresentatives "when uncertainty s to enforcement by legal proeedings must end. We must now roceed on the basis that one who s violating his code and who is ot ready and anxious to comply nd make restitution when informd of his non-compliance, must be rought swiftly and surely before he enforcement agencies of Govnment."

Johnson's Order.

Johnson ordered that 10 days ence, state compliance directors hall begin handing all clear-cut iolation cases directly to their ederal district attorneys, instead f first asking advice in Washingon; within these 10 days, state diectors, code authorities and local ompliance boards shall send all ood cases in their files to the ewly created NRA litigation diision here, so the best may be reurned immediately to the district ttorney for action. All were arned not to file weak cases.

"It is only where the respondent as been communicated with and as shown no disposition to correct r adjust, that you should present he case to the district attorney h the request that he take apopriate action thereon," Johnson's etter says.

Action Follows Success in Court.

NRA officials said the new poly was the result on their success the courts with test cases just ompleted, including the Supreme ourt's ruling for the Government the New York state milk law se and convictions won by the NRA.

The new policy was announced on after the National Emergency ouncil had said that consumer acities of both NRA and Agricull Adjustment Administration ould be consolidated under the ouncil in a division that would imediately create 112 consumer ouncils throughout the country on experimental basis. Mrs. Mary arriman Rumsey will direct this ork. The chief duty of the local uncils will be to analyze the efct of price changes on consumers d the reaction on business.

McCarl's Ruling.

Comptroller-General McCarl in a ling upheld a presidential order quiring all sellers and manufacrers bidding on Government conacts to file certificates of complice with their respective codes bee their offers can be considered. The McCarl ruling effectively uts out from Government busi- and all state or local business rtly financed by the United ates, all firms which attempt to regard codes or which, like the rd Motor Co., comply but refuse file affirmative commitment to cognize the code as binding. Since e manufacturer must affirm as ll as the seller, Ford retailers uld not be eligible to obtain conacts unless the firm should ange its policy.

POLICE SERGEANT OFF DUTY HELD UP IN GROCERY

James Hanson in Brother-in-Law's Store, Follows and Fires at Men Who Take $60 From Till.

A police sergeant in civilian clothes and three other persons, including William C. Priest, a grocer, of 1236 South Newstead avenue, were held up last night by two armed robbers who took $60 from the store's cash register and fled on foot.

The sergeant, James Hanson, who is attached to the Magnolia Street District, ran to the door after the robbers ran out and fired three shots at the men who dodged down an alley and escaped.

"I was just getting ready to close up," Priest said, "and my wife and myself were checking over the stock and talking to Sergeant Hanson, who is my brother-in-law, and his wife. Hanson was off duty and they had just dropped in.

"Suddenly two young men came in, walked up beside us and pulled out revolvers. It happened so quickly we didn't know what it was all about.

"One of them said: 'Stick 'em up' and we all put up our hands. The one who spoke to us kept his revolver pointed at us while the other got the money out of the register. Then they ran out."

Victim Who Draws Pistol Shot in Filling Station Holdup.

Lee Allen, a driver for the Lungstras Dyeing & Cleaning Co., was shot in the left arm in a filling station at 3900 Wilmington avenue last night when he drew a revolver and attempted to halt a hold-up man who had just robbed him of $50 and taken $40 from the attendant, Henry Conrad.

As the robber started to leave the station with the $90, Allen, a deputy game warden, drew a revolver and thrust it against his back. The robber whirled and fired once at Allen.

Although wounded, Allen pursued the robber, who fired three more shots as he ran from the station and jumped into Allen's delivery truck. Later, the truck was found abandoned.

Allen was taken to City Hospital where it was found he had flesh wounds on the wrist and elbow. He resides at 4469 Chippewa street.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—An official analysis of the 1,032,000 Government checks sent out by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in the 1933 cotton acreage reduction campaign discloses the surprising fact that one plantation in Arkansas, operated by Lee Wilson & Co., received $84,000 for plowing under more than 7500 acres of growing cotton.

The analysis has not been completed, but the extent to which cotton production is "big business" as well as a means of livelihood, was vividly shown by 11 other payments of more than $18,000 and the many payments of smaller but yet considerable sums.

The smallest payemnt on record was $1.70 to John M. Marshall of North Carolina. As the lowest compensation was at the rate of $6 an acre, Marshall apparently reduced his production by a quarter of an acre. The average payment to the 1,032,000 growers who reduced their cotton acreage was $110. The average payment a farm was $110 and the average reduction 10 acres.

Payments Above $18,000.

The payments above $18,000 were as follows:

Banks & Danner Co., Arkansas,	$80,000.
Delta and Pine Land, Mississippi,	$41,400.
Mississippi State penitentiary,	$39,600.
Arkansas Penal Institution,	$25,500.
G. N. Martindale, Texas,	$21,624.
King & Anderson, Mississippi,	$20,274.
J. D. and R. J. Beasley, Texas,	$20,416
Tilian Mercantile Co., Arkansas,	$19,316.
Panther Burn Co., Mississippi,	$19,200.
Chapman Ranch, Inc., Texas,	$19,080.
McKee Brothers, Mississippi,	$18,513.

The official analysis does not show the exact acreage reductions, but if the average figures are used, the $80,000 payment to the Banks & Danner Co., in Arkansas, represented a reduction of 7272 acres out of a plantation of 29,088 acres.

These figures are obtained by dividing 80,000—the amount of the pay—by 11—the average payment an acre, and multiplying the result, 7272, by 4 because the average reduction was 25 per cent of the total acreage under the benefit contracts. This method of computation, AAA officials said, gives a fairly accurate idea of the individual acreage reduction.

The $25,500 payment to the Arkansas Penal Institution, by this method of calculation, represented the plowing under of 2318 acres out of a total area under contract of 9272 acres. The payment of $18,513 to McKee Brothers of Mississippi, by this method of calculation, represented a reduction of 1683 acres out of a total plantation of 6732 acres.

"Big Business" Aspect.

The "big business" aspect of cotton production, as shown by these figures, was explained by a large cotton planter who is now an AAA official. This man operated three farms and received a total of more than $70,000.

"My plantations aggregated slightly more than 25,000 acres and I cut production more than 6000 acres," he said. "I have about 1000 families on my places as tenants and share-croppers. I paid my share-croppers $9 an acre for every acre taken out of production."

The Adjustment Administration's regulations provide for contracts between owners and share-croppers, under which the latter should receive one-half of the Government's payments to the owners.

Statistics at the Department of Agriculture show how feudalistic cotton farming has become. A census in 1925 showed that tenants operated 65.5 per cent of all farms in the cotton states and produced 66.9 per cent of all cotton in 1924. The 1930 census showed that tenants operated 72.6 per cent of all cotton type farms and produced 74.2 per cent of all cotton in 1929. Within the last three or four years, however, the low price of cotton has caused an exodus of tenants from low yield farms, officials said.

Ownership of Farms.

In 1930 in areas where cotton represents 40 per cent or more of the total value of all agricultural products, 354,984 full owners represented only 21.94 per cent of the 1,617,771 farmers in those areas. Part owners represented 5.11 per cent of the total. Managers represented .19 per cent.

Out of a total of 1,177,035 tenant farmers, 127,979, or 7.91 per

HOUSE LEADERS DOUBTFUL ABOUT COUZENS TAX PLAN

Oppose Adding 10 Per Cent to Payer's Bill Unless Approved by Administration.

MEMBERS THINKING OF FALL ELECTION

Overriding Veto Possible Boomerang—La Follette Pushing Publicity for Returns.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Opposition to the Couzens proposal to add 10 per cent to all individual tax returns for one year was expressed today by House Democratic leaders, who predicted its rejection by the House unless President Roosevelt gave the word more revenue was needed.

Meanwhile, Senator La Follette (Rep.), Wis., predicted approval of his amendment to subject tax returns to public inspection, saying it appeared "doubly important" in view of the Senate Banking Committee's disclosures of "technically legal tax avoidance" by big taxpayers.

Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee, in announcing his acceptance of the Couzens amendment before it was offered, made no predictions as to how the House would receive it, but Representative Byrns of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, and Chairman Doughton (Dem.), N. C., of the Ways and Means Committee, left little doubt about it.

Byrns told newspaper men the House would have to be well informed on the need of additional revenue before it approved the proposal. House sentiment generally appeared unfavorable, based on hesitency to increase taxes too much in an election year.

"Congress' Own Fault."

Agreeing with Byrns that no further income taxes should be voted unless approved by the administration, Doughton said: "Of course, Congress increased the financial burden of the government when it overrode the Presidential veto on veterans' benefits and Federal salary restoration. If the President and Secretary Morgenthau think this amount of extra revenue is needed, the taxes must be increased. If that comes about, Congress must realize that it is its own fault."

Pointing out that his amendment did not call for full publicity in the sense that all returns would be made public as they came in, La Follette said all he wanted was "for these returns to be made public records."

"Certainly nothing has happened within the last year," he said, "that would do anything but strengthen the Senate's determination to make income tax returns public records.

"My contention is that the proposals we already have adopted to plug up the loopholes in the present law will be materially served by throwing returns open to public inspection.

Early Passage Expected.

"Due to the disclosures of the Senate Committee on Banking of technically legal tax avoidance by some of the largest taxpayers of the country, it seems to be doubly important that we adopt this amendment.

"We can't keep Senate committees constantly on the job prying into such conditions. If we made income tax returns public records, subject to inspection of anyone who wants to see them, these large taxpayers will not indulge in such technical efforts to avoid the just payment of taxes under law."

Senate leaders look for final passage of the tax bill by Tuesday.

F. D. R. JR. COMMENTS ON FIGHT

Objected to Photographer Sneaking Up on Him, He Says.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., 19-year-old son of the President, commenting on his altercation with a photographer at a wrestling show, today was quoted as saying: "What I objected to was his sneaking up the aisle and taking the picture without my consent." Young Roosevelt, a week-end guest at the home of Hallowell Vaughn Morgan Jr., of Bryn Mawr, in a telephone conversation discussed his action at the Arena last night, when he is reported to have knocked down Don Corvelli, the photographer, and smashed his camera. "I am thoroughly fed up with what happened last night," he said. "I wouldn't have minded it if the photographer had asked me to have a picture taken alone, or with a wrestler."

Two Aviators Remove Weakest of Party After Flight From Cape Van Karem, Siberia.

THIRD RESCUER DAMAGES PLANE

Hopes to Take Off Others of Party Marooned Since Feb. 13 — 83 Still on Drifting Ice.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, April 7.—Russian avitors today rescued five members of the party of 88 adrift since Feb. 13 in the Arctic icepack in the Arctic Ocean off Siberia.

The flyers Kamanin and Molokoff reached the castaways from Cape Van Karem, Siberia, and returned to the latter place with those considered weakest of the party.

Eighty-three men now remain on the ice of the Russian party of 101 that was marooned when the ice breaker Cheliuskin on which the expedition was returning from Wrangel Island was crushed in the ice pack and sunk with the loss of one life. The party made camp on the ice carrying provisions and a radio sending set from the ship before it went down. March 5 the 10 women and two children in the party were removed by a plane flown by the aviator Liapidevsky.

Since the rescue of the women and children the ice on which the party is camped has drifted some distance from the point at which the ship sank.

A later report said Pilot M. T. Sletneff also flew today to the ice pack but damaged the fuselage of his plane in landing and was therefore unable to make a return trip with the other two aviators. Sletneff, however, expected to repair his machine and take off for the cape tomorrow with others of the stranded group.

If weather permits, Kamanin and Molokoff intend to make a second rescue flight tomorrow.

The position of the castaways is given tonight as 68.20 north latitude and 173.04 west longitude.

SHOT FIRED INTO KANSAS CITY CITY MANAGER'S RESIDENCE

McElroy Reports Bullet Came Through Window But No One Was Hurt.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, April 7.—City Manager H. F. McElroy reported that a bullet was fired through the front window of his residence tonight as he sat in a nearby sunroom with his daughter, Mary. No one was hit.

The bullet, from a rifle, passed through the window pane and shade and across the living room to the dining room, where it struck a table and fell to the floor. The daughter switched off the light, but, looking out, saw no one.

Miss McElroy was abducted last year and held more than 24 hours until the City Manager paid $30,000 ransom. Walter McGee is under sentence to be hanged as the convicted leader of the plot and two men are under prison sentence.

Recently McElroy received a threatening note in which he was named as an intended kidnap victim but he disregarded it, saying he had received several threats and regarded them as the work of "cranks."

White Woman, Five Children Kidnaped in Raid on Post.

By the Associated Press.

LIMA, Peru, April 7.—The newspaper El Comercio here says a group of Muato Indians attacked a post on Rivachi Lake, near the Pastaza River, on March 17, killing six men and abducting a white woman and her five children.

An expedition was sent in search of the Indians, but it held little hope of finding them or rescueing the woman and her children. The Muatos are among those in the Amazon region who still fight civilization. The six men killed were salting river fish for a commercial firm when attacked.

ICKES PICKS ILLINOIS FOR HOMESTEAD TEST

West Frankfort Families to Have Chance to Combine Farming and Mining.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Illinois has been selected as one of the first states to try out the subsistence homestead theory.

As a means of making families with seasonal incomes self-sustaining the year round, Secretary of the Interior Ickes today announced approval of plans for the establishment of a project at West Frankfort. A fund of $550,000 has been allotted for the project, which has been drawn up under the supervision of M. L. Wilson, director of the division of subsistence homesteads.

Ickes said about 275 homesteads could be included, varying from one and one-half to 10 acres in size. The occupants of these homesteads will be, for the most part, coal miners irregularly employed about West Frankfort.

Reason for Selection.

The Secretary said West Frankfort was decided on after investigators had discovered many skilled and semi-skilled workmen living in unsanitary and inadequate houses. He was anxious, he said, to make sure that such workmen had an opportunity to attain a satisfactory standard of living partly through the agriculture and partly through industrial employment.

The coal deposits located in Franklin County are, for the most part, of high quality and should offer continued part-time employment for many years, it was felt. It was expected by Ickes that each family occupying a homestead would have at least one member earning wages.

The Secretary said the workers, with strict economy, would be able to purchase the homesteads for $2000, which would be payable monthly over a period of 20 years. This price includes not only the cost of land but of a well-constructed and sanitary home, together with the necessary outbuildings. It was explained that the low figure was made possible by having the prospective homesteader supply as much labor as possible in the improvement of this tract of land.

Some Improvements Delayed.

The installation of some household improvements will be deferred until such time as the homesteader feels capable of assuming the extra expense.

Clarence E. Pickett, chief of the section of stranded industrial groups in the division of subsistence homesteads, describes the idea as one of the most promising of Federal theories.

"The best hope for the future of these communities," he said, "lies in a combination of part-time industrial employment and part-time agriculture such as the subsistence homestead plan embodies. The site selected for the West Frankfort unit, with its good soil, proximity to town, and accessibility to the mines, is an admirable location on which to demonstrate the value to be derived from this way of life in the Southern Illinois coal fields."

ROOSEVELT SIGNS BILLS ON FISHING TRIP

Measures Taken to President by Navy Seaplane—He Takes a Dip in Sea.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI, Fla., April 7.—President Roosevelt halted his fishing late today long enough to sign two major bills which were carried to him on the Nourmahal, anchored in British waters, by a Navy airplane.

One was the annual supply bill for the State, Justice, Labor and Commerce Departments. The other was one making cattle, peanuts, rye, flax, barley and grain sorghums basic commodities under the Agricultural Adjustment Act. It also authorizes an appropriation of $200,000,000 to finance cattle production adjustments and $50,000,000 for the elimination of diseased cattle.

This was the first time in years that a chief executive has signed acts of Congress outside the territorial limits of the country.

Fishers Trying Hard.

Pleased with the best fishing spot found on the cruise, Mr. Roosevelt and his companions tried hard today to show their angling skill.

The Nourmahal was anchored off Anguilla Island, about 180 miles from Miami, in waters abounding with tropical fish. The party picked up rare specimens which will be turned over to the aquarium at Miami.

The "big fish" landed will be exhibited Monday to an "investigating committee" of correspondents who will visit the Nourmahal to see if the President is as good a fisherman as he claims to be.

Mr. Roosevelt took a dip in the warm water.

A message from Vincent Astor to Marvin H. McIntyre, White House secretary, said:

"Anchored off Anguilla Island, where we found innumerable fish of all varieties, including the grandfather of all crawfish, now in tank. This is grand sport and our aquarium grows. The President had swimming party in morning at extra fine beach. Please send plane with mail and papers. Our anchorage latitude 23.31, longitude 79.34."

The Nourmahal will get under way some time tomorrow and move closer to Miami.

ELGIN, Ill., April 7. — They've swapped partners in the Grimes-Brawner bridge foursome.

For months Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Grimes and Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Brawner went about together and particularly played bridge at each other's home.

Today it was disclosed that both had obtained divorces and a fortnight ago went into marriage ceremonies in which husbands and wives were exchanged. A majority of the four, they said, will decide where all of them shall spend a belated honeymoon together next June.

SAYS UNION HEAD NEVER ACCOUNTED FOR $900,000

Spokesman for New York Stage Hands Tells Senate Group Members Were Exploited by President They Didn't Choose.

$7500 TO LINDBERGH CASE "GO-BETWEEN"

He Also Testifies Harry Sherman Increased Pay From $1800 to $20,000 and Hired Attorney for $70,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Unexplained disbursement of $900,000 of labor union funds and payment of $7500 to an intermediary in the Lindbergh kidnaping was described today by Nathaniel Doragoff appearing before the Senate Labor Committee at the head of a delegation from New York Local No. 306 of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stagehand Employes.

Doragoff, who asked that the Wagner labor bill be broadened to protect union members from labor leaders, said the $7500 payment was disclosed "inadvertently" last November by Harry Sherman, president of the local since February, 1933. Sherman, he said, had been forced on the local by the international alliance.

The Lindbergh intermediary, he told the committee, was a man named Spitale, "a notorious racketeer."

$415,000 for "Rehabilitation."

Of the $900,000, Doragoff testified, $415,303 was listed as spent for "rehabilitation," although he said members of the union could never get this explained further.

An attorney was paid $70,000 by Sherman, he said, although he handled no litigation for the local. Another item of $25,000 for the Diamond Detective Agency also remains unexplained, he said.

Doragoff said:

"We, at the present time, find that we have no redress against the misconduct of labor leaders, through labor.

"When Sherman was questioned by some of the members what these 'rehabilitation' moneys were spent for, his answer was, 'If I were to tell you how and for what this money was spent, I would have to go to jail, so I won't tell you.'"

Officer Forced on Union.

Members who are too inquisitive and criticise Sherman's expenditures lose their jobs and are assaulted, he charged. Sherman became president because the international officials threatened to revoke the local's charter if he did not, Doragoff told the committee.

Tracing the rise of the president who allegedly cannot be removed by the members, Doragoff said he quit the office of financial secretary in 1922 after a "suspicious robbery." The surety company revoked his bond, and he had to resign, he said.

After that, said Doragoff, Sherman became an organizer for the International Alliance. In 1929, he continued, Sherman forced the local to employ his brother, a physician, at $10,000 a year although the doctor had resigned from a $4000 Kings Hospital post during a grand jury investigation.

Salary Raised to $20,000.

In February, 1933, Doragoff testified, Sherman was forced on the local as president, and immediately had his salary increased from the constitutional $1800 a year to $20,000.

"It is futile for us in view of what has been aforesaid to appeal to the International Alliance to secure redress," Doragoff said.

"William C. Elliott, International president, appeared before our body on Feb. 21, 1934, and told us 'I am tired of you members complaining to the District Attorney, going to court and making complaints to us. If I get more complaints from you I will revoke your charter and turn it over to three different organizations.'

"The American Federation of Labor informs us that it has no jurisdiction in such matters, [illegible]

50 DIE AS WAVES SWEEP OVER TWO NORWAY HAMLETS

HOMES SHATTERED OR SWEPT AWAY

Many Persons Still Missing—Autos Carried Far Inland—Stories of Eye-Witnesses.

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Norway, April 7.—A huge crag weighing thousands of tons fell into the sea on the west coast of Norway early today and created huge waves that overwhelmed sleeping residents of two villages, at least 50 of whom drowned.

Many other inhabitants of the fishing hamlets, Tafjord and Fjoraa, on opposite sides of Korsnaes Fjord, are missing.

First a small part of the cliff, long regarded as a menace, fell, throwing up a small wave. Two other falls of rock followed in rapid succession, just after 3 a. m. and sent a wave 30 feet high sweeping over the flimsy houses and coursing half a mile inland.

Homes Shattered by Waves.

Many of the small homes were swept away and others were reduced to splinters. Boats in the harbor were tossed upon the land. Automobiles and other vehicles were carried far inland.

A clergyman visiting his parents in Tafjord for a birthday celebration, gave this account of the disaster:

"I was awakened by a noise of rushing waters and the shaking of the house. Only by clinging to the side of the bed I saved myself. The next moment the windows of the room collapsed—then came a terrifying flood of water.

"Soon I realized the water was rising almost as high as the house. Toward me, borne along by the surging inflow, came a man, helpless but conscious. I opened the door and clutched at him as he was being swept past. To my amazement I found he was a relative of mine, named Tafjord, the same as the village."

Missing Father Saved Son.

Another eyewitness said there were three waves, each more violent than its predecessor.

"Mothers clutching children to their breasts were carried away on the third and most violent wave, as the fathers fought frantically in vain to rescue their families," he said. "One of the most pathetic sights was a father who was seen hurrying to the brow of the hill, carrying his son in his arms. Reaching the summit, the man apparently thought he was safe, but the water rushed on him higher and higher until he was last seen standing there holding the boy above the water as the waves eddied about his neck. The boy was later found alive, but we have no trace of the father."

Another witness told of the loss of an entire family of nine. "As the waters rose the mother of the family climbed from the bedroom window with her smallest three children in her arms or clinging to her skirts. Gaining the edge of an adjacent roof, she called vainly for help."

A spectacular flash of light momentarily illuminated the countryside when the waters engulfed the electrical transformer. A column of light flashed up, then all was dark again.

The waves receded almost as rapidly as they came.

Those who escaped huddled terrified as they awaited relief. The disaster came so suddenly that the survivors had no time to dress.

Relief Sent by Steamers.

Twenty children are thought to be among the victims.

Seventeen members of three families on farms were among those drowned. The buildings on three farms on which the 17 victims lived were wrecked. In addition, 30 houses were destroyed in the two villages.

Motorboats and other craft along the fjord were smashed to bits and the stream was covered by floating wreckage.

Tafjord, situated at the end of the fjord separating the villages, was the scene of the greatest death and destruction. It can be reached only by water since road construction is impossible in that mountainous country.

Relief steamers and motorboats loaded with supplies were sent to the stricken villages from Aalesund and surrounding districts.

Wrecked Air Liner Found After Twenty Months

RAINEY ANSWERS CHARGES OF RECKLESS EXPENDITURES

Says Public Debt "Less Cash and Securities" Is Under That at End of Hoover's Term.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Replying to charges that "this administration is recklessly expending money, that it is piling up an enormous national debt," Speaker Rainey asserted tonight that the public debt "less cash and securities," is $771,000,000 less than it was at the end of the Hoover administration. He spoke here, his address being carried by radio to a meeting of the National Democratic Club in New York.

Rainey explained he had reached his "startling conclusion" about the public debt by including a $2,810,000,000 profit from the revaluation of the dollar, and Government advances to municipalities, intermediate credit banks, joint stock land banks and corporations. Securities were taken for all loans, he said, and "if the recovery program succeeds—and it must succeed—practically all of these amounts so invested will come back into the Treasury of the United States."

Turning to the Wirt "Kerensky" charges, Rainey said "the leadership of the Republican party seems to center in Dr. William A. Wirt, a school teacher, who lives in Gary, Ind., and who, it is charged, receives a considerable part of his compensation there from the Gary steel companies." The congressional investigation next week, he said, would "demonstrate completely and quickly" the "absurdity" of Wirt's statements.

DROPS TWO SUITS AGAINST DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS JR.

Man Who Accused Actor of Alienating Wife's Affections Gives No Explanation.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 7.—Through his lawyer and without explanation, Jorgen Dietz, young chemist, has dropped the two suits he filed against Douglas Fairbanks Jr., movie actor and former husband of actress Joan Crawford, more than a year ago.

The dismissals were disclosed by court records today.

Asking $50,000 damages, one complaint charged young Fairbanks with alienating the affections of Dietz' former wife, Solveig, former Hollywood scenario writer. In the other case, Dietz accused Fairbanks of causing him to be detained on a false charge of extortion, and sought $20,000 damages.

Fairbanks, in answers filed in both cases, charged there was a conspiracy to extort money from him. The false imprisonment case grew out of Fairbanks' statement that Dietz had attempted to sell him for $6000 a necklace valued at only $300.

Mrs. Dietz returned to her former home in Denmark before her husband filed the alienation suit. Dietz later married a movie actress, Lucy Doraine.

Spitale and Bitz Go-Betweens Named by Lindberghs.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bitz, labeled underworld characters by New York newspapers, were named by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh to act as "go-betweens" in negotiating the return of their kidnaped baby, Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

They were said at that time to be "Big-Time" Broadway racketeers, whom Jack ("Legs") Diamond accused of attempting to put him on the spot in 1930.

Later, after Col. Lindbergh had paid $50,000 ransom money for the return of his son and no results were forthcoming, Spitale and Bitz were dismissed.

"RETRACTIONS" MADE IN ICKES ESTATE CASE

Purported Statements by Chicago Attorneys Withdrawing Their Charges.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Counsel for Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes made public today purported retractions by two Chicago attorneys of their charges of unethical conduct against the cabinet member—charges which Ickes has made the basis of disbarment proceedings against his accusers.

Both C. W. Larsen and Lucius J. M. Malmin, the attorneys, have made categorical denial of any intent to blackmail the Interior Secretary as a means to get Federal jobs for themselves. Malmin, a former Federal Judge in the Virgin Islands, who, Ickes said, wanted to become the island Governor, termed the charges "flimsy" and asked for further particulars.

Larsen shoved his answer to the Chicago Bar Association's disbarment citation under its office door last night, denying any blackmail plot and imputing to Ickes an attempt to "camouflage the real issue." He suggested the disbarment hearing be opened to the public.

Further, Larsen asserted Malmin did not represent him in alleged visits to Secretary Ickes and to Marvin McInyre, White House secretary, on which calls Ickes alleges Malmin offered that he and Larsen would "forget" any charges against Ickes if the Federal appointments were forthcoming.

Administered an Estate.

Ickes, as a practicing attorney in 1928, administered the Clarence Saunders estate and Larsen alleged its value had dwindled from $19,000 to $8000 under Ickes' care. Larsen represents two heirs.

Secretary Ickes' personal counsel, Frederick Z. Marx, today displayed two statements he said were made to agents of the Department of Justice last September by the two Chicago attorneys.

The purported retraction by Malmin was a note on ruled stationery in indelible pencil, witnessed Sept. 16 by Louis Loebl and Earl M. Black of the Justice Department. In it Malmin suggested a conference with Larsen "at which time I desire to be present with the intent of urging Mr. Larsen to proceed no further in this matter, it being understood that from this moment on I have severed all connection with and have no interest in the matter, suggesting at the same time to Mr. Larsen that, if he proceeds further, he alienates my friendship, and that he proceeds at his personal peril."

"Concluded I Was Misled."

Marx also made public a note purported to be signed by Larsen and witnessed Sept. 20 by Malmin and John F. Lax. It read, in part:

"I have concluded that I was misled as to certain material facts and that other material facts were withheld from me by my clients, who are the heirs mentioned in the Saunders estate in the Probate Court of Cook County, Illinois.

"I declare upon my honor and pledge my professional word to refrain from presenting certain contemplated charges to the Chicago Bar Association involving the attorney (Secretary Ickes) for the administration of said Saunders estate."

GREATER STEEL PRODUCTION

Youngstown District's Schedule 56 Per Cent of Capacity.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 7.—Due to a continued influx of new orders and better specifications against existing contracts, steel production in the Youngstown district next week will rise to about 56 per cent of capacity, a gain of about three points over this week's rate.

Next week's schedule will equal the high point of the year, which was attained in the first week of March.

CONGRESS FLAYED FROM BOTH SIDES ON ITS VOTE ON VETO

Folks at Home Berate Democrats, Business Men, Republicans; Veterans Unite, Too.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Whether he voted for or against overriding President Roosevelt's veto of the veterans' liberalizations, virtually every member of Congress is receiving scorching letters from his constituents.

With congressional elections coming, members are doubly worried. Democrats who voted to override the veto are ebing criticized by the folks back home for not supporting the President. Those who voted to sustain the President are being assailed by Veterans.

Republiacns who voted to override the veto appeased the veterans but are being told by business men that they expected the Democrats to wreck the Acomony Act but not conservative Republicans.

cent, were tenants paying cash rentals; 566,374, or 35.01 per cent, were share-croppers to whom the landlords furnished all work animals, and 482,682, or 29.84 per cent, were tenants giving a share of the products for use of the land or a share for part and cash for part.

Another tabulation of the Department of Agriculture showed that out of 3,223,816 farms in a large area of the South in 1930, there were 1,233,656 white owners and 182,019 Negro owners. There were 16,529 white managers and 829 Negroes. Croppers were about evenly divided, with 383,381 whites and 392,897 Negroes. Tenants other than croppers were listed as 708,663 whites and 305,942 Negroes.

Spain Ends "State of Alarm."

INSULL APPLIES TO COURT TO BAR HIS EXTRADITION

His Early Return to U. S. Expected Since Turkish Attorney-General Rules He Cannot Appeal.

By the Associated Press.

ISTANBUL, April 7.—The expulsion of Samuel Insull within a week for trial in the United States on fraud charges seemed certain tonight because of a decision forbidding his appeal from a Turkish ruling directing his extradition.

Attorny-General Kenan Bey announced Insull could not question Turkey's stand on the legality of plans to relinquish him to American officers.

Nevertheless, Insull's attorneys are still determined to go before the courts to argue for their right to appeal. The lawyers prepared an 11-page document based on the plea that Insull's detention was in violation of international law and, if the circumstances were reversed, the United States would not follow the procedure Turkey has taken concerning the fugitive.

Insull has two petitions before the courts, one requesting provisional release, the other seeking the right of appeal against detention. If he should be provisionally released, it is thought he would be apprehended immediately on some new charge.

Insull is under close guard in the hospital ward of a detention home.

The United States Embassy would not tell what its next step would be. It is expected that Insull will be taken into American custody on papers delivered through the embassy.

Robert P. Skinner, American Ambassador to Turkey, will arrive here tomorrow from Ankara, the capital.

(A Washington dispatch says that Barton Y. Berry, American Vice Consul at Istanbul, has been authorized by the State Department to take Insull into custody and return him to the United States; that a presidential warrant has been sent by cable and that the time of departure and the route have been left to the discretion of Skinner.)

The steamer Executive, an American boat, will sail from here next Tuesday. Another United States Export Line ship, the Excelsior, will sail April 24.

For 18 months Insull successfully resisted efforts to extradite him from Greece to face an indictment in Chicago charging him with larceny and embezzlement in connection with the collapse of his utilities companies.

LAYS RIOT TO PAID AGITATORS

Governor Convinced by Evidence of Minneapolis Police Chief.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 7.—Gov. Olson said he would join J. T. Edmunds, Midwest Federal Relief Administrator, in assuring national administration officials in Washington that the riot at the City Hall and Courthouse yesterday was the work of paid Communist agitators. He made the statement after a conference with Michael Johannes, chief of police, which Edmunds attended, saying he was convinced by the evidence Johannes produced. At the conference Johannes said the outbreak was not inspired by bona fide CWA workers. He produced Communist membership cards which he asserted had been taken from a dozen of the 38 men arrested.

He said he would not make public at this time evidence gathered for court proceedings Monday when 37 of those held will be tried in Municipal Court on charges of disorderly conduct.

OUTLAW BARROW HUNT TURNS BACK INTO OKLAHOMA

Officers Shift Search for Desperado, Two Companions After Report From Guthrie.

By the Associated Press.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., April 7.—An extensive manhunt by Federal and state authorities for Clyde Barrow, Texas desperado who eluded capture yesterday after killing one officer and kidnaping another, turned southward into Oklahoma tonight. Perry Boyd, police chief abducted at Commerce, Ok., was released near this city early today by Barrow, his woman companion, Bonnie Parker, and another man thought to be either Raymond Hamilton or Henry Methvin, escaped Texas convicts.

Police broadcast a report that three persons resembling the fugitives were seen headed toward Guthrie from Stillwater, Ok., in a blue sedan. Heavily armed state and Federal officers rushed to the Guthrie area.

Another report was that a coupe, bearing two men and a woman, the latter described as Bonnie Parker, stopped at a filling station at Seneca, Mo., tonight and sped away toward Miami, Ok., a short time later after the three had asked road directions. Ed Kazee, who was at the filling station, told authorities that he "is positive the woman was Bonnie Parker, as I have seen her before." He was not certain about recognition of Clyde Barrow or a second man in the coupe.

Boyd was freed after having been held as a hostage since Friday morning when he was slightly wounded in an encounter in which Cal Campbell, Miami, Ok., constable, was killed by machine gun fire.

Riding at high speed over side roads in the Oklahoma-Kansas-Missouri border section, the outlaws successfully dodged scores of officers and national guardsmen after the shooting near Commerce.

"Barrow and his companions have no fear of being captured," Boyd said. "They think they are too smart to be caught."

Department of Justice agents were acting on orders from Attorney-General Cummings "to utilize every resource" to capture Barrow, who is alleged to have killed nine officers.

After returning to Commerce, Boyd said he was unable to identify the man with Barrow as Raymond Hamilton, but believed he tallied more with the description of Henry Methvin, who was freed with Hamilton from a Texas state prison farm by Barrow recently.

POLICE CHIEF FREED BY HIS CAPTORS

PERCY BOYD of Commerce, Ok., who was set free by the outlaw, Clyde Barrow, and two companions eight miles south of Fort Scott, Kan. Boyd and a constable had attempted to stop them for questioning. The constable was killed and Boyd taken prisoner.

L. G. Phares, chief of the Texas highway patrol, expressed the opinion that the fugitives would attempt to return to Texas, where they are more familiar with the roads.

Boyd, with a bandage covering a wound in his scalp from a machine gun bullet, described Barrow as acting "like he owned the earth." "He thinks quite a lot of himself," Boyd said. "Bonnie is a lot like him, but she thinks quite a lot of Barrow, you can tell that."

"They said they were sorry they had to shoot Campbell," Boyd related, "but they kept joking about it all afternoon."

The outlaws drove into Fort Scott twice last night without being observed. Boyd said Barrow bought a newspaper at a drug store and learned then that Constable Campbell was dead.

Boyd related that after he had been kidnaped "we missed Chetopa on the south, then drove to Bartlett, where we bought gasoline. After that we just drove around near Fort Scott.

"We got stuck in a ditch near Fort Scott yesterday afternoon," he continued. "A group of high school students came along and tried to push out out, but were unable to do so. Barrow ordered them to go on.

"Then he stopped a truck and made the driver pull us out. I never got out when he stopped like that. The windows were so muddy that no one could see in and th covered me with blankets at so times.

"We drove down the main stre of Fort Scott and once passed th police station. The man who ro in the back seat with me went in a grocery store and bought som food. Then they parked outsi the town while we ate.

"They didn't take the $25 I ha with me and they seemed to hav plenty of money. My shirt wa bloody so Barrow gave me a ne one and a necktie. He wanted t give me a new suit, but it was to small."

Bonnie Parker told the kidnape Police Chief indignantly that sh was not a cigar smoker as has be reported. She said the stories sta ed because she had posed for photograph with Barrow and he his cigar in her mouth. The pictu was made from an undevelop film found at a hideout near Jopl Mo., from which the Barrow ga fled after killing two officers.

Boyd said the woman carries white rabbit as a pet. During th wild ride, he said, she frequent reached into the back of the ca for a carrot to feed the rabbit.

Barrow denied to Boyd that h had killed the two highway patro men last Sunday at Grapevine, Te Authorities said, however, that th outlaw's fingerprints were fou on a whisky bottle near the sce

RNEST KROEGER FUNERAL SERVICE AT CHRIST CHURCH

Musician Who Died at 71 After Six Weeks' Illness, Will Be Buried Tomorrow Afternoon.

MUSIC TEACHER FOR 48 YEARS

Occasional Soloist With Symphony, Which Played His Symphonic Poem, "Mississippi," in 1926.

Ernest R. Kroeger, a leading St. Louis musician, died yesterday morning at 3 o'clock at the home of daughter, Mrs. John C. Talbot, Dorsett and Adie roads.

Mr. Kroeger, who was 71 years old, was widely known as an organist, pianist, composer and teacher of music. He had been ill for six weeks with a toxic condition resulting from liver and kidney ailments.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at Christ Church Cathedral. Interment will be private.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. aura Clark Kroeger, active civic worker and a member of the Board of Education; a son, Richard C. Kroeger, and three daughters, Mrs. Talbot, Miss Mary Louise Kroeger and Miss Beatrice Kroeger. The family residence is at 5295 Waterman avenue.

A Founder of Organists' Guild.

Mr. Kroeger was director of the Kroeger School of Music, a former president of the national and state music teachers' associations, and one of the founders of the American Guild of Organists. He taught music here for 48 years, and for years he was organist of the Church of the Messiah, Unitarian. Previously he had been organist for First Congregational Church.

He was born in St. Louis, the son of Adolph E. Kroeger, who came from the once Danish and later German province of Schleswig. The elder Kroeger was a student of philosophy, a translator of German philosophical works, and an associate of Dr. William T. Harris in the "St. Louis Movement" for philosophical and psychological study.

Ernest R. Kroger studied music first under his father, then with aldemar Malmene and Charles unkel, piano instructors. At the age of 14 he was organist of Grace Episcopal Church in North St. Louis, and later of Trinity Episcopal Church. During his period of musical study, he worked as clerk in a wholesale house, to help in supporting his mother and his brother and sisters, after the father's death. His first teaching was done at the age of 23.

Member of French Academy.

He became director of music in Forest Park College, girls' school, on Oakland avenue, and built up his own School of Music. He was elected in 1897 to the presidency of the national teachers' organization.

In 1904 he was master of programs of the Bureau of Music of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, supervising organ recitals, choral and symphony concerts in Festival Hall. From this resulted his election to the French Academy. For several summer seasons he conducted music courses at Cornell University and the University of California.

At various times, he was director of singing organizations, the Morning Choral, a women's club, and the Amphion Club, for men. Lectures and recitals before various groups were frequent incidents in his busy life.

Soloist With Symphony.

His compositions include widely known piano selections, "March of the Indian Phantoms," and "Egeria," also concert etudes, a sonata, prelude and fugue, and works in nearly every branch of music except grand opera. His symphonic poem, "Mississippi," an effort to transcribe the spirit of the river into tone, was played by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in 1926. Also he was an occasional soloist at Symphony Orchestra concerts. The degree of Doctor of Music was conferred on him by the Denver College of Music.

In his long teaching career, he gave instruction, chiefly in piano, to thousands of pupils. A few years ago, he found by inquiry that the organists in at least 15 St. Louis churches were his former pupils and that 20 or more of his graduates were heads of music schools, while hundreds were engaged in music teaching.

A meeting of the Musicians' Guild of St. Louis, which was to have been held this afternoon at the College Club, 5428 Delmar boulevard, was canceled out of respect for Mr. Kroeger, who was a member.

KANSAS JUDGE HOLDS 4.12 BEER INTOXICATING

First Case Involving Brew Stronger Than 3.2 to Go to Trial in State.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 7. — Beer containing 4.12 per cent of alcohol was held to be intoxicating by Judge William Steinrauf of Police Court today in the first case involving brew stronger than 3.2 per cent to go to trial in Kansas.

The defendants, L. E. Maxey, L. A. Woodcox and L. G. Moore, charged with sale of intoxicating liquor after beer testing 4.12, 4.44 and 4.5 per cent, respectively, had been seized in their establishments, made no defense. They admitted selling the beer, but asked for clemency on the ground they did not know it was intoxicating. Judge Steinrauf withheld his decision on their guilt until Tuesday.

Judge Steinrauf last summer held 3.2 beer to be non-intoxicating, and it has been sold openly here since. The Supreme Court last summer ruled it was up to a judge or jury to determine whether a beverage was intoxicating. Kansas' bone dry law does not specify the amount of alcohol which places a beverage in the forbidden class.

MOTHER INDICTED ON CHARGE OF KILLING TWO CHILDREN

She Collected $1587 Insurance on Deaths; Poison Found in Bodies.

COSHOCTON, O., April 7.—Mrs. Amelia Rivers Webb Wardrop, 43 years old, who collected $1587 insurance when two of her children died, today was charged with their killing by poison.

A year-long inquiry into the deaths of a son and a daughter resulted in a grand jury indictment. The jury listed three counts, two of first-degree murder, and a third charging the administering of poison with intent to kill, to a 21-year-old nephew, Charles Hughes.

Crippled from the hips down and hobbling into Prosecutor Russell E. Lyons' office on crutches, young Hughes a year ago told the story that led to the investigation, a secret, night-time exhumation of the bodies of his cousins, and discovery by a chemist that each contained poison enough to have caused death.

The woman, twice married and divorced from her second husband, has denied poisoning her children, but, Lyons said, admitted giving both of them medicine. She first denied that.

The first of Mrs. Webb's children, 18-year-old Herbert George Webb, died in October, 1931. On Jan. 7, 1932, Mrs. Iona Webb Senter also died suddenly.

CANNIBALISM REPORTED IN NORTHEAST CANADA

Missionary Says Lack of Caribou Is Causing Famine Among Inhabitants.

By the Associated Press.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 7.—Because caribou are disappearing, Indians and Eskimos in the Northland are dying and there are a great many cases of actual cannibalism, according to the Rev. W. G. Walton, who arrived today from Toronto. The Minister was for 32 years sole missionary and medical worker in the Ungava district east of Hudson Bay.

He is known as "Reindeer Walton" because after appealing 12 years he succeeded in getting the Canadian Government to adopt a plan to populate the North country with reindeer.

HUGE U. S. FLEET WILL ENGAGE IN MONTH OF 'WAR'

Hundred Ships and 300 Naval Aircraft to Take Part in Nation's Biggest Peace-Time Maneuvers.

By the Associated Press.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., April 7.—The United States Fleet, bulk of America's sea power, is making ready to fight its way through 4000 miles of "enemy infested" seas.

A message—"Fleet sailed"—to the Navy Department at Washington Monday from Admiral David Foote Sellers, will signal the beginning of the annual war games.

The fleet will use everything it has in the way of offense and defense except powder and shell, in a series of battle maneuvers extending from April 9 to May 10.

Down the west coast from the San Pedro-San Diego area, 3300 miles, to the Panama Canal, and then through the Caribbean Sea some 800 miles to Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, the 113 ships of war and some 300 naval aircraft will engage almost constantly in a theoretical state of war.

Nothing so comprehensive in the way of tactical and strategic exercises has even been devised for such a large force of American naval power, say the officers who are arranging for the movement of the battle and scouting fleets from the southern California bases to the East coast.

There will be 11 dreadnaughts, nine heavy cruisers, eight light cruisers, 45 destroyers, 12 submarines, three aircraft carriers and 12 or more other war craft in the force that moves down the coast.

Elements of Strategy.

All manner of opposing fleets will be organized during the 30 days. It will be virtually a month of naval warfare in the elements of strategy.

The climax of these eventful weeks will be a grand maneuver of five days or so in the Caribbean Sea. In fleet parlance, this is known as problem XV. That means it is the spectacular event of the naval year, the annual grand maneuvers.

In fighting forces of the air for this maneuver will be the dirigible Macon, greatest ship of the skies, together with some 40 of the Navy's newest flying boats of the type that recently cruised from the East Coast down to the Canal, up the West Coast to San Diego, thence to San Francisco and across to Hawaii.

The Macon will make her first eastbound transcontinental trip, leaving a couple of weeks or so after the fleets go to sea. It will fly over Florida and down to the Caribbean to be a participant in the May 5-10 grand battle.

Marines to Take Part.

A thousand or so Marines will move down the East Coast in naval transports in time to reach the Canal to join for their first expeditionary force maneuver as a unit of the United States fleet.

During the first part of the movement between San Diego and the Canal the fleet will be attacked by a theoretical force somewhere between the California coast and the Canal. The attacking forces will employ scouts, cruisers and submarines.

Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander of the battle force of the fleet, who will succeed Sellers in June as new commander-in-chief of the fleet, will command the defending forces throughout the exercise.

Some 35,000 men will be engaged in the sky, sea and submarine activities.

The high chiefs of the Navy at sea will put into practice the new lessons they have learned in the past year.

Then, after the 30 days' "war" is over, and a critique is held, liberty given, and necessary repairs and overhaul are completed, the United States fleet will move up the East Coast, to reach New York waters by the end of May and be reviewed on May 31 by President Roosevelt. After that the fleet will divide into units for summer stations along the Atlantic Coast.

The President ordered the fleet to the Atlantic from the Pacific, where it has been stationed for nearly three years, and it will return to the Pacific under present plans next fall.

BOY SAVES CHILD FROM BEAR

26 Stitches Taken in His Scalp; Girl Bruised, Scratched.

MANCOS, Colo., April 7.—Twenty-six stitches in Howard Sheppard's scalp were evidence tonight of the 11-year-old boy's heroism in saving Ina Mae Rathjen, 6, from a supposedly tame bear.

With oranges in her hands to feed the bear, the girl went into its cage at a cottage camp. The animal seized her. Young Sheppard, playing nearby, ran to her assistance and kicked and beat the bear with his fists. The bear released the girl and turned on the boy, inflicting deep wounds in his head. The girl suffered minor bruises and scratches.

MISSING WOMAN IS FOUND DROWNED

Body of Mrs. Dora Eschelbach, 53, Taken From River—Disappeared March 15.

The body of Mrs. Dora Eschelbach, proprietor of a cigar store at 710 North Eighth street, who had been missing since March 15, was recovered from the Mississippi river at Vine street at noon yesterday.

Identification was made by her sister, Mrs. Emily Dupiech, with whom she made her home at 741 Eastgate avenue, University City. Mrs. Dupiech said she knew of no reason for her sister to end her life, but that for several weeks prior to her disappearance she had suffered from nervousness, which was believed to be due to defective teeth.

Two Negroes saw the body in the water and brought it to shore. Examination at the morgue showed no marks of violence. The body had been in the water several weeks, and identification was made chiefly through the clothing.

Mrs. Eschelbach, 53-year-old widow, conducted a cigar store established by her husband, who died about two years ago. Four sisters and two brothers survive.

50 CULINARY ART EXHIBITS AT CHEFS' ANNUAL DANCE

One a Painting in Chocolate of Roosevelt in A Frame of Spun Sugar.

More than 50 exhibits of culinary art were on display last night at Hotel Jefferson when members of the Chefs de Cuisine Association of St. Louis held their annual dinner dance.

In spite of recent damp weather, of which the designers in sugar and pastry complained, exhibits appeared at their best. A crouching lion, some four feet long, cut from tallow, occupied the central position. Nearby was a painting in chocolate of President Roosevelt, in a frame of spun sugar.

"Why," asked a visitor, "does a sculptor hide his light under the bushel of a chef's starched cap?"

"A chef," replied the exhibitors, "always may eat."

Kansas City Liquor Control Head.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 7.—George E. Muehlebach, former brewer and baseball executive, tonight was announced by City Manager H. F. McElroy as Kansas City's director of liquor control. Muehlbach formerly owned the Kansas City American Association baseball club. Before prohibition he was president of the Muehlebach Brewing Co.

CITY TO PUT 1000 MEN TO WORK TOMORROW

Mayor Announces Plan to Complete Projects Begun Under CWA Program.

Following a conference with Budget Director Meyers, Peter Kasius, director of the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment and city department heads at City Hall yesterday afternoon, Mayor Dickmann announced that between 1000 and 1500 men would start to work tomorrow on various city work relief projects, which were begun last December under the local CWA program which came to an end last week.

The Mayor emphasized that an effort would be made to put men to work on the work relief program who had not previously been employed on CWA work, with a view of spreading the employment as much as possible. However, several of the CWA workers will be carried on the work relief payroll for the time being to perform clerical and technical duties in connection with the work that the city is to continue.

As the Mayor announced several days ago, these include embellishment of the Memorial Plaza, cleaning of the City Hall and Municipal Courts buildings, harbor and wharf cleaning, installation of the rest of the new electric street lighting system, construction of sidewalks, land title and abstract work, covering the Terminal railroad tracks in the tunnel beneath Eighth street and painting and repair work on city bridges, besides sewer and street construction.

BOY HURT IN FALL FROM AUTO

Had Climbed on Bumper Without Driver's Knowledge.

Charles Gerling, 12 years old, fell from the rear bumper of an automobile at Newstead and Manchester avenues last night and his right hip was fractured and his head injured. Theodore Peterson, 4384 Chouteau avenue, the driver, said he did not know the boy had climbed on his car. He stopped when a pedestrian told him of the accident and took the boy to a physician.

Charles, who later was taken to City Hospital, lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gerling, at 4408A Oakland avenue.

Man in Auto Hurt by Street Car.

A westbound Hodiamont street car struck an automobile last night, driven by Lyle D. Ellis, 5390 Pershing avenue, at the Clarendon avenue crossing, knocking the automobile against a window of a barber ship owned by George Pinkney, 925 Clarendon avenue, and breaking it. Ellis was taken to City Hospital for treatment and later went home. He complained of a sprained back.

SLAIN OFFICER'S WIDOW TELLS OF VISIT OF 3 MEN

Mrs. George Biggs Adams Testifies at Inquest in Fatal Shooting on Natural Bridge Road.

A mysterious visit of three unidentified men to the home of Deputy Constable George Biggs Adams the night before he was shot and killed Thursday afternoon on Natural Bridge road a mile and a half west of Lindbergh boulevard was described at the inquest yesterday by his widow.

"I was in the kitchen in the basement," she testified, "when someone knocked on the screen door. It was about 10 o'clock. I asked who it was. There were two men out there, but I couldn't see them because they stood in the dark.

"They asked if they could see the 'boss,' meaning Biggs. They talked in some kind of a foreign accent. My husband was in bed. I called him and he went outside and talked to the men after he had put on some clothes. Finally he came in. I saw the men drive away in a large sedan. There were three of them when I saw them in the car.

"I asked Biggs what was the matter. He said, 'You wouldn't understand.' He finished dressing and went out, driving off in the opposite direction from the way the three men drove. He came back in an hour and went back to bed. Thursday morning he left the house about 10:30, saying he was going out to buy a mule. He had a job ahead plowing up a piece of land. That was the last time I saw him."

It was three hours and a half after he left his home at Lake avenue and Chambers road on the eastern edge of Ferguson that Adams was shot down by two men, who had been stopped by him or had stopped his car with the assistance of men in another automobile. After the shooting, witnessed only by a farmer from a distance of about 300 yards, the men drove off toward St. Louis.

Constable Rudy Baumer, Adams' superior, told reporters yesterday that Adams had had a bitter quarrel with a man in a filling station west of the scene of the shooting, apparently just a few minutes before he was killed. The witness to the quarrel told Baumer that he did not hear what subject was under discussion but did hear Adams call out as he drove away, "All right, you'll hear from me later," or something to that effect.

The man with whom he had been quarreling then got into an automobile which sped after Adams' car, followed by a second car. Baumer is withholding the name of the witness.

A verdict of homicide "at the hands of parties unknown" was returned at the inquest.

MRS. EDITH CUMMINGS MUNSON.

EDITH CUMMINGS, FORMER GOLF CHAMPION, MARRIES

She Becomes the Bride of Curtis Burton Munson, an Engineer.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Miss Edith Cummings, former golf champion, sportswoman and hostess, was married today to Curtis Burton Munson of New York and Edmonton, Alberta, mining engineer, in a simple ceremony held in the town apartment of the bride's mother, Mrs. David Mark Cummings.

The wedding was followed by an elaborate reception attended by many prominent Easterners here for the occasion. These included Frederick Prince of New York, George Garret of Washington, Joseph Warburg and Thomas Evans of New York, Mr. and Mrs. John Vincent of Greenwich, Conn., and Mrs. John M. Elliott of Boston.

The bride, daughter of the late David Mark Cummings, capitalist, wore a simply cut empire gown of sweeping white satin, veiled in white tulle. Her two attendants, Eleanor Holden, maid of honor, and Mrs. Harold Talbott of New York, matron of honor, wore soft green gowns with brown hats and slippers.

RAILROAD HEAD'S WIFE KILLED BY SHOTGUN

E. I. Rogers of Peoria & Pekin Line Says Death Was Accidental.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., April 7.—E. I. Rogers, 57 years old, president of the Peoria & Pekin Union Railroad, today told police his wife was accidentally shot in the basement of their home while he was cleaning a gun. Mrs. Rogers was taken to a hospital, where it was found she apparently had been killed instantly.

Rogers first told a neighbor of the accident and then went to police, who said they were convinced the shooting was accidental. The story Rogers told police was that he had been cleaning an automatic shotgun in the basement of their home when his wife called and suggested that he also clean her small pearl-handled revolver. She took this weapon to him, then turned to leave the room. As Mrs. Rogers was walking out of the laundry room, where the accident happened, the automatic shotgun was discharged and the charge struck her in the back, Rogers told officials. He had placed a shell in the breach of the automatic to see if it would fit, because of trouble experienced with the gun, Rogers explained.

SAYS ROOSEVELT'S POWERS OF ENDURANCE INCREASE

Physician of Warm Springs Foundation Comments on President's Health.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Dr. Leroy W. Hubbard of the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation reported today "a noticeable increase" in President Roosevelt's "powers of endurance."

He made the statement in answer to a question after his address to the American Congress of Physical Therapy.

"There is a gradual slow gain in the President's functional ability," Dr. Hubbard said, "with a noticeable increase in his powers of endurance. It is distinctly evident that his ability to walk has improved."

Receiver for Register Life Named.

By the Associated Press.

DAVENPORT, Ia., April 7.—E. W. Clark, Iowa Insurance Commissioner, today was named receiver for the Register Life Insurance Co. of Davenport by District Judge W. R. Maines. This action was based on a petition filed by Attorney-General O'Connor, in which it was declared that the company was insolvent. No resistance was made by the Register Life, the directors of which voted to suspend operations at the close of business Thursday.

WOMAN HIT BY AUTO DIES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Nettie Landis, 24, Succumbs to Injuries Suffered Thursday Night.

Mrs. Nettie Landis, 24 years old, 919A Market street, died yesterday at City Hospital of a fractured skull suffered when struck by an automobile at Broadway and Hickory street at 11:45 o'clock Thursday night.

She was crossing the street with Mrs. Rosalie Jones, 23, with whom she roomed, when they were hit by a northbound automobile driven by Adolph Remmler, 3126 Texas avenue. Remmler told police he did not see the women because of another machine, which he passed just before striking them. The pavement was slippery from rain. Mrs. Landis was unconscious when picked up. Mrs. Jones suffered a fractured arm and scalp wounds.

Mrs. Landis was separated from her husband, who lives at Higbee, Mo. Her brother, Cecil Edwards, 5536 Palm street, took charge of the body. Their home formerly was at Girard, Ill.

$51,640 U. S. Tax Abatement.

WASHINGTON, April 7. — The Bureau of Internal Revenue announced yesterday it had abated taxes of $51,640 against the Big Creek Development Co. of Pittsburgh as a result of an over-assessment of income and profit taxes for 1917.

POLICE CIRCUS OPENS TODAY WITH 60 ACTS

Most of Performers Are Professionals; Will Close Next Sunday.

The Police Circus, with "Sixty Big Acts and Two Hours and Thirty Minutes of Thrills," will start its first performance at 2:30 this afternoon at the Coliseum. The event, formerly held annually, will be presented twice daily all week, through next Sunday.

The Police Relief Association will receive the net proceeds of the show, for the benefit of widows and orphans of policemen and for retired officers. The last circus was held in October, 1931, and since that time the association has paid $294,900 in benefits.

Most of the performers are circus people, engaged in advance of the regular spring season. The 60 acts will be divided into 21 displays, with simultaneous performances on three stages and in two rings. Fifty clowns will be on hand with their cavortings during and between the regular acts.

The show will open with selections by a quartette composed of Patrolman Walter Imhoff, Otto Lehr, John Tudor and Sidney Reedder, accompanied by Louis Kaufman. This will be followed by the customary grand procession of all the performers.

Chief features will be "The Great Wilno," who will permit himself to be shot from a cannon, and the Blondin-Rellins troupe of high wire artists from Switzerland, said to be appearig in America for the first time. Trapeze artists performers will include the seven Romanoffs from Russia; the Bonta Trio, from Mexico, and the Three Antorez, from Cuba.

Equestrian acts will range from the "Riding Hodginis—Harriet, Albert and Joe," to "Usarda and his Sioux Indians" and "Gray Eagle and his Choctaws." Among other animal acts will be Hall's elephants and trained dogs, bears and seals.

Sidney Belmont, who has directed the circus for several years, will be in charge. General admission is 50 cents, with an additional charge of 25 cents for reserved seats and 50 cents for boxes. Tickets may be purchased at the Aeolian Co., 1004 Olive street.

E. ST. LOUIS PAYS EMPLOYES OUT OF LIQUOR LICENSE FEES

200 Get First Checks Since November; Another Disbursement in Sight.

Salaries for last September, totaling $23,839, were paid yesterday to about 200 East St. Louis city employes. Their last pay day was in November, when August salaries were disbursed. Yesterday's payment was derived mostly from liquor license fees.

An additional payment probably will be made within the next week, City Comptroller Kane said. Several East Side grocers announced recently that they would refuse to extend further credit to city employes unless back debts were paid, due to pressure applied by wholesalers. The total amount owed the grocers by city employes was estimated at between $50,000 and $60,000.

BIG GOLD RUSH ON IN WESTERN CANADA

Old Settlements Swarm With Prospectors—Groups Go by Air and Overland.

By the Associated Press.

WINNIPEG, April 7.—A gold rush, in the best traditions of the old days, but with new methods and conveyances, is on in Western Canada from the tip of the Yukon to the Ontario-Manitoba boundary line. Picturesque "pick and shovel" men of the mining camps follow close on disappearing snows in search of bounty where they blindly staked their claims.

From Island Lake, whose extreme arm crosses from Manitoba into Northwestern Ontario, to the McLeod River district of Northern Alberta, gold discoveries, it is believed, may be linked up to give Canada a glacier gold mining zone, extending over 100,000 acres.

Re-discovery of the lost McLeod mine, in the mysterious Nahanni country of the Northwest territories, holds out a golden lure. Claims have been staked for miles along the shore line of the creek, called the "back door to the Yukon."

The rise of quotations for precious metals has provided the incentive. Discarded sluice boxes have been put to use again.

Ghost Town Reawakened.

Old mining settlements in the Caribou country in British Columbia which, in the 90's, buzzed with activity and then faded into obscurity when gold gave out, are swarming with prospectors.

New finds, and new methods, unknown to those who followed the trail of '98, are producing results and a steady stream of gold into the Assayer's office. Ashcroft is a favorite jumping-off place for this country.

Australians, Californians and prospectors from Nevada are in the vanguard of a rush that has reawakened the ghost town of Barkerville and extended into the country north of Quesnel and Williams Lake.

Far to the east, in Saskatchewan, claims stretch out into the Beaver Lake and Douglas Lake areas, near the Manitoba boundary. Quartz has been uncovered in a group of new discoveries ranging from $20 to $35 per ton. The district is said to be one of the major geological finds in years.

Old river courses are proving to be most promising ground for the prospector in Alberta and Saskatchewan. Old channels in creek and river bottom diggings have been found to be productive.

Airplanes to Carry Parties.

At Prince Albert, in the north, airplanes will be used to fly mining parties into the Lac La Ronge area, 150 air miles north and scene of a miniature gold rush two decades ago.

The era of the tractor and the airplane has stirred the imagination of mining men of Manitoba. New discoveries at Island Lake, Elk Island and God's Lake, prospectors believe, will prove important additions to the already known gold-bearing sections of the province.

Disappearance of heavy snow and cold weather in the Great Bear Lake country of Northern Alberta has given the flying prospector an opportunity to take stock of new radium ore finds. Recent finds at Hottah, 125 miles south of Pitchblende fields, discovered three years ago by Gilbert Labine, may indicate this field has possibilities.

Several outfits are trekking into this area, some by air from the south and others overland from the Pacific Coast.

SAYS COMMUNIST PARTY HAS 24,500 ACTIVE U. S. MEMBERS

General Secretary Asserts Requirement Is to Belong to Trade Unions to Spread Views.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, April 7. — The Communist party in the United States numbers 24,500 active members, Earl Browder, general secretary, said tonight as the 243 voting delegates ended their national convention here. Browder said there were 500,000 Communists in other organizations occasionally under Communistic leadership, although not directly affiliated.

One resolution adopted, Browder said, required all members of the party, if eligible, to become members of trade unions, the theory being, he explained, that these workers would thus have an opportunity to present Communistic views in the hope of winning converts in the union organizations. He said the Communists have "no great sympathy" with the American Federation of Labor.

Browder described President Roosevelt as "the most effective representative Wall street has had in a long time. He said Communists regard Roosevelt as a more effective capitalist than former President Hoover, because the present chief executive is "succeeding in arousing less opposition" than Hoover, although still standing for capitalistic institutions.

Sale of Richfield Oil Approved.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—Proposed reorganization and sale of the Richfield Oil Co., now in receivership, and its subsidiary, the Pan-American Petroleum Corporation, were approved today by Federal District Judge James. Under one plan, Richfield assets would be sold to a new company yet to be organized, and through this Standard Oil of California would in effect gain control. The court recognised the claims of the Cities Service Co. by allowing it 10 days from next Monday to submit an alternative reorganization plan.

EW FEDERAL AID PLAN TO INDUCE HOME BUILDING

the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Roosevelt administration plans to lace Government credit back of a home building program which, it is hoped, will put more than a billion dollars of cautious private capital to work.

Frank C. Walker, director of the National Emergency Council, said legislation to carry out the proosal probably would be sent to Congress within 10 days. He told ewspaper men the measure in ew would enable the Treasury to arantee the interest and perhaps e principal of long-term mortages issued on the new homes.

"It has been the feeling for a ong time," Walker said, "that the mortgage market needs support. The proposal I am outlining is tentative but it contemplates estabishing requirements for a standrd type of mortgage, maturing in 5 or 20 years. All the costs for the building would be taken car f by the amortized mortage and there would be no need for a secnd mortgage.

"We have made a survey and feel hat the Government could guaranee the interest and perhaps the rincipal of the mortgages with lite risk to the Treasury.

"The mortgages will carry low terest rates, comparatively speak, and we feel they will be unually safe investments. We are ttempting to stimulate capital oods industries but this is not a elief proposition. It is sound busiess, we believe."

Both Rural and Urban.

Walker said a survey had coninced those who drafted the plan hat banks and lending agencies ould readily furnish money to ontractors for building, if the Government "insured" the mortges.

The council director said the me building and modernization ould include both rural and urn fields. He added, however, hat lending to put up small busiess structures was not contemlated. It was understood a proosal to back lending to build small usiness plants was opposed on the round that it would lead to an er-expansion in industries and usinesses already overexpanded.

A study has shown, it was said, hat there is a shortage of small omes, particularly in city suburbs, mall towns and the country.

A cost limit probably would be aced on the houses to be built or odernized but Walker said he did t know what this would be or hether an appropriation would be ked for. He said the plan might end to small apartment type uses of not more than four tories, but it was intended to stimate primarily the construction of rivate homes. "We'll build no ark Avenue Apartments," Walkr said. "That's certain."

Walker said one agency would irect the home program and that arious related activities, including lum clearance and subsistence omestead activities, would be uner this organization.

Lag in Capital Goods.

The Council director hinted the eral Home loan bank board ight be chosen as the central ency, although he said this was t certain. He said NRA and its dministrator, Hugh S. Johnson, ould participate in the attempt to ur capital goods industries but I don't know whether Johnson will irect the home building plan."

The failure of the heavier goods oup to show any appreciable reovery has been one of the chief ncerns of Mr. Roosevelt and his dvisors for months.

The public works program has elped steel and some of the instries that would be most affectd by the building of thousands of w cost homes—lumber, cement, ick and plaster—but an addition spur is needed.

"The things we have in mind," ker said, "may undergo conerable revision before they are nt to Congress and they may be vised further there."

ST. LOUIS C. OF C. INDORSES NATIONAL DEFENSE POLICY

Adopts Statements of U. S. Chamber Regarding Arms Limitations and Services.

Twelve statments proposed by the United States Chamber of Commerce as a basis for outlining a national defense policy have been indorsed by the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce on the recommendation of its Military Affairs Committee, headed by Daniel Bartlett.

The statements favor continued support of the principle of limitation of arms by international agreements, maintenance of an adequate navy, systematically built up to the limitation agreed on and support of a merchant marine suitable as an auxiliary in time of war.

The present principles of Army organization, providing for a small active military force and the National Guard and organized reserves to serve as the nucleus for a large army of citizens when needed are approved. Upbuilding of the air services in the Army and Navy is proposed.

$1,905,811 IN FARM LOANS DISCOUNTED BY CREDIT BANK

Loans to 4064 farmers in Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas, totaling $1,905,811, were discounted during March by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis.

The bank, through discounting paper of production credit associations and other local financing agencies, makes funds available to farmers for general agricultural production purposes. The loans run from three to 12 months and the interest rate on those obtained through production credit associations was recently reduced to 5½ per cent.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TRADE TRIPS ANNOUNCED

First One Will Go Into Northwestern Part of Arkansas in May.

Plans for trade trips this year to increase business contacts in the St. Louis trade area, and to reach out into more distant territory than in recent years, have been formulated by the Market Development and Trade Trips Committee of the Chamber of Commerce Sales Managers' Bureau.

A. W. Logan, chairman, announced yesterday that it had been decided to conduct two trips of two or three days' duration each, into more distant territory, and also two one-day trips in the neighboring St. Louis territory.

The first good will tour under consideration is one to northwest Arkansas in May. Other areas being considered are Central Illinois, Western Indiana, the Tennessee Valley and Central Missouri. A sub-committee has been named to map out the itinerary for the trip to Northwest Arkansas.

IF ANY GASOLINE AT ANY PRICE

EXCEEDS D-X IN MILEAGE

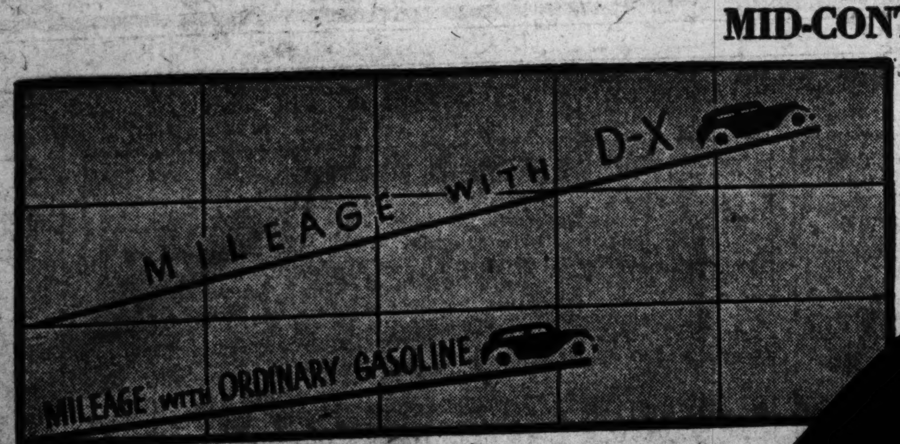
LUBRICATING MOTOR FUEL

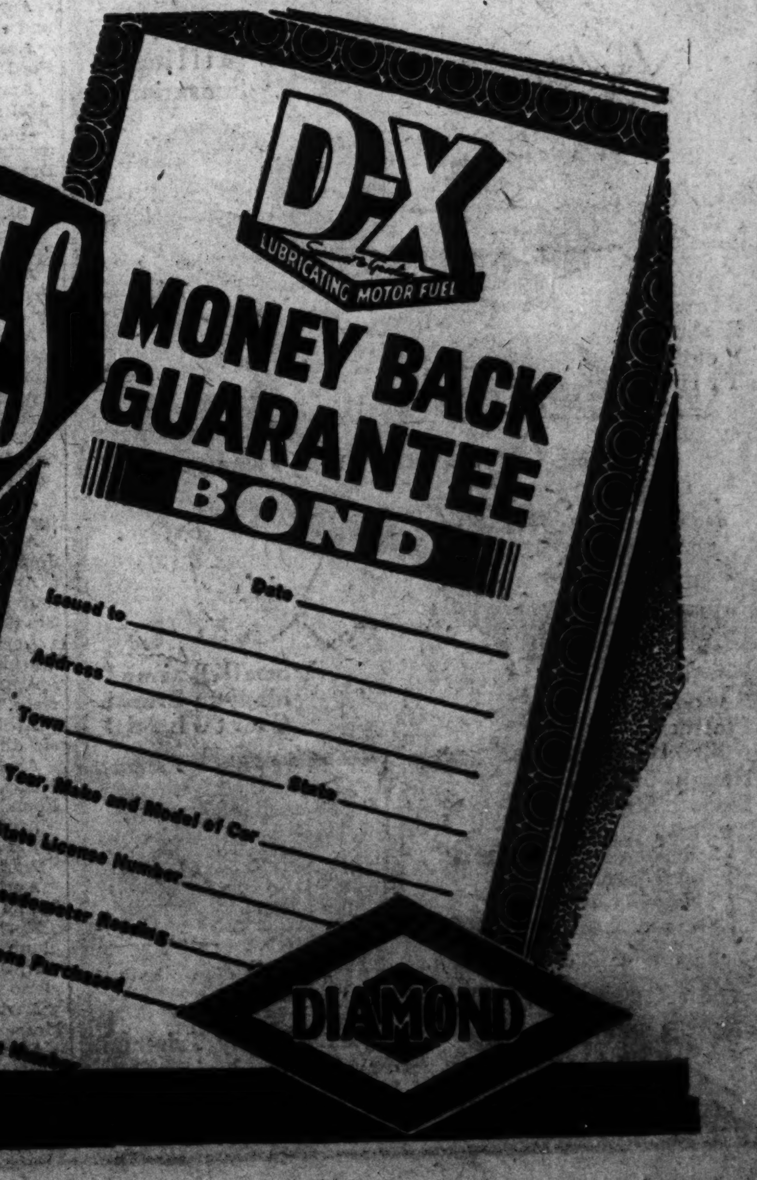
Here is the most convincing, most daring offer ever made in proof of the performance of any motor fuel. It is made possible only because D-X is truly a different type of product . . . made by a patented and exclusive process. D-X is a lubricating motor fuel . . . provides needed protection to valves, pistons, rings, upper cylinder walls. It makes motors run smoother, faster, gives more miles per gallon. To prove this to yourself, in your own car, drive to any D-X or Diamond station today. Tell the agent you want to make the D-X Mileage Test. He will explain it to you and will give you a D-X Money-Back Guarantee Bond. Then you make the simple test. If D-X wins you win also by saving the money you have been wasting on less economical fuels. If D-X should lose, your money will be refunded. It is a fair and square trial offer in which you alone are the sole judge of D-X value and performance. Begin test today.

MID-CONTINENT PETROLEUM CORPORATION



Before making this sensational offer to the public, accurate checks of D-X mileage were made in thousands of cars, traveling millions of miles under all conditions.

Because IT LUBRICATES



COSTS NO MORE THAN ORDINARY GASOLINE

DIAMOND 760 Motor Oil

"AHEAD OF THE PARADE"

Parade to Municipal Auditorium Saturday to Open Two Weeks of Dedication; 61 Shows to Be Given

"Seven-Ring Circus" of Festivities to Follow First-Day Ceremonies—8000 Persons to Take Part in Productions.

Plans have been completed for the dedication next Saturday of the new $5,137,000 Municipal Auditorium, Fourteenth and Market streets, and for the two-week period of housewarming entertainments which will ensue. There will be 61 shows in the huge structure in that time.

The 3563-seat music hall; the big arena or convention hall, which is only partly finished; the four small assembly halls and the extensive exhibition hall will be in use simultaneously, justifying the management's term for the festivities—'seven-ring circus," with something going on all day and evening daily.

It was a complicated job to arrange the schedule for use of the facilities, including rehearsal periods and shifting of scenery. It is estimated by the auditorium management that 8000 actors, singers, speakers, stagehands and technicians will participate in staging the shows, that 70,000 persons will witness the stage performances, that thousands will attend an industrial exposition and also the open-air dedication program Saturday.

Luncheon for civic leaders and guests who may come here for the dedication will be given Saturday at Hotel Jefferson. It will be followed by a military parade from Twelfth boulevard and Washington avenue to the auditorium, by way of Washington, Broadway, and Market, starting at 2:15 p. m. Mayor Dickmann, guests and the Mayor's dedication committee will review it from the broad steps of the auditorium.

The program at the building will be broadcast over national chains by the NBC and CBS. At 3:45 p. m. Emily Roosevelt, cousin of the president, who is to sing in grand opera here, will lead the opera chorus in singing the national anthem, accompanied by the band of the Musicians' Post, American Legion.

Kiel to Present Center.

Former Mayor Kiel of Boaz-Kiel Construction Co., the auditorium builders, will present this community center to Mayor Dickmann for the people. The Mayor will introduce Frank M. Mayfield, chairman of the Dedication Committee. J. Grant Frye, State commander of the American Legion, and Harry A. McCarty, State commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will conduct a memorial service for St. Louisans killed in the World War. The auditorium is to serve at least temporarily as a war memorial.

Gov. Park and J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency, representing President Roosevelt, will deliver the principal addresses. The program will close with the singing of "America" by Miss Roosevelt and a chorus.

Mayor Dickmann has received congratulations on the new building from Mayor LaGuardia of New York, Mayor Kelly of Chicago and Mayor Hague of Jersey City.

Saturday at 8 p. m. the workmen who erected the structure will gather in the music hall for a program.

Choir of 500 Voices.

Next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. there will be a nonsectarian religious gathering in the music hall, with three-minute talks by seven speakers, representing as many creeds. A massed choir of 500 voices, selected by the Missouri Chapter of the American Guild of Organists from 17 St. Louis churches, will sing, accompanied by a 25-piece orchestra led by Max Steindel. Mayor Dickmann will be honorary chairman. City Counselor Hay will preside and lead the audience in silent prayer after the singing of "America."

Speakers will be: Catholic, Bishop Winkelmann; Christian Scientist, Arthur T. Morey, chairman of the Committee on Publication for Missouri; Jewish, Rabbi Samuel Thurman, president of the Rabbinical Council of St. Louis; Lutheran, the Rev. Dr. Richard Kretzschmar, president of the Western District of the Missouri Synod; Protestant, the Rev. George A. Campbell, president of the Metropolitan Church Federation; Unitarian, the Rev. George R. Dodson, pastor of Church of the Unity; Unity groups, the Rev. Irwin E. Gregg, secretary of the Unity Society of Applied Christianity.

There will be a free band concert in the music hall at 7 p. m. next Sunday. William E. Thomasson's Civic Band and Tom Terry's "Municipal Auditorium Orchestra" are to give a number of free concerts during housewarming in the exposition and music halls.

Schedule of Events.

The schedule of events in the music hall for the remainder of the two-week period and thereafter follows:

April 26, 8:15 p. m., one-act plays, Morse School of Dramatics.

April 27, 8:30 p. m., David F. Earle, piano recital.

April 28, 2 p. m., exhibition of Girl Scout activities.

From next Saturday to April 27, in West Assembly Hall No. 2, there will be the first annual Municipal Auditorium Art Exhibition, with 200 paintings by St. Louis artists. From April 21 to 28, inclusive, there will be a quilt exhibit in East Assembly Hall No. 1.

"St. Louis On Parade," the industrial exposition, will be open daily in the exhibition hall, from next Saturday to April 28, from noon to 11 p. m. Admission for adults will be 15 cents before 6 p. m. and 25 cents afterwards, and for children under 12, 10 cents at all times.

Free tickets to the seven "community shows" included in the schedule for the music hall and to 33 entertainments in the East and West Theaters Nos. 3 and 4 will be distributed by the producing organizations, except for a small number reserved for distribution by the Dedication Committee.

In the convention hall or arena, which will be open free from noon to 11 p. m. daily for the two-week dedication period, there will be the following displays: Functions of the municipal government, by city departments; flower show by the Park Division; display of floral products of the city's "Jewel Box" in Forest Park, and displays by the Children's Aid Society, Community Council, St. Louis Society for the Blind, Missouri Welfare League, Boy Scouts, Public Library and Good Will Industries, Inc.

St. Louis On Parade.

For "St. Louis On Parade" 133 commercial displays have been arranged. Many of them will show manufacturing processes or the products in motion. Heavy equipment was installed last week. Decoration of the booths is to be done this week. Refreshment stands will be scattered through the hall.

One exhibit will consist of 1500 lamps, picturing the progress of conquering darkness from early days. They were collected by Dr. Charles F. Brown, Toledo (O.) archeologist, in the course of 30 years. They range from devices of primitive man to the latest electrical fixtures.

The Ford Motor Co. will use 15,000 of the 96,000 square feet of display space, including principal units of its $2,000,000 display to be shown at the Century of Progress, Chicago, this summer. Features are: "The Human Ford," which appears to read minds, talk, sing and answer difficult questions; "safety glass lane," in which visitors may throw baseballs at automobile window glass; a car suspended from a wheel spoke and a car supported by a car body.

The International Shoe Co. will make X-ray pictures of visitors' feet to determine whether shoes fit properly. The Associated Watchmakers of America will picture the development of time-keeping devices. The F. W. Woolworth Co. will have a house furnished, except for larger pieces, with 5 and 10-cent articles, with the personnel dressed in clothes of the same prices.

Following the two-week housewarming, the first important event at the auditorium will be the first annual National Folk Festival, April 29 to May 2, with afternoon and evening performances daily. The program has been completed. No two performances will be alike.

Many of the most desirable rental properties now available are advertised extensively in the Post-Dispatch want pages.

CLARK-LONG DISPUTE ENDS

Publisher Thomson Pays $800 Bill of Missourian's Campaign.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—A dispute between Senators Long of Louisiana and Clark of Missouri over who paid a $800 bill for use of a sound truck in the latter's 1928 campaign apparently has ended. In a clash with Clark in the Senate Thursday, Long said he had paid the bill to the Hart Electrical Co. at New Orleans. Clark said he understood his managers had paid the $800 and if Long had contributed "one dime" to his campaign he wanted to reimburse him. Long produced a receipt for the bill.

Earle Christenberry, Long's secretary, said today James M. Thomson, New Orleans publisher and brother-in-law of Clark, who arranged for hiring the truck, had investigated and found the bill had not been paid by Clark's managers. Thomson paid the bill and forwarded the certified check to Long's office, Christenberry said. Long then notified the Hart company to refund his $800 to Mrs. Long in New Orleans.

WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH NEAR LENZBURG, ILL.

Mrs. Steve Mitchell, Sparta, Fatally Injured; Three Others Hurt As Car Upsets.

Mrs. Steve Mitchell, 56 years old, wife of a coal miner at Sparta, Ill., was killed Friday night near Lenzburg, Ill., 20 miles south of Belleville, when an automobile in which she was riding struck the concrete abutment of a culvert and upset.

Mrs. Mitchell's daughter, Mrs. Leota Moffat, who was driving, suffered spinal injuries. Mrs. Moffat's 16-year-old daughter, Pauline, suffered fractures of both legs, and Mrs. Jack Davidson, severe cuts and bruises. Another passenger, Elizabeth Watson, 16 years old, was unhurt.

The women were returning to their homes after a shopping trip to St. Louis. The injured were taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Belleville and the body of Mrs. Mitchell was removed to an undertaking establishment at Marissa.

SICK RECOVER MORE RAPIDLY IF UNWORRIED

DES MOINES, IOWA—Physicians and hospitals agree that nothing holds back a patient more than a nervous mental state, caused by worry over loss of pay and accumulating expense. Freedom from such worries is essential to rapid and complete recovery from any illness.

Protection against such worry has usually been so high in cost that few enjoy its benefits. Today, no employed man, however modest his income, need be without this necessary form of sickness protection. It is obtainable at a cost so low as to put in within the reach of all.

Fully guaranteed and ample health insurance is now available to all employed white men between 18 and 55 at a cost of only a few cents per day. The company which makes this possible invites investigation. A letter or one-cent postal card will bring full particulars, without obligation and without any call by any agent. Address the National Benefit, 1203 Royal Union Building, Des Moines, Iowa.

Complete facts will be sent you, showing how you can be sure of $50 to $200 per month during illness, plus liberal hospital and emergency benefits—at an actual cost of but a few cents a day. It costs nothing to get the particulars about this generous plan which no man can afford to be without.

COMMERCE GROUP ATTACKS STOCK EXCHANGE BILL

Chamber Terms It and Wagner Labor Legislation Dangerous Threat to Business Recovery.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The United States Chamber of Commerce today attacked the pending Stock Exchange control legislation and the Wagner bill to outlaw employer domination of labor organizations as a dangerous threat to business recovery.

With these two measures it grouped the Wagner-Lewis unemployment insurance bill and the Connery mandatory 30-hour-week bill in a general criticism as unnecessarily restrictive and tending to cancel the gains business has made in recent months.

Meanwhile, a sub-committee of the House Interstate Commerce Committee voted for exemption of state and municipal bonds from provisions of the Stock Exchange bill. Monday, it and the Senate Banking Committee will take up the controversial margin section with indications that its 60 per cent cash margin requirement will be eliminated and the whole subject left to the determination of the Federal Reserve Board.

Business Progress Reported.

"On every hand there appear encouraging signs of further business recovery," the Chamber reported in its fortnightly summary of national business affairs. "More men are being put to work at better wages. Firms and corporations, long in the red, are either over the line or getting closer to the black.

"Some of the recovery legislation enacted in the last year has had a wholesome effect in laying the basis for business recovery and in strengthening the nation's banking structure.

"But attention is now centering on the need of business for opportunity to continue its forward movement, unhampered by new and unnecessary restrictions. Certain legislation, some of it on the statute books and some now pending in Congress, threatens this advance.

"Proposed labor legislation produces much uncertainty. The Wagner labor disputes bill, which would do away with company shop organizations and impose outside unions on employers, offers a threat of strikes and other labor difficulties.

"The Wagner-Lewis bill for unemployment reserves, proposing a tax on the country's payrolls of a billion dollars a year, would put an impossible burden on industry. The Connery bill, making a 30-hour week mandatory for all industry, would be detrimental to recovery.

On Securities Bill.

"Business needs capital, yet the Securities Act, hastily passed last year to protect investors, has dried up capital markets. The stock exchange bill, designated to regulate exchanges, would, if enacted in its present form, open the door to further governmental interference with business firms whose securities are listed.

"Taxation legislation, now pending, contains provisions such as the re-imposition of the capital stock and excess profits taxes, which would affect business expansion. * * *

"Many troublesome problems must be worked out before the country is again firmly on its feet economically. But it seems that most of these questions must be solved in the light of practical business experience and not through too many legislative formulae.

"With indications of recovery becoming more pronounced, the general feeling of business is that less emphasis now should be placed on economic reforms and more attention should be given to the possibilities of recovery through a free operation of economic laws."

The Chamber interpreted the stock exchange bill as proposing "regulation by a Government bureau of the financial affairs of private business to a degree not at first realized." The measure, it said, would result in "artificial limitations" of a deflationary nature on the extension of credit on securities by banks and others.

NEW PLOT TO ASSASSINATE RUMANIAN LEADERS REPORTED

Several Officers and Civilians Arrested; Killings Were Set for Easter.

By the Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 7.—A new plot to assassinate state leaders, including possibly King Carol, was reported uncovered in Bucharest today. Several officers and civilians were arrested, among them Col. Prekup.

Although efforts were made to keep the affair secret because of the general uneasiness in Rumania, reports said the projected killings were to have taken place at a midnight service marking the orthodox Easter.

Late last month police said a conspiracy to assassinate Premier Tatarescu and other Government leaders was revealed.

Mrs. Roosevelt Attends Funeral.

By the Associated Press.

MASSENA, N. Y., April 7.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived this afternoon for the funeral of A. B. Cook, 85 years old, father of her friend, Miss Nancy Cook. She motored from Syracuse. Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Cook planned to go to their homes at Hyde Park this week-end.

HISTORIC BUILDINGS EXHIBIT SHOWN AT CENTRAL LIBRARY

Material Gathered in Survey to Be on Display for Two Weeks, Beginning Tomorrow.

An exhibition of material gathered in Missouri in the Historic American Buildings Survey will be opened tomorrow for two weeks in the art room of Central Library. It is arranged by Wilbur T. Trueblood, State director of the survey, under auspices of the St. Louis chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

The display will include drawings and photographs of the notable old structures in St. Louis and elsewhere in Missouri which were measured and recorded in the survey, and a map showing location of these buildings and of others which are being indexed, but which it was not possible to measure. The original records are being deposited in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, along with those of other states.

FOR LIGHTING TULSA AIR ROUTE

C. of C. Head Urges Step as Necessary for Air Mail.

Thomas N. Dysart, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, yesterday wired Congressman John J. Cochran a request to aid in efforts to hasten lighting of the St. Louis to Tulsa air route for night flying.

Dysart had received word from the Postoffice Department that no bids would be asked for air mail service between St. Louis and Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Dallas until the St. Louis-Tulsa route had been lighted. Allocation of $143,454 for the project was announced by the Public Works Administration last December. A copy of the telegram was sent to Senator Clark.

THE QUESTION HAS BEEN ANSWERED

APRIL 7, 1933—QUESTION
Which Beer Will America Prefer?

APRIL 7, 1934—ANSWER
Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer— America's Biggest Seller!

The average American citizen is more than mildly interested in the new history of beer. It is a history that he is making.

He is interested in a larger sense because the floodgates of beer were lifted as a measure of social and economic well-being by his own suffrage. He is interested more intimately because of his own loyalties to a brand or to brands of beer.

On April 7, 1933, when beer was legalized, many brands, old and new, appeared on the market. A natural curiosity led the American public to try one brand after the other in search of the one beer that measured up to individual expectations. Often then, the question was heard, "Which is THE beer?"

The first year of beer under the new deal ended yesterday. In that time definite preferences were clearly revealed. The question has been answered. Pabst Blue Ribbon has outsold any other brand of beer, and has established itself as America's first choice.

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is America's Biggest Seller.

It is only natural that you should want to know why. The complete answer may be condensed in the single word Quality. The complete answer may be found in a single glass of Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer.

From the very purchase and preparation of the grains, from the very selection and blending of hops, down to the final lagering, every step in the process of brewing Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is attended with consummate care and scientific precision. The elements of time and temperature are regulated with unerring accuracy. Repeated chemical analyses insure a pure and wholesome product.

Truly, quality is the reward of such constant vigilance, and leadership is the reward of quality.

We pledge ourselves anew to maintain those standards of quality which have made Pabst Blue Ribbon the favorite beer of America. We are deeply sensible of the public's response to quality, and of the great obligation placed upon us to carry on in the same tradition.

20 PCT. OF FRAUD FOUND IN CHICAGO REGISTRATION

Report on 970 Precincts in 21 of City's 50 Wards Checked by Two Committees.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Two investigating groups today reported they had discovered that 20 per cent of the registration in 970 precincts in 21 of the city's 50 wards were fraudulent.

Investigators told of finding 238 listed as registered voters in one precinct with addresses at the Salvation Army Hotel. None of the persons registered could be found.

The inquiry was made by the Citizens' Committee working for honest election and the Public Affairs Committee of the Union League Club.

In an attempt to remove fictitious names from the registration list, the committee sent out 501,000 mailing cards to persons listed as registered voters. The Postoffice Department returned 362,000 but withheld 139,000 because Postmaster Ernest J. Kreutgen said he had made an error in giving this kind of service to the committee.

However, today Postmaster-General Farley wired Kreutgen to return the undelivered cards after he had been appealed to by the committee.

Novarro on Singing Tour.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Ramon Novarro today deserted the screen temporarily to sing his way through South America and thence into Europe. The Mexican film player, together with his sister, Carmen, an accompanist, and his cousin-manager, Jorge Gavilan, boarded the Furness Prince liner Northern Prince for Buenos Aires to fill engagements in four South American capitals.

WAGE INCREASES ANNOUNCED BY MANUFACTURING CONCERNS

Several Plants Employing 1000 to 4000 Workers Each Raise Scales 10 Per Cent.

By the Associated Press.

MERIDEN, Conn., April 7.—The International Silver Co. gave notice today of a 10 per cent increase in wages for day and piece workers and salaried employes receiving $200 or less a month. The company estimated that the increase, effective April 16, will affect from 3500 to 4000 employes.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 7.—A general wage increase totaling $15,000 a month for the 2000 employes of the Bridgeport Brass Co. was announced today by R. E. Day, president. Day said the increase is 10 per cent for mill workers and an adjustment of wages in the fabricating departments.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., April 7.—A wage increase of 10 per cent for its employes was announced by the Carborundum Co. today. The increase, effective as of April 1, affects 1600 workers.

HAMILTON, O., April 7.—A 10 per cent wage increase for 1000 employes of the Estate Stove Co., including office workers, was announced today by David F. Kahn, president. The increase for molders will be effective June 1 and that of all other workers immediately.

DR. HARRY W. JOEDICKE, DENTIST, DIVORCED BY WIFE

Mate Has Maiden Name Restored; $650 Allimony Provided by Stipulation.

Mrs. Mattie Mae Joedicke, 3800 Lafayette avenue, obtained a divorce yesterday from Harry W. Joedicke, a dentist in University Club building.

Dr. Joedicke filed suit for divorce, but dismissed his petition, and Mrs. Joedicke received the decree on her crossbill. Both charged general indignities. Mrs. Joedicke testified he lost money gambling, but on cross-examination said he "squandered his money on investments, which I call gambling." The dentist remained away from home without explanation, told her he no longer cared for her and failed to support her properly, Mrs. Joedicke told the Court. They were married three years ago and separated last December.

Mrs. Joedicke's maiden name of Cameron was restored. She received $650 alimony in gross by stipulation.

JAMES KIRKWOOD'S FOURTH WIFE OBTAINS DIVORCE

Beatrice Powers, Once of the Follies, Tells of Eviction for Nonpayment of Rent.

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—Beatrice Powers, one-time Follies dancer, who eloped with and married James Kirkwood, veteran screen actor, in 1931, obtained a divorce here today. Custody of their 15-month-old daughter, Joan, was granted to Mrs. Kirkwood, who was the actor's fourth wife.

Kirkwood previously was married to Lila Lee of the films and Gertrude Robinson of the stage. Kirkwood's 9-year-old son, James Jr., now is in custody of his mother, Miss Lee.

Mrs. Kirkwood, who was a film extra when she married Kirkwood, obtained her decree on grounds of cruelty and nonsupport. She testified that several times the light and gas were turned off in their home because of nonpayment of bills and that once she was evicted because the rent wasn't paid.

WOMAN ASSAILS M'DONALD

Lady Houston Withdraws $1,000,000 Air Defense Offer.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 7.—An offer of $1,000,000 toward the air defense of London was withdrawn today by Lady Houston, wealthy air enthusiast, who backed several Schneider cup efforts, with a strong criticism of Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald for his "contempt."

"I alone have dared to point out the dire need for air defense of London," she wired MacDonald. "You have treated my patriotic gesture with a contempt such as no other government would have been guilty of toward a patriot."

MRS. PINCHOT ATTACKS NRA IN PENNSYLVANIA

Sweatshops Now Have Blue Eagle, She Says — Assails Gen. Johnson.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, the wife of the Governor of Pennsylvania, today told the Senate Labor Committee that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson had "thrown down his arms" in the interest of big business.

Mrs. Pinchot, a crusader for unionization of steel plants and coal mines, made her charge in defense of the Wagner permanent Labor Board bill.

Despite the NRA, sweatshops are flourishing "at the same old stand," in her state, she said

"In Pennsylvania," Mrs. Pinchot told the committee, "the NRA is more honored in the breach than in the observance. It is in most places more of a theory than a fact. We need the Wagner bill to make it a fact and not a theory." She asserted that the only difference between Pennsylvania sweatshops today and a year ago was that they are now adorned with the Blue Eagle. The average earnings for home work in the last few months, she added, had been as low as 11 cents an hour, with instances of only 3 cents an hour being paid.

"Confident that Gen. Johnson will not lift a finger to interfere, big business has gone deliberately and systematically to work, without subterfuge, shamelessly to defy the Government and to stamp out the organization of workers at any cost," Mrs. Pinchot said.

"I've heard of a Chinese general throwing down his arms, but not an American general," she added.

"Gen. Johnson, eager to build up the power and wealth of Wall Street," she declared, "has done so at the expense of the worker and consumer."

She alleged there had been instances of "big business shooting down workers with machine guns." Recalling that she had been unable to obtain a hall to address 15,000 steel workers at Vandergrift, Pa., she characterized the steel trust as stronger than the Government.

"It openly flaunts defiance and is getting away with it," she said.

She had kind words for the purpose of the National Industrial Recovery Act in general, although she denounced the way it was administered in her state.

BISHOP CANNON'S TRIAL SCHEDULED FOR TOMORROW

He and Secretary Sign Admission of Certain Government Evidence to Speed Case Against Them.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Bishop James Cannon Jr. and Ada L. Burroughs appeared today before the District Attorney to sign admissions of Government evidence by which counsel hopes to shorten by at least a week their trial in connection with Cannon's anti-Smith campaign in 1928. The trial is scheduled to start Monday. It is charged that they conspired to violate "willfully" and "unlawfully," the corrupt practices law. Eight more counts of the indictment charging them with the overt acts on which the conspiracy charges are based were struck out by the Supreme Court.

John J. Wilson, Assistant District Attorney, said the stipulations relieving the Government of the presentation of part of its planned testimony were agreed to after a request from Cannon and Miss Burroughs, who was the bishop's secretary five years ago. Cannon said he was anxious for court action before the general conference of the M. E. Church, South, at Jackson, Miss., April 22, and Government prosecutors said they thought the trial could be concluded by that time, in view of today's move.

Only one thing stands in the way of starting the trial. A defense motion to require the Government to file a bill of particulars must be argued before the jury is selected. The District Attorney's office, opposing it, said it would require a week, perhaps longer, to draft the bill if the request were granted, and so informed Cannon in view of his request to have the trial hurried.

Edwin C. Jameson, president of the Globe & Rutgers Insurance Co. of New York, will be the Government's principal witness. He reported giving Cannon $65,300, all of which was not reported by Cannon to the clerk of the House of Representatives.

CONGRESSMEN'S 'DUTCH TREAT'

Ninety in Party of 250 Sight-Seeing in New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Ninety members of the national House of Representatives and their families, making a party of 250 in all, spent the first of a two-day "Dutch Treat" sight-seeing tour here viewing as many points of interest as they could find.

They attended a luncheon at which Mayor LaGuardia spoke, then toured the harbor in fireboats, visited the financial district, the Statue of Liberty, museums and Ellis Island.

State Gas Tax Collections Increase.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 7.—Gasoline tax collections for February totaled $674,906, an increase of $61,028 over the corresponding month of last year, Roy H. Cherry, State Oil Inspector, announced today. Collections during the first two months of this year totaled $1,437,761, compared with $1,319,079 collected during the corresponding period of 1931.

ASSERTS EX-HEAD TOOK $7,000,000 FROM PAPER FIRM

Receivers' Attorney Testifies Edward Backus Abstracted Funds of Minnesota & Ontario Co.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Edward W. Backus, former president of the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Co., who asserted bankers conspired to "steal" the $75,000,000 concern, today was accused of abstracting $7,000,000 of the company's funds, some for stock market purposes, before he lost control.

These charges and countercharges were made at a one-day hearing before the Senate's Bankruptcy Investigating Committee and at the conclusion Chairman Ashurst indicated it would take no action. Ashurst accused Backus of using the committee as "a conduit to send his personal views to the country" instead of presenting evidence.

However, Ashurst obtained from one of the company's receivers, R. H. M. Robinson, an agreement to permit Backus free access to the company's books.

Backus Turns Down Request.

In return, Robinson's attorney, John D. Faegre, asked permission to inspect the personal records of Backus and his company, the Backus-Brooks Co., to see what happened to the $7,000,000 he said was taken from the paper company.

Backus refused the request, saying they were private records to which the company had no claim. He did not deny his company had received the money, but contended it was owed by the Minnesota & Ontario Co.

Backus, and Senator Schall (Rep.), Minnesota, who requested the inquiry for him, asked the committee to obtain for the former president a list of the company's bondholders, which they said had been refused by the bondholders' protective committee. Ashurst agreed such a list should be furnished, but said the committee had no power to compel it.

Schall characterized the bondholders' committee's refusal to give the list to Backus as "a hideous public wrong" which the committee should investigate.

Defends His Receivership.

Robinson defended his receivership administration against charges of waste and extravagance by Backus. He said he had continued to operate the company in receivership because there had been no opportunity for a sound reorganization and liquidation of the company would have been "folly."

Fees paid to the receivers developed much attention and criticism from the committee.

Charles S. Pope, Robinson's assistant, testified that while Backus and two associates were receivers, for nine months in 1931, their fees were $105,000 while their attorneys received $65,000. He said that Robinson and Co-Receiver C. T. Jaffray received $70,000 and $30,000 respectively in 1932 and $63,000 and $10,000 in 1933. Their attorneys got $51,000 in 1932 and $32,000 in 1933, he added.

Ashurst figured out the total fees for 25 months of the receivership were $433,000 and said the company's creditors had been paid nothing.

AGAIN DENIED SEAT ON BOARD

A. E. Kraemer Seeks Place as St. Clair County Supervisor.

The St. Clair County Board of Supervisors yesterday refused for the second time to seat A. E. Kraemer, who was appointed to the Board by the Belleville City Council to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Joseph Anton.

Kraemer, who is secretary to Mayor Brueschnitz of Belleville, unsuccessfully sought recognition at the March meeting of the Board. Yesterday his plea to be recognized was refused on the ground that the City Council should have convened as a Township Board when appointing him. Despite Kraemer's declaration that the State Attorney-General had issued an opinion affirming the legality of the appointment, the Board voted to lay the question over to its May meeting.

Master Plumbers Hold Convention.

The fiftieth annual convention of the Missouri State Association of Master Plumbers will be held at Hotel Jefferson tomorrow and Tuesday. Mayor Dickmann will make an address of welcome and A. P. PILOT WHO WAS LINDBERGH'S TEACHER DIES IN CHICAGO

Ira Biffle Was One of Earliest Aviators; Tutored Noted Flyers.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Ira Biffle, 44 years old, veteran aviator, who helped teach Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and others of the nation's prominent aviators to fly, died today at a hospital after a long illness.

His wife was with him when the end came. Only a short time before, the flyer, blinded by disease, had groped for her hands and mumbled: "I'm afraid I can't make it." His death occurred in a hospital to which friends moved him a few weeks ago when he was discovered, almost penniless, in a public hospital, seriously ill with nephritis and a heart ailment. Among the first to contribute to his aid was Lindbergh.

Biffle born somewhere in the Southwest—his friends here don't know exactly where, was a well known pilot in 1915. He was a skillful aviator when planes were "crates" and became a member of the Army Air Corps at San Diego when it numbered but four persons. It was while he was at Lincoln, Nev., that Lindbergh appeared for his first flying lesson. Of Lindbergh Biffle said: "He was a queer looking kid. He first appeared at the field without a change of clothing, wearing a leather jacket, a pair of khaki pants, a shirt and a cap. He was a darned good student—intelligent, quick and nervy. Much above the average." Lindbergh in his book, "We," referred to Biffle as "the most hard-boiled instructor the Army ever had during the war."

Auto Features That Make for Safety Pointed Out

M. N. Johnson, of Ford Co., Says Critical Season for Traffic Fatalities Is at Hand.

With the arrival of spring, the call for greater caution in driving goes out to every motorist. According to traffic authorities, Spring is the most critical season for traffic fatalities. There are more children and more automobiles on the street and highways and because of this, the need for caution on part of the motorist and pedestrian alike multiplies.

Yeoman service in the cause of traffic safety is being rendered by school teachers in their campaign to form safety habits in the minds of children at an early age. The automobile industry each year is building safer cars and the average driver each year seems to be acquiring a deeper feeling of responsibility for the safety of passengers and pedestrians.

Every motorist owes it to himself, his family and the people in his community to drive a safe car. But what is a safe automobile?

Safety Features Needed.

M. N. Johnson, St. Louis manager for the Ford Motor Co., answers the question.

"In attempting to enumerate the features which a safe automobile should have, I am going to look at the matter from the standpoint of both passenger and pedestrian," says Johnson. In discussing these features, I am going to assume that the average man at the wheel wants to be a safe driver, for this is of even more importance than a high safety factor in the car. A combination of the two is the ideal we are striving for.

"Here is how a safe automobile lines up in my mind:

"1, It has an all-steel body, thereby providing the occupants with the maximum protection in the event of a mishap.

"2. It has shatter-proof glass all around, guarding the occupants from the danger of flying glass.

"3. It has a low center of gravity, permiting the car to hug the road, and making it possible for it to tilt even to a 40-degree angle without overturning.

"4. It has a rigid front axle. Because nothing can take the place of a rugged front axle in assuring safety under all road conditions.

"5. Transverse springs, allowing free action on all four wheels. Aside from its value as a riding comfort feature, this design permits the car to take turns at high speeds with less side-sway than in other types of spring suspension and the car continues to hug the road under all conditions.

"6. Large brakes of the unfailing mechanical principle.

"7. Power, acceleration and flexibility sufficient to do 60 miles an hour in second gear, permitting the driver to pull out of a tight situation in a flash.

"8. Torque Tube drive. This eliminates any squatting effect when the car is started and bounding effect when the brakes are applied. This is of special importance when the brakes are applied rapidly or when the road is slippery. No car is safer at high speeds than one with a true torque tube drive.

"9. Welded steel wheels. Because of this design are all in one piece, there is nothing to work loose, or weaken their original strength and they are made of a steel of such high tensile strength that a single spoke is capable of supporting the weight of the car.

Other Aids to Safety.

"These are some of the chief features that I feel should be in a safe automobile. However, there are nearly a score of other features that the "safe car" should have. Briefly, some of them are as follows: Double drop frame for strength and rigidity; larger tires for better traction; dual height bumpers; double-acting shock absorbers; good headlights; twin horns, one in reserve; clear vision ventilation; slanting windshield that opens, preventing fog interference and glare from behind at night; wide range of vision; narrow corner posts; efficient windshield wiper; wide seats, permitting plenty of elbow room; adjustable sun visors; visibility of all instruments; quick-acting steering gear; fingertip head light control; rear view mirror; non-glaring trimmings; safety door latches; window and door handles that don't catch clothes; adjustable seats; high mounted rear gas tanks; relfex lens in tail light; air cleaner to eliminate backfire.

"Other features this safe car should have are: A protected steering gear with a safe road clearance; standard tread; quick warm-up in cold weather and shorter wheelbase maneuverability.

"These features represent the culmination of more than 30 years research and experiment to build into an automobile the maximum safeguards and safety features. It seems to me that if a greater number of people would demand these features in their new automobiles, we would be making another great step forward toward traffic safety for all."

Public Works for Highway Improvement.

The United States should have the world's most beautiful highways if the recently announced movement of the public works administration for roadside improvement is carried out. A special board of the P. W. A. has already completed plans for preserving the beauty of the natural landscape and is working toward the objective of screening highways in picturesque fashion by means of trees and shrubbery.

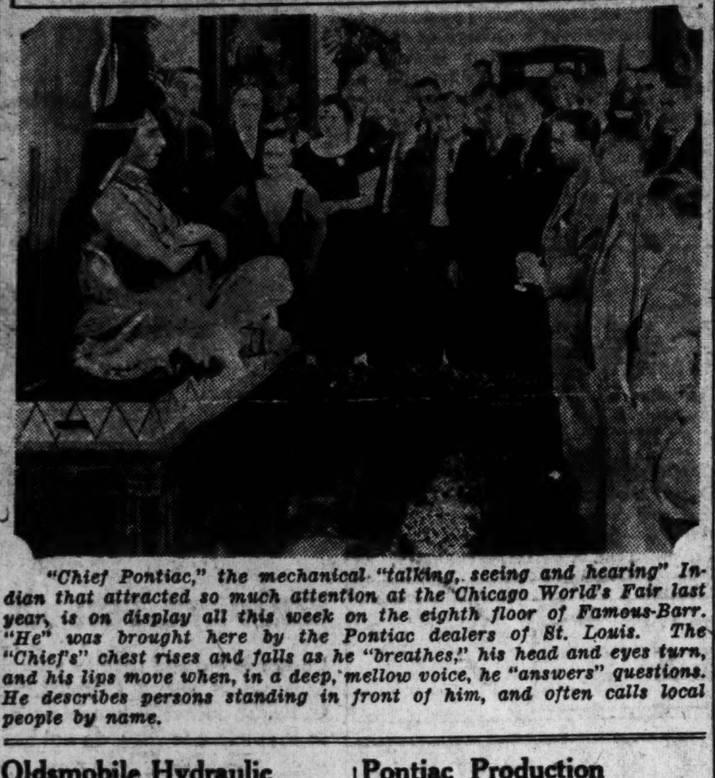
"Chief Pontiac" Visits St. Louis



"Chief Pontiac," the mechanical "talking, seeing and hearing" Indian that attracted so much attention at the Chicago World's Fair last year, is on display all this week on the eighth floor of Famous-Barr. "He" was brought here by the Pontiac dealers of St. Louis. The "Chief's" chest rises and falls as he "breathes," his head and eyes turn, and his lips move when, in a deep, mellow voice, he "answers" questions. He describes persons standing in front of him, and often calls local people by name.

Oldsmobile Hydraulic Brakes Require but Light Pedal Pressure

A brake pedal that operates with a light and easy pressure is a feature that can readily be appreciated by all who drive automobiles, especially by women drivers. An important development along this line is found in the self-energizing super-hydraulic brakes designed for both the Oldsmobile six and eight.

According to H. T. Youngren, chief engineer, Oldsmobile's self-energizing system results in a brake which requires 30 per cent less pedal pressure to operate or, to put it another way, that much less physical effort, than if the brake were without this improvement.

"Our self-energizing system relieves the driver of the necessity for holding the brake shoes against the brake drum by sheer foot power when he makes a stop," Youngren says.

"Instead, the brake shoes are so mounted that when contact with the drums is made, the turning motion of the wheels draws the shoes tighter against the drums. This saving of one-third in muscular effort is important under some driving conditions, such as heavy traffic, where many stops may be required.

"Oldsmobile brakes have a progressive action, with a smooth build-up of braking power as the pedal is depressed and the car is brought to a stop. Yet the foot pressure is even throughout. The feel of the pedal is velvety, but firm.

"As there is practically no friction in the system of the hydraulic brake hook-up, and no exposed parts to rust or get clogged with dirt, but little service attention is necessary. Also, the hydraulic system insures even pressure being exerted on all four wheels at all times."

Carbon Monoxide Poisoning Danger In Closed Garages

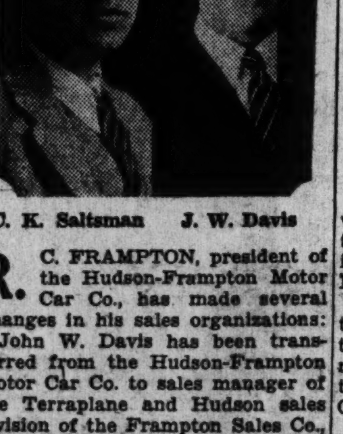
Insurance companies health authorities, doctors and an oil company are joining in warning motorists of the carbon monoxide danger.

Every year sees deaths by carbon monoxide of men and women who persist in working in closed garages while a car engine is running. Only 15 parts of carbon monoxide in 10,000 parts of air will prove fatal if a person is exposed to it in a closed car or garage.

In an effort to drive home to motorists what a danger carbon monoxide is, one large only company has carried on advertising campaigns in two cities.

As an additional safeguard, this same company has printed a garage door sticker which reads—warning, "Keep these doors open while motor is running." By placing this sign in a conspicuous place every motorist has a constant reminder of the deadliness of carbon monoxide. This sticker is given away free at all Cities Service stations and dealers.

HUDSON-FRAMPTON SALES FORCE CHANGES



C. K. Saltsman J. W. Davis

R. C. FRAMPTON, president of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., has made several changes in his sales organizations:

John W. Davis has been transferred from the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co. to sales manager of the Terraplane and Hudson sales division of the Frampton Sales Co., 3301 Locust street, of which A. S. Frampton is president. This is known as the "Downtown Store."

Davis will have complete charge of new and used cars.

Charles K. Saltsman goes to the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co. as retail sales manager.

For the past 14 years Saltsman has been sales representative for a popular make of car in St. Louis.

Pontiac Production Rate Reaches High of 826 Cars in a Day

Klingler Expects It to Remain at 800 or More Daily; March Record Set.

March was a month of record breaking for the Pontiac Motor Co., according to H. J. Klingler, president and general manager.

"Production reached the highest point of the year," said Klingler, "when 805 cars were turned out Thursday of the past week and 826 on Friday. We should run 800 cars or more a day as long as the seasonal demand continues, and that ought to be well beyond the usual spring period.

"In March, 14,891 new Pontiacs were built. This was three times the March production in 1933, and 37 per cent above February of this year. It was the largest month of Pontiac production since July, 1929.

"Last week we had the largest production of the year with a total of 3757 cars, or an average of 751 cars a day for a five-day week. Our average has been over 700 cars a day since March 19.

"Although January was a poor month compared with last year due to a slow start on new models, February and March have so far exceeded 1933 that our output in the entire first quarter of this year was 43.5 per cent greater than in the corresponding period a year ago.

"April promises to exceed March by a wide margin, with 18,600 Pontiacs scheduled for the month. This compares with 8199 manufactured last April.

"What is of greater interest to everyone, I believe, is the increased employment that has come as a natural result of increased production. The last available figure shows 6511 men on the Pontiac payroll. This is an increase of 12 per cent over a month ago, when we had 5809 employes. These figures have not been equaled for over four years.

"Over at the Fisher Body plant, where only Pontiac bodies are made, there are 2800 men at work compared with 1600 the last of February.

"In the Pontiac plants, the men are receiving a higher average hourly rate of pay than at any time since 1929. In the past year the increase in the average hourly rate was 13.7 cents, or more than 20 per cent."

Hudson, Terraplane Sales Now Over Half All Reported in 1933

Sales of Terraplane and Hudson cars are now considerably in excess of half the total number sold in 1933. March 17, the 1934 sales went over this figure.

Chester G. Abbott, general sales manager of the Hudson Motor Car Co. said that of 71 cities which have just reported registrations for the first part of March, 14 cities show Terraplane and Hudson registrations ranking fourth or better.

Pointing out that total shipments for the week ending March 17 were 3865, Abbott said, "in shipping this number of cars in the week ending last Saturday, we made a gain of 550 per cent over the week ending March 18, 1933. Considering the shipments made from Jan. 1 to March 17, we are 265 per cent ahead of 1933. We shipped over 3000 more cars in the second week of March this year than we did in the second week of March last year. The gain in St. Louis sales was 50 per cent."

Buick Production Raised 26 Percent For April Over March

The Buick Motor Co. enters April with employment and payrolls at the four-year peak maintained during the past two months, Harlow H. Curtice, president, announces.

A total of 14,316 are at work in the Buick factories, approximately the same number employed in February, while the payroll for March totaled approximately $1,725,000, Curtice said.

The company ended March with a total production of 6943 cars, with 8746 scheduled for April, an increase of 26 per cent. Retail sales in March approximately doubled those in the corresponding month of last year.

With factory employment at peak, the plants of the company are operating on multiple shifts, three shifts daily being required in several manufacturing divisions.

G. M. Berry to Sell Nash and Lafayette As Well as Packard

Adds Dealership in Nash-Built Autos to His Packard Distributership.

The Berry Motor Car Co., which for 11 years, has exclusively sold Packard cars, is adding the Nash and Lafayette cars. These Nash-built cars will be displayed and sold from the Berry Motor Car Co., headquarters, Locust and Twenty-second streets, along with the Packard line.

G. M. Berry, president of the company, said that this move was made because of the attractiveness of the present Nash line in appearance and price and because the Nash Motors Company position in the automobile industry so well adapts it to a combination with Packard. Nash policies in its field probably more nearly parallel those of Packard in its field than is true of any other two manufacturers.

Berry had his early automobile experience in the factory where Nash cars are now produced. For 11 years he was with the Thomas B. Jeffery Co., then builder of Rambler and Jeffery cars, which business was acquired by Nash and the name changed to Nash Motors Co.

E. A. Hatfield, president of the Mississippi Valley Motor Co., the local Nash distributer, was also in Kenosha at the time of Berry's residence there.

Berry said his interest in Nash and Lafayette cars was aroused by the Mississippi Valley Motor Co., display at the St. Louis Automobile Show.

Already more than twice as many 1934 Nash and Lafayette cars have been shipped as Nash cars were shipped in all 1933.

The Berry Motor Car Company will specialize on Nash service, part of its shop and mechanical force being segregated to deal exclusively with Nash products. It is ready now to show and demonstrate Nash and Lafayette cars.

President of the Berry Motor Car Co., local Packard distributer, who has added a dealership in Nash and Lafayette cars.

Object Lessons Aid Traffic.

Object lessons, based on the human desire to avoid ridicule, have proved effective in enforcing traffic laws in Kansas City, Mo. Motorists are ordered to go to the curb, walk to "no left turn" or other traffic signs disregarded, and then forced to read the admonition for the amusement of passersby. Infractions dropped in number immediately.

Mid-Continent Jobbers, Distributers, Dealers Guests of Company

Introduction of New Diamond "760" Motor Oil in Sealed Containers Discussed.

More than 300 distributors, jobbers and dealers of the Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation of Tulsa, Ok., producer and marketer of D-X Lubricating Motor Fuel and Diamond "760" motor oils and Mid-Continent tires, were guests of the company's Eastern division at a banquet recently in Terre Haute, Ind., in connection with the introduction of the new Diamond "760" motor oil which is now available in sealed containers. L. V. Surtees, eastern division manager, presided at the meeting.

D. G. Morgan, superintendent of refineries, explained the new technical process developed by the Mid-Continent Company in producing the new "760" motor oil. Morgan said that the new filtration process developed by the company had made it possible for Mid-Continent to produce this new oil, which has even less carbon content than heretofore. He pointed out that the present automobile motors make necessary proper lubrication at high and low temperatures at all speeds.

The new atmospheric and vacuum processes of the Mid-Continent Company completely de-waxes "760" motor oil, according to Morgan, and it will flow at 92 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. Describing the new sealed container, Morgan said, each filling machine fills and seals 120 quart cans per minute.

Other speakers of the evening were R. W. McDowell, vice-president in charge of sales at Tulsa; H. M. Smith and J. B. Woodbury, of R. J. Potts & Co., Kansas City, the Mid-Continent company's advertising agency. Woodbury explained the details of the Mid-Continent advertising, merchandising and sales promotion spring driving campaign, which is by far the largest and most extensive the company has instituted.

Among those introduced at the meeting were Bernard Wides, president of Monark Petroleum Co., 5101 Manchester Ave., St. Louis, distributer of Mid-Continent products in St. Louis territory, and two of his dealers, Paul Collopy and Lewis Levin. A. P. McGrath, eastern division salesmanager, and other executives of the Mid-Continent company also attended the meeting.

Thorough Tire Check This Month Will Pay, Kemmerer Declares

Motorists who wish to get the most for their money out of their automobiles and tires will find it genuine economy to have a thorough check of their equipment made during April.

While winter weather is not hard on tires, it does work considerable wear and tear on the automobile's finish, top and parts exposed to the weather, according to George Kemmerer, manager of Goodyear Service, Inc.

"It also is an excellent idea," says Mr. Kemmerer, "to establish the habit of having tires checked for air pressure at least once a month. It only takes a minute or two to have tires checked and properly inflated. This service is gladly given free at our station and the customer does not even need to get out of the car.

"At the same time, our trained employes will be glad to inspect the condition of the top, under the fenedrs and other parts that may have been damaged by the elements.

"We have paints and dressings which can be applied to cracked tops, under side of fenders, or to spots where paint has chipped off, in a few minutes. Many times, the application of a few drops of paint will avoid excessive damage to the original paint job or top.

"Automobile owners who deferred buying new tires during the winter will not want to delay much longer. With warm weather, old tires will begin to fail and the application of new tires now will practically eliminate the danger of embarrassing and inconvenient tire failures during the warm months."

Chrysler Develops Special Welder for All-Steel Body Work

The most important factor in making the all-steel auto body commercially available was the development of flash welding and spot welding processes that would produce uniformly excellent work with economy and speed.

When Chrysler engineers perfected the new Airflow type of body they created an entirely new set of problems for the manufacturing department, because existing spot-welding methods, excellent as they were, did not meet all the requirements of this construction. The result was the development of new jigs, fixtures and tools by Chrysler.

Most important among the new developments in welding is the so-called "hydromatic" welder now in use in the Chrysler Corporation's body plants, Detroit. This machine eliminates the element of human fallability from the welding operation. It insures uniformity of quality, and it increases the speed of all the spot welding operations in which it is used.

The invention of the hydromatic welding machine may be said to have done for working in metal what the invention of the sewing machine did for working in cloth. There is a good deal of similarity in the operation of the two. The hydromatic welder, in effect, sews a seam of metal, just as the sewing machine sews a seam with thread. It is completely automatic in operation, which means that the spaces between the points to be welded must be uniform to the breadth of a hair and the actual operation of welding must be the same at each spot.

Ford Safety Lane for Exhibit Here

"Safety Lane," one of the displays in the Ford exhibit which will occupy a quarter of the entire space at the St. Louis on Parade Exposition, April 14 through 28, at the Municipal Auditorium. It will also be a feature of the coming renewal of the Century of Progress Fair in Chicago. At the far end of the lane, pieces of plate glass and Ford safety glass are inserted. Glass worth $5000 to $6000 will be broken during the exposition here, according to representatives of the glass manufacturers, who are here to operate the Ford Safety Lane.

Saves 1200 Engine Revolutions Per Minute at Speed of 60 Miles Per Hour.

A test run to demonstrate the advantages of "dual ratio" on Auburn cars was made Thursday, the car being driven by John Sewell, assistant to Chauncey Corcoran, sales manager of the Frampton Sales Co., the local Auburn distributer.

"Dual ratio" enables the driver of an Auburn car equipped with it to save materially on gasoline and oil consumption and reduce engine wear.

A tachometer on an Auburn eight dual ratio car shows that when the car is rolling at 60 miles per hour in regular high gear, the engine is turning 3700 revolutions per minute. Turning the dual ratio lever on the steering wheel to "dual high," the car continues at 60 m. p. h., but with the engine turning only 2500 r. p. m. In other words, the engine makes 1200 fewer revolutions per minute, yet keeps the car going at the same speed.

By turning the steering wheel lever to "dual low," additional power for hill climbing or acceleration is available. The change is made smoothly.

Of course, using "dual high," car speed is considerably increased when the engine is pushed to maximum effort.

The new Auburn Six standard line includes models ranging from the brougham at $855 delivered to a custom sedan at $1020. Prices of the Auburn Eight line range from $1126 for the standard brougham to $1421 for the custom sedan.

$30 in Taxes of $93 Average Motorist Spent for 'Gas' in 1933

The average American motor-vehicle user spent approximately $93 for gasoline in 1933, of which $30, or 32 per cent, went for Federal and State gasoline taxes, according to L. van Eeghen, vice-president in charge of marketing for the Shell Petroleum Corporation.

"In 1933, twenty-four million motor vehicles consumed nearly 13½ billion gallons of gasoline, the retail value of which, including taxes, was $2,227,000,000," van Eeghen said. "Federal and State gasoline taxes in the same period totaled $716,000,000.

"While the gasoline tax is only one of several special levies imposed upon motorists, it was approximately 61 per cent of the total taxes collected from motor vehicle users last year, which amounted to $1,170,000,000. These taxes, in turn, were 11 per cent of the nation's total tax bill from all sources—Federal, State and municipal.

"As many states, due to economic conditions, are using their gasoline tax revenues not only for originally intended purposes of road construction and maintenance, but also for building schools, parks and other state institutions, to provide work for as many unemployed in their commonwealths as possible, there can be no gainsaying that motorists are among the chief contributing factors to national recovery."

Engineers Can See What Is Happening In Fast Running Engine

Research, interpreted as the search for basic facts about materials and machinery necessary before specific improvements in automobiles can be made, is exemplified by the products of the General Motors Research Laboratories.

The Laboratories have showed their work through a number of unusual machines, among which is the stroboscopic clock. This machine, demonstrated during the New York Automobile Show, illustrates how the engineers can observe what is actually happening in an engine spinning at hundreds of revolutions per minute.

The clock has a dial a foot in diameter. The hands spin at 1600 revolutions a minute, or 27 times a second, causing simply a blur on the face of the clock. Three feet away is mounted a Neon lamp on the automobile headlight type. The lamp usually is directed at the ceiling, but by pulling on a lever the visitor swings the stroboscopic light beam down from the ceiling and focusses it on the face of the clock. The stroboscopic effect of the light beam literally "freezes" the hands in position at the correct time.

Reflectors Necessary on Trucks in New York.

As a protection to motorists approaching trucks stalled on highways, all trucks in New York State and those coming from other states, are required to carry front and rear reflectors. The reflectors must be at least three inches in diameter, showing red in rear and yellow in front.

American Racers Sail to Compete in Race in North Africa

De Paolo and Moore Entered in 325-Mile Event—To Return for Indianapolis Classic.

Peter de Paolo and Lou Moore have left on a 10,000-mile trip which will take them to Africa for the Grand Prix Tripoli on May 6 and bring them back for the annual 500-mile race on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30.

Cars and crew sailed from New York yesterday. A month later, on May 6, they will race in the Grand Prix Tripoli, a 325-mile event with $18,000 in prize money. Then they will start back for the Indianapolis race. They expect to leave Naples, Italy, May 9, three days after the race, and drive across Europe to Cherbourg, France. May 12 they plan to sail, arriving in New York on May 18. They hope to reach Indianapolis on May 20 to prepare for the Decoration day race only 10 days away.

Before leaving, both entered their cars in the 500-mile race.

De Paolo won the 1925 race, setting a record of 101.13 miles an hour which stood six years until Fred Frame's victory in 1932. He will drive a four-wheel-drive Miller special which appeared at Indianapolis two years ago and has not been raced since.

Moore will drive a Foreman special, the rear-wheel drive, four-cylinder car which he placed third last year after qualifying at a speed of 117 miles an hour.

Bailey Auto Body Co. To Carry Wayne Motor Coach and Bus Line

W. V. Bailey, president of the Bailey Auto Body Co., has taken the Wayne motor coach and bus franchise in addition to other lines the company handles such as Anthony dump bodies, Hercules bodies, Kingham trailers, Little Giant truck equipment, Silver Dome coach and travel homes, and Hercules-Ditzwiler equipment.

Bailey said that he now was able to meet any need for bus or truck equipment.

The Wayne coach and bus bodies are all-steel construction in keeping with the demand for safety in passenger coaches as well as bus bodies.

The Bailey company has been in the body business for 18 years. It recently established a branch at Memphis, Tenn., to take care of the Southern business.

E. M. Bailey, vice-president, looks after part of the territory with E. M. Pelke, who is general salesmanager.

International Pacific Highway.

The world's longest highway, the International Pacific highway, will be 12,000 to 16,000 miles long when completed. It will start at Fairbanks, Alaska, and terminate at Buenos Aires, Argentina. It will cross 17 countries and traverse all the zones of climate. It will be the first major highway to cross the equator. Nearly all the great traffic arteries of the past have run from East to West.

Goodyear Executives To Leave Tuesday for Kansas City Conference

W. H. Miller, local branch manager, and G. H. Kemmerer, manager of Goodyear Service, Inc., will leave for Kansas City Tuesday night to attend a one-day regional sales conference of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Miller and Kemmerer will hear R. S. Wilson, vice-president and sales manager, and F. W. McConkey, South Central division manager, for Goodyear, who will outline sales policies, advertising plans and merchandising projects of the current year.

The local branch and store managers will be accompanied by 20 of the company's sales field representatives in the St. Louis district. There also will be representatives from the Kansas City, Memphis and Oklahoma City districts.

All of the men from this area are to return to St. Louis Thursday morning.

Added to Goodrich Force.

J. M. McDonough has been added to the sales staff in the St. Louis district of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., by W. M. Stonestreet, district manager.

Goodrich Rubber Co. Promotes Executives in St. Louis District

The following organization changes are announced by W. M. Stonestreet, district manager for the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co.:

Earle E. Gordon, formerly manager of Goodrich Silvertown, Inc., for Greater St. Louis, has been made sales supervisor for the wholesale and retail divisions in the Missouri-Illinois and Kentucky areas.

Jay Horton has been made sales supervisor, wholesale and retail, in the Tennessee-Mississippi, Arkansas and Oklahoma area of the St. Louis District, with headquarters at Memphis.

C. E. Newman, formerly manager of Goodrich Silvertown, Inc., East St. Louis, has been appointed general manager, retail department, in Greater St. Louis.

T. E. McQuay is temporarily in charge of the East St. Louis retail department.

H. M. Davis is manager of the petroleum sales department for the entire district.

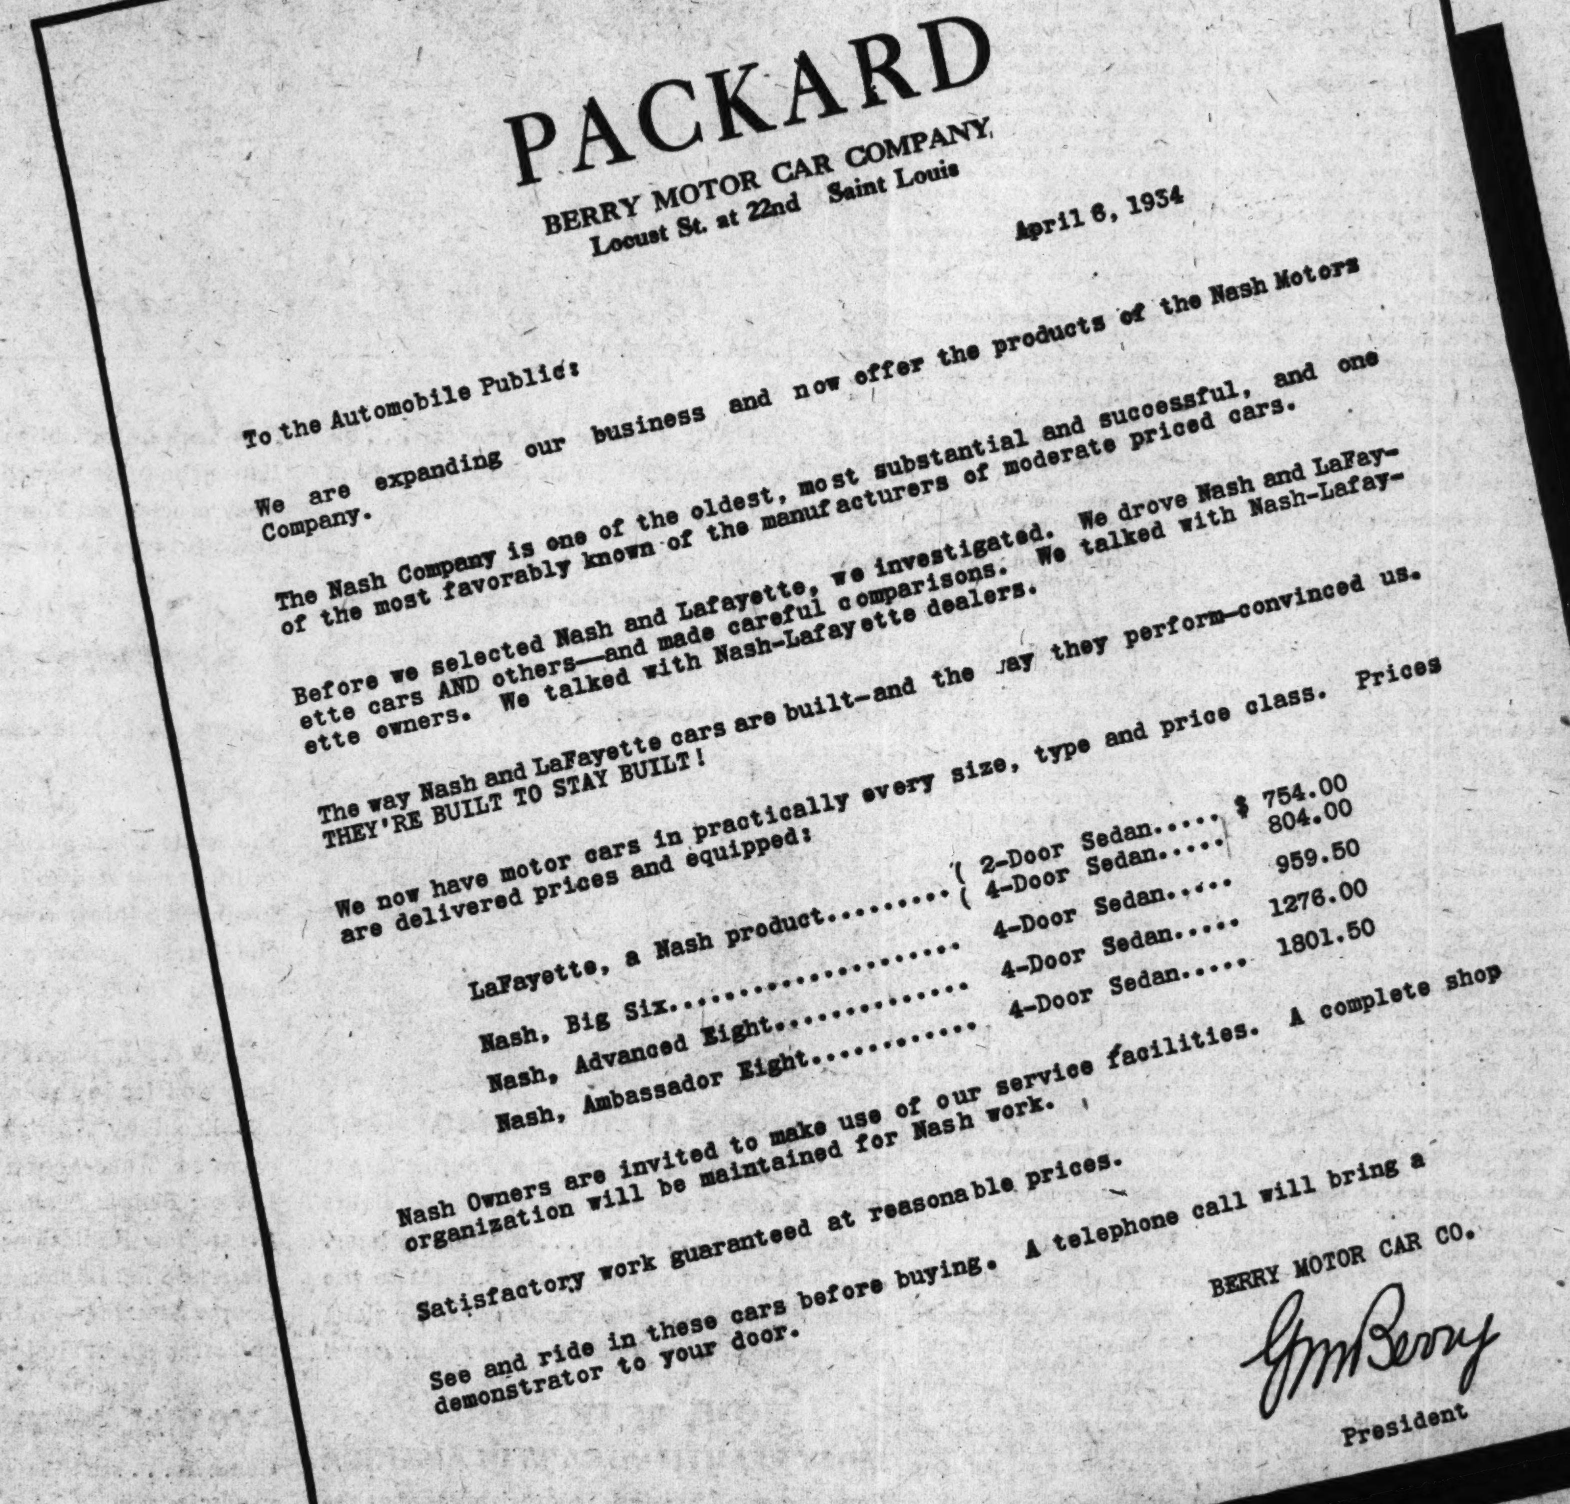
NASH AND LaFAYETTE



PACKARD
BERRY MOTOR CAR COMPANY
Locust St. at 22nd Saint Louis

April 6, 1934

To the Automobile Public:

We are expanding our business and now offer the products of the Nash Motors Company.

The Nash Company is one of the oldest, most substantial and successful, and one of the most favorably known of the manufacturers of moderate priced cars.

Before we selected Nash and Lafayette, we investigated. We drove Nash and LaFayette cars AND others—and made careful comparisons. We talked with Nash-Lafayette owners. We talked with Nash-Lafayette dealers.

The way Nash and LaFayette cars are built—and the way they perform—convinced us. THEY'RE BUILT TO STAY BUILT!

We now have motor cars in practically every size, type and price class. Prices are delivered prices and equipped:

LaFayette, a Nash product.........	(2-Door Sedan.....	$ 754.00
	(4-Door Sedan.....	804.00
Nash, Big Six.................	4-Door Sedan.....	959.50
Nash, Advanced Eight............	4-Door Sedan.....	1276.00
Nash, Ambassador Eight...........	4-Door Sedan.....	1801.50

Nash Owners are invited to make use of our service facilities. A complete shop organization will be maintained for Nash work.

Satisfactory work guaranteed at reasonable prices.

See and ride in these cars before buying. A telephone call will bring a demonstrator to your door.

GmBerry
President

IT is very gratifying to announce that the Berry Motor Car Company, distributors for Packard in St. Louis, have now, in addition, undertaken the sale of Nash and LaFayette cars, as associate dealers under the leadership of the Mississippi Valley Motor Company. To the merchandising of one quality line of motor cars they have thus brought another, which broadens their field and can be sold with the same assurance of fine performance and continuous satisfaction.

THE NASH MOTORS COMPANY

WE join with The Nash Motors Company in extending a hearty welcome to the Berry Motor Car Company which is assuming associate-representation for the Nash and Nash-built LaFayette in this important sales area. It is a sincere compliment when such an outstanding company is attracted to the Nash bann and to collaboration with us in the representation of Nash produ

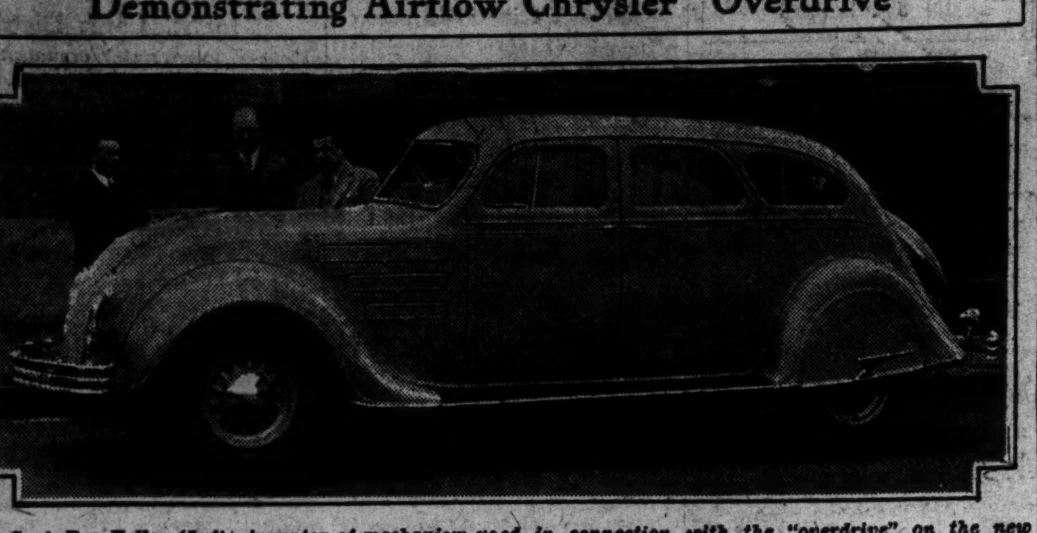
Demonstrating Airflow Chrysler "Overdrive"



Capt. Rex Keller (Left), inventor of mechanism used in connection with the "overdrive" on the new Airflow Chrysler cars; William Newman (Center), salesmanager of L. M. Stewart, Inc., and J. F. Wood, service manager for L. M. Stewart, Inc., and the first production Airflow Chrysler Imperial. Capt. Keller brought the car here Thursday to demonstrate the "overdrive" on a trip to Denver and the Pacific Coast. The "overdrive" reduces the number of engine revolutions per minute required to drive the car and automatically goes into effect at 40 miles per hour.

Chrysler 'Overdrive' Increases Car Speed Per Engine Revolutions

Automatic Engagement at 40 MPH—Device Demonstrated On Test Trip Here.

Capt. Rex Keller of Beverly Hills, Cal., was in St. Louis Wednesday with the first production Airflow Chrysler Imperial Eight car. He departed the same afternoon for Denver and the Pacific Coast after a trip to Alton with newspaper men.

Capt. Keller, who is an inventor of transmission mechanism, was especially interested in showing newspaper men how the "over drive" on Airflow Chrysler cars works, and how it saves gasoline and engine wear as well as makes for greater smoothness of performance at high speeds. The "over drive," he said, saves 11 to 18 per cent on gasoline, gives 40 per cent more car mileage with any given number of engine revolutions, and saves as high as 50 per cent of oil consumption.

Engagement of the "over drive" takes place automatically when a speed of 40 miles per hour is reached, which means that it is in use most of the time when touring. When it is in use it reduced the number of engine revolutions 30 per cent.

75 MPH in "Second."

At 75 miles an hour, one is hardly conscious that the engine is running. It is more as if the car were being towed with the clutch disengaged.

With the over drive, it is possible to do better than 75 miles an hour in second speed in the Imperial, and to do it so quietly that passengers do not know whether it is in second or high. One can "jump" another car so fast that even one going 60 miles an hour seems to be slow.

"The over drive serves either to attain a desired speed with 30 per cent fewer engine revolutions than in conventional drive, or greatly to increase the speed possible with maximum engine horsepower. The Chrysler will do 100 miles an hour with the over drive.

At 70 miles an hour in conventional drive it requires 45 horsepower to turn the engine over, or to overcome engine friction. With the over drive it requires only 25 horsepower. Engine friction obviously means power wasted and wear, so this saving is translated into terms of longer life as well as fuel and oil economy.

Reduces Engine Wear.

At 70 miles an hour, the loads on pistons, pins and road bearings are reduced 63 per cent by use of the over drive, another factor in long life. Oil consumption at speeds of 50 miles and upwards is only one-half to one-quarter with the over drive what it is in conventional driving.

At any speed from 40 miles up, the overdrive permits a car to travel 1400 miles on the same number of engine revolutions that would be required to carry it 1000 miles in conventional drive.

The over drive unit embodies a series of helically-cut internal gears, and it is incorporated with the free wheeling unit to form a compact assembly. It makes possible the distribution of the driving loads over a large number of gear contacts, so that each gear carries a relatively small proportion of the load carried by the transmission.

The over drive unit is standard equipment on the Airflow Imperial and Airflow Custom Imperial and is optional at a slight extra cost on the Airflow Eight.

Capt. Keller is the inventor of mechanism used in connection with the "over drive."

"Thinking Cap" for Motorists.

Engineers at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have invented an electrical "thinking machine" for use to record the thought and muscular responses of an automobile driver when called upon to stop his car in an emergency. The new instrument will be used in the Massachusetts highway accident survey now in progress. It is the intention of one branch of the study to devote considerable research in the factors which affect the driver's control of the car measuring the mental, muscular, mechanical and electrical processes called into play when a car is brought to a stop. Taxi and truck drivers, chauffeurs of private cars, and owner-drivers will be tested with the new instrument.

Safest Time to Drive.

According to insurance company statistics, automobile driving is safest on Tuesday mornings between 4 and 5 o'clock.

LA SALLE TO PACE INDIANAPOLIS RACE

"BIG BOY" WILLARD RADER

RACING driver of a decade ago, who has been selected to drive the 1934 La Salle roadster that will lead the field of 33 racing cars for the start of the 500-mile Indianapolis race on Memorial day. Rader for several years has been on the experimental staff of the Cadillac Motor Car Co. This will be the second time a La Salle car has started the racers off at Indianapolis. Rader is said to have driven more miles on the Indianapolis track, in races, tests and experimental runs, than any other man.

Studebaker Adds Berline Limousine Of Luxurious Type

A new "berline limousine, mounted on a President chassis, has been added by Studebaker, according to Arthur R. Lindburg, Inc., local Studebaker distributer.

This new model is a distinguished limousine with enclosed driving compartment for the chauffeur. While designed primarily for those who use chauffeurs, it becomes a sedan simply and quickly. It is only necessary to roll down the clear glass window that separates the front and rear compartments. This window rolls all the way down, completely out of the way, giving free companionship to occupants of both seats. On the other hand, this window, when raised, gives the roomy and luxurious rear compartment a delightful intimacy, yet affords unobstructed vision.

The rear compartment upholstery is of a rich new fabric developed for automobile interiors. Seats are form-fitting, wide and deep. Springs are of the Marshall type, which means that each coil is individually wrapped. Fitments are chromium plated, including assist cords, dome light, foot hassocks, robe rail and silken curtains.

The exterior design of the car follows the Studebaker "skyway" style. Radiator, fenders, windshield and rear sections have been aerodynamically streamlined to reduce wind resistance.

Ventilating System Has Novel Points on De Luxe Plymouth

The ventilating system of the new De Luxe Plymouth is said to have several innovations.

The front side window ventilators on the De Luxe Plymouth are especially interesting. The side windows are split by a chromium center post. The rear half of the window can be lowered separately or by tripping a small lever at the base of the center post, and the entire window, including the swinging ventilators, can be lowered completely into the door.

The swinging vents, when up, can be adjusted to any position to control the entrance of air into the car.

In the De Luxe Plymouth sedans there is also a swinging type of rear quarter window by which the rear of the car can be separately ventilated. The control for this ventilator is located above the window, where it is accessible, but does not interfere with the passengers.

In both the Plymouth six and the De Luxe models, there is a cowl ventilator, and also a novel "coil wind" windshield control. At a convenient place above the instrument panel, there is a handle which, in a few turns, opens the front windshield outward, through a special "coil wind" steel tape.

American Cars Costly in Italy.

A light four-cylinder American car, selling in the United States for around $450, costs more than $2500 in Italy at the present rate of exchange. The price of a light eight-cylinder American car in the states is under $600, but is $3000 in Italy.

Vesper Reports Auto Code Working To Dealers' Benefit

President of N. A. D. A. Returns to St. Louis From Trip Through West.

F. W. A. Vesper, president of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, has just returned to St. Louis from a trip covering practically all the western section of the United States. His itinerary included Denver, Portland, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, El Paso and Fort Worth. In each of these cities he addressed leading business groups, code executives and sales organizations.

"Following six months of code operation, automobile retailers everywhere report a marked improvement in every phase of their activities," Vesper says. On my recent trip I contacted hundreds of automobile dealers and leaders of other business groups. It was gratifying to learn from individual dealers and state and local code executives that the operation of our code has proved a boon to the industry. The country is looking to the automobile industry to lead the way out of the business doldrums of the past several years. Recovery is definitely on the way and our trade is loyally doing its part in a determined effort to increase wages and employment.

Dealers who said six months ago, "It can't be done," are enthusiastic over the results of code operation. A new spirit of confidence is showing itself in increased sales effort. New car sales are showing heavy gains over a year ago and this together with the elimination of wild trading on used cars has already shown dealers that with careful operation of their businesses, the red ink era is on the wane and 1934 should again permit them to earn a fair return on capital investment.

Our code was one of the first approved by the President. It is one of the most extensive in its application to the country at large.

The prime objective of all code operations is to increase employment and raise wages. It is safe to say that the auto code has resulted in a 20 per cent increase in employment in the retail end of the business. But of far greater importance is the indirect benefits that have come in the manufacturing field. Automobile factories today are far busier than they have been in years, employing thousands of additional men at increased wages. The same is true with factory suppliers.

The elimination of price-cutting, restrictions on sales of demonstrators as new cars, the ban on bootlegging, the requirement that speedometers must be connected when a new car leaves the factory, have contributed to the public welfare, and at the same time proved a boon to the responsible automobile merchant in the community.

More De Luxe Ford Cars Than Standard Models Are Ordered

Definite indications that the public has more ready money, is spending more freely and demanding "something just a little better" is seen in an analysis of sales of Ford cars in March, it was stated today at the head offices of the Ford Motor Co.

This analysis showed that 60 per cent of all Ford cars ordered in March were of the de luxe type, only 40 per cent of the orders calling for the standard types, the statement said. The ratio is in contrast with 1933 when the percentage of de luxe cars was only 44 per cent.

Since the first of the year the ratio of de luxe to standard cars has been rising steadily, according to the study of Ford factory orders. In January the sale of de luxe types was 55 per cent of the total. In February, the percentage of de luxe cars had grown to 56 per cent. Orders in March call for 60 per cent, and advance requirements for April are 70 per cent de luxe types.

As the list prices of the de luxe cars are $40 higher than those of the standard types this symptom is taken to indicate that the public is spending in greater volume than last year so far as new motor cars are concerned, and is also purchasing something beyond bare transportation requirements.

The differential between the list prices of the Ford standard and de luxe types covers the additional equipment on the de luxe types, including safety glass not only in the windshield but also in all doors and windows, as well as dual horns, tail-lights and sun visors, and other de luxe fittings.

ST. LOUIS CONVENTION BUREAU TO OBSERVE 25TH YEAR

Past Presidents Will Be Guests of Honor at Luncheon Tomorrow.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the St. Louis Convention, Publicity and Tourist Bureau will be celebrated at noon tomorrow with a luncheon at Hotel Statler.

Lon Sanders, president; Lyman T. Hay, Isaac Hedges, Clarence King and Carl F. G. Meyer, past presidents, and Cyrus Crane Willmore, chairman of the funds committee, will be guests of honor. Hay, the first president, will tell of the early efforts to advertise St. Louis as a convention city which resulted in 12 conventions coming here the first year the bureau functioned. Charles Hatfield, secretary-manager, has been with the organization 18 years.

W. C. T. U. Lecture Today.

Mrs. Adah Hagler of Chicago, a national W. C. T. U. lecturer, will speak on "Christian Citizenship" under the auspices of the St. Louis W. C. T. U. Federation at 2:30 p. m., today at the Second Baptist Church, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard. The meeting is open to the public.

MEADOWBROOK CLUB OPENING

Public Operation Will Be Resumed May 25.

Meadowbrook Golf and Country Club will resume public operation of its summer night club May 25, the owner, William Berberich, has announced. For the opening two weeks music will be furnished by Harry Susnick's orchestra. Thereafter music is to be provided by the orchestras of Herbie Kay, Art Castle, Johnny Hamp, Frankie Masters and Johnny Johnson.

For the country club a swimming pool, a double tennis court with asphalt surface and a playground for children are under construction for use next month. Workmen have been engaged in putting the greens and tees of the golf course in good condition.

CHAUFFEUR DIES OF POISON

Raymond L. Grady, 33 years old, died early yesterday at City Hospital of poison, which he took Friday night at the home of his brother, Clarence, 4442 Forest Park avenue.

He was found unconscious in the bathroom and died without making a statement. Relatives expressed the belief that he swallowed the poison by mistake. Grady resided at 5144 Wells avenue with his wife, Agnes, who had accompanied him to his brother's home.

Professional Photographers Meet.

The Professional Photographers' Association of Greater St. Louis will meet at the Old Courthouse, Broadway and Market street, Tuesday evening. Dr. Edmund H. Wuerpel, director of Washington University Art School, will speak on "Lights and Shades."

BOY SCOUT EXHIBIT AT NEW AUDITORIUM

1000 Youths to Take Part in Demonstrations Beginning Next Saturday.

The St. Louis Council of Boy Scouts will have an exhibit of scoutcraft and scouts in action at the new Municipal Auditorium during the two weeks' dedication exercises. The exhibit will open Saturday on the main floor of the arena part of the auditorium.

More than 1000 scouts will participate in the exhibit, giving demonstrations every night from 7 to 10 o'clock. On Saturdays and Sundays there will be demonstrations from 2 to 5 p. m. as well.

The display, under direction of Harry A. Frank, chairman of the Activities Committee, and Harry Noe, field commissioner of the North District, will be a miniature Merit Badge Show, which is held every fall. Scouts will show how they camp, cook and build trails; how they make useful objects out of tin cans and old boxes; how they apply first aid, and all the other activities in which they participate.

An Outdoor Scene.

The main part of the show will be an outdoor bower scene in which scouts will show how they camp and cook and do pioneer work. They will prepare hunter's stew and biscuits, build lean-to shacks and make perilous trails. The camping scene will be under the direction of Louis Sherwood, scoutmaster of Troop 46. Besides his troop, the following others will participate: 30, 71, 48 and 242.

Dr. Forest H. Staley, scoutmaster of Troop 98, will be in charge of the nature exhibit, in which scouts will show what they know of leaves, flowers, minerals, birds, beasts and reptiles. Scouts of Troops 98, 2 and Webster Groves Troops 8 and 2 will do the work.

There will be a series of Indian dances, always a favorite with the scouts, and demonstrations of Indian lore and customs, under the direction of Lou Leverington, field commissioner of the Central District.

Troops in Crafts Exhibits.

All of the crafts will be under the supervision of L. John Lewis, scoutmaster of Troop 198. The following troops will participate: beadwork, 180; tin can, 198; bird houses, 2; basketry, 250; woodcarving, 199; leathercraft, 191; stencilcraft, 207, and patrol projects, 53.

In addition there will be a raised platform on which scouts from various troops will demonstrate first aid, signaling and building fire without matches. The Cubs, too, will have a small section and Sea Scouts will be ushers and guides.

Troop Notes

Scouts Ralph Hudson, Clifford Yarbrough, James Martin and Harold Hausemann of Troop 243 passed the second class scout tests at the March board of review.

Scouts of Troop 74, Sherman School, are saving coupons given away by neighborhood merchants to buy tents for their troop. The troop attended the Western A. A. U. boxing matches at the Arena recently.

Scoutmaster J. Ross Blackford of Webster Groves Troop 7 received the Scoutmasters' Key at the troop's annual parents' night and court of honor recently. He is the thirty-first scoutmaster in the council to win the key. Scout Garrett Allen received the Eagle award and Jack Hodson and Bob Donald got Star awards. Thirty-five merit badges were given to 18 scouts. The Beaver Patrol, led by Owen Thompson, was named the honor patrol and William S. Parks Jr., was named Honor Scout and given a medal which must be won yearly. Troop 7 meets at Webster Groves Presbyterian Church.

Troops 282 and 52 will hold a combined court of honor at Woodward School Fridy, April 13. All are invited. Boys will entertain.

Troop 234 held its annual banquet recently in the auditorium of Messiah Lutheran Church, Grand boulevard and Pestalozzi street. The troop presented a statue of a boy scout to Scoutmaster Kort Pfabe's father, designated the "most valuable father of the troop." The principal speech at the dinner was made by the Rev. W. Wilk, pastor of the church.

Albert and Charles Kozart of Troop 3, Grace Church, have passed all tenderfoot requirements, and Norman Holmes has passed five tenderfoot requirements. Dan Earl Dolan has passed three first-class tests.

A card and bunco party will be given Thursday at 2 p. m. in Stix, Baer & Fuller's dining room by the Mothers' Club of Troop 122.

Cub Pack 49, which meets at Dewey School, observed its first anniversary at a meeting at the school Thursday night. The guest of honor was Chief Eagle Plume, a member of the Navajo Indian tribe.

BOY HIT BY HUCKSTER'S TRUCK

Hurt in Alley Back of Home at 5945 Washington.

John Zeitch, 9 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Zeitch, 5945 Washington boulevard, suffered fractures of both legs when struck by a huckster's truck in the alley back of his home yesterday afternoon.

The driver, Steve Wilson, 2121 Maury avenue, said he did not see the boy in time.

"WHEAT STANDARD" VS. "RICE STANDARD"

German Warns White Race Against Buying in Cheapest Market.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 7.—Two groups, those under the rice standard and those under the wheat standard, are fighting for supremacy in the world, says Hans Ernst Winter in a newspaper article published here today. Winter is the right-hand man of Walter Darre, Minister of Agriculture, in the negotiation of agricultural agreements.

Winter declared the liberalistic principle that one should buy where one could buy most cheaply is all wrong.

"This doctrine," he asserted, "has brought about a situation wherein it arbitrarily determines production.

"The result of this position is that countries with low living standards, after purloining all they can from their European and Anglo-Saxon masters, are now threatening Europe and in the wider sense white civilization with economic ruin."

In other words, he contended, if the nations insist on buying from some countries which are "on the rice standard" merely because the price is cheap, they are digging their own graves economically.

"There is but one solution," he said, "namely, an improvement in the standard of living, which means improving the wheat standard and the unequivocal rejection of the rice standard."

He thinks the peasants of France and Germany provide the best starting point for a general raising of the standard of living in Europe.

"It is equally certain that the task of the United States and Great Britain consists of defending abroad the position of the white man, the wheat standard, the European standard of living and European culture," he declared.

Found Dead After Shouting "Fire."

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 7.—Neighbors saw a man lean out of an apartment window in Bloomsbury today. He shouted, "fire!" They rushed into the smoke-filled room and found him dead. He had been shot. The man was Edward Stanley Browne, brother of Maurice Browne, who produced the stage version of "Journey's End."

COTTON MARKET QUIET, NARROW, IRREGULAR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 7. — The cotton market was quiet today and prices moved irregularly within a range of 5 to 8 points. July contracts after selling off to 12.13 during the early trading rallied to 12.18 on some trade buying and covering, but lost most of the improvement, closing at 12.14. The general market closed steady net 4 points lower to 2 points higher with the near months relatively easy. Near months were again relatively steady at the opening on trade buying or covering, but there seemed to be more May for sale after the call, and the price of that delivery eased off from 12.08 to 12.04 during the early trading. Later it rallied to 12.09 on a spurt of trade buying and covering, but failed to hold the advance, and closed at 12.05 or 4 points net lower.

Later months, meanwhile, held fairly steady with October selling up from 12.24 to 12.30 or 2 points net higher and closing at 12.28.

Liverpool cables reported that there had been some further hedging of outside growths in that market this morning but said that offerings from Bombay were smaller. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 80,209 bales against 91,106 last year.

Spot steady; middling 12.25.

New Orleans Spot Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, April 7.—Spot cotton closed steady and unchanged. Sales 457; low middling 11.58; middling 12.23; good middling 12.68; receipts 1461; stock 699,-531.

MEMPHIS SPOT COTTON

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 7.—Spot cotton had a steady tone. Middling closed at 11.90c, compared with 11.95c yesterday. Sales amounted to 5174 bales.

STEEL PRICE ADJUSTMENTS

NEW YORK, April 7.—Advances in quotations on semi-finished and finished steel products as applied to base points other than those announced in the increases reported a week ago were today filed with the American Iron & Steel Institute. The revisions covering numerous materials run from $1 to $8 a ton, which is the range of the advances previously announced.

Additional products on which advanced schedules were filed with the institute today include merchant bars rail steel, ingots, uncropped forging quality; steel sheet piling and structural shapes, in each of these products the rise was $3 a ton.

Three grades of hacksaw sheet steel have been advanced ½ cent a pound, restoring the price schedule in effect two months ago.

WIZARD grows Better Lawns Finer Flowers

Wizard Sheep Manure is a safe, natural plant food, highly concentrated and absolutely weedless. Will not burn lawns and plants. Wizard supplies humus and all elements needed to make plants thrive. Experts advise the use of manure because it permanently improves the soil. Wizard is surprisingly economical—One Bag Equals a Whole Wagon Load of Stable Manure.

It will put new life and beauty into lawns and gardens. Avoid chemical stimulants and inferior substitutes—insist on Wizard by name where you buy your garden supplies.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Securities markets crept almost steadily higher this week, as legislative prospects were viewed more hopefully in Wall Street.

Trading was mostly quiet, and day to day price changes narrow, but the advance in the bond market was sufficient to boost averages for corporate issues above the March peak to a new high since 1931. Strength of stocks was less pronounced, and failed to move them out of the narrow trading range of the past month.

With business trends usually somewhat obscure at this time of year, speculators and investments in securities were still inclined to move cautiously.

The treasury's offer to exchange the 4¼ per cent fourth Liberties which have been called as of April 15, for new 10-12 year 3¼ per cent bonds, was favorably received, and helped to impart new strength to the bond market.

Wall Street sentiment brightened considerably as the week brought fgresh indications from Washington of willingness to revise the Stock Exchange regulation measure to remove any deflationary effects. With the huge amount of bank funds still pressing for high-grade investment, the investment banking community was hopeful that with the plans also afoot to clarify the securities act of 1933, new corporate financing would emerge from the doldrums within a few months.

Commodity markets generally held about steady, failing to develop even the modest strength of securities. This was not true of silver, however, which moved up ⅜ of a cent an ounce, reflecting news of fresh determination on the part of silverites in Congress. Standard Statistics Co.'s index of both non-speculative and speculative staples was unchanged for the week at 69.2 per cent of the 1926 average.

Sterling Is Strong.

A slight rise in some of the direct purchase items, reflecting chiefly the advances in iron and steel, was offset by a slight decline in the composite for the futures markets. Copper was firm, rising ¼ of a cent a pound to 8¾ cents, in expectation of early acceptance of the long delayed NRA code for this industry.

Foreign exchange dealings were marked by continued strength of the British pound sterling, both against the dollar and the French franc. This was believed to be due chiefly to a further flight of capital from the European gold standard countries to London. The weekly statement of the Bank of France showed another small gain in gold, but this evidently reflected a movement of metal from Switzerland to support the Swiss franc.

While industrial trends have shown some tendency to flatten out, as is expected at this season, automobile manufacturing has expanded further, and the boosting of steel prices brought a flurry of new contracting under the old schedules.

Washington administration quarters are rapidly developing new plans to spur the durable goods industries, to keep recover, in progress during the usual mid-year lull period. The heavy excess reserves of the banks which are pressing for investment has inspired hopes that private sources, given the proper impetus, will carry an increasing part of the burden of financing recovery.

Week-end Changes Small.

The sightseeing Congressmen who spent half an hour in the Stock Exchange visitors' gallery at week-end session saw a quiet, routine market. Final changes for stocks, mostly of the fractional variety, averaged into a small net loss, while transactions, amounting to only 549,020 shares, represented the smallest Saturday business in three months.

Wall street went home for the week-end without learning what the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee had decided with regard to redrafting the regulation bill, but it later developed that most of this work had been put over to next week. Washington dispatches, at the same time, expressed a general opinion that modifications were coming, especially with respect to the margin provisions.

Bonds were quiet also, although their advance, which featured the week's security dealings, made another new high on the basis of the closing composite. Commodities fluctuated narrowly, except for rye, which extended its recent gains.

A few stocks escaped from the narrow groove which bounded movements of the usual leaders. American Telephone ran into some selling, presumably a reflection of the Splawn report's recommendation of a thorough inquiry into communication company affairs; at the worst it was off a point and a half. Allied Chemical sagged 2. Otherwise the larger changes were mostly made by inactives.

Shares of the railway companies were quiet though firm. Light and power issues accomplished little.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅛ cent a bushel higher. Corn was up ⅛ to ½ and oats firmed ⅛ to ⅜. Rye held gains of 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents and barley advanced ¼ to ⅜ of a cent. At Winnipeg wheat was unchanged to off ⅛ of a cent a bushel. Cotton finished 20 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher. Bar silver was advanced ⅛ of a cent an ounce to 46¼ cents.

Sterling showed a net advance of 1⅛ cents at 5.18, but French francs were unchanged to 6.60 cents. The Dutch guilders rallied .03 of a cent at 67.73 cents. Belgian belgas were up .01 of a cent at 23.40 cents and Swiss francs were unchanged at 32.23 cents. Canadian dollars advanced 1-32 of a cent at 100.09⅜ cents.

Closing price and net change of the 10 most active stocks: Loew's 33¼, down ¼; Nat. Distillers 29½, up ½; Schenley Distillers 38¼, up ¼; Armour Ill. A 7¼, up ⅛; Paramount ctfs. 5½, unchanged; Anaconda 16½, down ¼; Montgomery Ward 32, unchanged; Noranda Mines 44⅝, up 1⅝; United Aircraft 22¾, down ¼; Mengel 10⅜, up ⅜.

GOLD SHARES ONLY BRIGHT SPOT ON CURB MARKET

Exchange Requests Data on Several Issues.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 7.—A mild demand for gold mining shares provided the lone feature in the curb trading today. Other parts of the list were dull and changes extremely narrow.

Leading oils including Gulf and Humble Oil sclosed virtually unchanged.

Hollinger Gold and Hudson Bay Mining advanced a point or so each, while fractional improvement was shown by Lake Shore and Wright Hargreaves. Newmont yielded slightly.

In respect to recent activity in some of the low-priced stocks, the curb exchange has sent a questionnaire to members requesting details of transactions in the common and "A" stock of the Arkansas Natural Gas Corporation, the common stock of National Service Cos. and shares of the New Mexico & Arizona Land Co.

DULUTH, April 7.—Flax, on track, $1.75. May, $1.75; July, $1.77.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Raw sugar was barely steady today following a further decline of two points late yesterday to the basis of 2.83 for nearby duty frees. Sales reported at that basis included 31,500 bags Philippines for April arrival, while 18,000 bags Philippines in a forward shipment position sold to an outport refiner at 2.85. There were further offers at 2.83 for prompt duty frees with buyers reported at 2.80.

Futures opened off two to four points and after easing a point or so further under Cuban hedging and liquidation, recovered partially. The easier tone in the early market was attributed to declines at London and overnight word of the further easiness in raw sugar. May liquidation continued, but after that month had sold off from 1.39 to 1.37, it rallied to 1.40 and closed at that figure. New buying through trade commission houses was noted at the decline, and with contracts relatively scarce during the second hour, there was some local rebuying or covering. December sold up from 1.55 to 1.57. The market closed at the best for the day, but still one to three points net lower. Sales totaled 19,250 tons.

Refined remained quiet at the unchanged list price of 4.50 for fine granulated, but with increasing quantities of resale offerings appearing at 4.30 to 4.35 for which demand was limited.

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 7.—Egg futures sold lower after an unchanged opening. Two cars changed hands:

WHEAT RULES QUIET ON THE LOCAL BOARD

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 7.—Wheat futures failed to move today, the only sales of both May and July being at previous day's level. The sharp rise in rye was reflected in wheat prices at Chicago.

Liverpool closed unchanged after up at start and ⅛c net better early.

Winnipeg closed unchanged to ⅛c net lower.

May wheat opened at 84c and July wheat 84¼c, both unchanged.

Local wheat receipts, which were 16,500 bushels, compared with 69,000 last week (2 days) and 30,500 last year, included 5 cars local and 6 through. Corn receipts, which were 27,000 bushels, compared with 75,000 last week (2 days) and 70,500 last year, included 5 cars local and 13 through. Oats receipts, which were 22,000 bushels, compared with 20,000 last week (2 days) and 24,000 last year, included 3 cars local and 3 through. Hay receipts were 4 cars local.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market Saturday soft wheat was steady. Hard wheat was nominally unchanged. There was a slightly better feeling in the market for soft wheat. Quality of offerings improved a little. Elevators were the best buyers. Hard wheat was in light supply and there was no particular inquiry reported. Corn was ½c higher. Supply was rather light, but the demand was only fair. Oats were ¼@½c higher. Receipts totaled eight cars and the demand was good for choice qualities. There was some inquiry for low grades.

Wheat was steady; corn ½c higher and oats ¼c higher.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange today were as follows:

Wheat: No. 2 red winter wheat 87¼@87½c; No. 3 red winter wheat 87⅜c; No. 2 red garlicky wheat 84c; No. 3 red garlicky wheat 83c.

Corn: No. 2 yellow corn 48½c; No. 2 white corn 51½c.

Oats: No. 2 white oats 35¼@35½c; No. 3 white oats 34¾c.

RYE UP 5 CENTS FROM PREVIOUS DAY'S LOW

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Fireworks in the rye market today gave quotations for that grain an upward whirl to almost 5 cents a bushel higher than yesterday's bottom figures.

The apex today for rye values followed orders from Washington that seven shipments of rye from Poland be shut out from landing in the United States pending investigation to determine whether the grain was subject to added duties under the anti-dumping clause of the United States Tariff Act. Further impetus to rye market upturns came from private estimate that the condition of the 1934 domestic crop of rye is only 65.1, breaking the low point record.

Rye closed unsettled at a fraction under the top prices reached but 1⅛@1⅜ above yesterday's finish; wheat unchanged to ⅛c higher; corn ⅛@½c up; oats, ⅛@⅜c advanced, and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

A maximum gain of exactly 2 cents a bushel today was scored for rye, with the effect however not confined to that cereal but helping to turn all grains from early weakness to comparative strength. The recent influx of foreign rye into the United States was halted for at least the time being by the orders from Washington. It is charged in one quarter that to a great extent the influx has been due to subsidies which alien Governments, Poland in particular, has paid to shippers bringing rye to this country at prices below the production cost of American rye.

If an additional duty is imposed on rye by instructions from Washington, the cost of foreign rye delivered in Chicago would apparently leave little or no margin of profit to shippers from across the Atlantic. Bulls urged that in any event the domestic price of rye has been relatively too cheap considering the low condition of the United States 1934 crops. This condition, unofficially estimated today at 65.1, is much at variance with 72.5 last year, and a 10-year average of 83.3.

Upturns of wheat prices in response to strength of rye were a good deal hindered because of some selling of wheat at Kansas City to be delivered in Chicago. Something of an offset, however, to Kansas City sales of wheat to come here was prospective silver legislation at Washington.

Better shipping demand for corn helped impart firmness to corn and oats.

Provisions were steadied by upturns of grains.

MISSOURI PORTLAND CEMENT WOULD LOWER CAPITALIZATION

Reduction of $1,500,000 Proposed to Stockholders; Annual Meeting in June.

Stockholders of Missouri Portland Cement Co. have been advised of a plan to reduce its authorized capitalization from $9,000,000 to $7,500,000. This is to be accomplished by canceling 60,000 shares paid up in 1925 by an appropriation of $1,500,000 from surplus, and transferring the $1,500,000 credit back to surplus from the appropriated surplus account.

The company would then have 300,000 shares of the same par value as at present, $25.

The plan will be presented to stockholders for their approval at the annual meeting June 12. Fifteen directors are to be elected at that time.

DIVIDEND MEETING RESULTS

NEW YORK, April 7.—American Cement Co. of Alleghany County today declared a dividend of 50 cents, payable May 1 to stock of record April 10. On Feb. 3 a dividend of $1 was paid prior to which no disbursements had been made since Jan. 3, 1933, when $1 was also paid.

YE UP 5 CENTS FROM PREVIOUS DAY'S LOW

y the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Fireworks in the ye market today gave quotations for that rain an upward whirl to almost 5 cents bushel higher than yesterday's bottom igures.

The apex today for rye values followed rders from Washington that seven ship- ents of rye from Poland be shut out rom landing in the United States pending nvestigation to determine whether the grain was subject to added duties under the anti- umping clause of the United States Tariff Act. Further impetus to rye market up- urns came from private estimate that the ondition of the 1934 domestic crop of rye only 65.1, breaking the low point rec- rd.

Rye closed unsettled at a fraction under he top prices reached but 1⅛@1⅜ above esterday's finish; wheat unchanged to ½c igher; corn ⅛@½c up; oats, ⅛@¼c advanced, and provisions varying from 20 ents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

A maximum gain of exactly 2 cents a bushel today was scored for rye, with the effect however not confined to that cereal but helping to turn all grains from early weakness to comparative strength. The recent influx of foreign rye into the United States was halted for at least the time be- ing by the orders from Washington. It is charged in one quarter that to a great ex- tent the influx has been due to subsidies which alien Governments, Poland in par- ticular, has paid to shippers bringing rye to this country at prices below the produc- tion cost of American rye.

If an additional duty is imposed on rye y instructions from Washington, the cost of foreign rye delivered in Chicago would apparently leave little or no margin of profit to shippers from across the Atlantic. Bulls urged that in any event the domestic price of rye has been relatively too cheap considering the low condition of the United States 1934 crops. This condition, unoffi- cially estimated today at 65.1, is much at variance with 72.5 last year, and a 10- year average of 83.3.

Upturns of wheat prices in response to strength of rye were a good deal hindered because of some selling of wheat at Kan- sas City to be delivered in Chicago. Some- thing of an offset, however, to Kansas City sales of wheat to come here was prospective silver legislation at Washing- ton.

Better shipping demand for corn helped impart firmness to corn and oats.

Provisions were steadied by upturns of grains.

MISSOURI PORTLAND CEMENT WOULD LOWER CAPITALIZATION

Reduction of $1,500,000 Proposed to Stockholders; Annual Meeting in June.

Stockholders of Missouri Portland Cement Co. have been advised of a plan to reduce its authorized capitalization from $9,000,000 to $7,500,000. This is to be accomplished by canceling 60,000 shares paid up in 1925 by an appropriation of $1,500,000 from surplus, and transfering the $1,500,000 credit back to surplus from the appropriated surplus account.

The company would then have 300,000 shares of the same par value as at present, $25.

The plan will be presented to stockholders for their approval at the annual meeting June 12. Fifteen directors are to be elected at that time.

DIVIDEND MEETING RESULTS

Quotations on all United States Government bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99-24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Matured bonds.

LEAD, ZINC AND COPPER

Zinc was firm at $4.35@4.40 per 100 pounds in St. Louis today. Lead was nominally unchanged.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Tin steady; spot and nearby $54.70; future $53.87. Zinc firm; East St. Louis spot and future 4.35 @40. Other metals nominally unchanged.

"NEW HIGHS" MADE IN WEEK-END BOND TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Bonds continued to record "new highs" today although most advances were modest and trading relatively quiet.

The average for 60 domestic corporate issues held a net gain of two-tenths of a point at 86.3. On the week this average was up 1.4 points at another peak since 1931. Transfers totaled $8,174,000, par value.

U. S. Government securities displayed minor irregularities, but the turnover here amounted to only about $400,000. The called Liberty Fourth 4¼s were the most active at a decline of 2-32nds of a point. Liberty 3½s and the uncalled 4¼s were up as much. Most of the Treasury loans were a trifle easier.

Foreign obligations, on the other hand, developed strength with a number attaining new tops for the movement. Among the livelier of these, with advances of 1 to 2 or more points, were issues of Argentina, Berlin, Bordeaux City, Brazil, Japan, Lyons City, Lautaro Nitrate and some of the Rhine bonds.

There was little news of especial interest to the loans market. American Telephone issues were inclined to ignore the Splawn report which recommended that Congress appropriate $500,000 to $1,000,000 for an investigation of this corporation. Postal Telegraph 5s dropped 2⅞ points.

Heaviest trading occurred in Alleghany 5s of 1950, up 2¼ points; Anglo-Chilean Nitrate 7s, up 3½ and Northern Pacific 6s, up ¾.

Moderate advances were recorded by loans of Burlington, Chicago & Northwestern, Dodge Bros., Erie, Laclede Gas, Louisville & Nashville, McKesson, "Soo" Line, Montana Power, Nickel Plate, Norfolk & Western, Paramount, Pennsylvania, Frisco, Shell Union Oil, United Drug, Wabash and Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

Chicago Stock Market

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Total stock sales for the week on the Chicago Stock Exchange amounted to 229,000 shares, compared with 130,000 corresponding week last year. Bond sales were $6000 compared with $18,000 same period a year ago.

Following is a complete list of securities traded in today giving sales, high, low and closing prices. Stock sales in full. Bond sales (000) omitted:

NEW BILL SAVES $1,365,950 FOR TAX DELINQUENTS

enalties on Real Estate Levies for 1932 and Previously Are Set Aside by the Statute.

HOW IT WORKS; STATUTE CHANGED

ity Officials Differ on Whether to Expect a Noticeable Increase in Payments Due.

Property owners in St. Louis hose real estate and personal roperty taxes for 1932 and prior ears are delinquent are saved $1,-65,950 in penalties under a law assed by the recent special session f the Legislature, becoming effecive Thursday.

Delinquent real estate taxes for 932 and previously, running back 1914, amount to $6,353,973, while linquent personal property taxes or 1932 and earlier, dating back to 924, amount to $153,889—a total of 6,507,862 unpaid. The penalties iped out under the new law, in the ggregate, amount to 21 per cent f the principal due.

The law provides that unpaid axes for 1932, and theretofore, shall n payment, be subject to no more enalty than taxes delinquent for 933. It also limits the gross penlty on payment of delinquent taxes or 1933 and hereafter to 10 per cent year, including a charge of 2 per nt for making records and intert of 1 per cent a month beginning ith January.

The old law had the 2 per cent at charge plus interest of 1 per nt a month without limitation.

Official Opinion Differs.

A 1933 tax bill for $100, if paid is month, would carry, therefore, penalty of $6. The same penalty ould be charged on payment of a ll of the same size for any prior ar. Under the old rule, a 1932 tax ll of $100, if paid this month, ould have been subject to an $18 nalty, while one of the same size r 1930 would have been increased $42 and a bill of $100 for 1914 ould have carried a $234 penalty.

ome city officials believe there ll be a noticeable increase in the lume of delinquent taxes paid hen the new law takes effect. owever, George Neville, veteran shier of Collector Koeln's office, oubts that this will prove true. e believes that other laws, which ere in effect last year, remitting xes, gave opportunity for most operty owners who were able to so to pay delinquent bills. On e other hand, Neville points out at the city, State and schools will ffer a considerable loss of reve through the remission in the w law.

As far as city officials are inrmed now, the limitation of penties to the 1933 basis will be effece only on payments of delinquent ls made during 1934. They are doubt as to whether this privilege ll be available after this year. If should be held that it is a stand privilege, they understand it uld not apply in the future bills any year after 1932.

Penalties Remitted by Years.

For 1932 the Collector's books ow $5,682,217 in real estate and 4,084 in personal property taxes linquent, a total of $3,766,301. The nalties remitted on these bills, at per cent, amount to $451,956. nalties remitted for preceding rs are: 1931, $360,288; 1930, $253,- 1929, $146,740; 1928, $101,175; 7, $21,434; 1926, $11,627; 1925, 514; 1924, $6458. Remissions for ch of the earlier years amount to s than $1000.

The new law changes a provision a statute passed previously by regular session of the Legislare, relating to sale of tax bills real estate where taxes were dequent. The earlier law required e to be made 10 months after dequency, or on Nov. 1 annually. e new law gives the Collector option of selling any time been 10 months and five years. Collector Koeln in the city and llector Benson of St. Louis unty say they will wait five years fore selling out a property owner. us tax bills delinquent since 1929 l be sold next November, but bills linquent for 1933 would not be d until 1938 unless the Collectors' licy should be changed in the antime.

Terms of the new law are Statede in application.

NEW BILL SAVES $1,365,950 FOR TAX DELINQUENTS

Penalties on Real Estate Levies for 1932 and Previously Are Set Aside by the Statute.

HOW IT WORKS; STATUTE CHANGED

City Officials Differ on Whether to Expect a Noticeable Increase in Payments Due.

Property owners in St. Louis whose real estate and personal property taxes for 1932 and prior years are delinquent are saved $1,365,950 in penalties under a law passed by the recent special session of the Legislature, becoming effective Thursday.

Delinquent real estate taxes for 1932 and previously, running back to 1914, amount to $6,353,973, while delinquent personal property taxes for 1932 and earlier, dating back to 1924, amount to $153,889—a total of $6,507,862 unpaid. The penalties wiped out under the new law, in the aggregate, amount to 21 per cent of the principal due.

The law provides that unpaid taxes for 1932, and theretofore, shall on payment, be subject to no more penalty than taxes delinquent for 1933. It also limits the gross penalty on payment of delinquent taxes for 1933 and hereafter to 10 per cent a year, including a charge of 2 per cent for making records and interest of 1 per cent a month beginning with January.

The old law had the 2 per cent flat charge plus interest of 1 per cent a month without limitation.

Official Opinion Differs.

A 1933 tax bill for $100, if paid this month, would carry, therefore, a penalty of $6. The same penalty would be charged on payment of a bill of the same size for any prior year. Under the old rule, a 1932 tax bill of $100, if paid this month, would have been subject to an $18 penalty, while one of the same size for 1930 would have been increased by $42 and a bill of $100 for 1914 would have carried a $234 penalty.

Some city officials believe there will be a noticeable increase in the volume of delinquent taxes paid when the new law takes effect. However, George Neville, veteran cashier of Collector Koeln's office, doubts that this will prove true. He believes that other laws, which were in effect last year, remitting taxes, gave opportunity for most property owners who were able to do so to pay delinquent bills. On the other hand, Neville points out that the city, State and schools will suffer a considerable loss of revenue through the remission in the new law.

As far as city officials are informed now, the limitation of penalties to the 1933 basis will be effective only on payments of delinquent bills made during 1934. They are in doubt as to whether this privilege will be available after this year. If it should be held that it is a standing privilege, they understand it would not apply in the future bills of any year after 1932.

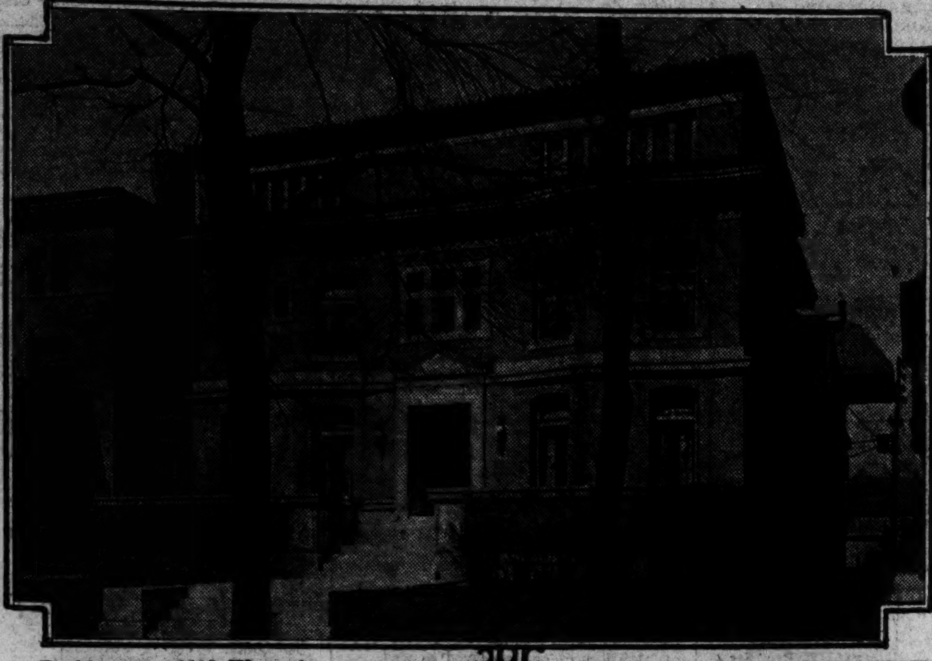
Penalties Remitted by Years.

For 1932 the Collector's books show $5,682,217 in real estate and $84,084 in personal property taxes delinquent, a total of $3,766,301. The penalties remitted on these bills, at 12 per cent, amount to $451,956. Penalties remitted for preceding years are: 1931, $360,288; 1930, $253,-; 1929, $146,740; 1928, $101,175; 1927, $21,434; 1926, $11,627; 1925, $514; 1924, $6458. Remissions for each of the earlier years amount to less than $1000.

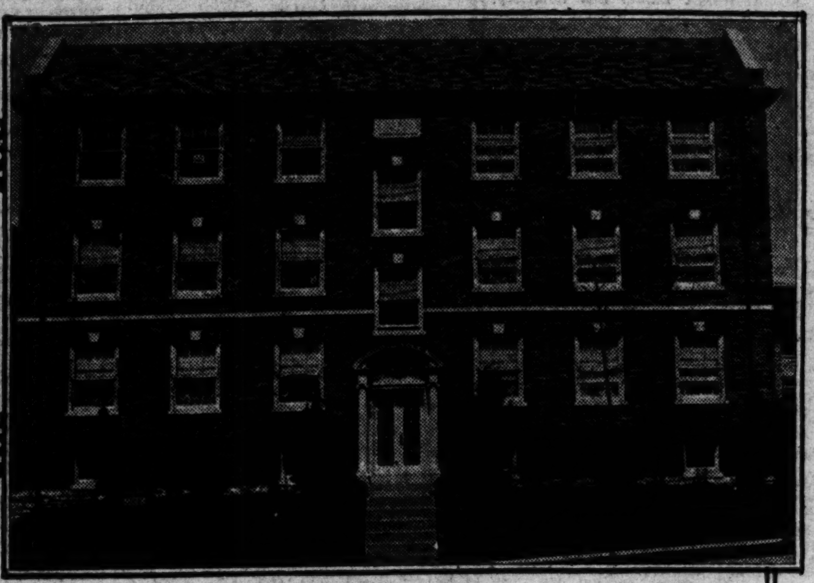
The new law changes a provision of a statute passed previously by the regular session of the Legislature, relating to sale of tax bills on real estate where taxes were delinquent. The earlier law required sale to be made 10 months after delinquency, or on Nov. 1 annually. The new law gives the Collector the option of selling any time between 10 months and five years. Collector Koeln in the city and Collector Benson of St. Louis County say they will wait five years before selling out a property owner. Thus tax bills delinquent since 1929 will be sold next November, but bills delinquent for 1933 would not be sold until 1938 unless the Collectors' policy should be changed in the meantime.

Terms of the new law are Statewide in application.

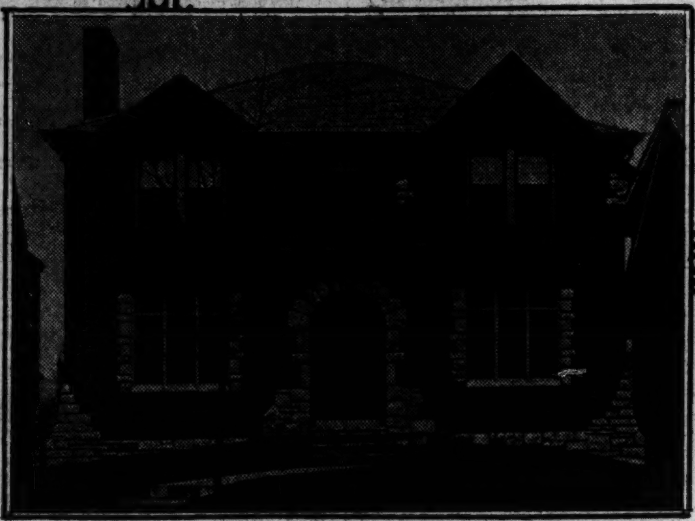
Apartment Building and Residences Recently Transferred



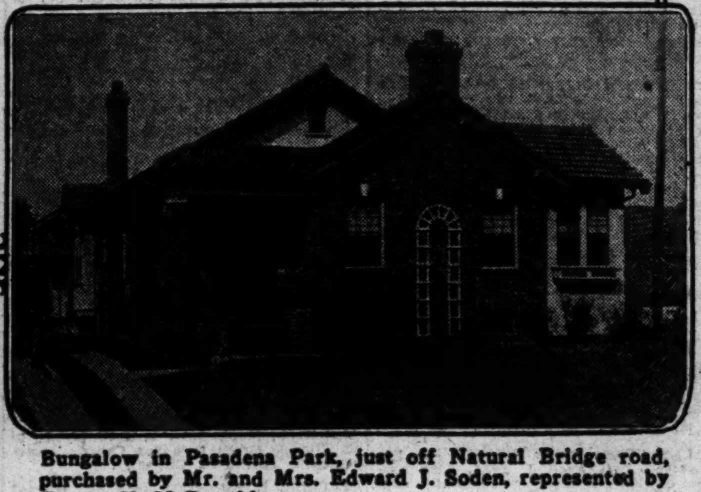
Residence at 4417 Westminster place, acquired recently in trade by Loco Realty Company, George F. Burdeau, president. It was formerly owned by John C. Tobin. Whitelaw Terry of Albert T. Terry, Son & Co., handled the transaction.



Apartment at 7507 Buckingham drive, Moorlands, recently purchased by Jesse P. Henry. It contains six apartments, each with eight rooms and two baths. The basement includes a 12-car garage.



Residence at 3804 Federer Place in Holly Hills recently purchased by Roy J. Brown. The transaction was handled by Henry R. Weisels Co., in connection with Federer Realty Co.



Bungalow in Pasadena Park, just off Natural Bridge road, purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Soden, represented by George N. McDonald.

MEDICINE PLANT BEGUN AT 4TH AND SPRUCE

Vivid Color to Be Used Extensively in Lewis Building Adjoining Main Structure.

Construction has been started on a building for the A. H. Lewis Medicine Co., adjoining its present location at the northwest corner of Fourth and Spruce streets. The new building is to be used for the manufacture of "Tums." Arthur J. Widmer & Associates, Inc., are the architects and Widmer Engineering Co. the engineers for the project.

The building is of unusual design and rich in decoration, illustrating, probably for the first time here, the modern use of vivid color in architecture. It will present a striking appearance in its contrast of blue-black terra cotta base and mottled cream above the second floor, with the glittering effect produced by the use of a gold finish on the high vertical mullions. Etched glass effects combined with an unusual treatment of the new stainless steels will be the principal feature of the lower facade. The large windows on the front, approximately 50 feet high, will flood the interior with light.

Structurally, the building will be of reinforced concrete skeleton. Borings carried down about 50 feet below the building located the old bed of the Mississippi River below the site and led to the decision to build foundations consisting of a reinforced concrete matt under the entire building to serve as a float to support the weight of the structure.

It is expected that the building will be completed and operations started by June 15, with a possible increase in personnel of 100 employes.

Neighborhood Gardens.

A building permit for $537,415 has been obtained for the Neighborhood Gardens apartments, to occupy the block bounded by Seventh, Eighth, Biddle and O'Fallon streets. Construction awaits only passage of an ordinance clearing the title to an alley running north and south through this block. Construction of the apartments, which will house 250 families, will employ 250 men working 30 hours a week. The work will require nine months or a year. A PWA loan for $640,000 was obtained and private subscriptions provided $102,000.

Work of remodeling the first floor and basement of the building at the northwest corner of Ninth street and Washington avenue, acquired under a 10-year lease by the Industrial Bank & Trust Co., now at 710 Chestnut street, has already started, under contracts calling for completion July 1. A green marble exterior and entrance will be installed on the Washington avenue front. Two vaults will be built in the basement. The new quarters will have a special cooling equipment. The frontage is 58 feet on Washington and 140 feet on Ninth, providing 14,500 square feet, including the balcony.

The bank, which recently changed its name from the Industrial Savings & Trust Co., was established by the late James Gay Butler. It has capital and reserves of $900,000 and $2,000,000 in savings deposits. The bank was represented in the negotiations for the lease by Cornet & Zeibig. The Isaac T. Cook represented the owner o fthe building.

Long Lease on Olive.

A four-story building at 1520 Olive street, vacant for about two years, has been acquired under a long lease by the Waldorf Corporation, wholesale distributors of imported and domestic wines and liquors. The Waldorf concern, recently incorporated in Missouri, will occupy the building as soon as alterations and improvements have been made. It is composed of Alfred Tuholske, president, and Joseph Nathan, vice-president.

The lease was made for Dwight L. Davis, trustee for Alice Davis, through the Isaac T. Cook Company. Samuel I. Sievers, attorney, represented the Waldorf Corporation.

ASSESSED VALUE OF OFFICE BUILDINGS FIVE BILLIONS

Office buildings in the United States at the close of 1933 had an assessed value of $5,925,000,000, according to the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, and there were 359,000,000 square feet of office space in the United States last December.

In 1929, the income from these buildings was $807,000,000. Two years later the income was $590,000,000, a decline o 27.1 per cent. Operating expenses, not including taxes, were $351,500,000 in 1929 and $283,000,000 in 1933, a decline of 18.2 per cent, or only about two-thirds as much as the decline in income. Taxes paid in 1929 were $151,500,000, while in 1933 they were $132,250,000, a decline of only 6½ per cent. In 1929 taxes consumed 17½ cents of each dollar of income; in 1933 they took 22.4 cents of each dollar.

The association expresses doubt the slump in income represented by the 1933 figures is the bottom for the industry. Income still is decreasing, due partly to continued failure of tenants and to constant demands for rent reductions. The demoralized condition of competition in the industry itself also has had something to do with the condition.

Competition from new buildings, plus the fight for increased occupancy among the older buildings, has instituted a program of modernization which, it is believed, will have a healthy effect on these industries catering to building requirements.

WESTOVER NURSERY STOCK ACQUIRED BY NEW COMPANY

The newly incorporated Westmore Nursery Co. has acquired the nursery stock on a 103-acre tract located on the Olive Street road, three miles west of Denny road, formerly owned by the Westover Nursery Co.

The new company will, for the time being, operate a wholesale and retail nursery business with the general purpose of liquidating the stock of the bondholders who thook over the property under a mortage foreclosure. The transaction was handled through the B. H. Stoltman Realty Co.

Incorporators of the new company are Vance I. Shield, Ralph F. Bixby, Clifford Cornell and Edward C. Palmer.

The company has employed 25 men.

PIERRE CHOUTEAU MANAGER OUSTED BY CIRCUIT COURT

Judge Green Objects to Salary Arrangement for A. J. Harter.

Circuit Judge Green yesterday directed the two trustees of the Pierre Chouteau apartments, 4440 Lindell boulevard, to dispense with the services of A. J. Harter as manager. It developed that Harter, who is secretary-treasurer of the Manchester Manufacturing Co., a subsidiary of the Huttig Sash & Door Co., had been turning over the salary of $300 a month which he received as manager to the Manchester company.

The trustees, Francis L. Gillespie and Dwight D. Ingamells, who were appointed in August, 1931, said they were not aware of the salary transfer arrangement until recently, when it was disclosed at a hearing before Judge Green relative to a report they filed. They then asked the court for instructions.

The court order directs the trustees to secure bids for the management of the property. They said they previously discussed the cost of management with various real estate firms and the price asked was about the amount Harter was getting.

The Huttig Sash & Door Co. held a second deed of trust against the apartment building, which has been involved in mechanics lien litigation. Harter said that when the trustees were appointed he was asked to continue in charge because of his knowledge of the property. There was no criticism of his management.

Store at 5212 Gravois Leased.

The Morris Aach Realty Co., Inc., has leased a store at 5212 Gravois avenue for Mrs. Frances Silverstone to Norbit Hulett and Bertha Stephenson, who have started a poultry and egg business.

IN MEMORIAM

BOGUSLAW, SAMMY—In loving memory of Sammy Boguslaw, who died April 6, 1930.
Oft from our hearts comes a bitter cry.
Why, oh why, did our darling die.
HIS WIFE, MOTHER, BROTHER AND MITZIE.

BURT, WILLIAM H.—In memory of my dear husband and father, who died April 8, 1933.
One by one they go before us;
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can't ever fill.
Missed by HIS WIFE AND SON.

HUMPHREY, ANNA—In sad but everlasting remembrance of our wonderful mother who departed this life three years ago, April 8, 1931, and our dear brother, Arthur L. Humphrey, 15 years ago, Feb. 25, 1919:
None knows the depth of our regret,
We remember what others forget.
Only those who lost a loved one
Can call a happy home we once enjoyed.
Thoughts come drifting in our dreams to stay.
Mother and brother will live with us in memory.
The world may change from year to year,
Friends from day to day;
But never will our loved ones from our memory pass away.
How few life's pleasures are when loved ones are gone.
Sadly missed by sons and brothers,
FRANK AND FRED HUMPHREY.
2822 Lyon st.

DREYER, CHARLES—Died April 8, 1933:
You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory lasts,
I will remember thee.
Sadly missed by your wife, IRENE.

KLICKER, LOUISE—In loving memory of our dear mother, who died April 8, 1933:
What would I give to clasp her hand,
Her happy face to see,
To hear her voice and see her smile,
That meant so much to me.
Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

KRAMER—In loving memory of Amalia Kramer, who departed this life April 6, 1925:
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.
Sadly missed by her daughter,
MRS. FERDINAND KNITTEL, and Granddaughters.

LEIGHTON, CHARLES B.—In memory of my beloved husband and our dear father, who departed this life April 8, 1920:
Gone but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by WIFE, CHILDREN AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

MEIER—In memory of Joseph F. Meier, who died April 7, 1929: Missed by WIFE, CATHERINE MEIER.

MOORE, RALPH A.—In loving memory, who died suddenly seven years ago, April 9, 1927:
We miss you and always will.
In memory your are with us still.
MR. AND MRS. GEO. A. MOORE,
HOWARD M. MOORE.

RODENBERG, AUGUST H.—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, who departed this life April 12, 1933.
Time rolls on, it will not stay;
What grief we've felt since that sad day;
With one so loving, kind and true,
How hard it was to part with you.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

THOMAS, ANNA—In loving memory of our dear mother, who departed this life three years ago, April 8, 1931:
We are thinking of you always, dear mother.
Peaceful be your rest.
We picture you in memory
Just as we saw you last.
You left behind some broken hearts
That loved you so sincere
That never did nor never will Forget you, darling mother dear.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, SONS, DAUGHTER, AND DAUGHTER-IN-LAW AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

SEALED PROPOSALS

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS—Sealed proposals in duplicate will be received at the office of the Board of Education, School District of Webster Groves, Missouri, until 7 o'clock p. m., Monday, April 23, 1934, for furnishing all labor and materials and for the performance of all work required for the construction and completion of the alterations and additions to the Lockwood School at Page and Newport avenues; and alterations and additions to the Douglass School on Holland avenue, north of Newport avenue, Webster Groves, in accordance with plans and as described in specifications prepared by Wm. B. Ittner, Inc., architects and engineers.
Separate bids will be taken for the general work; plumbing, sewering and gas fitting, heating and ventilating apparatus and the electric work.
Plans and specifications are on view at the office of the architect, Continental Life Building, 3615 Olive street, St. Louis, Missouri. Deposit check of $25 is required for the general work and $10 each for the plumbing, heating and electric work.
Proposals must be accompanied by a cashier's or certified check for an amount equal to 5 per cent of the total amount of the bid submitted. Checks to be made payable to the School District of Webster Groves.
Cost of approved surety bond shall be paid for by the contractor and included in his proposal. Also separate labor bond on P. W. A. Form No. 7235.
Every contractor and subcontractor must comply with the provisions of Title II of the National Industrial Recovery Act and with all rules and regulations prescribed by the President and the administrator for the administration of such act.
All contractors desiring to figure this work must first qualify at the office of Col. Hugh Miller, State Engineer, Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, second floor, Buder Building, St. Louis.
The School District reserve the right to reject any or all bids.
BY ORDER OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF WEBSTER GROVES, MISSOURI.
By FERN PICKETT, Secretar.

Grantwood Terrace

Imagine Your Family in This Beautiful New Home

Here is a home that was built, not "just to sell" . . . but to live in and love. It has all those delightful features of construction that raise it high above the average—in everything except price.

Located in beautiful Grantwood Terrace, that splendid highly restricted subdivision opposite Grant's Farm, with beautiful gardens, sunlight and clean, fresh air—yet only 20 minutes from downtown.

Seven light, airy rooms. First floor has a large, luxurious living room with rock fireplace; dining room; bedroom and bath; kitchen and breakfast room. Inlaid linoleum throughout first floor; two large porches and small porch; plenty of closet space. Second floor has two bedrooms and children's playroom.

Basement is large, light and fireproof, with toilet and shower bath; insulated fruit or wine cellar. Beautiful rathskeller with fireplace.

One-car garage and heated greenhouse adjoining basement—two-car garage in rear.

Hot-water heat. Beautiful fixtures, including rods and shades. Large lot beautifully landscaped with trees, shrubbery and fish pond.

Drive Out Today and Inspect This Beautiful Home.

California

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA—Small farm homes near established communities yield good income; ideal climate for fruit and poultry; moderately priced land; easy terms; paved roads and good schools; only 10 years ago life on the farm meant an almost primitive existence; today, widespread distribution of modern conveniences makes pleasant and profitable the hours that used to be tedious and difficult. The Santa Fe Railway has no land to sell, but offers free information service to help you get right location. Low fares to California. Write for illustrated Southern California folders and our farm paper, "The Earth," free for six months. C. L. SEAGRAVES, General Colonization Agent, Santa Fe Railway, 934 Railway Exchange, Chicago.

BUSINESS IS GOOD — WE NEED ROOM

Owing to the unprecedented demand for the new Ford V-8 and the fact that we are able to make IMMEDIATE DELIVERY, it is necessary to reduce our used car stock at once to make room for additional trade-ins. Take advantage of this situation and secure one of our beautiful reconditioned cars at a price far below the market value. OUR REPUTATION IS YOUR PROTECTION.

FLYERS

Browns

JIM WEAVER, IN RELIEF ROLE, HURLS HITLESS BALL

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ORLANDO, Fla., April 7.—Rogers Hornsby's Browns today put on a show of that fighting spirit which made pennant winners of his Cardinals of 1926. When the St. Louis team came in to bat in the second inning it faced a handicap of four runs which Brooklyn had piled up at the expense of Irving Hadley. Did the Browns fold up. Not by a jugful. They went right to work and slashed at Brooklyn's pitchers until they had won the game by a score of 6 to 5.

The tale of today's triumph is not alone one of tribute to the courage and pinch hitting ability of these new Browns, but must include praise of Hadley, who recovered after that disastrous start and allowed only one run in the remaining four innings he worked, and in a larger measure recognition of the pitching triumph of Jim Weaver. When the teams wheeled into the last half of the sixth, Weaver went to the mound for the Browns and he faced the tremendous task of protecting a one-run lead with Brooklyn in a mean hitting mood. He not only shut the Dodgers out in the succeeding four innings, but he didn't permit a single base hit nor did he allow a runner to reach first base under any circumstance.

No Signs of Panic.

So, it looks as though the 1934 Browns are not the kind that get panicky when the opposition jumps off to an early lead. A least they proved themselves capable of giving the enemy a great battle today, in the face of great odds.

Hadley opened on the firing lin for St. Louis, and, after gettin Taylor out, was pounded for fou clean singles. Along with a bas on balls, and an error by Harlan Clift the Dodgers amassed a tota of four runs, seemingly quit enough to win any ball game.

After the first round Hadley settled down and had no trouble i the second, third and fourth innings. Starting the fifth Phil Pag who had relieved Ray Lucas in th fourth when the bases were fille with none out, crashed a single t left field. An out by Taylor fo lowed and then Jordan followe with a single to center. McManu filed to Campbell after which Fre erick singled to right, scoring Pag Hack Wilson tried hard to wha the leather out of the park, but i stead struck out against Hadley offerings for the second time.

With the fifth inning over Ha ley's work for the day was finish and Big Jim Weaver went to wor Weaver went to the hill startin the sixth inning, and exactly men faced the tall right-hander i the last four rounds. Weaver see ingly was invincible, only five m of the 12 who faced him being ab to get the ball out of the infie All were easy chances for t Brownie garden men.

The Browns failed to get goin against Ray Lucas until the thi inning, Sam West opening by stri ing out. Strange was hit by

BEARS SHINE ON MUDDY GRIDIRON

"You will have to play football next fall on any kind of a field," Jimmy Conzelman has repeatedly told his spring football squad and so his charges disregarded the boggy condition of the Washington U. practice field and performed in a creditable manner yesterday afternoon, with the Reds defeating the Greens, 7 to 6. About 1000 spectators attended.

Bob Hudgens, who starred on the freshman team last fall, exemplified the spirit of the players when he shot off right tackle, reversed his field and ploughed along for 70 yards and the Reds' lone touchdown early in the game. Slow going didn't bother Irving Londy either, for he recovered a fumble after a low pass from center and carried the ball across for the point that decided the contest.

The Greens used a passing attack to get in a scoring position. Dwight Haefeli flipped the ball to Harry Brown for a net gain of 12 yards. Haefeli to Glen Moller in the flat zone was good for another 12. Then Chick Droke skirted left end for the touchdown. By that time the ball was heavy and Mike Zboyovski's toss to Miller for the extra point was low and wide.

Conzelman sent in his substitutes before the first half ended. This group performed much in the same manner as the first, except that more passes were thrown.

It was pull and push in the last two periods, with neither team able to do much in mud.

The work of the boys in wallowing through the mud was pleasing to Conzelman and now he is beginning to believe that the squad won't care much what kind of a field it has next fall just as long as it can play football.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Connie's High Finance.

INTIMATIONS that all may not be well with the cluster of over-ripe Athletics sold by the benevolent Connie Mack at gold rush prices to rival club owners has started the gossips wondering if the alleged victims of Mack's high finance could return their "damaged goods."

We can tell them in advance that the well-established precedent of "caveat emptor" will apply with full force. If the baseball buyer did not beware in time, it's too late to cancel.

MACK.

In all probability nothing is the matter with any of the young-old men sold by Mr. Mack to the various clubs, last winter, other than what was to be expected. The only trouble with any of the five principals is "too much Anno Domini," in the words of Barney Hufft.

The "Who's Who" of baseball would have advised anybody consulting it what to look for. Bishop and Walberg are 35, Grove and Earnshaw 34, and Mickey Cochrane is 31.

At these ages the baseball machinery frequently needs repairs, rest and sometimes replacement. And the club owners all knew, when they paid upward of $200,000 for this group of players, that the reasonable expectation of top service from them could not be more than an average of three years, with the probability that some of them might drop out at any time.

It was not Connie Mack's fault if the buyers did not beware.

CUNNINGHAM SET A NEW WORLD RECORD FOR 1000 YARDS

By the Associated Press.

NORMAN, Ok., April 7.—Glenn Cunningham of the University of Kansas beat the world record for 1000 yards in Oklahoma University's amateur track and field meet today, covering the distance in two minutes, 11.1 seconds.

The record of 2:11.2 was set by C. Ellis of Great Britain at London in 1929.

Cunningham finished six yards ahead of Glen Dawson of Tulsa A. C. Harold Manning of Wichita A. C., was close behind Dawson. The Kansas flash stepped the first quarter in 57 seconds and the half in one minute, 56 seconds.

The University of Oklahoma amassed 59¾ points to lead in the team scoring. Its quarter mile relay team, composed of Burke, Simms, Ward and Cox, shared the spotlight with two Nebraska Cornhusker hurdlers, Heye Lambertus and Dick Dohrmann.

Dohrmann, disqualified in the preliminaries, ran a special 60-yard high hurdle race in 7.7 seconds to tie the new meet record made by Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist University, who won the event. Lambertus hung up a net meet record of 13.1 seconds in the 120-yard low hurdles.

Oklahoma A. and M. College was second in team scoring, with 51 points. Other scores were: Denton Teachers, 9; Hobart Athletic Club, 10¾; Nebraska, 6; Murray Aggies, 5; Cameron Aggies, 5; Central Oklahoma Teachers, 3; Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers, 2; Oklahoma City University, 1, and Tonkawa Prep, ¾.

The new meet records included:

120-Yard Low Hurdles—31.1 seconds, by Lambertus, Nebraska.

Broad Jump—22 feet 10⅝ inches, by Barnus, Oklahoma Aggies.

Hop, Step and Jump—44 feet, 10½ inches, by Simms, Oklahoma.

Mile Run—4 minutes, 23.2 seconds, by Lochner, Oklahoma.

Shot Put—47 feet, 8¼ inches, by Gillis, Oklahoma.

60-Yard High Hurdles — 7.7 seconds, by Allen, Oklahoma Baptist.

Pole Vault—13 feet, by Markins, Murray Aggies.

DETROIT AND CHICAGO HOCKEY TEAMS TO PLAY TO 17,600 TONIGHT

CHICAGO April 7.—Detroit's Red Wings and the Chicago Black Hawks clash tomorrow night in the third match of the final for the Stanley Cup, professional hockey's biggest prize—with the Hawks aiming to strike a finishing blow, and the Wings hoping to prolong the battle.

With two straight triumphs scored on Detroit ice over the National League champions, the Hawks were short-priced favorites to end the series and bring the cup to Chicago for the first time. However, they had not forgotten that Detroit defeated the strong Toronto Maple Leafs twice on Toronto's ice only to be forced into going the limit of five games to win the league championship.

Every seat in the Chicago Stadium was sold even before the Hawks and Wings moved into Chicago. No standing room will be sold, but there will be another crowd of around 17,600 in the seats at face off time.

COAST TRACK STAR BETTERS WORLD HIGH JUMP MARK

By the Associated Press.

FRESNO, Cal., April 7.—Walter Marty of Fresno, holder of the world high jump record, leaped to a new unofficial mark of 6 feet, 9⅛ inches in a dual meet between the Fresno State College and the Sacramento Junior College here today. As no officials of the Athletic Union were present, the mark will not be eligible for a new record. The present outdoor record is 6 feet, 8⅝ inches.

SAIL HO! THE MODEL YACHTS RACE TODAY IN FOREST PARK

The first of a series of trial races for ClassA model yachts leading to the selection of representatives of this district to compete in the national elimination races in June, will be held today on Jefferson Lake, in Forest Park. Competition will open at 9 a. m.

Each entry in today's competition will be required to compete with all other entries in a beat to windward and a run before the wind. Commodore F. E. A. Brock will be in charge of today's tests.

Having put behind them the hard grind of spring training, Frank Frisch's Cardinals and Rogers Hornsby's Browns will arrive in St. Louis early this week and will show themselves to the home-town fans for the first time, Wednesday, for the first of the five-game city series at Sportsman's Park.

The Cardinals are scheduled to arrive in St. Louis tomorrow night, departing immediately after their game with the Reds today at Tampa, Fla. The Browns will depart from Jacksonville, Fla., tomorrow night, and will arrive here Tuesday at 10:30 p. m.

According to word from the South, Bill Hallahan is being groomed as starting pitcher for the Cardinals in the first game of the city series, while Hornsby named Weaver, Andrews and Blaeholder, in that order, as his choice of starting pitcher.

The probable starting batting orders, as wired to the Post-Dispatch from the training bases, follow:

Sportsman's Park Ready for Opener

WHEN the Browns and Cardinals meet Wednesday in the opening game of the spring city series, fans will find the field in fine shape with the marks of the recent soccer season barely visible. Groundkeeper Bill Stocksiek believes sunshine the next two days would eliminate all signs of use of the park for football.

New paint adorns the fronts of the stands, all the metal framework, box railings, etc. The seats have not been repainted. Three advertising signs will appear on the outfield walls.

Cambridge Beats Harvard at Rugby

U. S. ARMY POLO TEAM OPENS SERIES WITH MEXICAN FOUR TODAY

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO, D. F., April 7.—The American Army polo four ruled a slight favorite over Mexico's military team in the three-game international series starting here tomorrow.

Observers who have watched both teams practice believe the Americans have better teamwork and faster ponies. The American lineup includes Capt. L. E. Davis at No. 1; Maj. C. C. Smith, No. 2; Capt. L. K. Truscott, No. 3, and Maj. J. M. Swing, back.

Dinmore Lad Wins Virginia Steeplechase

By the Associated Press.

CURLES NECK FARM, Va., April 7.—Dinmore Lad, owned by Paul Mellon of Pittsburgh, galloped home to victory this afternoon in the Deep Run Hunt Cup Steeplechase, featured event of the opening of the spring racing program. J. E. Ryan was in the irons.

Giolo, owned by Mrs. Vadim Makaroff, with R. B. Young up, finished a length behind the winner, and Mrs. Frank M. Gould's Ostend was third.

Dinmore Lad covered the three miles in 6 minutes and 42 seconds.

KNIGHT, U. CITY, GETS 21 POINTS IN TRACK MEET

Jim Knight and Doug Pollock were the standouts for University City High School's track team yesterday morning as the Indians easily won a quadrangular track and field meet from Normandy, Clayton and Kirkwood, at the University City field. Both juniors and seniors competed.

Knight won four events for his team and also ran on the winning relay team. He won the high and low hurdles races, the high jump,

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 7.—The Kansas City Greyhounds took the first game of the final playoff series in the American Hockey Association here tonight, defeating the St. Louis Flyers, 2 to 1, in an overtime game.

Mulvihill took a pass from Hansen to score first in the opening period. The Greyhounds kept the lead until the final minutes of the second period, when Padden scored on a pass from McPherson.

The final counter came after six minutes of the first play-off period had been played, MacKenzie taking a pass from Mulvihill on a rebound to beat Murray cleanly.

3000 Witness Contest.

The game, played before some 3000 persons, one of the smallest crowds ever to witness a playoff game here, started out with each team waiting for the breaks. Cautious hockey availed little, however, both teams being forced to shoot from center ice.

After tomorrow night's game here the two teams will move to St. Louis where the third game of the play-off will be played Tuesday night at the Arena. The team winning three games will be awarded the championship. If the fourth game is necessary to decide the title it will be played at St. Louis Friday night. Should the series go to five games the date and location of the deciding contest will be fixed Friday night.

Kansas City Scores First.

Kansas City took an early lead, scoring after four minutes of play. Mulvihill scored on a short pass from Hanson close into the net that Murray was unable to see.

Tight hockey featured the entire first period. Players on both teams took to a hard driving style of offense and an air-tight defense. Most of the shots were from center ice.

Only two penalties were called during the period, Swenson of the Flyers and Taylor of the Hounds being chased, both for tripping.

Neither team was able to take advantage of the shortage on the opposition.

Paddy Padden, the league's leading scorer, took two close in shots that were smothered by Levine and neither tallied.

Paddon Ties Score.

Taking advantage of the absence of two Greyhounds in the closing minutes of the second period, the Flyers evened the count when Paddy Paddon poked in a short one on a pass from McPherson on the side. Levine had no chance to save.

With both Mulvihill and Burland

Grove Hurls Four Innings; Senators Defeat Cubs

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 7.—Bob "Lefty" Grove made his long delayed pitching start for the Boston Red Sox today and the result, although the American Leaguers beat out Birmingham 9-7, was far from the success usually enjoyed by this crack southpaw, for whom Tom Yawkey paid the Athletics about $100,000.

Grove, who has complained of a sore arm for the past few days, threw up 46 balls during his four innings on the mound. He had plenty of control, but his curves broke badly and his speed was easily fathomed by the Barons, who collected a total of eight hits against his service for four runs, which gave them a 4-2 lead.

Score by innings:
Boston (A) .. 200 000 124— 9 14 0
Birmingham (SA) .... 103 010 200— 7 16 3
Batteries: Boston—Grove, Johnson, Welch and Ferrell; Birmingham—[illegible], McNaughton and Redmond, Whitney.

Critz to Be Out a Week.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 7.—The ankle injury suffered by Hughie Critz at New Orleans last Saturday will keep him out of action for at least another week, Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, was informed today after his second baseman had paid a visit to the clinic of Dr. Spencer Speed at the Baptist Hospital here. Adhesive tape strapped to the ankle too tightly caused blisters to form and these have become infected, Dr. Speed said.

The Giants defeated Memphis, 4 to 3, today.

New York (N) 100 200 100— 4 8 2
Memphis (SA) .001 002 000— 3 7 1
Batteries: New York—Parmelee, Clarke, Smith and Danning; Memphis—[illegible], Bayne and Powell.

Senators Defeat Cubs, 8-3.

CHICAGO, April 7.—The Washington Senators showed little regard for the highly-touted Cubs pitching staff here today, lambasting four Chicago hurlers for 19 hits and an 8 to 3 victory. The Cubs, with their eyes on a National League pennant, made an ignominious start on their home grounds before some 11,000 fans. The Chicagoans were blanked for the first seven innings, and made but four hits.

Washington (A) 122 002 100— 8 19 1
Chicago (N) 000 000 021— 3 [illegible]
Batteries: Washington—Whitehill, Russell and Berg; Chicago—Bush, Joiner, Malone, Nelson and Hartnett.

Senators Deny Dissension.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7.—The idea prevails among Washington's American League champions that someone is trying to undermine their morale. Rumors of dissension in their ranks are denied flatly by the players. Earl Whitehill and Al Crowder, mound stars, insist there is no jealousy between them. Gossip of discord resulting from the tryout given young Cecil Travis, from the Chattanooga club, for the third base job long held by Ossie Bluege, has been similarly answered.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., April 7.—With but one more victory needed to retain the national soccer championship, the Stix, Baer & Fuller club of St. Louis will face the Pawtucket Rangers tomorrow afternoon, hoping to repeat the 4-to-2 victory scored in the first match of the series at St. Louis, last Sunday.

Alex McNab, veteran coach, captain and outside right forward of the St. Louisans, expects his club to have an even harder fight here than was the case a week ago, when two overtime periods were required to reach a decision.

"The field here will be much heavier than the one we played on a week ago," McNab said. "I know how the sandy soil tires out the athletes, because I have played on it many times. A player not in top condition will have a hard time keeping up the pace for 90 minutes. Then Pawtucket will be playing on its home field, which is always an advantage."

McNab, however, is not the only St. Louis athlete who knows something about the local playing field. Nilsen, Watson, McPherson and Gonsalves also have appeared here as members of Eastern clubs. They have their own followings here and it will be like playing before old friends when they take the field.

The St. Louis players will have more ground to cover in the contest here, since the field is wider than the one on which they played at Walsh Stadium, St. Louis, last Sunday. This means that the halfbacks and inside forwards will have more work to do in covering Harvie and Florie, the two outside forwards of the Eastern champions. Bob McIntyre, the Rangers' center forward, who has scored 14 goals in nine cup matches this season, swings the sphere to the wings consistently to make raids into enemy territory.

However, the wider field also may work out to the advantage of the Stix, since the long swings from side to side which went out of bounds in the first contest will go to the man directed. Many of Gonsalves' kicks to McLean and McNab in the first game proved entirely too strong, something which would not have happened with a wider playing pitch.

There is a possibility that several changes will be made in the Stix starting lineup. However, this is entirely indefinite, and the champions' battle front will not be announced until the start of the battle. Bob Gregg, fullback, who packs a heavier punch than Jimmy Nolan, may get a chance to play, while there is a possibility that Ollie Bohlman, a more rugged performer, will play at left half in place of Harry Hebberger, who was used up pretty badly last Sunday, finally being forced to leave the field. The forward line will remain the same, though Eddie Flavin will be held in readiness to go in at center forward, with Nilsen going to inside right and Gonsalves changing to inside left.

The consensus of the Stix athletes was that if they continued to pepper the goal in the game here as they did in the opener, "Goalie" Conroy would be easier to pass, figuring that the youngster cannot repeat his sensational performance of a week ago, when it was almost impossible to beat him with any kind of a shot.

However, they look for no easy fight. They consider the Rangers just as good a team as the New York Americans, the club beaten in the national final a year ago. All the Pawtucket players know the value of position play and know what to do with the ball when it is passed to them.

NEW YORK A. C. RETAINS A. A. U. SWIMMING TITLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBUS, O., April 7.—With its brilliant combination of Spence, Spence and Spence, nosed out in the final event by a trio representing the Detroit Athletic Club, the New York Athletic Club tonight won its second successive National A. A. U. indoor swimming championship in the Ohio State natatorium.

The three Spences—Leonard, Walter and Wallace—comprised the New York team, holder of the world record for the 300-yard medley relay.

But tonight the Detroit aggregation, made up of John Schmieler, Andy Sinkiewicz and Harry Curtis, was just a little too good for the New Yorkers in the concluding event of the three-day classics. The Detroiters' time was 3:04.2. The University of Michigan team, composed of T. Drysade, R. Laurence and R. Renner, was third.

The victory of the New York team in the three-day competition was almost a duplication of its feat last year. And likewise, the University of Michigan again finished in the runner-up position. The New Yorkers piled up a total of 37 points, with Michigan garnering 24.

The Detroit A. C. was third with 12, 10 of them gained by virtue of winning the final relay event.

Six times during the three days of swimming have new world records gone on the books. The last of the new marks was established today in a special time trial when Walter Spence set the time of 1:22.8 in the 150-yard free style event.

500-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Medica, University of Washington; Woodford, Columbus, O., second; Haynie, Detroit, third: Christie, University of Michigan, fourth; Goulding, Detroit A. C., fifth; Dietz, Indianapolis Hoosier A. C., sixth. Winner's time 5:29.

HIGHBOARD DIVING—Won by Degener, Michigan, (160.64); second, Wayne, Miami, (160.38); third, Green, Chicago Lake Shore, (140.28); fourth, Root, Miami Beach, (136.56); fifth, Flocco, Penn Athletic Club (130.44); sixth, Diefendorf, Ann Arbor (125.06).

300-YARD MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Detroit A. C. (J. Schmieler, Sinkiewitcz and Curtis); second, New York A. C. (Leonard, Wallace and Walter Spence); third, University of Michigan (Drysdale, Lawrence and Renner); fourth, Columbus A. C. (Fella, Gilsdorf and Wilson); fifth, Hoosier Athletic Club, Indianapolis (Robinson, Tilman and Valentine); sixth, Cleveland Y. (Troughton, Gorman and Wolpaw).

FLYERS LOSE, 2-1, TO KANSAS CITY IN OVERTIME GAME

off the ice for tripping, Manager Al Hughes of the Flyers left but one defense man, Matte, on the ice and the four forwards swarmed into the Kansas City territory.

The period gave the fans who numbered about 3000, their first sight of gore when Art Wiebe, Greyhound defense man, was struck in the mouth with the puck when Al Hughes lobbed one at the net. Wiebe was not injured, seriously, however, and took his next turn on the ice.

Second Period Play Slow.

Both teams slowed down in the second period, the intense battle in the opening session apparently having taken its toll. Carbol, St. Louis defense man, tripped Hansen, Greyhound wing, in the opening minutes and was chased for two minutes. Despite the four-man rush, the Greyhounds were unable to count.

Rollie Huard, another Flyer defense man, was sent off a few minutes after Carbol's return for tripping Hansen and again the Kansas City rushing failed.

Burland checked Huard too hard and drew his two minutes in the box about three minutes before the period ended. A concerted rush by the Flyers nearly netted a goal, the puck being batted indiscriminately by several Flyer wings. A minute later Mulvihill took his rest and the McPherson-Paddon combination clicked. The period ended with Mulvihill still in the penalty box.

Neither team was able to count in the third period, the score remaining 1 and 1 as the regular playing time ended.

Teams Play Cautious Game.

Both squads settled back into a careful, conservative brand of hockey at the beginning of the period.

St. Louis drew three penalties, all for tripping, and Kansas City one.

Goodman of the Greyhounds drew the first penalty and St. Louis began four-man rushes, all of which failed.

McPherson of St. Louis was the next to go and Gordon nearly scored when he drove in and shot from squarely in front of the cage.

Matte tripped Mulvihill and Mulvihill took advantage of the shortage of men and nearly tipped in a close one after a face-off near the cage.

Swenson was the next to leave the ice and Hanson's shot immediately after took all the cunning of Murray to stop.

MacKenzie scored on a pass from Mulvihill six minutes after the first overtime period had started.

Both teams had been playing cautious hockey, each waiting for the break that would mean the game. A shot at the goal was stopped by Murray. Mulvihill then took the rebound on the right side of the goal, passed to MacKenzie on the left side, the Scotchman beating Murray easily.

pitched ball. Burns flied out to Taylor in center. Pepper, playing today in left in place of Puccinelli, sent a double to left field, scoring Strange. Bruce Campbell hit to center for a single and Pepper counted. Melillo struck out.

The Browns did not make a hit in the fourth, and still the American Leaguers scored twice. Clift walked and Grube was hit by a pitched ball. Hadley pushed the ball down toward third for a sacrifice and when Lucas foolishly threw to third to get Clift, all hands were safe when the ball arrived late. With the bases loaded, Lucas was taken out of the game and Phil Page, a left-hander, went in. West hit to Cuccinello, whose throw to Jordan forced Hadley, and Clift scored. Strange forced West at second and Grube scored. Strange stole second. Burns struck out.

In the sixth Clift led off with a walk and scored on Grube's long double to the score board in center. Clark batted for Hadley and drew a walk. West tapped to Page and Grube was caught at third while Clark scored. Strange walked. Burns was out, Cuccinello to McCarthy and Pepper struck out.

Page continued in the game and the Browns failed to score in the seventh. Outen batted for Page in the seventh and Clift made a sensational catch of his line drive. Emil Leonard, the lone Belgian ball player in captivity, faced the Browns in the eighth and ninth and he retired six straight batsmen.

PRINCIPIA'S JAPANESE TENNIS PLAYER WINS FROM BLACKBURN STAR

Principia College men's tennis team defeated Blackburn College players from Carlinville, Ill., 3 to 2, in a dual match on the Principia courts yesterday. Roosevelt Beats E. St. Louis in Meet Roosevelt High School's track team defeated East St. Louis' High School, 124½ to 74½, yesterday morning at the East St. Louis field. Both seniors and juniors competed.

The best marks of the day were made in the two high jumps. Bridges of East St. Louis cleared the bar at 5 feet 11 inches, in the senior division, and Kosage of the same team and Schoenbeck of Roosevelt cleared 5 feet 8¾ inches in the junior division.

The junior jump was one of the best to be recorded in that division in this district in many years. The St. Louis District junior record is only 5 feet 7½ inches. The record to be official, however, must be made in the district meet.

The opening game of the annual State amateur soccer championship series between the champions of the St. Louis Municipal League and the Kansas City titleholders, will feature a three-game football program at Fairground Park, this afternoon. St. Louis will be represented by the Doyles, who clinched the local title a week ago by defeating the Spartons. Kansas City is sending the Fisher Body team, victors in a split-season race.

Two games will precede the intercity match, the first an Intermediate Division championship game between the Diaz club of Carondelet Park and the Holy Rosary club of Fairground, and the second between the Spartons, runners-up for the local Muny title, and the Germany Sport Club, champions of last season.

For the Players.

There will be a charge of 25 cents and the funds thus raised will be turned into the treasury of the St. Louis Soccer Players' Protective Association, whose books now show a big splash of red ink. Players injured in regularly scheduled games in St. Louis have their doctor and hospital bills paid by the Protective Association and the crop of injuries this season has been a bumper one.

Next Sunday, the Doyles will visit Kansas City to play the second game of the State amateur championship series.

This is the first visit of the Fisher club to this city. It is a "shop team," composed entirely of employes of the Fisher Body plant. In the past, Kansas City soccer has not seriously challenged the right of St. Louis to the State title, but reports have it that in recruiting the Fisher team, the management had the pick of the best players in the city and it is possible that the Doyles will meet with much stronger competition than did previous local champions.

Stars Missing.

Injuries have recently broken down an exceptionally good forward line, but capable reserves will be used in the Doyle lineup today. Such stars as Bud Grenon, regular center; Jim Rabbitt, inside left, and John Ikemeyer, outside right, have been lost to the team. That necessitates considerable shifting of players but Jack Reagan, at outside right, and Ed Stinson, at inside left, are expected to fill the gaps acceptably.

Play will start in the Intermediate title game at 1 p. m., in the Sparton-German game at about 2:15 p. m., and in the intercity game at about 3:30 p. m.

The field is laid out on Grounds Two, on the north side of Fairground Park.

A Break for Mark.

Mark Koenig got a tough break with the Cubs, but he has the satisfaction of knowing that he joined the Cincinnati Reds in time to get a full share of the world series money.

There are now three catching managers in the major leagues, to wit—Jimmy Wilson, Mickey Cochrane and Bob O'Farrell. Indicating that the backstop is becoming the backbone of the game.

While the Baer-Carnera fight will take place in New York in June, there are many who think it will not be so hot. A top of $20 to $25 may have a tendency to cool the ardor of the cash customers.

Everybody's doing it. The golfers are testing out a "needled" ball. The "hypodermic" of 1-600 of an ounce of fluid restores internal pressure originally destroyed by the vulcanizing process and adds seven to 12 yards to the drive of the average player.

This country needs a livelier

The duffer will improve his drive
And make the green in four or five.

Bobby Jones says he will enter no National tournaments in the future but play only for fun. Bobby can see no fun in getting trimmed.

Frank Navin says Mickey Cochrane can do anything he wants with his club. That's very nice. Can he make them win the pennant?

UNIVERSITY CITY SCORES VICTORY IN TRACK MEET

and the javelin throw. With the relay, this totals 21¼ points for Knight, the leading scorer of the seniors.

Robert Ehrhardt, Clayton's best track man and leading rival of Knight, was unable to compete against Knight in the hurdle races and high jump. Knight and Ehrhardt are the St. Louis district's best hurdlers, each winning his class hurdle race and high jump in the State indoor meet. Ehrhardt was out because of an abcessed ear.

Doug Pollock of the University City junior team hurled the discus 139 feet, a throw which is nearly six feet past the district junior record for that event. Pollock, however, does not get credit for a new record, for records must be made in the district meet to be official.

According to Coach Henry Schemmer, Pollock is only beginning to throw the discus and Schemmer expects him to better this throw later on in the season.

Frank Rucker, Kirkwood, scored the only points made by his team in the senior division when he ran a remarkably fast mile considering the earliness of the season and the condition of the track. Rucker ran the mile in 4 minutes 57.4 seconds.

Lucius More, University City, turned in good time for the 120-yard low hurdles, topping the barriers in 15.1 seconds, close to the county record for that event.

Ernest Ohle, University City, led the junior scorers with 17 points, earned on three firsts and a third.

Scores by divisions:

Senior—University City 98 2-3, Clayton 10 1-3, Normandy 37, Kirkwood 5.

Junior—University City 96½, Clayton 21½, Normandy 13¼, Kirkwood 8 3-4.

Clayton to Hold Track Meet for Class B Schools

A track meet for Class "B" schools, those having less than 500 students, will be sponsored by Clayton High School and will take place April 28. The meet will serve as the district qualifying round for Class B schools to select the athletes to compete in the State meet at Columbia, May 5.

Cups will be given to the two highest teams in the Clayton meet and ribbons will be awarded the winners. The events will be 100-yard dash, 220, 440, 880, mile run, 120-yard high hurdles, 220-yard low hurdles, discus throw, shotput, broad jump, high jump, pole vault, javelin throw and the relay.

Sam F. Hall, Clayton Athletic Director, will be tournament manager.

CARDS “

CARLETON, DEAN, HALLAHAN AND WALKER MAY BE 1934 STARTERS

By J. Roy Stockton.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

BRADENTON, Fla., April 7. — Frankie Frisch's Cardinals, except for a game with the Cincinnati Reds tomorrow, a short workout Monday morning and the five-game City Series with the Browns, are through with Spring training and in splendid condition for the opening of the National League race. There is not a sore arm in camp, except for the convalescent wing of young Paul Dean, and that is expected to be strong by the time the Redbirds return home. Hard work under a broiling Florida sun has made muscles firm and obedient and put excess avoirdupois to rout and if the Redbirds do not fly high in the pennant race it will not be because of poor condition.

Everything tends to inspire optimism in looking forward to the team's prospects in the championship competition, and while it is dangerous to try to pick where a a team is going to finish, so help us Bill Terry's Giants, it can be said without reservation that the Cardinals are good enough to win.

Several "Ifs."

There are several "ifs" which stand out. Perhaps the biggest one concerns the pitching. Last year the Cardinal mound staff looked like the best in either league. Everybody said it was the best and for that reason the experts were numerous who selected the St. Louis club as outstanding among the contenders.

But the pitching was not as good on the ball field as it was in the winter book and despite good fielding and a better than average punch, the Cardinals finished a fading fifth, wilting out of the first division and a share in the World Series pool in the last days of the race.

The same thing may happen this season. There is no certainty that Bill Walker, afer two bad years will come back and be the highly efficient southpaw that he was for the Giants in 1931. If, however, his arm is strong again, it will mean much to the team. Burleigh Grimes is another question mark. He has reached the age where a man usually slides rapidly down-grade. But he has a fighting heart and determination which may produce pitching that will belie his years. Walker and Grimes, approximating their best form, could make the Cardinals outstanding in the league.

Bill Hallahan seems to be set for a good year. During 1933, he seemed to have changed his style. Instead of overpowering the enemy, he was trying to fool them with occasional soft pitches. He did not fare so well, and while he won 16 games, he lost 13. This spring he is pitching as he did in his best years and while Branch Rickey insists that he has not yet shown his old-time fast ball, the players are delighted with his performances thus far.

Dizzy Dean should make this his best year. He won 20 games last season, but he also lost 18, and followers of the team will be disappointed this campaign if he does not add to his victory total and cut his defeats at least in half. He is stronger, knows more about the hitters, and it is natural to expect marked improvement each year in the work of a man so young and so talented.

Carleton Looks Good.

Tex Carleton reported to camp many pounds underweight. But he is gaining strength and wa the first of Frisch's pitchers t travel nine innings and was good enough to hold Detroit to six hits and win 4 to 2.

Jess Haines is throwing fir crackers, pitching as though h were one of the husky youths, in stead of the oldest man on the staff. He can't work every fourth day, but he can be depended on t deliver a masterpiece of the mound at least once a week.

Dean, Carleton and Hallahan stand out as the big three. If Walker can make it a quartet

Clayton to Hold Track Meet for Class B Schools

A track meet for Class "B" schools, those having less than 500 students, will be sponsored by Clayton High School and will take place April 28. The meet will serve as the district qualifying round for Class B schools to select the athletes to compete in the State meet at Columbia, May 5.

Cups will be given to the two highest teams in the Clayton meet and ribbons will be awarded the winners. The events will be 100-yard dash, 220, 440, 880, mile run, 120-yard high hurdles, 220-yard low hurdles, discus throw, shotput, broad jump, high jump, pole vault, javelin throw and the relay.

Sam F. Hall, Clayton Athletic Director, will be tournament manager.

CARDS "GOOD ENOUGH TO WIN" IF PITCHERS COME THROUGH

CARLETON, DEAN, HALLAHAN AND WALKER MAY BE 1934 STARTERS

By J. Roy Stockton.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

BRADENTON, Fla., April 7. — Frankie Frisch's Cardinals, except for a game with the Cincinnati Reds tomorrow, a short workout Monday morning and the five-game City Series with the Browns, are through with Spring training and in splendid condition for the opening of the National League race. There is not a sore arm in camp, except for the convalescent wing of young Paul Dean, and that is expected to be strong by the time the Redbirds return home. Hard work under a broiling Florida sun has made muscles firm and obedient and put excess avoirdupois to rout and if the Redbirds do not fly high in the pennant race it will not be because of poor condition.

Everything tends to inspire optimism in looking forward to the team's prospects in the championship competition, and while it is dangerous to try to pick where a team is going to finish, so help us Bill Terry's Giants, it can be said without reservation that the Cardinals are good enough to win.

Several "Ifs."

There are several "ifs" which stand out. Perhaps the biggest one concerns the pitching. Last year the Cardinal mound staff looked like the best in either league. Everybody said it was the best and for that reason the experts were numerous who selected the St. Louis club as outstanding among the contenders.

But the pitching was not as good on the ball field as it was in the winter book and despite good fielding and a better than average punch, the Cardinals finished a fading fifth, wilting out of the first division and a share in the World Series pool in the last days of the race.

The same thing may happen this season. There is no certainty that Bill Walker, afer two bad years will come back and be the highly efficient southpaw that he was for the Giants in 1931. If, however, his arm is strong again, it will mean much to the team. Burleigh Grimes is another question mark. He has reached the age where a man usually slides rapidly down-grade. But he has a fighting heart and determination which may produce pitching that will belie his years. Walker and Grimes, approximating their best form, could make the Cardinals outstanding in the league.

Bill Hallahan seems to be set for a good year. During 1933, he seemed to have changed his style. Instead of overpowering the enemy, he was trying to fool them with occasional soft pitches. He did not fare so well, and while he won 16 games, he lost 13. This spring he is pitching as he did in his best years and while Branch Rickey insists that he has not yet shown his old-time fast ball, the players are delighted with his performances thus far.

Dizzy Dean should make this his best year. He won 20 games last season, but he also lost 18, and followers of the team will be disappointed this campaign if he does not add to his victory total and cut his defeats at least in half. He is stronger, knows more about the hitters, and it is natural to expect marked improvement each year in the work of a man so young and so talented.

Carleton Looks Good.

Tex Carleton reported to camp many pounds underweight. But he is gaining strength and was the first of Frisch's pitchers to travel nine innings and was good enough to hold Detroit to six hits and win 4 to 2.

Jess Haines is throwing fire crackers, pitching as though he were one of the husky youths, instead of the oldest man on the staff. He can't work every fourth day, but he can be depended on to deliver a masterpiece of the mound at least once a week.

Dean, Carleton and Hallahan stand out as the big three. If Walker can make it a quartet, Frisch will have four stalwart young men, capable of working every fourth day and by throwing in Haines and Grimes whenever they have had sufficient rest, Frisch can make his staff a powerful one—if, of course, the boys all deliver satisfactorily.

Other hurlers still on the staff are Jim Winford, Jim Mooney, Paul Dean, Bob Klinger, Flint Rhem, and Clarence Heise. Three will have to be released by May 15, but Frisch probably will carry 10 or 11 until he finds what can be expected of Grimes and Rhem.

While Frisch and Rickey are inclined to put the question of a pennant up to the pitchers, other observers, including the writer, would rate the Cardinals higher if the team had shown more of a batting punch. Perhaps the boys are just slow to reach their best form, but they have not shown impressive power in the grapefruit league games.

And while the team rated high in batting in the 1933 averages, it did not have much luck with the good pitchers of the league. Perhaps one of the reasons is that two of the men who carry much of the punch were not particularly dangerous in the pinches. Joe Medwick was a first-year man in 1933 and in his eagerness to deliver he frequently hit at bad balls when victory was at stake. The same was true of Ripper Collins. Both men finished with good averages, as the marks went last year, and perhaps they will be better, after a spring of coaching under the direction of their new manager, Mr. Frisch.

Needs Aggressiveness.

The team could be more aggressive. If Grimes remains, he will help, but if he fails to make the grade, the team will lack color. The writer is one of the few who regretted the trade of George Watkins to the Giants. Watkins was a fighting ball player, never conceding anything, with no time for peanut bars or jokes on the bench. He wanted always to win and he was always ready to take a punch at anybody else who took the game lightly.

Watkins will be missed. There is more to baseball than trotting out on the field and chasing flies and taking a swing at the plate. Hard-riding teams make breaks for themselves, and if there is one thing the Cardinals lack it is that fighting aggressiveness. But Watkins was holding out and he was not popular with the St. Louis fans and it was felt in the front office that George had a little too much spirit and after all Sam Breadon owns the ball club.

The Cardinals will be stronger in reserves than was the Redbird team of 1933. Joe Medwick, George Davis and Johnny Rothrock will be Frisch's regular outfielders, according to present plans. If Davis doesn't show more punch than he did last year, Ernie Orsatti or Buster Mills will soon crowd him to the bench. The team picked up two fine looking young players in Mills and Gene Moore and won't have to worry, even if George Davis continues to be a .258 hitter.

No team in either league will have better infield substitutes than Pat Crawford, Burgess Whitehead and Lew Riggs. Crawford will fill in at first base when necessary; Riggs will give protection at third, and Whitehead, a brilliant young fielder and a good hitter, can play second or short and make the fans like his work.

"Spud" Is Ready.

Virgil Davis will have a year of hard work. He is in splendid physical condition and he will have to be. The Cardinal pitchers are a hard-working crowd, with speed and sharp breaking curves and occasionally they are wild. Davis will have to stop many a wild pitch. But he is a hard worker, happy to be with a pennant contender and the writer believes he will make the grade. Bill De Lancey, second string receiver, is regarded as a great prospect, but the only thing that will make him is experience.

Last, and far from being of least importance, is the esprit de corps of the Cardinals. Frisch seems to have control of the situation. He was a tough hombre last fall, when he took over the reins. He had to be. He was moving up from the ranks and the club was out of hand. Frisch and other stars of the team had been second-guessing Manager Street. The club was demoralized. Frisch was smart enough to know that drastic measures were necessary and he took them. He gained the nickname of "John McGraw Jr." and there was grumbling and muttering. But Frisch has "softened up," in the language of the dugout. He is closer to his players, kinder to them, more sociable. He even plays cards with them occasionally. And while he makes it plain that he is boss, he is not unreasonable and if there is any dissension or discord in the camp, this observer, with many friends in the ranks, has failed to see it or hear of it.

The Cardinals are good enough to win. If Grimes and Walker or Jim Winford and Paul Dean can pitch regularly and win and the team hasn't too many .258 hitters in the lineup, St. Louis easily can be optimistic over having part of the 1934 World Series at Sportsman's Park.

Golden Miller To Be Given Test In Flat Races

By the Associated Press.

LONDON April 7.

GOLDEN MILLER, recognized as the world's greatest steeplechaser since his record-breaking victory in the Grand National, is to be given tests on the flat this summer.

Both the horse's owner, Dorothy Paget, and his trainer, Basil Briscoe, are convinced Golden Miller has the speed and natural stamina to hold his own with any of them over the longer distances. No horse ever has succeeded in following up a Grand National victory with success in high-class flat racing.

Primo and Sharkey Talk Shop Over Wine in Back-Room of Jack's Tavern

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 7.—Primo Carnera may be the heavyweight boxing champion of the world but as an automobile driver he is not even in the preliminary class.

The big Italian, en route for a hunting camp at Greenville, Me., left New York early today, driving his automobile. Long after sundown, nine hours after his departure, he landed in Boston.

"I had three flat tires," Primo sadly moaned, "and I must now buy two new ones."

The hour was so late that most of the tire establishments were closed for the night and Primo was in a quandary until Jack Sharkey, from whom he won his title, came to his rescue.

"Come down to my tavern," Jack suggested, "and while you are drinking some fine Italian wine I have been saving for you, I will attend to the new tires."

Sharkey Makes Trip in 5 Hours.

Sharkey, who makes the New York-Boston trip, a distance of some 230 miles, in less than five hours, could not understand why his conqueror took nine. He looked at him a bit queerly, but settled Primo's tire problems.

Then the champion and his predecessor, accompanied by several willing spirits, adjourned to Sharkey's back room and much gaiety ensued before Carnera's automobile was ready to resume its journey.

While Sharkey's bartenders bustled about with heavily laden trays, Primo was put through his paces.

"I am going to do a lot of hard work at Greenville," he explained when interviewers asked him his reasons for going to Maine at this unkindly season. "I'll chop down a lot of trees, run through woods and rough it generally to improve my legs and wind for my bout with Max Baer.

"I am going to remain up there for five weeks and then return to Pompton Lakes, N. J., where I will start boxing. I feel silly doing all this preliminary work for an opponent like Baer, who, in my opinion, is nothing but a great big strong guy and the dumbest boxer the world has ever seen. But it is well to be on the safe side."

DETROIT TEAM IN A. B. C. LEAD WITH 3089 PINS

PEORIA, Ill., April 7.—Stroh's Bohemian Beer team of Detroit sailed into first place of the five-man event at the American Bowling Congress tonight with a total of 3089 pins. The team had games of 920, 1101, 1068.

Herbert Lange, who paid his way through the University of Wisconsin with his bowling, and William Goldammer, both of Chicago, created a tie for the bottom position on the board in the two-man event by rolling up a 1269. Lange chalked up 1901 pins for his nine games, just short of the board. He had 668 in the doubles and 620 in the singles.

Frank Nigg, Cicero, Ill., led the attack in the singles with a 687 series, just lacking four pins of the board.

Following with a lighter barrage, Keglers from Covington, Ky., Youngstown, O., Buffalo, N. Y., Kenosha, Wis., Detroit, Newport, Ky., and Milwaukee, also registered scores within the price list range.

The Windy City also took second highest honors of the day when Lee Calloway and Dick Winsberg smashed 1250 in the doubles and Charles Levine cracked 677 in the singles.

The five-man team event, with the Employers Mutuals of Milwaukee, Wis., leading with a 3032, ends tomorrow night. The doubles and singles and the tournament finish Monday.

LEO WERNE, OLD-TIME BASEBALL PLAYER, DIES

Leo Werne, 58 years old, who played baseball and was a catcher in the old Walker League 35 years ago, died last night.

Werne served for awhile as an umpire and then became a custodian at Soldan High School, where he has been for the last 20 years.

One of his sons, Leo Werne Jr., is an umpire in the Municipal Association, and another, Kenneth, is a baseball player.

OTTAWA HOCKEY CLUB CONSIDERS ST. LOUIS FOR BIG LEAGUE SITE

Association Has Territorial Rights, Grant Declares

WILLIAM F. GRANT, president of the American Hockey Association contends that entry of a St. Louis team in the National Hockey League club must have the unanimous consent of the members of the American Hockey Association because, according to Grant, the association holds exclusive territorial rights for hockey in St. Louis. In a telegram to the Post-Dispatch yesterday, Grant said: "American Hockey Association holds exclusive territorial rights for St. Louis and any entry of National League will have to be with consent of all members of American Association," (signed) Bill Grant."

A deal is pending by which St. Louis may obtain the Ottawa, Canada, franchise in the National Hockey League, dispatches from Ottawa yesterday disclosed.

According to information originating in Ottawa, holders of the franchise in the Canadian city have lost $60,000 in the past two years and are considering a transfer to an American city. And the city under consideration is St. Louis.

Maj. F. D. Burpee, described in news service messages as president and principal stockholder of the Ottawa club, is quoted as authority for the statements.

Burpee is quoted as saying that Ottawa's trouble is due to the fact that the city, with its 115,000 population, is too small to support a National League team. The rink there seats only 5500, with standing room for possibly 3000 more.

Representative Visited Arena.

This information follows a visit to this city of Remond Quain, representative of the Ottawa club, who spent some time here last week conferring with C. D. P. Hamilton, Arena receiver, over the possibility of transferring the Ottawa team to St. Louis.

Quain and Hamilton reached a pretty thorough understanding as to what would have to be done to effect the deal; then Quain went to Detroit to see the opening of the Stanley Cup play, and to talk with President Calder of the National League concerning the franchise proposal.

Quain said that he had been given permission by the Board of Governors of the league, of which he is a member, to carry on the deal if a satisfactory arrangement could be made.

The Ottawa man was very much impressed with the interest shown by the St. Louis fans at last Sunday night's game with Tulsa and that, coupled with the fine attendance record by the St. Louis Club this season, made him eager to bring the team into this city.

Whose Territory Is It?

William F. Grant, president of the American Hockey Association, protested to Quain over invasion of the city by the big league but Quain pointed out that if there was any agreement not to come into St. Louis, it certainly would not be broken; however, he added he was certain there was no such agreement.

Hamilton, in arranging the lease of the Arena for the recent season with Frank (Doc) Wainwright, president of the Flyers, told Wainwright that he would give him a lease for only one year as Hamilton hoped that a National League team would be in St. Louis soon. Wainwright wanted a five-year lease.

Shuold the Ottawa Club be transferred here, naturally admission prices for National League games would have to be higher than those charged by the American Association team, but a scale has been worked out with about a 90-cent average—3500 seats at 55 cents and 2500 at 75 cents, including tax, and other prices of $1.10, $1.65 and $2.50, the "top" for a few box seats.

The Ottawa team finished last in the Canadian Division of the National League during the past season but it was fourth among nine teams of the circuit in scoring and also had more counted against it. A weak defense, according to Quain, ruined the club's chances for gaining a place in the playoffs.

Before next season starts, he said, the team would be strengthened in its weak spots with seasoned big league hockey players.

A. A. U. Boxing Champions Crowned in Meet Here as Good As Any for a Decade Back

Joe Louis of Detroit, Negro, Winner of Light-Heavyweight Honors, "Standout" of the Tournament, Officials Agree.

By W. J. McGoogan.

The new amateur boxing champions of the United States crowned here in the senior tournament of the National A. A. U, just concluded, would compare favorably with any group of titleholders in the past decade, according to Roy Davis, Chicago, chairman of the National Boxing Committee, who has been an observer at many national tournaments.

Davis and other competent observers at ringside during the three days here, said that Joe Louis, Detroit Negro, who won the light-heavyweight championship, was the outstanding performer in the tournament.

Louis, 19 years old, is a trucker, an occupation which has aided him to build up a splendid physique. He is about six feet tall, weighs just about 175 pounds, the light-heavyweight limit, when in condition to fight and has powerful shoulders and arms.

After three years of boxing in the amateur ranks he has the ring poise of a veteran professional performer. He is that rare combination—a splendid boxer and a terrific puncher.

Has Powerful Left Hook.

Louis' chief weapon, those familiar with his style say, is his left hook which travels only a short distance but when it lands spells a kayo for his opponent. However, he was handicapped here because he had broken a bone in the hand during the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament and had a strip of tape across it. So he changed to a right hand attack and it was with that he knocked out Ario Soldati, Chicago, in the bout which won him the championship.

Louis has not decided yet whether he will turn professional, but it would not be surprising if he did, for his supporters contend that he could win from three-fourths of the professional light heavyweights now.

It won't be long, though, before Joe becomes a heavyweight, for a boy of his height will undoubtedly put on many pounds within the next two or three years.

In achieving his first national title, Louis won from Joe Bauer, Cleveland, on a decision, then gained a victory through a default. In the semifinal he outpointed Hugh Schildknecht, Kansas City, then knocked out Ario Soldati, in the final.

Louis had met Saldati in a previous tournament, winning a decision in three rounds.

Three Other Standouts.

Besides Louis, Norbert Meehan, Oakland, Cal., southpaw, lightweight winner, probably attracted the greatest attention. He is also the kind of puncher who carries terrific power in a short, sharp blow.

Tommy Barry, clever little Springfield, Ill., youngster, flyweight titleholder, is Dave Barry's brother and St. Louis fans could see the resemblance, both in physical characteristics and work in the ring, to Dave, who is a familiar figure in professional matches here.

Fred Apostoli, San Francisco, middleweight champion, and Danny Farrar, Cleveland, welterweight title winner, both appeared to be good boys.

Virtually all of the boxers have returned to their homes, although the Hawaiian team, in charge of its trainer, Eddie Hoch, has gone to Chicago for the weekend after which the boys will journey to New Orleans for a dual meet.

The tournament and the other amateur boxing events which have been held here recently should do much toward raising the standard of the amateur performers, officials believe. It also showed weaknesses in the local setup which should be corrected. The work of some St. Louis ring officials came in for severe criticism from visiting boxers, but some of these faults were due to carelessness.

Webb Likes Heavyweight.

Spike Webb, Navy boxing coach, rates Tom Pontecarvo, Western Maryland, as the most promising college heavyweight he has ever seen.

TRACK STARS OF FIVE STATES IN MAPLEWOOD RELAYS FRIDAY

The Maplewood Relays, an invitational meet for high schools, St. Louis' only major track event of the year, will be held for the fifth time at Maplewood High School next Friday and Saturday. Coach Armin A. Wahlbrink, director of the relays, believes that again this year some of the best interscholastic track stars of the country will compete in the meet.

Starting from a relay carnival for county schools only, the Maplewood Relays have grown to be one of the leading interscholastic relays of the country, with national champions competing.

Five States to Be Represented.

The first relays had only seven schools competing. The second year it doubled, the meet being opened to schools from the St. Louis district. The third year it again doubled, with many schools from out of town being invited to attend. Last year, doubled again, 56 schools attending the meet.

This year, however, the entry list probably will be smaller, Wahlbrink not expecting more than 40 schools. Five states, however, will be represented in the meet. Teams from Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Indiana and Missouri have sent in their entries.

Several national interscholastic champions have competed in the Maplewood Relays, one of them being Jimmy Owen, sprinter from Maplewood High.

Competition Gets Stronger.

The first three years of the meet, a local school, University City, dominated the meet, winning the first two years and tying for the title the third year. Last year, University City could only get a tie for second, indicating that the competition is steadily getting stronger.

Schools that have tentatively sent i ntheir entries are: Missouri—Bonne Terre; Central High, Cape Girardeau; Steelville, Kennett, Salem, Poplar Bluff, Bowling Green and most of the schools in the St. Louis district. Illinois— Feerfield-Shields, Hyde Park and New Trier, Chicago; Batavia, Venice, Madison, East St. Louis, Granite City, Centralia, Nashville, Jacksonville State School for the Deaf and Dumb, and Olen. Iowa—Newton. Kentucky—Male High, Louisville, and Indiana—Gary.

WRAY'S COLUMN

the recent composite opinion published in the Sporting News, according to which 141 of 174 "authorities" decided that the Browns would finish in last place, 24 figured them to finish seventh, five rated them as high as sixth, two picked the club to reach first division and one thought Hornsby would finish as good as third.

However, grieve not, friends of the Browns. The same story points out that a majority of writers last year picked the New York Giants, who won the world's championship, to finish no better than sixth.

Figuring the Races.

JUMPING into the band wagon, most of the 174 experts who figured the National League race this year visualized another victory for the Giants.

But Chicago was also popular, the final vote for first standing 68 for the Giants and 62 for the Cubs, with Pittsburgh having 34 first-place supporters.

Eight thought the Cardinals might win and—read this and go popeyed—Brooklyn and Philadelphia each received a vote for first place!

The biggest vote cast for the Cardinals was 68 for fourth place.

The total vote for the first three teams was close: New York 1213, Chicago 1194, Pittsburgh 1075.

Senators or Yanks?

ONLY two clubs caught the eye of the American League experts, who rated Washington and New York as the standouts, although in the vote for first place Washington led, 101 to 39 for New York. Detroit received the third high number of votes for first place, 19, but the Boston Red Sox received a larger total poll than the Tigers.

The order of the finish as forecast by votes in both leagues is as follows:

2—Chicago	2—New York
3—Pittsburgh	3—Boston
4—St. Louis	4—Detroit
5—Boston	5—Cleveland

Equipoise's Lost Year.

EQUIPOISE, reckoned by many as the greatest American race horse since Man o'War, is being trained for a campaign to break the money-earning record of Sun Beau—$376,744.

To do this Equipoise, which now ranks fourth in money won, $322,970, must pile up more than $50,000 in handicap events. That means at least five races of $10,000 value.

That's a task in these times. There are few handicaps today that carry the big winning moneys which obtained a few years ago. Also, every time he wins a race, the rules of handicapping prescribe that he carry more weight, or his opponents less. The more weight he carries or the less impost his opponents shoulder, the harder for the great nag to win.

For that reason there is more than a reasonable doubt that Equipoise will achieve his goal this year. But should his owner see fit to send him after the next Caliente Handicap, worth $25,000, his dream might come true early next year.

Too bad Equipoise sickened and had to be thrown out of training in his three-year-old form. But for that mishap it is certain that he would have won one or more of the $50,000 purses available in that season and would, therefore, have been ahead of Sun Beau today, in all reasonable probability.

SOON OVER, DERBY AND PREAKNESS ENTRY, WINS DASH

PATCHPOCKET IS SECOND, CHANCE FLIGHT THIRD IN "MEMORIAL"

By the Associated Press.

BOWIE, Md., April 7.—Soon Over, a candidate for the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable, scored a popular and impressive victory today as he whipped eight other three-year-olds, two of which also are eligible for the Derby, in the Rowe Memorial Handicap at Bowie.

Ridden by Silvio Coucci, Soon Over, which ran fourth in the Florida Derby, outgamed G. W. Ogle's lightly regarded Patchpocket in a stirring stretch duel. Only a head separated the pair at the finish, while four lengths to the rear came Mrs. C. S. Bromley's Chance Flight to take third portion of the $3500 added purse.

With 119 pounds in the saddle, the chestnut colt, making his first start since the Florida Derby, stepped the six furlongs in the good time of 1:13 to earn $2900 for his owner and pay his backers $5.20 for each $2 invested in the mutuels.

The disappointment of the race was the Immortal II, Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Derby and Preakness candidate, which came to America last fall heralded as the champion two-year-old of Ireland. It was the invader's debut in this country and, although he showed a fair flash of speed in the first three furlongs, he wound up last after being eased up in the closing stages by Bobby Jones.

William Ziegler Jr.'s Bonanza, a topnotch juvenile last year and also eligible for the spring classic at Churchill Downs and Pimlico, finished fifth, some eight lengths back of Soon Over.

From a good start, Tony Tipton broke Patchpocket in front, but the Ogle three-year-old quickly relinquished his position to such speedsters as Happy Go, Blue for Boys, running coupled in the betting with The Immortal, and Bonanza.

Rounding out of the far turn, however, Patchpocket again moved up and, followed by Soon Over, swept past the pacemakers before entering the home stretch. Under Coucci's strong handling, Mrs. Whitney's colt finally headed his rival but Patchpocket held on surprisingly well until the final strides, drawing the decision to a fine finish.

MENNE'S FIVE TAKES THIRD PLACE IN STATE PIN MEET

Henry Menne's Treasurers five featured play in the Missouri State tournament at the Washington Alleys last night, their total of 2823 pins placing them in third place. The Mennes rolled games of 937, 959 and 927, with Johnny Gromacki and Bud Kaelin having totals of 604 and 601. Gromacki's 246 was the highest single game effort.

Three teams from Jefferson City rolled below their usual form and failed to disturb the leading teams.

Doubles and singles will be rolled today at 2, 4 and 10 p. m., with four five-men teams taking the drives at 8 p. m. These include the Schenks, Reardons, Rogers Recreations and Stag Distributors.

Last night scores: Anderson Motors, 2751; Sikas, 2706; Jule Schmitts, 2701; Lloyds (Jefferson City), 2617; Ayres (Jefferson City), 2524, and Palace Five (Jefferson City), 2515.

OUTDOORS

The Year's Dullest Month.

FOR anglers and hunters the dullest two months of the year are at hand. For the anglers there is a glimmer of hope, for it is the open season for catching trout and channel cat; but for the hunter there is almost complete gloom unless his fancy turns toward shooting crows. Even doves are immune until next September.

The angler is barred until the month of June from taking bass, crappie, jack salmon and goggle-eye.

Also the gigger is forbidden to gig; the seiner must not seine. The embargo holds until the first of June when all the angler's troubles fade away with the single exception that channel cat are forbidden for six weeks, it being spawning time for this piscatorial species.

The hunter also gets a break, beginning June 1, when it becomes legal to shoot squirrel.

State Buys 10,500 Quail.

Augmenting a previous contract for 8000 Bobwhite quail for restocking shot-out areas, Wilbur Buford, State Game and Fish Commissioner, this week arranged to obtain 2500 additional birds for 1934 distribution. All will be produced by two Missouri game farms.

Both hatcheries have been established for some time and experimental work with quail has been conducted under the supervision of game bird authorities.

Commercial Fishermen Fined

The Lake of the Ozarks, which has been considered reasonably free of commercial fishermen, last week saw the uncovering by State game wardens of a group of regular commercial fish peddlers whose offerings had been taken from the newly created recreational place.

The fines assessed against the fishermen, however, were considered by conservation authorities too light in view of the importance of the need for keeping the lake free from commercial exploitation by market fishermen.

Two of the men arrested by wardens had in their possession channel catfish and bass which they sold just before the season closed, April 1. They were released in a justice court on payment of a $10 fine.

Missouri's laws prohibit the sale of any game fish taken in the waters of the state. Efforts to pass an enabling act to the Hawes black bass bill, which would bar importation of game fish for sale, have failed.

From the Outdoors Notebook.

J. Walker Frank has been named head of the Fulton Fish-Forest League. . . . The new Lake of the Ozarks this week attracted its first fishing tackle factory, one from Tulsa moving to Eldon. . . . Warden Ray Sissom recently rescued from a drying Ray County lake more than 12,000 game fish, which were planted in nearby public fishing sites. . . . More than a carload of fertilizer was recently placed in the State fish hatchery ponds for the first complete fertilization the hatcheries have ever received. . . . Missouri's newest State park, Washington State Park in Washington County, will be developed into a one-day park by a CCC camp being established there this month. . . . Fires continue to damage extensive areas of potential game bird and animal refuges in the Ozarks.

The Missouri State meet of the Fox Hunters' Association, Inc., will be held at Sugar Lake, three miles south from Rushville, Buchanan County, July 23 to 28.

Arrangements are being made for some displays of game birds, fish and fur-bearing animals at the American Royal Small Stock Exposition in Kansas City, April 13, 14 and 15. The State Game and Fish Department will have an exhibit of quail and game fish. A show of dogs will be a feature of the program.

Provision crops for winter feeding of game birds and animals will be started this spring on over 700 acres of State-owned park lands. The forage crops will be planted under the direction of park keepers at Meramec, Indian Trail, Sam A. Baker and Roaring River State parks. Lespedeza, alfalfa, soy beans, cane, kaffir corn, milo maize and corn will be put into the ground for growth. It is the plan of the department to harvest the grain for distribution in areas where food shortages occur. Much of the crops will be permitted to remain standing for sustenance of wild life found in the park refuges.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL LEAGUE IS FORMED

A baseball league among the Parochial Schools of the city has been organized and will play at nine grounds. Among the grounds to be used are Murphy, Carondelet, Forest Park, Fairgrounds, Sherman Park, Concordia, O'Fallon, Sublette, Heman Park.

At least four teams will be in each league and in some there will be four or five.

Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, is to provide a trophy for the league.

The Parochial schools have also formed a soft ball league and will play at Murphy Park, Dakota playgrounds, Sublette Park, Fairgrounds, Sherman Park, Pontiac Park, K. of C. Park in Webster Groves, Heman Park, O'Fallon Park and O'Regan playgrounds.

TWO AMATEURS, ONE A JUNIOR, HAVE HANDICAP OF ONE FOR 1934

Tom Draper Jr. of the Forest Park Club attains the distinction of a "one" handicap, sharing the top position with Mike Roach of Westborough, according to the official handicap rating list made public by the St. Louis District Golf Association late yesterday. Draper is rated a junior golfer and his success in climing into the select circle, with an average of 73.6 for the five handicap rounds, considered by the committee, indicates he has unusual ability. Roach has been prominent among local golfers for several seasons. The official list will serve as a standard for all handicap events here this season.

Following Roach and Draper in the "two" handicap group are Jimmy Manion, Ray Gates, Chester O'Brien, Bill Bentley and four golfers who did not participate in handicap tournies.

Three well-known golfers share "scratch" honors at the top of the professional ranking. They are Benny Richter, southpaw professional from Triple A; Orville White of Meadow Brook, and Ralph Guldahl of St. Louis Country Club.

Normandie Golf Club will be the scene of the St. Louis district championship tournament, June 25 to 30, it was announced by the committee. No other major tournament has been awarded thus far.

HIGH SCHOOL LEAGUE BASEBALL CONTESTS ARE POSTPONED; RAIN

The weatherman was up to his usual spring tricks again and his deluge of Friday night washed out the opening City High School League program of three games which were to have been played yesterday afternoon at the Public School Stadium.

Rain has interfered with the schedule in the past, so the league board made provisions for playing off postponements by leaving week days open. Blewett will oppose McKinley, tomorrow; Beaumont will battle Central, Tuesday and Cleveland will play Soldan, Wednesday, in first round games, unless there is more precipitation.

Skeet Shoot Today

The Riverside Skeet and Gun Club, whose shooting field is located at Olive Street road and the Missouri River, will hold a team shoot today to determine the marksmen that will represent the club in a skeet event on the same field next Sunday. Invitations for next Sunday's meet have been sent to skeet clubs within a radius of 100 miles of St. Louis.

DERBY SHAPES UP AS A WIDE-OPEN RACE, WINN SAYS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7.—The 73-year-old champion of the Kentucky Derby is going to the post again tomorrow, as frisky a thoroughbred as ever nudged his nose to the barrier.

He is Col. Matt J. Winn, guiding genius behind the Derby, who saw the first running of the classic from the back seat of his father's grocery wagon in 1875. He's going to Louisville to set the stage for the sixtieth running of the race, which he has promoted for the last 33 years.

With tremendous enthusiasm, Col. Winn believes the 1934 Derby will be up to the standard, in interest and attendance, with the derbies of five years ago, before something happened to this country in 1929, when everybody became troubled with the shorts, principally the shorts in money. He said reservations for box seats were double that of a year ago, indicating to him, that an old-time bumper crowd would view the race at Churchill Downs, May 5.

"Racing Is on Upgrade."

"Racing is on the upgrade," Col. Winn said, "judging from the reports we have received from the winter tracks. Florida had a phenomenal season, and Agua Caliente had its best year in four seasons.

"The 1934 Derby shapes up to me a wide open race with a possibility for a field of 21 starters, nearing the record of 22 starters which went to the post when Reigh Count triumphed in 1928. There is an excellent chance for either a maiden or a filly to win this year. The outstanding maiden is Sir Thomas, with Mata Hari, the brilliant little filly which raced with such tremendous success as a two-year-old last season, a strong possibility.

The Kentucky Derby is a race for three-year-olds, conducted by a 73-year-old genius of racing who doesn't look a bit older than 50. He has a ruddy complexion of a schoolboy, snow white hair, and is entering the task of arranging for the classic with the same spirit and enthusiasm which has carried him on to success for years.

When Louisville Went Broke.

All derbies thrill Col. Winn, but the biggest excitement he ever got out of watching one was back in 1889 when Spokane, a Western bred three-year-old, triumphed over Proctor Knott, owned by Sam Bryant of Louisville.

"That race gave me my biggest thrill, because I was married that year and it was the first derby Mrs. Winn had ever seen. Everybody in Louisville bet hook, line and sinker on Proctor Knot, because of his triumph in winning the first Futurity in New York the year previous. All the Kentuckians thought the horse was invincible, and the race broke everybody in Louisville."

The Kentucky Derby is by no means a rich man's race for the Bradleys, the Whitneys, the Hertz' and others of wealth. In 1924 it was won by Mrs. R. M. Hoots, an Indian woman from Oklahoma, who sent her Black Gold to the post at a time when a dollar looked like a thousand to her because her pocketbook was so lean.

Sir Thomas and Riskulus 8 to 1 Derby Favorites

TAKING precedence over Mata Hari and Chicstraw, Sir Thomas (a maiden) and Riskulus, winner of the Caliente Derby, were made equal choices as favorites for the Kentucky Derby today, odds 8 to 1.

Betting Commissioner Tom Kearney announced that he was holding Mata Hari and Chicstraw at 10 to 1.

The entry of E. R. Bradley (as a group), including Bazaar, Baker's Dozen, Blue Again and Boy Valet, was quoted at 10 to 1 for the entire stable, but separate quotations against each Bradley nominee held Bazaar and Baker's Dozen at 20 to 1, Blue Again at 40 to 1 and Boy Valet at 50 to 1.

The George D. Widener entry was made favorite over all those stables having more than one entry. Kearney laid 8 to 1 against the three nominees of Widener—Chicstraw, Kawagoe and Jack Low. The Brookmeade Stable, with Time Clock, Cavalcade, Anarchy and Good Goods, was held at 10 to 1.

Individual quotations not named above included: Cavalcade, 12; Time Clock and Singing Wood, 20; Discovery, 25; Black Buddy, Soon Over and Sgt. Byrne, 30; Collateral, Exponent, Roustabout and The Immortal, 40.

MADISON BEATS GRANITE CITY IN TRACK MEET

Granite City and Madison high schools made their initial bow in 1934 track and field activity yesterday at Granite City in a dual track meet which Madison won, 62 to 60. Both schools are members of the Southwestern Illinois high school conference, but yesterday's meet was a non-league engagement.

Granite City captured eight firsts and displayed an array of individual talent that is expected to put them well up in the running in future Southwestern meets, but Madison took enough seconds and thirds to win the first meet.

COCHRAN WINS IN PLAYOFF FOR BILLIARD TITLE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Welker Cochran of San Francisco cut loose with all his cunning today to smother Erich Hagenlacher of Germany, 400 to 139, in four innings, the shortest match of the meeting, in a playoff for first money in the International 18.2 balkline billiards tournament.

The Californian, who held the title in 1928, forced a playoff by defeating Hagenlacher last night. Today he wasted no time in getting the jump. The German won the lag and ran 44. Cochran stepped up and before he missed a three-cushion attempt, had piled up 217 points.

Hagenlacher came back with a string of 43, missing on a one-cushion shot at the head rail, and Cochran picked up 23 on his second chance at the table. A long draw shot stopped Hagenlacher after he had added only one billiard to his total, and Cochran came up with 100. He missed a two-cushion shot off the side rail, leaving Hagenlacher excellent position. The German counted 51 before he miscalculated a masse draw shot, and Cochran closed the tournament with an unfinished run of 60.

Cochran was Hagenlacher's jinx throughout the tournament. After the German star had won two straight, Cochran beat him. He regained the lead, only to have Cochran go into a tie with last night's victory and carry off the major prize today.

Margaret Lamy Engaged to Wed Walter Averill

Announcement Made at Dinner Party Given by Prospective Bride's Sister—Wedding in Fall.

THE engagement of Miss Margaret Lamy, daughter of C. Oscar Lamy, 1 Forest Ridge, and Walter Hollis Averill, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hollis Averill, was announced last night at a dinner party given by Miss Lamy's debutante sister, Miss Jane, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lamy.

Guests at the party were limited to the families of Miss Lamy and her fiance and close friends. The table had for a centerpiece a large wishing-well banked with white blossoms and filled with cards bearing the names of the engaged pair attached by white ribbons to each place. Following the announcement each guest wrote wishes for the prospective bride and Mr. Averill in spaces provided on the cards. The wishes were deposited in the well and later read to the guests.

Miss Lamy attended Sacred Heart Academy in St. Louis and completed her studies at Marymount College of the Sacred Heart in Tarrytown, N. Y. She has traveled extensively and spent a year in Europe. Her mother was the late Miss Mary Sheehan of St. Louis.

Mr. Averil is a nephew of Mrs. Ignatius McMenamy, 6018 Clemens avenue, with whom he makes his home. His mother was Miss Mary Wise. He is a graduate of St. Louis University and is on the staff of the national advertising department of the Globe-Democrat.

Miss Helen Green Engagement Made Known

Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Green to Be Married to Leonard L. Bacon of Old New York Family.

DR. AND MRS. JOHN GREEN of 243 Westgate avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Celeste Green, to Leonard Lee Bacon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Beaumont Bacon of Rochester and "Beauthwaite," Webster, N. Y. Miss Green is a graduate of Mary Institute and Smith College, and later received a master's degree from Radcliffe College. She has traveled extensively in Europe. She is the granddaughter of the late Dr. John Green, of the late Hon. Isaac H. Sturgeon, and great-granddaughter of the late Mrs. Beverly Allen. For several years she has made her home in the East.

Mr. Bacon is an alumnus of Yale and of the Harvard Law School. He is great-grandnephew of the late Samuel Lee Selden, Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals of New York and is related to Dr. William Beaumont, distinguished physician during the early days of St. Louis. He is a member of the University Club of Rochester and is associated with the law firm of Harris, Beach, Folger, Bacon, and Keating of that city.

The announcement was made yesterday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Green at a small mixed tea for relatives and close friends. The tea-table was decorated with clusters of African daisies and tall lighted tapers. Assisting were: Miss Lucretia and Miss Elizabeth Green, sisters of the bride-to-be, the former a debutante of the past winter; Mrs. Harmon Green, her sister-in-law; Mrs. Norris Allen, Mrs. Francis Mesker, Mrs. Roland Steubner, Mrs. Joseph Bondi Taussig, Miss Charlotte Ewing and Mrs. John Gardiner Flint.

Miss Green, and Mr. Bacon who arrived Friday to be a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Green for the week-end, will be guests of honor at a buffet luncheon to be given today by Miss Green's aunt, Miss Elizabeth Green, at her home, 4401 McPherson avenue.

Margaret Vieths Weds In Church Ceremony

THE last important social event of Easter week was the wedding at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon of Miss Margaret Carr Vieths, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar H. Vieths, 6432 Cecil avenue, and Mortimer Perry Burroughs Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer P. Burroughs of Price road. Only members of the two families attended the ceremony, which was performed in the chapel of the Church of St. Michael and St. George by the Rev. Dr. Karl Morgan Block. Simple decorations of Easter lilies and candles adorned the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was unattended. She wore an imported afternoon gown of pale blue moss crepe designed with three-quarter length sleeves and a square necked bodice. The gown was adorned with dainty collars and cuffs fashioned from a series of ruffles of narrow white organza ruching. She wore a hat of fine dark blue straw and blue accessories, and carried an old-fashioned round bouquet of gardenias. For traveling a dark blue cloth coat was added to her ensemble. William Burroughs, a student at Harvard, was his brother's best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Burroughs left immediately after the ceremony for the East. They will sail Wednesday from Baltimore on the City of Hamburg for Paris, where they will live for a year.

The bride is a graduate of John Burroughs School and Holton Arms in Washington. She made her debut two years ago and is a member of the Junior League. She has served as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball. Her mother was Miss Louise McCreery, a former Veiled Prophet Queen. Her aunt, Mrs. Loren Whitaker Sloan, came to St. Louis from Kokomo, Ind., for the wedding.

Erwin Rumsey Hilts Weds in New York

NEW YORK, April 7.

MISS HARRIET CANFIELD JACKSON, daughter of Mrs. Gilbert Kinney of New York City and Greenwich, Conn., was married yesterday afternoon in St. James' Episcopal Church, New York, to Erwin Rumsey Hilts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Philip Hilts, of St. Louis.

White and green calla lillies combined with snapdragons and a profusion of ferns formed the setting for the ceremony, performed by the rector, the Rev. Dr. Horace W. B. Donegan. The organist, G. Darlington Richards, gave a recital before the service, and a vested choir sang.

The bride, who is a daughter of the late Hugh W. Jackson, of Baltimore, Md., walked to the altar with her stepfather, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding dress was a princesse model of ivory colored satin, made with a low cowl neck line, long tight sleeves and a train which was a continuation of the skirt. Her veil of tulle was held off the face by a narrow band of satin and her flowers were white orchids and lilies of the valley. Following this year's trend, all the attendants were costumed alike in green organza with straw hats of the same shade, and they carried white lilacs, tulips and freesia.

The bride's attendants were Miss Janet Cluett of Williamstown, Mass., maid of honor; Mrs. William W. Brainard Jr., Mrs. Warren F. Lutz, Miss Gladys Rockefeller, Miss Janet Stone, Miss Kathleen Coleman of New York; Mrs. W. Boulton Bates of Morristown, N. J.; Miss Barbara Goodsell of Bridgeport, Conn., and Miss Sylvia Grinnell of New Bedford, Mass.

Mr. Hilts had Thomas R. Wagner of Lakeville, Conn., for best man. The ushers were Hugh W. Jackson and Burton H. Jackson of Greenwich, Conn., brothers of the bride; Lee Rumsey and Randolph Moore, cousins of the bridegroom; Robert Lindsey, Byrnes McDonald, Cooper Schieffelin and William W. Brainard Jr. of New York; Frank E. Sagendorph of Philadelphia and Thorne Sherwood of Montclair, N. J.

The ceremony was followed by a small reception at the Junior League clubhouse, which had been decorated with white spring flowers and cybotium ferns.

For their wedding trip Mr. Hilts and his bride will go to Florida for tarpon fishing and on their return they will live in Greenwich.

The bride is a graduate of Ethel Walker School and spent the after-graduation year in Europe. She was presented to society at the Bachelors' Cotillion in Baltimore, and later made her bow

What Women Are Doing in Politics

"Why do women have so little power in politics?"

With this question, Miss Mary Dewson of New York, director of the Women's Division of the Democratic National Committee, began her talk to the hundreds of Democratic women who came to Jefferson City Friday from every town in the state, crowding the chamber of the House of Representatives and overflowing into the galleries.

"You may say we do have power or we would not have received the recognition we were given in recent appointments. But such appointments—Judge Allen, Ruth Bryan Owen, and even Frances Perkins, who, somehow, is looked upon in Washington not as a woman but as a human being—such appointments are but gestures. And there will be few to follow.

"How have we been controlled, so that we have no power? For one thing, women have been kept out of the party councils. The county vice chairman is usually picked, not because women admire her, but because her name is agreeable to the county chairman. And women have no separate budget. Nor have women any part in the distribution of patronage. And what about women candidates? Are they the choice of the women nor are they some man's widow? Are the duties of the precinct committeewoman very clearly defined, or are they limited mostly to doorbell ringing?"

In response to questions, Miss Dewson gave two concrete examples of what women can do to go about getting greater local power. "First, you must get more convincing women, women with more prestige in their communities, to run for party offices. Second, you should elect, not appoint, your precinct committeewomen."

The afternoon session of the convention was devoted to discussion of the Reporter Plan which is being adopted by Democratic women's clubs as a method of studying administration policies. The degelates were entertained at tea in the executive mansion, in the afternoon where they were received by Mrs. Park, wife of the Governor, Mrs. Charles B. Faris, national committeewoman, and Mrs. Mary Edna Cruzen, vice-chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

The West End Women's Republican Club, will have its monthly luncheon meeting, at the Fairmont Hotel, Wednesday, 12:30 p. m.

The program of entertainment will be opened by the Washington University debating team, Robert Young, director, the subject being—"Resolved That the Powers of the President of the United States Be Increased as a Settled Policy." Candidates for the judiciary will be present.

Mrs. E. E. Rudolph, president.

Pastor Officiates At Son's Wedding

MISS RUTH NIEHAUS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Niehaus, 7245 Creveling drive, and the Rev. Oliver F. Graebner, of Pittsburgh, were married last night at 8 o'clock at Bethel Lutheran Church, University City. The bridegroom's father, Dr. Theo Graebner, of Corcordia Seminary, officiated. The altar and sanctuary were banked with ferns and palms, and lighted by ivory cathedral candles.

The bride was gowned in white net over white satin, made simply with a train of satin depending from the hips. She wore a bridal veil of lace and carried calla lilies. Mrs. Karl Maier of Waynesboro, Va., was matron of honor for her sister, Miss Marcia Niehaus, another sister, and Miss Margaret Graebner, Miss Amy Wisman and Miss Ruth Harms were bridesmaids. Alexander Graebner, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Robert Reuter of Pittsburgh, Elmer Lehr, Otto Fuerbringer, the Rev. Karl Maier of Waynesboro, Va., Edward Engler Jr., and Norbert Harms.

The matron of honor wore a gown of pale pink tulle over satin, and the bridesmaids were gowned in net in pastel tones. They carried bouquets of roses to harmonize with their gowns.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Niehaus. The rooms were decorated in roses and spring flowers.

After the honeymoon Dr. Graebner and his bride will live in Pittsburgh.

English Court Now at Windsor

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, April 7.

THE court has quit Buckingham Palace for Windsor Castle, where it will remain a few days and then return to London for the opening of the season.

King George's visit to Windsor has dispelled rumors concerning his health. Windsor Castle, a bleak fortress, is more picturesque than comfortable. Even a few days' residence there is a trial for the health of the most robust.

For the last few years, the King's physicians have discouraged royal visits to Windsor, but now they have relented.

The titled daughter of an American mother, Princess Augusta of Hesse, will be among those presented at this year's courts. Her mother, Princess Elizabeth of Hesse, was formerly Elizabeth Rogers, daughter of Richard Reid Rogers of New York.

The Princess and her family plan to stay in London for the season and entertain extensively.

The Baroness de Cartier de Marchienne, wife of the Belgian Ambassador, who was formerly Marie Dow of New York, has returned and resumed entertaining at the Embassy.

Prominent among American women organizing charities is the young Countess Garrick, formerly Mrs. Marion Donoghue Edwards of Philadelphia, who is now staying with Constance Duchess of Westminster. They are planning a "horseshoe ball" to be held the night of the Derby.

Music Committee Program.

Mrs. Maude Younglove of the Twentieth Century Art Club, will talk on current musical events Friday at 10:30 a. m. in Vandervoort's Auditorium under the auspices of the Eighth District Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs. A short sketch of the lives of Pearl Curran and Rudolph Ganz will be given by Mrs. Cyrus Gentry, who will also sing several songs by these composers. Miss Josephine Pitkin, a member of the Morning Etude Club, will play a sonata by Roy Harris and will give a sketch of his life.

Webster College Benefit Bazaar

A TWO-DAY bazaar for the benefit of Webster College will be given at the college Friday and Saturday by the students of Webster and Nerinx Hall, the Lorett Sisters Academy in Webster Groves.

The booths, to be open in the evening, will contain dolls and animals, fancy work, white elephants, fish ponds and food.

Friday afternoon starting at 2:30 o'clock features especially attractive to children will be offered. A circus and side show will be produced by two college juniors, Miss Mary Carroll and Miss Elizabeth Christman. A horse and wagon will furnish rides for the kiddies and a dog and cat will be given away. Friday night "Dizzie" Dean and "Pepper" Martin will be present and give away autographed baseballs.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30, there will be a card party, of which Miss Catherine McKenna is general chairman. Bazar booths will open at 5 o'clock and at 6 an Italian dinner will be served under the personal direction of John Ravarino, father of Miss Frances Ravarino, a Webster College student. The booths will operate until midnight Saturday night when an auto radio and a doll dressed as a Loretto Sister will be given away.

Arrangements have been in charge of:

Miss Eleanor Carroll, president of the student council, assisted by Miss Alice L. Widmer, Webster College alumna of 1931, and the following committee chairmen and co-chairmen: Miss Margaret Crane, Miss Lenore Crowe, Miss Ruth Daugherty, Miss Mary Jane Driscoll, Miss Patricia Doyle, Miss Helen Flori, Miss Dorothy Geis, Miss Cecelia Golden, Miss Helen Keeley, Miss Mary Clare Kline, Miss Dorothy Leahy, Miss Marjorie Mangan, Miss Marjorie Mertz, Miss Sue McMahon, Miss Helen McGirl, Miss Jane O'Donnell, Miss Frances Ravarino, Miss Louise Schmucker, Miss Peggy Sullivan, Miss Evelyn Tate, Miss Madeline Thielen, Miss Mary Margaret Tobin and Miss Peggy Webster.

Each division leader will enlist five captains and each captain five workers. It is hoped to have the organization complete by April 10. All workers and captains will visit the Y. W. C. A. headquarters between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. April 12 to choose names to solicit.

625 to Solicit Symphony Funds

HAVING decided to occupy the Music Hall in the Municipal Auditorium as its permanent home, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra has undertaken a campaign to secure new subscriptions for the coming season. More than 500 women, members of the Women's Committee and Junior Division of that committee, have volunteered to spend much of their time for the next few weeks in a city-wide drive. In addition, 125 young women will work for the success of the next season under auspices of the newly-formed Young Men's Committee.

The campaign is headed by Mrs. Charles Mullikin, assisted by the following six vice-chairmen: Mrs. Edward A. Faust, Mrs. Edgar Rombauer, Mrs. L. Avon Blue Jr., Miss Frances Conant, Mrs. Henry T. Brinckwirth and Mrs. C. Oscar Lamy.

Artist Club Meeting.

The Artist Club will offer a program at the Euclid Building, on Tuesday evening. Margaret Kuehn Rassieur will read a paper, "Modern Music," and will be assisted by Charles Pabor at the piano.

Miss Crowley Engaged to Wed

THE engagement of Miss Harriet Elizabeth Crowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Crowley, 5717 Bartmer avenue, and Gill Marrin Lewis, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. Marrin Lewis of Batesville, Ark., was announced yesterday at an informal tea given by Mrs. Crowley for a group of her daughters' friends.

An arch of white and silver, arranged between the reception hall and living room and entwined with smilax and decorated with wedding bells, bore the names of Miss Crowley and her fiancé. The tea table was adorned with pink roses and spring blossoms and lighted by pink tapers. Assisting at the tea table were Miss Kathleen Crowley, sister of the bride-to-be; Miss Harriet Cummings, Miss Florence Eck, Miss Marie Henry, Miss Louise Jones, Miss Betty McMahon, Miss Margaret Woods, Mrs. Thomas O. Moloney Jr., Mrs. Jack Y. Kiburg and Mrs. Roland H. Stocke. Miss Crowley wore a gown of white crepe and a corsage of orchids.

The prospective bride was graduated from the Academy of the Sacred Heart and Maryville College. She is also a graduate of the Kroeger School of Music. Mr. Lewis is a graduate of Subiaco College, Arkansas, and St. Louis University.

St. Louis Woman's Club April Program

THE April calendar for the St. Louis Woman's Club includes two parties sponsored by the Card Committee. The first, "An evening of duplicate contract" will take place at 8 o'clock. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Edmund A. B. Gareschе is in charge of the evening. The second is the regular monthly card day on Thursday, with luncheon at 1 o'clock preceding the game. Mrs. Joseph F. Hickey, chairman, has chosen prizes for each table.

The Monday afternoon teas will continue. A new activity at the club is the reading of plays. Many are joining the group that is being formed for this purpose.

Mrs. William S. McChesney and her committee have arranged for a special program for the evening of Thursday, April 19. There will be a Parisian Cafe Chantant with musical settings in the ballroom, preceded by dinner at 7:30 p. m. This entertainment will be under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Chapman Byers.

Miss Gertrude Hines To Be Bride May 30

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the engagement of Miss Gertrude Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Hines, 7255 Rule avenue, and Charles J. Knickerbocker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Knickerbocker, 7711 Weston place, Richmond Heights. The wedding will take place Wednesday, May 30.

Miss Hines is a grand niece of the late Rev. Charles Charoppin, S. J., astronomer of St. Louis University, and is related to the Boislinere and Grindon families here. Mr. Knickerbocker attended the Washington University School of Engineering.

Her Engagement Made Known

—Dieckman Photo.

MISS HARRIET ELIZABETH CROWLEY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Crowley, 5717 Bartmer avenue, whose engagement to Gill Marrin Lewis, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. Marrin Lewis, was announced yesterday at a tea given by Mrs. Crowley.

Josephine Lo Piccolo Weds Michael Rizzo

AT an elaborate wedding yesterday morning at St. Margaret's Church, Miss Josephine Lo Piccolo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lo Piccolo, 3957 Cleveland avenue, became the bride of Michael M. Rizzo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rizzo, 1529 Cora avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. A. Moynihan in the presence of several hundred guests.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Vera Lo Piccolo, as maid of honor, and Miss Anne Rizzo, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Annette Lo Piccolo, another sister of the bride; Miss Vita Viviano, Miss Virginia Lo Piccolo, a cousin of the bride; Miss Josephine Palmisano and Miss Pauline Moceri of Memphis, Tenn., were bridesmaids. The bride's young niece, Augustine Dattilo, was flower girl.

Anthony Rizzo was best man for his brother. The groomsmen were Salvatore Lo Piccolo, brother of the bride; Louis Palmisano, Anthony Viviano, Dr. John P. Ferrarra and Hickman Rogers.

The main altar was banked with ferns and palms and adorned with clusters of Easter lilies. More of the greenery and lilies decorated the side altars. Ivory cathedral tapers illuminated the altars and the church. The chancel was decorated with tall baskets filled with Easter lilies against greenery. The pillars of the church were garlanded with smilax and asparagus fern. The bride and her attendants passed down a candle-lighted aisle to the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a high straight neckline at the front and back. There were full sleeves of the satin to the elbow, where there was a long tight cuff of d'Alencon lace that terminated into mitts. The gown was molded to the figure and fell into a three-yard train. At the normal waistline at the front was a diamond-shaped inset of the lace that encircled the waist and formed a panel down the entire length of the train. Her tulle veil, which fell from a cap of the d'Alencon lace, was trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies, the long stems of which were wrapped with white satin.

The maid of honor wore a gown of French blue starched lace, designed with a round neckline and full puffed sleeves of the lace. The skirt, fitted to the figure, was trimmed at the back with cascades of ruffles of the lace that fell into a short train. She wore a novelty hairbraid hat of French blue trimmed with small peach-toned flowers and carried camellias and blue delphiniums. The bridesmaids were in dainty frocks of peach - blow tinted organza. The low oval decolletage was trimmed with French flowers from which fell narrow streamers of French blue velvet. Their skirts, like that of the maid of honor, were trimmed at the back by cascades of ruffles. With their dresses they wore short ruffled capes of the organza and wind-blown hats of the same material. Short organza gauntlets complemented their costumes.

The bridesmaids carried fan-shaped bouquets of full-blown Joanna Hill roses, with two shades of blue delphinium, tied with pale blue satin ribbon. The flower girl wore a frock of white ruffled net trimmed with blue and pink ribbons and carried a basket of blue and pink blossoms.

Mrs. Lo Piccolo wore a ctsoume of dark blue crepe with a matching straw hat and a corsage of orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of dark blue crepe with a jacket trimmed with white fox fur. She wore a small blue hat and a shoulder corsage of orchids.

Following the ceremony a breakfast for the bridal party and the families was served at the Coronado Hotel. The table was decorated with white iris, lilies of the valley and bride's roses and was garlanded with smilax. In the evening a large reception was held at the hotel.

Mr. Rizzo and his bride will go to Cuba and South America on their honeymoon and on their return will live at 4275 Cleveland avenue.

Another Historical Film.

A three-reel American historical photoplay entitled "Vincennes" will be shown at the North Side Y. M. C. A., 3100 North Grand avenue, next Friday evening at 7:30.

"SOSNA" OIL Permanent Wave!

- NO ELECTRICAL CONNECTIONS
- NO HARMFUL CHEMICALS
- NO WIRES

1934 brings to you an amazing development in permanent waving.

The Sosna Oil Permanent Wave hasn't an electric wire or harmful curling chemical to its name. Tiny pads, steamed in beneficial "Sosna" oil, are set to the required heat for your hair, which is also steamed in oil. Then they are applied. It is this special oil that reconditions your hair, and gives it a rich, brilliant lustre. There's no discomfort; you can walk about, relax, be completely comfortable!

You'll want to be one of the first to enjoy the benefits of this astonishing new permanent wave. The results, you'll agree are magnificent . . . well worth the difference between the price of the Sosna and the ordinary permanent wave............. $15

WHAT DID BILL GIVE YOU FOR YOUR BIRTHDAY?
WHAT I'VE ALWAYS WANTED—A WASHING MACHINE LIKE YOURS!
THAT'S FINE NOW YOU'LL HAVE LOTS MORE TIME TO YOURSELF
BUT I CAN'T SEEM TO GET CLOTHES AS WHITE AS YOU DO, CLAIRE. I WONDER WHY WHAT KIND OF SOAP DO YOU USE?
OH, ANY KIND I HAPPEN TO HAVE IN THE HOUSE
THAT'S THE ANSWER! USE RINSO AND YOU'LL SEE THE DIFFERENCE! RINSO GETS CLOTHES SO WHITE THEY DON'T EVEN NEED TO BE BOILED
I'LL GET SOME RIGHT NOW!
ONE WEEK LATER
THAT NEW WASHER'S A PEACH, ALL RIGHT! MY SHIRTS NEVER LOOKED SO WHITE
IT ISN'T ONLY THE WASHER, BILL—I'M USING RINSO NOW—IT GETS CLOTHES 4 OR 5 SHADES WHITER
NOW I CAN WASH DISHES IN HALF THE TIME
Rinso

"RINSO suds are not only a joy in my washing machine—they're no end of help in the dishpan! With Rinso I can do the dishes in half the time. Grease goes in a jiffy. And now my hands never get red or rough."

If you have no washer, don't let another Monday pass without trying Rinso! See how it SOAKS out dirt—saves scrubbing—saves the clothes. See how its rich, lively suds last and last, even in hardest water.

Rinso is safe for your finest cottons and linens, white or colors. Makers of 40 famous washers—home-making experts of 316 leading newspapers—recommend it. Tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute.

EGYPTIANS GOING TO BRAZIL

Cotton Expert Gets Land for Colonization Purposes.

By the Associated Press.

BAHIA, Brazil, April 7.—The Bahia state government has granted great concessions of state land in the Sao Francisco valley, 500 miles inland, to a syndicate headed by Alexandre B. Khatchadourian, Egyptian cotton expert, for colonization purposes.

The syndicate will get as much land as it can use, provided it brings settlers. The area now has few inhabitants, but Khatchadourian sees in it a future long-staple cotton empire. Former cotton technician in Egypt, he came to Brazil several years ago with a British trade mission and found the western Bahia soil and climate well-fitted for growing cotton.

Do as your dentist does . . . when he cleans your teeth

USE POWDER

- 100% Cleansing Properties Twice that of tooth paste
- No Grit—No Pumice Cannot possibly scratch the softest enamel
- Lasts Longer—Costs Less Outlasts tooth paste 2 to 1

POWDER CLEANS AND WHITENS TEETH—as nothing else can

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER—just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used. Dr. Lyon's cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay. Powder leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. People by the thousands are changing daily.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

Here and There On the Air

By J. L. S.

KSD Program News and Notes.

A BRIEF address on Pan-American relations by Secretary of State Cordell Hull will be a feature of a concert by the combined Army, Navy and Marine orchestras at 9:30 next Saturday night on KSD and the WEAF chain. The concert will be given in honor of the South American republics.

Jimmy Durante is billed to take Eddie Cantor's place on the Rubinoff program, starting April 22.

Under the title, "Alice in Orchestralia," the WEAF net and KSD will carry a 4:45 Friday program consisting of dramatized incidents in a little girl's dream visit to the land where the instruments in a symphony orchestra live and talk. The history and uses of each instrument will be developed, and excerpts from symphonic music will be played. On the opening program this week, Alice will attend a concert where her dream begins as she wonders what would happen if she fell into the big bass tuba.

GEORGE ARLISS, Constance Bennett, Ronald Colman, Jack Oakie, Loretta Young, Fredric March and Broadway actors of note will take part in an hour-long broadcast over KSD and the WEAF chain at 6 o'clock next Saturday night. John Beal and Florence Rice will do a scene from "She Loves Me Not;" Tess Gardella, Armida and a chorus will be heard from New York. Arliss will play in a dramatic sketch with Miss Young. Miss Bennett will be heard with Russ Columbo in "The Song of Surrender" and other songs. Jack Oakie and Spencer Tracy will do a comedy scene and Fredric March a dramatic bit. Colman will act as master of ceremonies. Abe Lyman's orchestra will play from New York and A. Newman's from the Pacific Coast.

Mario Cozzi, the baritone who has sung in a number of network concerts, and the Three X Sisters harmony trio will be "guests" on Mary Smalle's Surprise Party at 12:30 noon today on KSD.

Present plans are for Galli-Curci to sing on KSD's Morgan Eastman program the night of June 18 the lullaby that is fancied by the most listeners.

THE largest cast on the air will be heard over KSD at 4:30 Sundays, starting April 15, when Noble Cain's choir, an orchestra led by Josef Koestner, Edward Davies, baritone, and Ennio Bolognini, 'cellist, will be featured. This program KSD has been unable to carry because it has been broadcast from 3:30 to 4 o'clock.

Verna Burke, a St. Louisan who has been singing on NBC chains, will be on the 1 o'clock KSD program tomorrow, being programmed for three songs. Miss Burke is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burke of this city. She has just concluded a theatrical and broadcasting tour in Philadelphia, Boston and Brooklyn. She was featured at the Fox Theater last year.

Romberg's "The Student Prince" will be performed over KSD Tuesday night, from 9 to 10 o'clock, with Gladys Swarthout of the Metropolitan Opera in the role of "Kathie." Nathaniel Shilkret will lead the orchestra, and John Barclay and other widely known radio and Broadway actors will be in the cast.

Trade Notes

General Electric "Prosperity Parade."

A "Prosperity Parade" headed by eight executives from the merchandise department of the General Electric Co., Bridgeport, Conn., will be a feature of a meeting that will be attended by 400 radio and electric appliance dealers throughout the St. Louis trade district tomorrow at the Chase Hotel. The meeting, which will begin at 9:30 a. m. and continue until 5 o'clock, will be in charge of the General Electric Supply Corporation, of which L. C. Arnold is district manager.

The members of the "parade," headed by John M. Wicht, will stage a dramatic prosperity show including complete presentations of new sales and advertising campaigns. It was developed to drive home to dealers the belief of General Electric executives that buying surge unknown in the past four years will be well under way by July 1. New General Electric products will be shown.

The "parade," divided into Northern and Southern tours, will visit 32 key cities, Arnold said.

Philco 32-Volt Sets For Use in Country.

TWO new Philco 32-volt receivers just announced by the Artophone Corporation are designed for homes in the country that have their own electric plants. They are said to have the tone, power and operating characteristics of regular AC Philco sets. Their tuning range is from 520 to 3200 kilocycles, covering regular broadcasting as well as police, aircraft, ship and amateur stations. They have automatic volume control, tone control and special dynamic speaker, as well as special filtered circuits so that 32-volt reception will be free from interference. The sets come in baby grand or lowboy cabinets.

Growing Demand For Radio-Phonograph.

MORE sales of RCA-Victor radio-phonograph combinations than in several years, and a growing demand for records, are reported by Harry Levy of the Aeolian Co. of Missouri. The new interest, Levy says, is due partly to desire of people to hear again and again music popularized by radio, from the new songs to the classics. Another reason, he says, is the marked improvement in recording and records. Persons who have not heard a good phonograph for several years are astonished at the effect produced by one of the new high-fidelity Victor records. As the source of sound is in the same room as the listener, fidelity of tone is increased. Also the sound comes through an improved electric pickup and the same amplifier and speaker used to reproduce broadcasts. Records alone provide means of hearing many artists of the past and other great ones who seldom or never broadcast. Then, again, the owner of a fine phonograph can listen to his favorite music when he is just in the mood for it, whenever he desires to.

According to the CBS chain press agent, the "talent" on Albert Spalding's Wednesday night program "has been augmented by a male quartet and mixed voice ensemble." The quartet members are "Scrappy" Lambert, Tubby Wyant, Leonard Stokes and Robert Moody. "Augmented"? It was bad enough putting Conrad Thibault, the baritone, good singer as he is, on Spalding's program. Probably the program makers, if they could get Kreisler to broadcast, would "augment" his "talent" with a harmony trio.

Auditorium Dedication Addresses on WJZ Net.

ADDRESSES by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Post-Matster-General Farley, Gov. Guy B. Park and Edward Hayes, National Commander of the American Legion, at the dedication of the St. Louis Auditorium will be broadcast from 3:45 to 4:30 next Saturday over the WJZ chain, including KWK.

It is probable also that from 11 to 11:30 Saturday night, April 21, part of the performance of "Aida" in the opera house of the Auditorium will be broadcast over the WEAF chain. Giovanni Martinelli of the Metropolitan will be singing the role of "Rhadames" and Elisabeth Rethberg the part of "Aida."

Hutcheson, Pianist, Plays on KMOX Tonight.

ERNEST HUTCHESON, the pianist, and Howard Barlow's symphony orchestra will play a full hour's concert at 8:30 tonight on KMOX and the CBS chain, including WABC (860). Hutcheson will play with the orchestra Tschaikowsky's B-flat Minor Concerto in full and a group of Chopin pieces.

KTHS and KRLD To Get Full Time.

A SHIFT of stations authorized by the Federal Radio Commission, effective April 29, will affect KRLD, Dallas, Tex., and KTHS, Hot Springs, Ark. These two stations now share time on 1040 kilocycles. KTHS will operate simultaneously with WBAL, Baltimore, Md., on 1060, and KRLD with WTIC, Hartford, Conn., on 1040. WBAL and WTIC share the 1060 kc. channel. The permits are experimental for 90 days, and may be abrogated if too much interference develops. The change will allow KTHS and KRLD full time on the air. Of the 40 clear channels set aside in the 1928 allocation there remain only 31, and indications are that on several of these two stations will be allowed to operate at the same time.

Chicago Stations In Another Fight.

WJJD, Chicago, is seeking the Federal Radio Commission's permission to move its studios from Downer's Grove into Chicago. Attorneys for other Chicago stations are objecting on the ground that the move will increase radio facilities in a city already far over quota and will make more difficult obtaining of greater power by Chicago stations. WJJD lawyers replied that, as Downer's Grove was adjacent to Chicago, there was no point in the overcrowding contention.

Rosa Ponselle will sing "Comin' Through the Rye," "Home, Sweet Home" and arias from "La Traviata" and "Carmen" tomorrow night on KMOX and the CBS net. Nino Martini, the tenor, will sing Wednesday night instead of Saturday. Grete Stueckgold will be the singer in this series Saturday night.

Helen Menken will be the "guest" in the Big Show with Erno Rapee's orchestra and Gertrude Niessen at 8:30 tomorrow night on KMOX.

The Mills Brothers will make their last broadcast before sailing for Europe, on the California Melodies program at 7:45 Tuesday night on the CBS chain and KMOX.

Arturo Toscanini will close the radio concerts by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra with three all-Wagner programs on Sundays, April 15, 22 and 29. Gertrude Kappel, soprano; Paul Althouse, tenor, and Marion Telva, contralto, will be the soloists next Sunday, when the Love Scene from "Tristan and Isolde" will be given.

* * *

Edward A. Hayes, National Commander of the American Legion, will speak over the CBS chain at 10:30 next Saturday night. The occasion will be a dinner in his honor.

Nitka Balieff, creator of "Chauve Souris," the Russian revue which made several highly successful American tours, will be featured on the Paul Whiteman-Deems Taylor programs Thursday nights on KSD, beginning April 26. The droll showman will present sketches from "Chauve Souris" and will introduce and "explain" in the unique English that so fascinated stage audiences.

More Than 600,000 Radio Sets in Missouri.

By MARTIN CODEL.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Projecting forward the radio census taken in 1930 by the U. S. Census Bureau, a new survey of American homes equipped with radio indicates that 602,698 homes in Missouri, or 64.2 per cent, had radio sets as of Jan. 1, 1934. This is an increase of 71.6 per cent over the Federal census figure of four years ago, which was 351,298. Illinois has 1,420,445 homes, or 73.6 per cent, equipped with radio, which is 32.4 per cent above its 1930 figure of 1,072,995.

The survey was made by one of the radio networks in co-operation with the 11 leading radio set manufacturers, 1122 radio dealers and distributers in all the states and a New York trade publishing house specializing in the radio field. It is based on the known number of radios marketed since the Government's census, minus the number sold as replacements in homes already having radios. The manufacturers contributing to the study represent about 90 per cent of the nation's radio production.

Local Painters and Sculptors In Artists' Guild Annual Show

Wide Variety of Subjects, from Seashore to Country and City Life, Chosen by Sixty St. Louis Workers With Palette and Brush—Sculptures, Too.

By MARY POWELL, Supervisor of Art Education, City Art Museum.

THE St. Louis Artists' Guild, since its founding, has served as a background for a continuing stream of general exhibitions and one-man shows, representing a wide range of the work of St. Louis artists. Indeed, it would be difficult to mention offhand any artist of our community who has not been associated at some time with the Artists' Guild.

Unique among its displays is the annual exhibition, open to all artists residing in St. Louis or within a radius of 50 miles of the city. The show now in progress is the twenty-first of the series. It opened on March 25. with a large reception for members, exhibitors and guests, and will continue until April 22.

Heretofore this exhibition has been competitive and money prizes have been awarded by out-of-town jurors. With the twenty-first annual exhibition of oil paintings and sculpture, the artists of the guild have celebrated their maturity, or coming of age, in this activity by voting to omit prizes, which always have been given so generously by encouraging and interested citizens and organizations, including the guild itself.

It has been said that the artists have worked for these prizes and that the spirit of competition has stimulated to a greater vitality and vigor of expression. But this collection of their work displays no lack of power and strength in comparison with former exhibitions and the hospitality of the guild has met with a fine response.

Conservative Trends.

Sixty-two painters and six sculptors are represented in this discriminatingly chosen exhibit. Each artist was allowed to submit five works, from which three might be accepted. Two-thirds of the artists are represented by only one example of work; the rest are each represented by two examples, with the exception of two artists, who have three included.

The greater part of the collection is hung in the main gallery of the Guild and in the lounge. In addition the most advantageous wall, the south wall, of the theater has been used for hanging. It is a lively exhibition and interesting in its variety. Many of the artists are well equipped technically and while they are all fairly conservatives, yet they reflect the new movement that leads from impressionism into the more directly patterned and expressional developments of the time.

Local scenes are always an interesting feature of the annual show. They are indicated this year largely by industrial subjects and backyard views in such canvases as "Sparrows," by Paula Fenske; "Laborers," by R. L. Rigsby; "The Quarry," by R. Taenzer; "Third St., Near Gratiot," by Carl Vogt; "Under the New Bridge," by Mabel Meeker Edsall, and "Along the Tracks," by Joseph Vorst.

In this group, however, those deserving particular comment are "City Cliffs," by Mildred Hagen and "East Side," by Joseph Vorst. The former's presentation of mean, ugly and monotonous abodes shows an unusual resourcefulness in design. A sense of energy and activity has been achieved which relieves the commonplace. Joseph Vorst has simplified the elements of his canvas, "East Side," so that each part takes its place in a unified sweep and swing of line and form that precludes any stopping for storytelling detail and gives a greater understanding of the force of industry.

Figure Paintings.

Especially noteworthy are the figure paintings. They are on the whole well handled in drawing and composition. The most imaginative of these are Fred Carpenter's "Hot Weather" and "The Market Place." There is more emphasis on contour and less confusion in areas of color than is usual in the work of this artist which has resulted in greater decorative value.

The most realistic of the groups of children is Charles F. Galt's "On the Sofa" and the most patterned is Alexandra Korsakoff Galston's "Convalescing Child." Fred Conway's painting, "Bill Conway," is between the two. It is an earnest canvas; sensitive, gay and at the same time pensive. Cleverly designed is Mary McColl's canvas of a man with his books in which the linear quality is dominant.

One of the most consistent of the figure paintings is "The Painter," by Rudolph Tandler. It possesses a distinguished reticence brought about by its quiet, luminous color and tonal interpretation. More literal than this but extremely fascinating is Helen Beccard's "Bobby Bumps." It is one of the few circus themes that have been discovered in the Guild exhibitions and is an outstanding painting in the whole show.

Helen Beccard has another interesting canvas among the paintings of still-life called "Tin and Glass" in which the forms are cleverly reflected in a mirror background. Important among the paintings of still-life is the canvas by Dorothy Quest. It has a most effective pattern of verticals and diagonals in many delightful color sequences and rhythms, but there seems to be too abrupt a transition from the delicate tones of the background to the strong dark green note of the bottle. Other still-life paintings of merit are by Marie Taylor, Eloise Long Wells, Scott MacNutt and Tanasco Milovich.

Flower paintings in any exhibition are a refreshing element and of great popular appeal. Those included here have much to commend them and are not the least important contribution to the show. Distinguished among these is the handsome and dignified "Double Sunflowers" by Agnes Lodwick, a worthy successor to her "Hydrangeas" seen in a previous exhibition. Its full forms and rich, clear color accent the feeling of plenitude. In contrast is Florence Ver Steeg's gay and animated "Spring Flowers."

Sea and Country.

The landscapes are most of them small in size, intimate rather than spacious. Often they reflect the summer sojourns of the artists and range in their subjects from the Rocky Mountains, as seen in Herbert Jackson's "The Glacier," with its clear light and cold color, to the Atlantic coast, a favorite painting place of a number of St. Louis artists. "Gloucester Harbor," by Adele Brooks, "Breakwater, Provincetown," by Martha Hoke and "Portsmouth" and "Rye Harbor Road" by a new exhibitor, Lucie Mackay, and "The Sea at Nubble Light" by Grace Morrill, are all interesting variations of the seacoast theme.

The Ozarks, a subject of considerable interest, has been interpreted in a prettified fashion by Frank Nuderscher in "Flaming Autumn." The nomely cross-roads of the region are set forth with greater strength by Eppensteiner in "Across the Tracks" and its wind swept hills are given a free treatment in Paula Fenske's "Winding Road."

Among the snow scenes are none that have the essence of rigorous winter. A somewhat poetic quality characterizes them. Particularly is this true in "Silver Screen and Gold," by Gustave Goetsch, a composition of interesting contrasts, and "A Snow Scene From My Window," by Emily M. Gross.

Scenes near at hand are represented in "Elsah Inn," by Augusta Finkelnburg, especially pleasing in its treatment of light; "After the Rain," by Mary Gronemeyer, and "The Valley Road," by Phillip Gronemeyer, in both of which are tapestry like color syntheses; and a gaily patterned "Hut in the Woods," by Lillian Thoele.

There is ample material for enjoyment in these landscapes, but especially interesting is the pleasant and original composition, "Water Edge," by Agnes Lodwick in which contrasts of near shadows with distant lights have been managed with insight based upon experience of observation and artistic knowledge.

Excellent Portraits.

The portraits in the exhibition are of varying merits and styles. The traditional adherence to accuracy of detail and texture in representation is exemplified in the faithful likeness of "Mrs. Joseph Givens," by T. Kajiwara. It has been painted with the assaurance that comes with fine technical ability and keen perception. More simplified and generalized is "Sister of Ste. Genevieve," by Aimee Schweig. An atmospheric tonality that is akin to impressionism is seen in the portrait "Wilhelmina," by Ethel Grosskop, and likewise in the paintings by Scott MacNutt of Agnes Cady MacNutt and Harriet. The porrait of Agnes Cady MacNutt is especially sensitive and charming in its elusive color quality. Fine in its characterization is the portrait of "Mr. Davis," by D. C. Nicholson. The sense of youth is notable in the unusually composed portrait with its suggestion of occupation of "Eustaguio," by Amy Isaacs, who has contributed canvases to Guild shows all to seldom in recent years. "Tom," by Milovich; "Bing," by Homan Quen; "Man in a Blue Shirt," by Charles Galt; and "Miss Ann Peek," by H. Mercer Orwig, are all characterful interpretations of personalities, but besides the above is the entertaining and yet wistful "Felicities," by Aimee Schweig.

There is no monumental sculpture in the exhibition, nor are there plaster models for large projects. The sculpture included comprises only portraits and a few decorative pieces, some quite small. "King," by Ella Jens, is an important example in the sculpture group. It is emotionally expressed without being sentimental. Realistic detail is subservient to the general gesture and movement of the head, but the surface treatment is too mannered not to be eventually disturbing. On the other hand, too great insistence upon surface finish and integrity of representation becomes dry and uninteresting. Another example in this small collection, spirited and sympathetic in its interpretation is "Youth at a Party," by Dorothy Jennings. Victor Holm's "Percival Chubb" is of much local interest, as is also the allegorical head of "Truth" from the Masonic Temple. Janet Wallace's "Repose" is a pleasing genre piece.

The jury of selection for this exhibition and also the Hanging Committee was elected by the artists of the guild and was composed of the following painters and sculptors: F. G. Carpenter, E. V. Gauger, T. Kajiwara, Edward Luchtemeyer, J. Scott MacNutt, Charles Quest, Rudolph Tandler, Sheila Burlingame and Dorothy Jennings. Their selection has produced a guild show of this year that is a balanced and comprehensive display of the well established and younger artists of the community. Its great importance and significance lies in the fact that it suggests the possibilities and trends for future work.

of Chicago. One of Society's smartest women. Mrs. Field cares for both her skins . . . each with a different cream. She keeps her Under Skin firm with Pond's Cold Cream, her Outer Skin soft and smooth with Pond's Vanishing Cream.

POND'S
POND'S
POND'S

• For your Under Skin—Pond's delicious Cold Cream, or the quicker melting Pond's Liquefying Cream.

• For your Outer Skin—Pond's Vanishing Cream. Greaseless. Corrects dryness.

● You have TWO SKINS! That's the surprising fact which explains where skin faults really start! In your under skin, lines and wrinkles begin. In your outer skin come dryness, roughness. You need an entirely different cream for each skin.

Oil Cream for the Under Skin—Because your under skin shrinks when its oil glands fail, your outer skin falls into little lines . . . eventually wrinkles! For this under skin, Pond's Cold Cream was made. Oil rich. And penetrating! This cream sinks deep. Supplies the under skin the oils it lacks. Your under skin grows firm! Little lines smooth out! Because this cream penetrates so deep, it is a marvelous cleanser.

Greaseless Cream for the Outer Skin—To keep your outer skin moist and smooth, an entirely different cream was made—Pond's Vanishing Cream. This cream contains a marvelous substance which actually restores moisture to the skin. It smooths away roughness in one application. Being greaseless, it makes a heavenly overnight cream. It holds powder beautifully.

Here's the way MRS. HENRY FIELD uses this Two-Skin Beauty Care:—

"At night, I cleanse with Pond's Cold Cream, wiping it off with Pond's Tissues. Then more Cold Cream. Again the Tissues. Next, Pond's Vanishing Cream. I leave it on all night.

"In the morning and during the day—again Pond's Cold Cream. I finish with Pond's Vanishing Cream to hold my make-up."

Practical Luggage And Clothes Needed For Train Travel

By EMILY POST.

The bride's mother, who had been watching silently, at last remarked, "If you'd take my advice you wouldn't buy any of these things for a train trip."

To which Ann, the bride, patiently replied, "Mother dear, you're way behind the times. Do you think I am going to spend Uncle Henry's check on an old brown suitcase? And carry my hats in a paper bag? And do you think I am going with Bill on the Vestibule Limited in the kind of clothes you wore that time we went to the mountains? If there is one time I want to be pretty, it's now. You can't say the things I've chosen are not pretty?"

"Yes, dear, they're pretty—that's just it. They don't seem sensible."

On the day of the wedding, Ann was surprised to find the fitted dressing case so heavy even before it was packed, but its pale blue leather, cream satin lining and blue enamel fittings enchanted her. Her bridesmaids gathered around her, as ecstatic as she. "Oh Ann, how gorgeous!" And they helped her search for things to fill the bottles and jars, though even so, half were left empty.

That evening when the train thundered into the station, Bill, still wearing his bridal boutonniere, and Ann in her light blue coat trimmed with cream fox fur, were greeted by the broadly smiling porter.

"Yes, sah! Lemme hab yo drawin'-room ticket, boss." The smile collapsed with an elastic let go; his voice fell: "Section Number Leben—dis way."

Ann's pale blue hatbox was too big to go anywhere except on the seat opposite; where her dressing case and Bill's Gladstone bag were also put. She noticed that the initials "A. J." on her luggage looked conspicuously different from the "W. S." on his, and she wished she had chosen "A. S." instead.

Later on Bill suggested that they go to the observation car for a breath of air. As they walked through the train it was obvious that Ann attracted attention. And out in the dust and cinders on the observation platform she became aware that a dress of pale blue taffeta, a large picture hat and fragile dancing slippers had not been a very practical choice.

Almost losing her balance on unstable high-heeled mules in the effort of lugging the weight of her dressing case, Ann went to the dressing room in a negligee of pale blue satin trimmed fluffily with feathers. She could not bear to display her bridal underthings to a roomful of strange women, so when the washbasin was not in use, she kept her negligee on and filled the basin almost full. Suddenly the train jolted and half of the water in the basin spilled over her and splashed on the dressing case at her feet.

By the time the train reached New York late the next afternoon, Ann's pale blue clothes were more than ready for the cleaners, her dressing case was stained and her other luggage emerged from the baggage car as though from a war.

At the hotel, having made no reservations, there was not a room in the house. The clerk, perhaps noticing their honeymoon appearance, added kindly, "Wait—I'll see what I can do." Finally he told them there was a room at the Colornorf. Their baggage was collected and put in a taxi; Bill tipped the bell boy 15 cents, and they drove off. Chagrined by the contemptuous expression of the bell boy at the first hotel, Bill tipped the doorman at the Colornorf a dollar but gave the taxi-driver no tip at all.

He wondered about the price of the room, but he did not want to show his inexperience by asking this question of the room clerk. Their room was reassuringly small, though luxuriously comfortable; their own bathroom a delight. Ann put on a beige dress and hat, Bill changed into another tweed suit, and they went down to dinner. An orchestra was playing. The men all wore dinner coats and nearly all the women were in evening dress. The next day, therefore, Ann went down to lunch without a hat—and found herself the only hatless woman in the room. They went to the theater (musical comedies) several times. Bill was reassured by the prices printed on the tickets. At the end of the week Bill received his bill, which included theater tickets and night-club table reservations. The total was of such unexpected size that he had to telegraph his father for additional funds, and he and Ann left for home that same day.

This story is told merely to indicate a few of the mistakes that unknowing travelers can make. To begin with, luggage should be reduced to the minimum in size as well as in quantity. Perishable leather must always have a waterproof traveling cover to protect it. A woman's clothes should be serviceable. Those of sports variety that won't spoil and a hat that won't blow off are equally ideal for the observation platform of a train and the deck of a ship. A stateroom on the train would have cost very little more than a section and would have assured them complete privacy and dressing room equipment as well. Refusal to ask prices proved Bill a novice, since the habitual traveler never hesitates to ask "How much?" And then answer "That's all right" or "That's too much!" Especially is this true of theater tickets for the great successes, for which (if the hotel has to buy from speculators) an unreasonable premium may be required.

Much luggage, particularly when expensive looking and requiring two bell boys to carry it, demands 25 cents to each boy. Taxi tips should be 10 to 15 cents up to a 50-cent fare; 15 to 20 cents up to a dollar.

Chance That Geneva Session Tuesday Can Galvanize Arms Parley Into Life Seems Hopeless

Only Courses Open Apparently Are to Admit Failure, Try to Break Franco-German Deadlock or Start All Over.

By ALBIN E. JOHNSON.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
GENEVA, Switzerland, April 7.

WITH the fate of the International Conference for Reduction and Limitation of Armaments, the future of the League of Nations and perhaps the maintenance of world peace at stake the bureau of the almost defunct disarmament parley will meet in Geneva Tuesday for an eleventh hour effort to salvage the cause of disarmaments.

Upon the shoulders of a dozen or so statesmen will fall the task of either (1) bringing to an end the two years of futile deliberations and winding up the conference as painlessly as possible, (2) providing for a continuance of the apparently hopeless and endless diplomatic negotiations on the off chance of breaking the Franco-German deadlock, or (3) going back to the beginning for a fresh start by restating, in terms more susceptible of attainment, the ultimate objectives of the conference.

Without exaggeration it may be safely said that the responsibilities facing the Bureau are greater than those which have confronted any similar group of statesmen and diplomats since the World War ended.

May Face or Dodge Issue.

If they are honest and face facts squarely—are more courageous than cautious—they may admit that disarmament, at this time, is a political impossibility, and recommend that the conference be adjourned, regardless of what the international repercussions may be. The cost of such a decision, which, of course, would have to be ratified by the General Commission of the conference in a plenary session, might easily be catastrophic. It would almost certainly mean the demise of the League of Nations, or at best, the devolution of the Geneva organization into something comparable to the Interparliamentary Union or the old Hague Court. As an influence in international relations its role would henceforth be negligible.

If the bureau is timid—and perhaps wise—it may seek by every means at its command to avoid a showdown. It may appeal to the Powers to resume their efforts, with new determination, to bridge the gap that exists between France's insistence upon security and Germany's demand for equality. Literally, closing that gap seems impossible, and everybody knows it.

London Fiasco Recalled.

The other course open to the Bureau, namely, to go back to the beginning and make a fresh start, on the surface appears difficult. The dangers of admitting failure, however, are so great that no government may dare to assume responsibility for a breakdown. But should this course be adopted a procedure similar to that followed by the London Economic Conference may emerge. A small commission would be appointed to wind up the pourparlers of the past two years and pending its report the big Powers would explore the possibilities of resuming negotiations at some future date along different lines.

Where these explorations might lead is difficult to foresee. The French undoubtedly will stick to their demand for security to the bitter end. Thus far their only clear definition of what security involves has been German armament inferiority. However there are indications that an unqualified promise on the part of Great Britain—and perhaps also other signatories of the disarmament treaty—to come to the assistance of France in the event of an unprovoked war might be acceptable. For Washington to make such a committment obviously is not to be expected, but European countries might easily do so. The British are considering also an offer of economic sanctions against a peace-breaking state, which interests France.

As for Germany's abandoning, or softening her claims to equality, that is possible but highly improbable, particularly since London and Rome, amongst others, have recognized that right. Hitler, however, has given one demonstration of his strength by telling the German nation to forget the hated Polish Corridor for a decade. He may conceivably be persuaded to ask them to forget about rearmament for the time being. But, as in the case of the corridor, he would have to have his quid pro quo, the nature of which is still to be revealed.

Who's Who in Bureau.

Participating in Tuesday's Bureau meeting will be representatives of at least a dozen of the sixty odd countries which have taken part in the disarmament conference since it convened in February, 1932. The Bureau is composed of the following states: Great Britain, France, Italy, Spain, Germany, the United States, Russia, Poland, Japan and a Scandinavian, a Balkan and a Latin American state.

Sir John Simon is expected to represent England; Foreign Minister Barthou, France; Baron Pompeii Aloisi, Italy; Foreign Minister Beck, Poland; Minister of Public Instruction Salvador de Madariaga, Spain; Foreign Commissar Litvinoff or Ambassador Dogvaleevsky, Russia; Ambassador N. Sato, Japan; and Norman Davis and Minister Hugh Wilson, the United States. As president of the Disarmament Conference Arthur Henderson will preside. His aides will be Nicolas Politis, Greek vice-president and Edouard Benes, Foreign Minister of Czecho-Slovakia, who is reporter. Secretary General Joseph Avenol, and the director of the Disarmament Section, Th. Aghnides, will represent the League.

26 Months of Talk.

To get a proper perspective of the critical situation which exists one must go back to the beginning. It was 26 months ago that the conference for reduction and limitation of armaments was convened, after more than eight years of arduous preparatory work by the various commissions (on which representatives of the United States, Russia, Turkey—all non-League states—served), and the League Council and Assembly. The purpose of the conference, its procedure and ultimate objectives were based upon (a) Article 8 of the Covenant, (b) the Briand-Kellogg outlawry of war pact and (c) various resolutions passed by the conference itself.

The first of these resolutions, adopted in April, 1932, laid down the principle that the conference should draft a convention providing for reduction of armaments by stages in accordance with Article 8 of the Covenant. Another resolution adopted in July, 1932, called for:

1. Substantial reductions of existing armaments;
2. Abolition of chemical and poison gas warfare;
3. Suppression of all bombardment by air and abolition of bombing planes, and
4. Reduction of naval armaments.

Equality vs. Security.

The conference steadfastly refused to commit itself on the delicate questions of equality raised by the Germans, nor was it able to define just what was meant by France's demand for security. Enmeshed in complicated political technicalities which involved the sanctity of the Versailles Treaty,

How England Has Organized Agriculture, Fixed Prices and Regulated Sales and Production

National Control Over Five Products Is Already in Effect, Each Under an Individual Board With a Central Governing Body and Inclusion of Other Lines Is Contemplated—Producer Fined If He Exceeds His Set Quota.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, April 7.

WHILE the United States under the "New Deal" policy are just now attacking with vigor their special problem of agriculture as well as industrial surpluses, the British Government during the last two years has been implementing a far-reaching and intensive codification of British farm and agricultural products which is rapidly leading to the complete trustification of the production and wholesale distribution of all the food products grown in this country. This to encourage more production as well as give the farmer fairer prices, because, as is well known, these islands now grow only about one-third of their food supplies.

Up to the present time, five schemes, as the codes are called here, have been approved by the Minister of Agriculture, sanctioned by Parliament and put into operation. They are, in the order of their initiation, the Hops Marketing Scheme, the Pigs Marketing Scheme, the Bacon Marketing Scheme, the Milk Marketing Scheme and the Potato Marketing Scheme. Under the terms of these schemes a national monopoly is created for the production and wholesale distribution of each of the products named.

Board Administrative Code for Each Product.

All follow a nearly identical pattern as regards the provisions for administration and the powers and objects of the administrators. To begin with, every scheme was worked out by a special Government committee of reorganization which drew up the plan for each industry in question. These committees worked in close co-operation with the producers of the products concerned. In the case of the Potato Scheme, for instance, the code put into force was practically written by the National Farmers' Union.

The central and administrative authority for each scheme is the board; in the case of potatoes, the Potato Marketing Board; and the nucleus of the board is its Executive Committee. This board is elected by the individual producers of the product with which it is concerned. In most of the schemes, the country is divided into districts and the producers or growers living in a district elect one or more members of the board. There are, in addition, regional or district committees, elected by the producers therein.

The board having been set up, every producer of the product with which it deals must register with it. No unregistered producer may sell his product in this country. Furthermore, the board fixes the terms and conditions under which the producer sells to the middleman; the price, quality, etc. In addition, in the case of most of the schemes so far initiated, the board controls the supply of the commodity in question by imposing a production quota on the producer. Instead of paying the producer to limit his production, as is being done in the United States with regard to certain crops, an agricultural marketing board, with the force of law behind it, simply tells him the maximum figure which his production must not exceed. The boards have power to impose heavy fines on those producers who disobey orders.

Each Marketing Scheme Is Self-Governing Group.

Inasmuch, however, as each marketing scheme is a self-governing corporation, controlled through the voting power of its members, by the producers themselves, it is not expected that there will be many cases of insubordination.

The cost of the administration of the marketing schemes by their respective boards is met by a levy on the registered producers in each scheme; an assessment on each crop acre or on each unit of the product which is marketed. The board may also charge fees for registering sales contracts and for certain other special work.

Most of the marketing boards have other powers. They may, themselves, buy the product with which they deal and engage in the marketing thereof. They may lend money to their respective producers and may borrow money. In addition, the Hops and Milk Marketing boards have an obligation not shared by the other boards. They must buy any surplus product of their respective producers which the latter are unable to sell.

The policy under which all this has been done goes back to 1931. In July of that year, Ramsay MacDonald's last Labor Government, shortly before it fell and the first National Government was formed, passed through Parliament the first Agricultural Marketing act. This law provided that if the Minister of Agriculture was "satisfied that the scheme will conduce to the more efficient production and marketing of the regulated product," he might present for the approval of Parliament marketing schemes requiring the registration of producers and laying down conditions concerning the sale, grading, packing, advertising, etc., of products covered by the scheme. It also enabled a marketing board to fix maximum or minimum prices. Finally, it set up a system of committees to consider and investigate consumers' complaints.

This act, however, did nothing to protect the British producers, even though he might be incorporated in a marketing scheme, from the unrestricted competition of foreign imports. The present Government, however, took up that phase of the farmers' problem and last summer passed through Parliament another Agricultural Marketing act. It was really more of a quota act for it empowered the Board of Trade to issue orders limiting the importation of any agricultural product covered by a marketing scheme; provided that, where imports were regulated, the Minister of Agriculture could issue orders limiting the quantity of the home-produced product that might be sold; provided that, with due compensation, the number of producers could be reduced and extended the powers of the marketing boards as defined in the first act, by enabling them to regulate the quantity that might be sold of the products under their jurisdiction.

Britons Get First Shot at Domestic Market.

Thus MacDonald's Labor Government planned merely to help the farmer by a more orderly and scientific method of marketing, leaving him still to struggle with the effects of the law of supply and demand and the competition of foreign imports. But MacDonald's National Government decided that the farmer must, so far as was compatible with various trade treaties and the Ottawa agreements, be given the first shot at the domestic market.

The other major difference in the policy of the two Governments is in regard to the protection of the consuming public. Laborites and independent Liberals today assert that, under the first Agricultural Marketing Act, the Labor Government was determined to protect the consumer from profiteering and that the provisions to that end offered by the present Government are totally inadequate.

There are today two official organizations which are supposed to protect the buying public. First, there is the Consumers' Committee, appointed by the Prime Minister, consisting of about 21 members. This body has only the power of investigation and recommendation. Then there is a smaller Committee of Investigation, appointed by the Minister of Agriculture, to which any report of the Consumers' Committee would probably be referred. This second committee, also, merely has the power of investigation and recommendation.

"No Future for Farming Without Higher Prices."

As a matter of fact, the Ministry of Agriculture is not worrying about price increases for the time being but rather working toward that end. Speaking in the House of Commons a few months ago, Walter Elliot, Minister of Agriculture, said that agricultural production in this country must be "insulated" and that "an insulated market means an insulated price." Then he added, "When I asked the House for changes which may mean a higher level of prices in this country, let us pull ourselves together and face up to the fact that without that higher level of prices there is no future for agriculture in this country."

The Government's agricultural policy, is in fact, two-fold. In the first place, it is working on the basis that something must be done to help the farmer, who has been complaining bitterly since the world slump set in and commodity prices kept falling lower and lower. In the second place, the powers that be are still thinking of the anxious times during the latter part of the World War when the German submarine blockade of the British Isles resulted in a dangerously serious food shortage.

The British problem, it will be seen, is just the reverse of the American where huge agricultural surpluses that must be sold abroad are the stumbling block. The Government's aim here is to make farming sufficiently profitable to keep the farmer happy and so financially attractive that more people will take to farming and grow more food for the country.

Extension of System Is in Preparation.

To those ends, there is going to be a further extension of the marketing board system. A Government committee will report in a few weeks on a fat stock scheme for the marketing of beef and mutton. The report will also deal with pigs sold for pork, as distinct from those sold for the curing of bacon and ham, which are already covered by the Bacon and Pig Marketing Boards. Several months later there will be a report from another Government committee which is preparing a scheme for the marketing of eggs and poultry. Finally, last month a draft scheme for a sugar marketing board to deal with home-produced beet sugar, drawn up by the 22 leading sugar manufacturers, refiners and wholesalers in the country, was presented to the Minister of Agriculture for his approval. They are hopeful of obtaining it, together with the necessary enabling resolution from Parliament.

The determination of the Government to go ahead with such plans was emphatically expressed by Elliot in a speech to the House of Commons last November. "Planning of the trade of this country," he declared, "is forced on us by the necessities of the case. We shall have to come frequently to this House in the months and years immediately in front of us, to ask for sanction for wide and sweeping changes in the economic structure, changes that are forced on us by the necessity of that economic planning which is one of the major necessities of the life of this and other countries of the world."

Preferential Tariffs and Fixing of Quotas.

In addition to the advantages accruing, or supposed to accrue to the growers of those commodities handled by marketing boards, the Government has and is giving further assistance through import quotas and tariffs. The Ottawa agreements provided not only for tariffs, with preferences in favor of the Dominions, but also for the quantitative regulation of imports, notably of meat. Then, too, the protectionist policy inaugurated by the National Government has resulted in import duties on a long list of horticultural products. These are so timed and graded that the home market for British growers is not skimmed by horticultural imports from countries with a warmer climate and earlier harvest season.

Finally, there are two staple products, outside the scope of the marketing boards, which receive substantial Government subsidies—home-produced beet sugar and home-grown wheat.

In May, 1932, the Wheat Act became law and a Wheat Commission set up, representative of the domestic wheat growers, the millers, the merchants, the flour importers and the consumers and bakers. The standard price of wheat was fixed at 10 shillings a hundredweight for millable wheat and the domestic grower was guaranteed a subsidy of the difference between that figure and the price for which he was able to sell it. In addition, a secure market was assured by an obligation placed on the millers to purchase—up to a certain limit—stocks of millable wheat remaining unsold in the hands of growers at the end of the cereal year.

Processing Tax Used to Meet Subsidies.

The money required to pay the subsidy to the growers is raised by a levy of processing tax called the quota payment made on all deliveries of flour in Great Britain, whether milled from domestic wheat or imported. This levy is paid to the Wheat Commission,

Youth Rising to Leadership Throughout World to Give New Life to Nations, Mussolini Says

Fascism in Italy Forerunner of Movement in Other Countries, Which Had Roots in War, He Asserts.

By BENITO MUSSOLINI,
Premier of Italy.
ROME, April 7.

IN all countries of the world youth is knocking at the doors and claiming positions of leadership in political life. But what do we mean by youth? What actually is the period in life which is included in this alluring word?

Youth runs from 20 to 35 years at most; its limits are fixed and the exceptions only confirm it. Young men, as far as I am concerned, are those who are young in years, not those who—approaching old age—claim a so-called youthful spirit.

This agreed upon, there is no doubt that the young men of today are much different from the young men of yesterday, because the present-day youths have turned their backs on the principles of 1789.

The new regimes which have arisen in Europe represent the outcome. This new youth is much less romantic but far more heroic. Nevertheless, it is heroism without ostentation. It is youth which pours out its dynamism in sports, adventure and in more hazardous enterprises. It is rational, severe, reckless and discerning.

Period of Transition.

But it is not skeptical. It has had the extraordinary adventure of having lived in a period of transition between two worlds; that of the nineteenth century which is collapsing, and that of the twentieth century, which is rising in the midst of the tumult and blood of wars and revolutions.

Between these two historic periods all life moves with an accelerated rhythm—that of youth.

In Italy, where we have witnessed a great war and a great revolution in the course of 10 years, the old political class has been eliminated by a new generation.

In my speech in October, 1932, I said that the unfailing symptom of old age was jealousy—which after all is stupid—of youth, which is coming forward in the eternal process of life.

In my recent address before the quinquennial assembly of the Fascist regime, I declared:

"Young men must be admitted into the active, responsible life of the state, and to them must be entrusted the principle of the permanent revolution, that it may be realized entirely."

This is taking place. The entire Italian political class and all bureaucracy in Italy are far younger than in other countries. With what results?

I do not hesitate to reply—most satisfactory.

Qualities of Youth.

Youth may lack experience sometimes, but for this failing which is easy to remedy, it makes up in other qualities which belong to youth: enthusiasm, devotion, courage and capacity for work.

Youth stands with this axiom: Nothing in the world is impossible. Mature men, with a few rare exceptions, often abandon themselves to a feeling of apathy and resign themselves to sterile disapproval, maintaining that methods which have proved their worth should not be changed.

Youth can waste and often does waste many of its energies, but it is filled with a spirit of conquest which enables it to overcome the greatest discouragements and to attain success because it does not admit the possibility of defeat.

The youth movements which have arisen in Europe in the last 10 years are therefore plain evidence of the sincerity of the proposals of the young, who are always ready to make the most strenuous efforts and to sacrifice themselves.

Triumph in Germany.

Following the Italian youth movement, which was the very first, the German movement took 15 years to reach its goal. But it has finally triumphed.

It has achieved its great ideal and now governs Germany with the same idealism that characterized the first laborious efforts toward organizing the movement. There is power in this organized and victorious will.

The youth movements of today originated directly from the war. They were born in the hearts of the soldiers. The new generation which appears on the stage of life to claim its rights makes common cause with the generation of the war and swells its ranks with the will to continue the movement conceived by the elder generation in the torment of war.

Both one generation and the other have come out of political and economic chaos and both aim at establishing a well ordered world in which a single authority directs them both towards a loftier future.

The Fascist movement among the various youth movements has absolute historical primacy in the post-war period and the strength of its program lies in great part in the dynamic possibilities it has revealed and still continues to offer to our youth and to the youth of other countries.

In fact, the burden of rehabilitation of the power of the state has fallen largely on the generation of the war and on the new generation of today.

Italy Led Way.

The young Fascist came to the front immediately after the armistice and was the first to reach his objectives. We took advantage of every occasion to assert our ideals and when I announced at Naples that I was ready to assume power, either peacefully or by act of force, I knew that our hour had sounded and that from that moment it was a question of life and death for the youth of Italy.

There were many and various prophecies then about the future of the movement. But the prophets, as often happens, were wrong. In order to assure a perennial flow of young blood in the veins of the state we took measures as far back as 1926, through creation of the great youth organization of the regime. Almost all of our young people live the life of these organizations and there learn together with a sense of collective solidarity, the art of commanding and the duties of responsibility.

Thousands and thousands of young men are training in this apprenticeship which is physical and moral at the same time. It is from these young people that the political classes will arise, whose task it will be to maintain and perfect in the historical development of the Italian people the fundamental postulates of our revolution.

The Fight Elsewhere.

Today new generations of the world are fighting for their places and especially posts of command. The youth movement in Europe, India, China, Japan and North and South America shows that we are living in an epoch in which youth has risen or is about to rise in order to affirm its own strength and to give fresh impetus forward and upward to the life of nations.

Assumption of positions of command on the part of the young men of the world has been imposed by a series of events.

Too often during the war and still more often in the period immediately following the war, we

Private Ownership and Unemployment.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

BERNARD WASSON, writing in this column, does "not see how there can ever be permanent relief for unemployment." He sees straight. Ever since communal ownership gave way to private ownership, something like 5000 years ago, there has been unemployment. The theory that the Egyptian pyramids were a PWA project to relieve unemployment is plausible. At the time America was discovered, Europe was rotting with unemployment. Until the frontier was gone, America offered opportunity for many, but never for all. Selfish greed ran rife, but struck down its victims in lesser numbers than today. Alexander Hamilton was a pioneer breeder of unemployment in the New World. Science and invention, which could easily bless all men with freedom from drudgery, with leisure and security, have been used through the centuries to enrich the few and curse the many with ever-increasing unemployment.

Mr. Wasson is right. There will be no permanent relief until the age-old source of unemployment is destroyed. When individuals or groups are no longer permitted to lock up symbols of the limitless wealth of the world; when the power is no longer theirs to decide upon which of their henchmen scant portions of these symbols will be bestowed, and from which vast sections of humanity they will be withheld; when farms, factories, mines, laboratories, hospitals and studios are operated under public ownership for the common good—then the poison gas of unemployment will be dispelled like mist by the rising sun. That day will dawn when enough people desire it strongly enough. O. HECK.

Would Harry Jaywalkers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHY should all proposed legislation to put a stop to automobile accidents be directed against automobile drivers alone? Many accidents are caused by extreme carelessness on the part of pedestrians, who jaywalk or who do not observe the stop-and-go signals.

Why not arrest some of such persons and make them give bond for causing accidents, instead of always blaming the motorist? W. N.

Functions of the Press.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE press is the great sentinel which guards the life, liberty, health and happiness of the people. In the words of Curran (who illuminated with his sublime rhetoric and clarified with his sound reasoning every subject he spoke upon):

> By the communications of a free press, errors have been dissipated and dispelled—vice crushed and virtue triumphant; and for the amelioration of mankind, I fervently pray that at no distant day it will be ubiquitous.

But to reach this consummation so devoutly prayed for, its communications of sentiments and opinions must be honest, fearless, conscientious, truthful and dignified. There should be unbounded freedom of discussion so that decorum is observed, and there should be no restraint upon any composition fairly, honestly and decently addressed to the consciences and understanding of men. The liberty of the press is the bulwark of freedom. It is not alone the unquestionable right but also the solemn duty of the press to consider and point out the merits of all laws and the manner of their enforcement; to lash the scurvy politicians who, in the garb of lawyers, sell their political influence. It is the solemn duty of the press fearlessly to condemn what is bad and commend what is good.

The Post-Dispatch, standing firmly on its platform, has rendered a patriotic service to the nation by clearly demonstrating the legality and virtue of the President's plans and policies. Your editorials have illumined the humanitarian doctrine: The welfare of the people is the supreme law. T. J. ROWE.

Opposes T. B. Test for Cattle.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

TOGETHER with other farmers and dairymen, I have been much relieved recently at the absence of swarms of Government inspectors testing cattle for tuberculosis. I had begun to hope against hope that they had been called off permanently, but, alas, it appears from recent news dispatches that our respite was obtained by the appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court of an action brought in Henderson County against a farmer who dared resist the trespassing of these inspectors. The court declared that the public health required this testing, so we are doomed to another invasion of these Goths and Huns.

While holding the greatest respect for our supreme legal Brain Trust, I beg to question the accuracy of its syllogism in this case. Granting its major premise, that the public health is paramount, I challenge its minor premise and conclusion. I claim that testing cattle for tuberculosis does not safeguard the public health and therefore is a useless and costly requirement. In support of my contention, I offer the following statement from Dr. C. H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn.: "The protection of the public can be secured by pasteurization. It is the only safe way." E. F. COLWELL.

Thoughts on the Homecoming of Insull

Samuel Insull is soon to be brought back to the United States. For more than a year this misguided man, whose life was barren of that philosophy without which man cannot sustain himself, has virtually wandered in the footsteps of the immortal Ulysses. In time to come, their Odysseys are to be inseparable.

There are people who have believed it better to leave Mr. Insull in Greece. They have supposed that to return him to Chicago would only be to lose the moral point made by his flight. That is, they have believed that, if we could not convict Doheny, we cannot convict Insull. Had Doheny fled, his flight would have confessed his guilt. He would have suffered the social obloquy of that confession. By remaining and standing trial, he obtained an acquittal, and with that acquittal there went to an unfortunate degree social purification. There can be no doubt of this. It is one of the indices to that amazing demoralization which seized the nation when it was enriched by the wealth of warring Europe.

Nevertheless, Insull is coming back. There is no sanctuary for him upon this mundane sphere, nor could there be one in the comity of nations. Nations must respect one another's rights. For Greece to protect Insull when the United States wanted him was unthinkable. Greece needs the respect of other nations, and she must needs therefore be respectable. The same thing is true of Turkey, to which Insull fled when he left Greece. It would have been equally true of Abyssinia, to which it was for a time supposed that he might flee. To go beyond the pale of society is to go beyond the pale of civilization. This could not be better illustrated than it has been in the failure of Insull to find a friend anywhere when he was fleeing the wrath of that country which had always been friendly to him.

What should be our sentiment when Insull returns? Should we not be grateful to him at bottom for having rendered a needed public service? Certainly. All great social and political evils flourish until their chief protagonists bring them to public condemnation. What Insull did had been going on in the United States for generations. There was no disposition anywhere to punish scalawaggery in high finance so long as it followed the respectable traditions of such adventure. The railroad financiers founded some of the great American fortunes. They were just as venturesome as Insull was. They might have brought down upon themselves the consequences of their acts exactly as he has done had not the young and growing America been too much occupied with following squirrels around the trees. When Fisk and Drew found that Commodore Vanderbilt had outwitted them in the scramble for Erie stock, they printed some wild-cat Erie stock. When Insull found that one of his great financial emprises was becoming precarious, he reared another on top of it. So came at last that incredible pyramid of financing, a structure of such infinite detail that even Insull's friend, Owen D. Young, has expressed doubt that Insull himself really understood it.

There was a sense in which Capone served much the same social purpose as to national prohibition. He sublimated its possibilities. By the time he got to his castle in Florida, with a moat around it and guards armed with machine guns in the towers upon the walls, the thing read like a romance by Rider Haggard. There were conjured up for us visions of remote and forgotten places, the splendor and terror that went hand in hand before there was law. At last the country saw the whole hollow farce, the beer racketeer elevated to the role of feudal lord! It was too absurd to contemplate, too unbelievable to be true! Thus, the Government, when Chicago was powerless, stretched out its long arm and put Capone in prison for dodging income taxes. Capone, whose career read like the murderous story of the Minotaur on the island of Crete, was guilty of bad arithmetic. Yet there was in that very contradiction the seed which came in time to flower in repeal.

This is the story of all civilization, the long and tedious climb from one height to another. We see it perfectly illustrated in the story of human slavery. Human slavery had been debated in the United States for decades. The country did not know what to think about it. Slavery was an institution. In one way or another, the wealth of the country was integrated with it. To be against slavery in St. Louis was death. Even the man of property in Massachusetts supported slavery because its profits disseminated themselves through the national fabric to advantage one even so remote as he was. Our souls have always had a price.

It took the Dred Scott decision to touch off the moral dynamite beneath this time-serving. It was an explosion which clarified public thought, just as the flight of Insull has clarified public thought in our own time. To defy Insull in Chicago, as Harold Ickes found, was perilous. So long as Insull was in his glory, so long as his shining silk hat was the badge of authority, there could be no such break in public opinion. It was when Insull fled that the end came, just as in the prior instance the end came when Dred Scott, once removed to free territory, found himself a slave again on returning to Missouri. For the first time the people realized how bad it was.

Insull says the people of the United States are ungrateful. Did he not exert his genius to develop the country? Was he not the patron of the opera in Chicago? Did he not make literal day out of night in every Middlesex village and farm? We admit that he did do all these things, and we are not insensible to their social import; but it is not for them that we are primarily grateful. We are far more grateful to him for having brought to an end in Homeric fashion the era of Insullism. He did what no timid man could have done. There were thousands of little rogues running around in the country exploiting the utilities, as there are still thousands of economic prostitutes doing the dirty work of the utilities.

But not all of them, bound together with a woolen string, would have brought to an end the rapine we know as Insullism. It took Insull to do this. He thought in big terms. He was bold. He had no qualms. His idea was that the utilities should control the Government. He sent a United States Senator to Washington from Illinois. He controlled the aldermanic body in Chicago. He contributed to both the Republican and Democratic campaign funds in his city and State. He was the apotheosis of that great Power Trust which had come to affect legislation, to bully the investment banker and to make a whited sepulcher of the house of government.

The people who enjoyed his largess cannot understand why society should proscribe such a man. Theirs is the philosophy of pap, and they care not how foul the spring from which it wells. It is the same issue raised 30 years ago by the Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden, who denounced in philanthropy the tainted money of Rockefeller. He said if our educational and religious institutions accepted it, they deserved to perish by it.

It is a nice distinction to say what sort of ovation we should give the homecoming Insull without seeming to condone his offense. We will have to think it over. True gratitude is a shy and ineffable thing, the most modest of all our spiritual exhalations.

Perhaps we can best catch its eerie spirit by not saying anything. Not a vengeful word. Not a sign of gloating. Only silence, as when stout Cortez and all his men, upon a peak in Darien, first gazed upon the Pacific. We, too, are looking upon the undiscovered, the bright and entrancing vision of an uncharted sea.

The Dog Still Has His Day

The machine age has reduced the role of the horse pretty much to the field of sports, but the dog still has the edge over mechanical competitors. Devoted as we are to machinery, no one as yet keeps a mass of gears and cog wheels around the house as a family pet. No inventor has offered the huntsman a mechanical substitute for his pointer, and robots have yet to displace police dogs in guiding the blind.

From recent news items, one may glean an idea of how the dog family is still doing business at the old stand. The Byrd expedition is the last word in mechanized adventure, with its planes, tractors and wireless. But when a six-ton tractor broke down in the snow, men with dog teams went to the rescue. And the population of Little America includes 140 huskies. Another frigid instance is in the efforts being made to rescue 89 persons marooned on an ice floe in the Bering Sea. Airplanes were unable, because of blizzards, to take them off in several attempts, so dog teams were sent on the mission. Closer to home is the municipal penal farm at Wichita, Kan. This institution disdains machine guns, gas grenades, automatic locks and electric alarms as a means of keeping its prisoners at home. Its guards are dogs, and there have been no escapes in 11 years, except one night when none was on duty.

So the dog, it is apparent, still is having his day, and continues to hold his title as man's best friend.

The New Air Mail Plan

The decision of the administration to advertise for a temporary air mail service has merits. Its purpose is to return the carrying of the mails to private operators as quickly as possible. The administration bill pending in Congress and providing a definite air mail policy for the future is not likely to pass for four or five weeks. After its passage, 30 days more must elapse while new bids are being invited. The postoffice program makes it possible for private companies to start carrying the mails five or six weeks sooner.

This helps not only the army, but also the stockholders of aviation companies under the cancellation ban. Quite conceivably, a number of these companies may have their mail pay restored.

The only difficulty in the way of this is the possible resistance of the officials of these companies to the bidding terms specified by the Postoffice Department. Companies with canceled contracts must reorganize into new companies. This is to enable the companies to get around a Federal statute prohibiting a company whose mail contract has been annulled to bid again. The new companies must also eliminate from their officers or directors all those who had a part directly or indirectly in obtaining the contracts later canceled. Here is the rub.

The question is whether these officials intend to, or will be able to, put their interests above those of the public stockholders and owners of their companies. Every day that their companies are without mail pay is one of heavy loss to these owners. And there is no possible way for them to avoid eventually clearing out these gentlemen.

The administration bill prescribes exactly the same conditions for obtaining long-term contracts. The issue, therefore, is whether these owners prefer to hold back, to run the risk of losing out entirely on either temporary or more permanent contracts due to the rise of new competitors, in order to uphold the very doubtful dignity of the accused officials. The Black Committee has already turned up such a mass of evidence against these men that it is very doubtful, indeed, if they are genuine martyrs. An opportunity for these officials to clear themselves is not denied. The court will hear their case in time. But in the meantime, it seems foolish for their stockholders to risk their holdings on what looks like a very risky gamble.

Misrepresentation to the contrary, neither the postoffice nor the administration bill is asking the companies to impair their efficiency by ousting the officials accused of violating the law. Much has been said about the rare managerial talent that is being put on the block. The truth, however, seems clear that these men were more promoters than managers—more interested in get-rich-quick schemes than in sound management. The record is eloquent that they were far more adept at lining their pockets through unconscionable salaries and bonuses and the proceeds of watered stock than in protecting the financial integrity of their companies or the interests of their public stockholders.

The extent to which this inside plucking was carried on in the aviation industry is seen clearly by the evaporation of dividends to the public which bought aviation stocks. In 1931, our aviation companies were capitalized at over $20,000,000. In that year, they paid out in cash dividends only $109,000. In 1932, cash dividends faded to $30,000.

The real efficiency of the aviation companies lies in the operating managers, the field superintendents, pilots and mechanics. These men are not asked to leave. Those who have been shown the door are practically all high-finance artists who raided the resources of their companies from within and then sought to add to the loot by defrauding the Government. The elimination of these men will not hurt the aviation industry. It may help it. Their departure and replacement by higher types of business leaders will go a long way toward restoring the confidence of the public in aviation stocks.

However, those marked out for deserved exile from the aviation industry and their political allies in Congress are striving hard to muddy the waters.

"Of Making Many Books"

Sufficiently Remarkable

THE INVISIBLE INFLUENCE. By Alexander Cannon, M. D. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York City.)

MANY radio fans will recall that Edwin C. Hill, a month or more ago, devoted two of his broadcasts on "The Human Side of the News" to "The Invisible Influence," which, he said, was stirring up more controversy in Europe than any other book had done for many years. It was then newly published in London, and we were told that the author, a distinguished physician and psychiatrist, as well as a Ph. D., and a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, had been requested by the London County Council to resign his post as head of an important medical institution on the ground that the tales he had told in his book were rather taller than a responsible man could tell. Later, it seems, the County Fathers withdrew the request as a result of inquiries which showed that other men of equal or greater distinction were willing to vouch for the essential truth of the book, basing their belief on alleged personal experience. Among these was Major Yeats-Brown of "Bengal Lancer" fame.

After reading the book, now available in an American edition, anyone is bound to grant that the whole affair is sufficiently remarkable, from any angle, to justify some consideration.

Most people must have heard or read of wonders that are said to be performed by the fakirs and adepts of India; and it seems that no traveler who has visited the holy city of Lhasa in Tibet has returned without astonishing stories about the occult powers of the lamas. Such stories constitute the subject matter of this book; but, according to Dr. Cannon, they are not repeated from hearsay, but are simple, authentic accounts of what he himself experienced in a journey through India to the city of Lhasa, where he came into intimate contact with the Grand Lama himself, and witnessed that which passeth understanding.

A few of the tales should suffice. For instance, we are told that on his way to Lhasa, the author came one day to a deep chasm, not apparently to be crossed by any normal means. A high servant of the Lama, who was on the other side, after giving some necessary instructions in the matter of breathing and faith, transported both the affiant and his friend across the abyss by occult means. Again, the author tells us, he was present when the Grand Lama commanded an indubitable corpse to rise and walk about the room, the corpse obeying and returning to its coffin thereafter, again indubitably as dead as the proverbial "doornail," generally assumed to represent superlative deadness.

It will be granted that such stories might sprain the most athletic credulity. But what of the adept who, according to the doctor, transported himself in a few moments over a distance of 2000 miles, delivered a letter written by the author, and returned in an equally few moments? It is pointed out, most reasonably, that the flight could not have been a matter of telepathic hallucination, for there, 2000 miles away, was the actual letter to attest the reality of the phenomenon—or was it?

As for causing a flourishing tree to wither by commanding it to do so, such matters, one gathers, are commonplace once you get well north of the Himalayas.

So runs the book; and surely the admittedly unregenerate reader may be forgiven a mild indulgence of whatever sense of humor he may possess; nor need he fear to hurt the truth thereby, for it can stand a deal of doubting and kidding from the likes of us, and still go right on being so. However, having enjoyed that very natural and wholly defensible indulgence, one might have the modesty to grant the hypothetic possibility of realities beyond his own experience.

But even if the reader be aware, as many are with good reason, that the exclusive "scientific" materialism, now long in vogue but waning, is equally as funny as the tallest seeming tale of the over-credulous, he will not therefore be the less careful. On the contrary, suspecting, as he must, the tremendous importance of the search involved, he will limit his belief to his experience—and perhaps strive for more experience.

As for Dr. Cannon's testimony, there is a lack of sharply defined and orderly circumstantiality about it that should trouble anyone who has learned to respect methodical mental processes; and often the language seems not to have been chosen with proper deliberation. The doctor gives, on the whole, the impression of one who could believe anything without a struggle, if it were only sufficiently astonishing; and that is not the impression to expect from the testimony of a dependable investigator. Also, it is to be feared that the self is often rather too much in evidence for one who has really learned the secret of whatever power it is that self-denying men have undoubtedly learned in silence and solitude.

Nevertheless, there is much in the book that is known to be true; and occasionally a sentence or a paragraph does give a deep sense of illumination.

YOUR COUNTRY AT WAR. By Charles A. Lindbergh Sr. (Dorrance & Co., Inc., Philadelphia.)

IN 1918, while Federal prisons were beginning to be used as asylums for the sane, Congressman Lindbergh of Minnesota, father of the famous aviator, was having this book printed in a Washington shop when agents of the Government appeared and commanded that the plates thereof be destroyed.

The author, as the book, now resurrected after 16 years, discloses, was rather too sane a patriot for the times. He was one of a very considerable minority who knew well the real cause and purpose of the war, and what the cost thereof would be to all the nations. In this book, he set forth what was obvious to him and to many others.

But "in the country of the blind, the one-eyed," far from being "king" in keeping with the old saw, is discredited. Of late, the times have been catching up with the dead Congressman's book rather rapidly; and unless all signs fail, it will be quite overtaken within a few years more.

There is nothing in the volume that has not been said as well or better in many another fundamentally sane discussion of the social question; and it is hardly likely that the book would ever have been resurrected but for the luster shed upon the name by the fame of the son. But, if for no other reason, it may be read for the sense of sardonic amusement that it will afford to those who recall the days when the world was being made safe for democracy.

NAPOLEON AND HIS MARSHALS. By A. G. Macdonnel. (The Macmillan Co., New York City.)

CONSIDERING the enormous volume of Napoleonic literature, it might be supposed that a new book on the subject would of necessity be no more than a rehash. Nevertheless, A. G. Macdonnel, author of "England, Their England," has succeeded in making an original, even though modest, contribution in this crowded field by the simple expedient of presenting the career of Napoleon from the viewpoints of his 26 Marshals.

It is surprising to note how often this method of approach serves to throw an unfamiliar but convincing light upon the personality of Napoleon. No man, and particularly no great man, can be completely presented through the medium of a single consciousness, and among the 26 men whose business it was to execute the plans and realize the dreams of their master, there was so wide a range of temperament and character, of social origin and of personal destiny, that the resultant composite picture of the all but incredible Corsican may well be the most authentic thus far achieved in a single volume.

There is every evidence of careful scholarship in the narrative, and yet it is written with a gusto that makes it far more compelling than all but the greatest fiction.

THE LONG ROLL ON THE RHINE. By Col. E. Alexander Powell. (The Macmillan Co., New York City.)

SUBMITTING that there are two sides to every question, "even the German one," E. Alexander Powell, whose half-dozen previous works on world politics since the Great War have established him as one who speaks not without authority, has undertaken here to present a comprehensive view of Hitlerism and the potentialities of the Third Reich, free from prejudice and partisan bias. There is reason to believe that he has succeeded, but not in the manner of those affable persons who seek to make an impression of fairness by carrying water on both shoulders. Apparently he extenuates nothing, not even the virtues and necessities of Hitlerism.

In his concluding chapter, he ventures cautiously into prophecy which seems to be well supported by his previous discussion of the situation existing among Germany, Austria, Italy and France. He believes it is only a matter of time before the Austrian Nazis will overthrow Dollfuss, now that they may count upon the persecuted Socialists; that thereafter, union with Germany is inevitable; that "Italy is more likely to form an alliance with Germany than with France" and that such an alliance would end France's domination of the Continent.

"With the Austrian barrier gone," we read, "the world must be prepared for a resumption of the Drang nach Osten," and Germany's commercial penetration of Southeastern Europe cannot be checked for long

FIRST DROP IN DEMAND UPON CLOTHING BUREAU

39,914 Persons Aided in 3 Months of 1934 as Against 60,076 in 1933.

The Clothing Bureau of the Citizens' Committee, 815 North Broadway, is experiencing, for the first time since the depression began, a decline in the number of garments issued in comparison with the records of a year ago.

During the first three months of 1934, Mrs. Irvin Bettman, director, said yesterday the bureau distributed 86,618 garments among 39,914 persons. In a similar period last year, 182,951 garments were given to 60,076 persons.

With the CWA program at an end, the bureau anticipates that there will be another increase in the demands made on it. There was a substantial increase in March when 34,882 garments were given to 16,104 persons, and in that month the bureau was unable to supply 16,419 garments for which relief agencies had issued requisitions. In March 12,420 more garments were given out than in February, and the number of applicants increased by about 5000.

The bureau depends for its supplies chiefly on contributions of discarded clothing. Other sources of supply are donations of shopworn clothing by business firms and Government materials obtained through the Red Cross. A representative of the bureau will call for discarded clothing if notified that it is available. The bureau's telephone number is CEntral 3365.

EX-COWBOY PH.D., TO ADDRESS HISTORICAL SOCIETY APRIL 28

Prof. E. E. Dale of Oklahoma U. to Speak on "The Spirit of the Pioneer."

Edward Everett Dale, professor of history at the University of Oklahoma, will address the Missouri Historical Society at its annual meetings followed a dinner at Hotel Jefferson April 28.

Dr. Dale, who will speak on "The Spirit of the Pioneer," spent his early youth as a cowboy, later acquiring a ranch in Texas and disposing of it when he was 27 years old to go to Harvard to complete his education and obtain his degree of doctor of philosophy.

He is a former president of the National Agricultural History Society and of the Folklore Society of Oklahoma. Several books of fiction and poems written by him deal with Indian and pioneer life.

The program also will include tribal dances by Eagle Plume, member of the Blackfoot Nation. I. H. Lionberger will preside.

To Address Art Study Group.

Rudolph Tandler, instructor of art at The Principia will address the Art Study Group of the College Club at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday. Vera Flinn, director of the University City Public Schools Art Education, will speak before members of the Town Club at 12:15 p. m. Both speakers are members of the New Hats, St. Louis painters, who will open their annual exhibit Wednesday at the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A., Union boulevard and Enright avenue.

$5,770,747 IN WAGES PAID IN CITY BY CWA

County Total Is $1,544,353 for Work That Was Stopped March 31.

With payment of $219,826 last week to 14,890 CWA workers in St. Louis and the county, the total paid in wages since early in December reached $7,315,100.

The program ended March 31, and the money paid last week was for work done before that date. Only a small administrative force is now employed to complete the records.

In St. Louis the total paid was $5,770,747, and in St. Louis County, $1,544,353. At one time there were 25,000 CWA workers in St. Louis, and 8000 in the county.

About 800 laborers will start work in the county tomorrow, completing jobs, chiefly sewer construction, left unfinished by the CWA. They will be paid 45 cents an hour out of federal relief funds and will work 24 hours a week.

In the city $100,000 of relief bond issue funds will be used to finish CWA jobs, including the cleaning of the City Hall and Municipal Courts building, sewer construction, and the installation of electric street lights.

Youth Rising to Leadership in World Mussolini Declares have been witnesses to an interminable series of failures which increased the uncertainty of the peoples and caused unspeakable sufferings.

Youth, full of enthusiasm and with the greatest unity of purpose, has set itself to work, giving new health and life to governmental organs which had grown apathetic and inactive. Youth has shed its bloom in virtually all European nations of today.

As is always the case, the battle between ideals becomes a battle between the generations of yesterday and the generation of today and tomorrow. The result of the battle cannot be in doubt; the ideas of the young that is, the ideals of Fascism, will place their seal on this century.

Little Hope Geneva Can Revive Arms Parley

definition of offensive armaments, etc., the conference came to a standstill after about six months of conversation and the Germans withdrew for the first time.

On Dec. 11, 1932, the protocol which granted Germany theoretical "equality of rights within a system of general security" was drawn up and Berlin sent its delegates back to Geneva.

The year 1933 came and went. It has been characterized by Benes as the "year of equality of rights," and before it was over Germany again withdrew, this time not only from the Disarmament Conference but from the League and International Labor Office and all of their allied activities as well. Officially the Hitler Government announced that its withdrawal was due to failure of the Disarmament Conference to meet Germany's demands for equality in armaments. Actually, the bitter criticism leveled at the Nazis in the League Assembly for their anti-Semiticism and other excesses helped bring about the break. The about-face of the British also made Berlin's further participation in disarmament negotiations difficult. After having encouraged the Germans by tacitly accepting their claim to equality, Sir John Simon proposed a five-year trial period for which he had obtained the approval of Italy, France and the United States.

Suspended Animation.

Without Germany, the conference could not proceed. Since last October it has been in a state of suspended animation while private negotiations among London, Paris, Rome and Berlin were in progress. Direct diplomatic exchanges between the French and Germans also have been many and diversified, but all to no avail.

In ordinary circumstances, Berlin's last proposal to Paris would have been difficult for a Briand or Herriot or even a Paul Boncour government to reject. Hitler offered to accept, for the time being, a regular army of 300,000 men (the Versailles treaty permits 100,000), tanks of six tons and pursuit planes. Germany furthermore agreed to accept international control, which of course was to apply to all signatories of the treaty and not to demand the so-called offensive weapons pending their gradual suppression by other states.

The governmental set-up in France has been completely revamped, however, as a result of the recent political crisis. A national coalition is at the helm and a diehard reactionary, Barthou, is Foregn Minister. The French public has no faith in Hitler or in Nazi promises and pledges and has reached a state of mind where it backs the extreme Right and the militarists. It is no secret that the French General Staff would rather see Germany rearmed than give up a single cartridge. And there is ample reason to believe that Germany is more interested in rearming herself than in disarming France.

France's Ace in the Hole.

That France will officially acquiesce in Germany's re-armament is doubtful, but they will not go to war to prevent it or to enforce the disarmament clauses of the Versailles treaty. They will prefer to make Germany "break" still another treaty in order to obtain forbidden military equipment. Such a procedure would provide France with an opportunity of revealing the contents of the Quai d'Orsay's famous dossier. This collection of reports and surveys, tending to prove that Germany has long been guilty of systematically ignoring various parts of the peace treaties, has been gathering dust and new chapters in the French Foreign Office since the inter-allied military control was withdrawn. Liberal governments have tried to forget it; the Right parties, especially Andre Tardieu's following, have never given up hope of feeding it to an apprehensive population at the right moment. It could easily facilitate the passage of an unprecedented military budget. For the Quai d'Orsay—and the present reactionary regime—it is an "ace in the hole."

While the World Arms.

The Germans, it is assumed on all sides, have already clandestinely re-armed themselves with such things as machine-guns, light artillery, speed planes and bombers (disguised as commercial aviation) to a level considerably above that permitted under the peace treaty. They are anxious to have these armaments legalized. The British and Italians have officially agreed to "controlled re-armament" and the Belgians have announced that they are not willing to fight to enforce the disarmament clauses of Versailles. Poland has made peace with Berlin and will not stand in the way while the majority of other European states, as well as Russia, regard parts of the Versailles treaty as no longer applicable—unless the big Powers live up to their own covenant obligations and start drastic reduction of existing military establishments.

With the "truce"—which provided a breathing spell for a year—dead, and the conference in a coma, practically every nation in the world, including the United States, is authorizing greatly increased expenditures for national defense. The French budget—which in 1932-33 was officially stated to be between 10 billion and 12 billion francs, but which in reality averaged about 20 billions—will provide for a record expenditure in 1934. For in addition to regular national defense expenditure the Government has authorized, outside and above the budget, the supplemental sum of 2,156,000,000 francs.

The English appear to have given up hope of obtaining any limitation, not to speak of reduction, of armaments and the Air Ministry is working on an ambitious program which calls for 10,000 additional flyers.

Japan's Military Budget.

Japan, whose running amuck in Manchuria did as much as anything to precipitate the present chaotic armaments situation by encouraging Germany and Italy to pooh-pooh the sanctity of their covenant pledges, is literally staggering under the weight of military expenditures. Tokio's 1934-35 budget calls for the heaviest armaments peacetime program in her history. More than 44 per cent of the budget is earmarked for naval and military purposes.

Among the European countries, Italy alone is reducing military expenditures this year, but it is not because Mussolini wants to. He has no alternative. Forced borrowing might have been continued indefinitely had not the economic depression intervened. Officially, Rome announces that the Fascists are spending 280,000,000 lire less this year on her naval establishment than last year.

During the past two weeks—since France's blunt reply to London's effort at mediation was published—European chancelleries have maintained a deep silence on disarmament.

At best the situation facing Geneva looks hopeless.

How England Has Organized Farmers, Fixed Prices, Sales

which disburses it to the domestic wheat growers. The Wheat Act also created a corporation, representative of millers, called the Flour Millers' Corporation, with which the Wheat Commission arranges for the purchase of unsold domestic wheat.

Under the law, the wheat growers are required to register with the Wheat Commission in order to be eligible for the subsidy or deficiency payment, as it is legally called. When a grower sells any millable wheat of his own growing he must apply to an authorized merchant for a wheat certificate. This certifies the quantity of wheat sold and the date of sale, the price the grower got, etc. This certificate the grower sends to the Wheat Commission in order to obtain his deficiency payment.

Law Fixes Limit on Bonus to Be Paid.

The law provides, however, that quota payments to growers in any cereal year cannot be made for more than 27,000,000 hundredweight of wheat. The purpose of this limitation is to prevent or check the extension of wheat growing to land which is unsuitable for the crop and at the same time to place a limit on the amount of money that can be made available in any one year for deficiency payments. These deficiency payments for the first year of the operation of the Wheat Act totaled £4,510,000 (about $22,550,000).

This wheat scheme resulted in an increased wheat acreage of nearly 400,000 in 1933, compared with 1932. In addition, there was an increase in the crop raised of nearly two hundredweight an acre for 1933, compared with the crop of previous year and with the average of the previous 10 years. This increase, the Minister of Agriculture believes, is largely due to the fact that under the stimulus of the bonus the farmer is encouraged to spend more money on fertilizers and other aids to crop stimulation.

Beet Sugar Subsidy Since 1924 About $150,000,000.

Sugar and molasses produced from British-grown beets have received a Government subsidy since 1924. It began at a yearly rate of 19 shillings and 6 pence a hundredweight. Five years later it was reduced to 13 shillings and three years later to 6 shillings and 6 pence, which is the present rate. The total subsidy which will be paid for the year 1933-34 on the 1933 crop is £3,350,000 (about $16,750,000), and the total paid since the subsidy began is roughly £30,000,000 (about $150,000,000). This country, however, still imports three pounds of sugar for every pound it produces.

There has, of course, been considerable criticism of these schemes: First, by persons who are opposed to them entirely for political-economic reasons, and, second, by those who are dissatisfied with their particular details and operation. The milk, pig and bacon marketing schemes have already been subjected to severe attack. Some milk producers have even "bootlegged" their product at lower prices than those authorized by the Milk Marketing Board and several such persons have been fined by the board. It is inevitable, however, that such entirely new and large schemes, most of which have only been operating for a few months, should require a considerably longer time to shake down into smooth running order and the various marketing boards concerned must undoubtedly need much more time in which to gather the experience necessary for their successful operation.

These valedictory remarks are based, of course, on the assumption that the schemes are fundamentally sound in principle and for the purposes for which they were inaugurated.

On the assumption that they will succeed, then it is pretty clear that Great Britain is moving fairly rapidly toward the day when she will be fed by a group of national food trusts, protected by a barrier of tariffs and quotas, with domestic competition largely eliminated, and with prices and production regulated.

STUDENT'S THESIS ON HISTORY OF PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION

Miss Dorothy LeMond Describes Origin Following Fraud by Woman Asking Charity.

A thesis for an M. A. degree written by Miss Dorothy LeMond, Washington University graduate student, calls attention to the fact that it was the telling of a pathetic story of destitution by a not-too-destitute woman to James E. Yeatman, prominent St. Louisan, in 1859, which led to the founding of the Provident Association.

Yeatman, when he learned, on investigation, that the woman wanted money to entertain her men friends and not funds to buy a candle so she could watch her baby die, was so incensed that he decided to form a society which would "investigate before giving relief."

The Provident Association was the result, being formed in 1860. Since then it has given aid to the poor and performed special work in some of the following crises: The Civil War, the cholera outbreak of 1866, unemployment in 1874 caused by the thousands who flocked here to work on the Eads Bridge, the tornadoes of 1897 and 1927, and the flood of 1903.

Since 1929, Miss LeMond points out, the association has been working on an unprecedented scale.

FOUR CONSUMERS' COUNCILS BEING FORMED IN MISSOURI

Will Aid NRA and AAA in Price Problems; One Group in St. Louis.

Four experimental consumers' councils are now being organized in Missouri by R. K. Ryland, State director, National Emergency Council announced yesterday.

A limited number of councils are being organized throughout the country, in order to aid the National Recovery Administration and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in handling consumers' problems, particularly those relating to prices. For the time being, the four Missouri councils are being organized in St. Louis, Kansas City, Springfield and Jasper County, taking in Joplin and Carthage. Letters of invitation, requesting the mto serve, have been mailed to the chairmen selected for each of these councils.

Appointments are being made in Washington by Frank C. Walker, executive director of the National Emergency Council, and each council will include, as far as possible, representatives of the following character:

Women's organizations which are actively interested in consumer problems; housewives of moderate or less than moderate means; manual workers; a college graduate in home economics or in domestic science; in communities with a sizeable agricultural population, a practical farmer; in communities with a sizeable agricultural population, the county agent and the county home demonstration agent, and a representative of actual consumers' organizations, such as consumers' co-operatives and credit unions.

Closing Time for Foreign Mails

Closing time at Main Postoffice for parcel post for Germany and Great Britain and full European mails is at 9 p. m. tomorrow.

C. OF C. EXECUTIVES INDORSE RIVERFRONT MEMORIAL PLAN

Committee Lends Backing to Proposed Project Now Awaiting Congressional Approval.

The proposal to establish on the riverfront here a national memorial to Thomas Jefferson, the Lewis and Clark Expedition and pioneers of the west, and to commemorate the Louisiana Purchase, has been indorsed by the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

A National Commission to study the feasibility of a memorial, and to recommend plans for its establishment, has been authorized by the United States Senate, in a resolution introduced by Senator Clark. An identical resolution has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman Cochran, and the House Committee on Library has voted unanimously to report it favorably.

The Jefferson National Expansion Memorial Committee, of which Mayor Dickmann is honorary chairman, and Luther Ely Smith, chairman, has been organized to promote plans for the memorial. Mrs. E. M. Grossman is executive secretary of the committee, which has headquarters at City Hall.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

DRAMA-MUSIC-MOVIES

ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 8, 1934.

Opera Stars in the Offing

Emily Roosevelt to Be First to Arrive for the Season of Five Performances Which Opens at the City Auditorium on April 21 — In the Mean Time the Forest Park Company Prepares for an Almost All-American Summer of Lighter Music.

GENERAL sale of tickets for the season of grand opera on the inaugural program of the new Municipal Auditorium will start tomorrow morning. Hitherto, the sale has been of season tickets for all the six operas to be presented during the five nights of the season.

The tickets will be on sale at the Aeolian Company, 1004 Olive street. Prices for single tickets to one performance are as follows: Orchestra and mezzanine, $5; balcony, $2.50; balcony circle, $2 and $1.

Stars who will sing leading roles in the operas will begin arriving this week. The first to come will be Miss Emily Roosevelt, cousin of the President, who will sing the national anthem with the chorus at ceremonies dedicating the new auditorium the afternoon of April 14. Miss Roosevelt is cast in the leading role of Nedda in Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci," which will be given April 25, on a double program, the other half of which is Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Elisabeth Rethberg, soprano, and Giovanni Martinelli, tenor, both of the Metropolitan Opera of New York, will arrive a few days before the opening presentation of "Aida," April 21, in which they will sing the leading parts.

Martinelli will sing leads in three operas, the heaviest schedule of any individual artist. He is cast as Manrico in Il Trovatore to be presented April 23 and Canio in Pagliacci, April 25.

Besides the four operas mentioned the season will include presentations of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" on April 28, and "La Boheme," May 5. In the latter Lucrezia Bori, famous Spanish soprano of the Metropolitan, will sing the leading role of Mimi.

IN the meantime work is going right ahead on what will be an "all but" all-American season of Municipal Opera, which opens in Forest Park, Monday, June 4, and continues to and including Sunday, Aug. 26. Of the eleven works already scheduled for presentation in the summer opera cycle, ten are by American composers. The twelfth week is being held open in the hope of giving the world premier of a new American operetta in Forest Park this summer.

By "all-American," of course, it is not meant that all the composers are what California would call "native sons." As a matter of fact but one of the four Americans, who contribute ten of the eleven works thus far announced for the summer's repertory, was born in this country—that one being Jerome Kern, who was born in the New York which he has never left except during his student days in Germany.

Of the other three the late Victor Herbert was born in Dublin, Ireland; Sigmund Romberg was a native of Hungary, and Samuel D. Pokrass was born in Kieff, Russia. Herbert became by adoption in many ways a typical American of his time, and both Romberg and Pokrass wasted little time in taking steps to make themselves citizens of the United States.

IT is interesting to note that Herbert and Kern, who together contribute seven of the works, were not only excellent friends but that the younger man stood almost in relation of protege to the older. Each contributes three of his finest works to the coming opera cycle—Herbert being represented by "Rose of Algeria," which has never before been offered in Forest Park and which, besides its delightful music, offers a splendid opportunity for color and pageantry in its oriental setting, the gay "M'lle. Modiste," and the ever popular "Sweethearts"; Kern's contribution consists of "Music in the Air" and "Sweet Adeline," two of his most recent successes, neither of which St. Louis has yet seen, and that classic of the river day, "Show Boat," which when produced by Municipal Opera in 1930 established a new high record in interest and popularity. The two together collaborated in "Sally," one of the most colorful of Florenz Ziegfeld's munical successes, which will be presented for the first time in Forest Park when Municipal Opera offers it this summer.

Sigmund Romberg, who in recent years has been the most prolific contributor to Municipal Opera's repertory, will be represented this season by but two of his melodious pieces, "East Wind," which St. Louis has not yet seen, and "The New Moon," which has been an outstanding success in several recent seasons.

"Bundling" Comedy For General Public At Little Theater

FIRST public performances of "The Pursuit of Happiness," fifth and final subscription play of the present season of the Little Theater of St. Louis, will begin tomorrow night at the Little Theater's headquarters in the Artists' Guild building, Union boulevard and Enright avenue.

The play, which opened Thursday for three nights' presentation to Guild audiences, is being offered for the first time outside of New York City through special arrangement with the Eastern producers. The piece is still running on Broadway at the Avon Theater, and is known as the "Bundling" play, due to its theme on certain puritanical love-making customs.

The play was produced here by F. Cowles Strickland, Little Theater director, with a cast which includes Dorothea Roessler, Marion Klauber, Frances Fiest, Robert Tieman, Bruce MacFarlane, George Wendling, Donald Heuchan, Harold Elbert, R. D. Howes, J. William Lucas and Jack Fiest. The early Colonial settings were designed and constructed by Gordon Carter.

Beginning tomorrow night the play will be presented for six evening performances.

Selection of the male members of the cast for "Both Your Houses," announced as a special production to be offered by the Little Theater group, will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the Little Theater.

Frank Parker will give two programs of songs and characterizations under the auspices of the St. Louis Little Theater on the evenings of April 18 and 19.

Jeritza Operetta Is Now Set for April 30

The engagement of "Annina," the new Rudolf Friml operetta starring Mme. Jeritza, will take place at the American Theater the week beginning Monday night, April 30, instead of the week of April 23. The local run will follow the Chicago engagement.

This is the first light opera vehicle for the star of the New York Metropolitan Opera. The piece is of interest to St. Louisans since Jeritza's leading man is Allan Jones, the tenor who proved popular with the Municipal Opera audiences the last two years.

Thyrsus Players to Revive "Lightnin'"

"Lightnin'", the play which was last seen in St. Louis in 1933, will be revived by Thyrsus, Washington University dramatic organization under the direction of Prof. William G. B. Carson, on the evenings of April 18 and 19 in January Court Room.

The leading part of "Lightnin'" Bill Jones will be taken by Al Wilkinson. Jocelyn Taylor plays the leading feminine role of Mrs. Davis, and the ingenue role, of "Lightnin's" daughter is played by Joan Stealey.

Burroughs School Club in a Comedy

"Luca Sarto," a romantic comedy in three acts by Charles S. Brooks will be produced by the John Burroughs School Dramatic Club at Slabsides, the Burroughs theater, next Saturday evening.

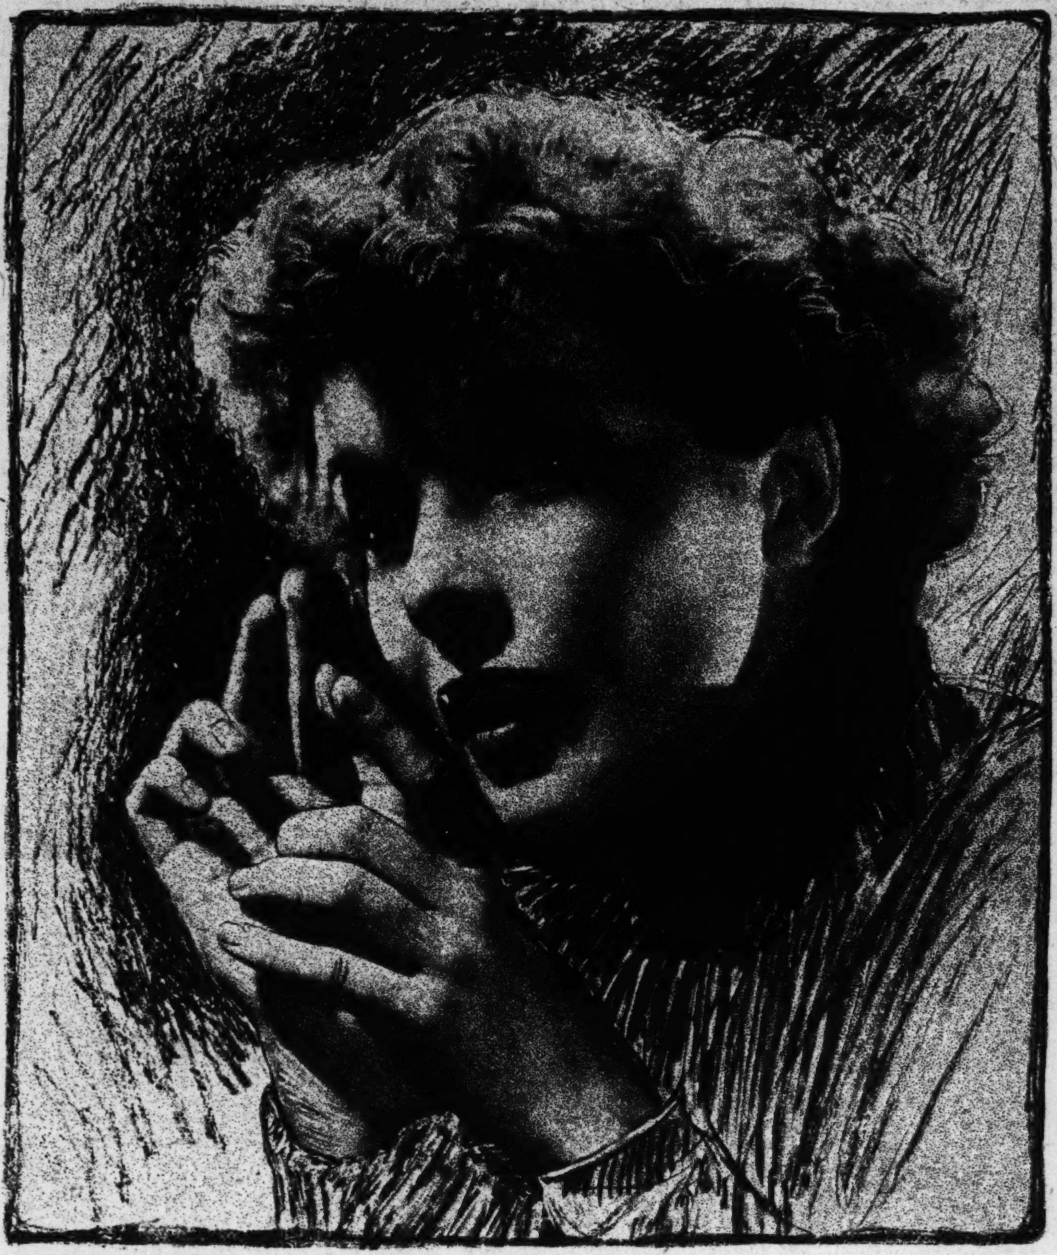
Jack Law, Burroughs Senior, will play the masculine lead in the play, which has been in rehearsal since Christmas. Judy Oliver, also a Senior, is to play opposite Law, as Diane.

New Yiddish Film at World.

"Live and Laugh," an all-Yiddish musical film, will be offered at the World Theater for one week beginning today. The picture is said to be the first Jewish musical and months were spent in its preparation. The entertainment boasts an all star cast headed by Chain Tober, a popular radio entertainer.

"Royal Family" at Y. H.

Hilda Snitzer will have the leading role of Judie in the production of "The Royal Family" to be given by the dramatic club of the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A. on Sunday evening, April 22.



Katharine Hepburn, coming to the Fox in "Spitfire."

THE WEEK'S NEW FILMS By Nie

AFTER the mad flood of films last week the cash customers of the cinema cathedrals are being offered only five new pictures in three theaters, at present with four of the older ones being held over for a second stanza—"Riptide" with Norma Shearer, at Loew's; Al Jolson in "Wonder Bar" at the Shubert and George White's "Scandals" and "Coming Out Party" at the Fox. The best of the new arrivals, from an entertainment standpoint, is "Melody in Spring," a pleasant little comedy romance down at the Ambassador. Lanny Ross, a reformed radio tenor who has gone Hollywood, and Ann Sothern, who is almost as new to the screen, provide a charming mush interest in the slight story with Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland, as the young lady's somewhat eccentric parents, taking care of the comedy. There is not much of a plot. Just something about Ann and Lanny wanting to get married despite the objections of Ruggles and Miss Boland. Papa Ruggles has to be arrested and Lanny has to sing his way across the Atlantic and up and down the Alps before the picture winds up. Even then the two young lovers haven't succeeded in getting married but it looks as though they would have been had the picture run on for another reel.

The Power of Gold.

NICE old May Robson hasn't another "Lady for a Day" by any means in her newest picture, "You Can't Buy Everything," at the Missouri although she does very well by an old fashioned story of a rich woman who piles up gold in the banks—the drama is laid in the days when it was OK to hoard the yellow stuff—and accepts charity from hospitals when her son, the apple of her eye, breaks his leg or something. Her idea is to make the boy the richest man in the world, but following stage traditions, he grows up with a desire to be a newspaper writer. This is a terrible blow to Ma Robson's pride and dreams but she is due for still a worse one. Her son falls in love with Jean Parker, whose old man is the one person in the world his mother hates. In passing it might be remarked that Jean is pretty easy to fall in love with but old lady Robson can't see it that way and there is a grand smash-up before the final all-around forgiveness. The Missouri's No. 2 film is a serio comic affair called "Let's Be Ritzy" in which Lew Ayres and Patricia Ellis try to put on the dog without any money. It's pleasing fun with the very reliable Frank McHugh providing plenty of laughs.

She Met the Governor.

OFF hand we would say that the Grand avenue run of picture fans do not care a great deal for stark and unrelieved tragedy but even though "The Sin of Nora Moran," at the St. Louis, is all of that it is a tense and powerful drama unfolded in an absorbing manner. Electric chairs, a woman electrocuted for a murder she didn't commit, an occupied coffin and the sordid details of a great love under the rose, make up the intensely dramatic tale and although it is not a bedtime story it is taut and gripping for the more thinking cinema patrons. Zita Johann, a really fine actress in this sort of thing, is the more sinned against than sinning Nora Moran who meets the governor of an unnamed state and falls in love with him. Established in a little love nest—the governor happened to be married—everything goes along smoothly until a blackmailer comes along and, in a hand to hand battle, is killed by the man in the case. Nora is arrested for the murder, convicted and goes to the chair when the governor is afraid to pardon her. He does join her in death, however, by the pistol route. The story is told on the screen, backwards with Nora, in her death cell, dreaming her past life. It is all intensely dramatic and splendidly done but the hole in the plot is the fact that even though Nora was willing to take the blame for the killing no jury would have given her more than five years for the crime, the slain man being what he was with a whole circus troupe being on hand to testify that she had really done a good job for the world in general. On the same bill is "Ever Since Eve," a lighter affair built around the loves of George O'Brien and Mary Brian. George gets out of his tried and true western make up in this opus and his only real riding is when he climbs aboard a horse in Central Park.

It's the Roar of the Crowd

Legit Actors, Hungry for the Applause of the Customers, Hurry Back to Broadway From Hollywood and Help Make Stage Season a Success — Some of 'Em Failed, But a Lot More Clicked on Return to the Spoken Drama.

THEY are coming and going in Hollywood but old May Robson, who spent some 50 years of her life in the "legit" appears to be prepared to stick out the rest of her days in the films. Her latest picture, "You Can't Buy Everything," is in town this week and along about Wednesday Katherine Hepburn's newest effort, "Spitfire," will be on view here and even now the tempestuous Miss Hepburn is headed back to the Gold Coast for more tin types after a rather unfortunate return to the spoken stage.

However the abundance of thrilling performances in the older theater on Broadway this season seems to be due to the great migration. It may be noted though, that the migratory ones are stage trained artists who knew what it was all about before they quit Broadway for the easy gold of Flickerville. Few purely film-made actors have joined in the movement and it was stars who appeared to be permanently exiled in the Hollywood movie studios who turned their faces to Main Street again.

The inroad made by that old convalescent, the legitimate theater, on the upstart cinema may be judged by a list of the stars who returned to the stage. Such a list includes, besides Miss Hepburn, Helen Hayes, Walter Huston, Roland Young, Lyda Roberti, Miriam Hopkins, Alexander Kirkland and many others.

Clutching the honors she won for her fine cinema acting, Miss Hayes scurried eastward to play the title part in "Mary of Scotland," a bit of casting that turned out to be equally wise and fortunate.

"Dodsworth" brought back a star who hadn't been seen on the stage in five years. Film goers will remember Walter Huston's performances in "Abraham Lincoln" and "Gabriel Over the White House," but those are dwarfed by his impersonation of an American business man in the Sinclair Lewis story.

MAX GORDON raided Hollywood for the complete cast for "His Master's Voice," the Clare Kummer comedy. The company includes Roland Young, Laura Hope Crews, Elizabeth Patterson and Frances Fuller.

In "Roberta" will be found the blond Lyda Roberti, Polish comedienne of several films, while in a starring role of "The Shining Hour" is Adrianne Allen, who played the mentally unbalanced wife in "The Night of June 13th." In "Dodsworth" also is Fay Bainter, who slipped out to the studios to appear with Lionel Barrymore in "This Side of Heaven."

Two other Hollywood favorites did not fare so well in their New York appearances. Katharine Hepburn received a stormy reception at the hands of metropolitan journalists; and Miriam Hopkins appeared unfortunate in her choice of a vehicle.

Scores of other cinema stars, among them Mary Pickford, are beseeching Broadway producers to find plays for them. As Huston points out, an occasional Hollywood premiere is a sorry substitute for the nightly laughter and cheers of a living audience.

ANOTHER Broadway-Hollywood combination to click, quite lately, is "New Faces," an intimate revue that is a triumph for both the old and new regimes on Broadway. The producer is Charles B. Dillingham, who presented his first show in 1898, and the east is made up of youngsters between 16 and 23 years of age.

"New Faces" is said to be a fairly witty and pseudo-sophisticated revue and more important, is a box office sell-out. Withal the charm of the show, the story of how it came to Broadway is even more interesting.

Some months ago a young tap dancer, Leonard Sillman, found himself getting nowhere in Hollywood and decided to give a party. It was a lavish and well ballyhooed festival and was attended by a number of cinema stars. They saw Sillman dance and, liking his style, engaged him to tutor them in intricate routines.

WITH a few dollars in his bank account, Sillman assembled a group of talented but unknown youngsters and put on a revue in Los Angeles that was well liked. Elsie Janis was one of those who thought it was good and sent Sillman east to see Dillingham, who had been inactive for the last two years. The market crash had left him bankrupt. But he liked Sillman's idea and the two started to work. For weeks rehearsals went on and countless prospective "angels" viewed the show. Finally, the money was raised with Mary Pickford and several other movie stars as the principal backers.

It was a triumph, too, for the authors of the show. V Brothers Shore, a well known name in the field of fiction, who been writing movie scenarios for years, turned out many the hilarious sketches. Another of the authors is Nancy Hamil a Smith College graduate, who was understudy to Katharine H burn in "The Lake." And Dillingham—well, he's back on his fee

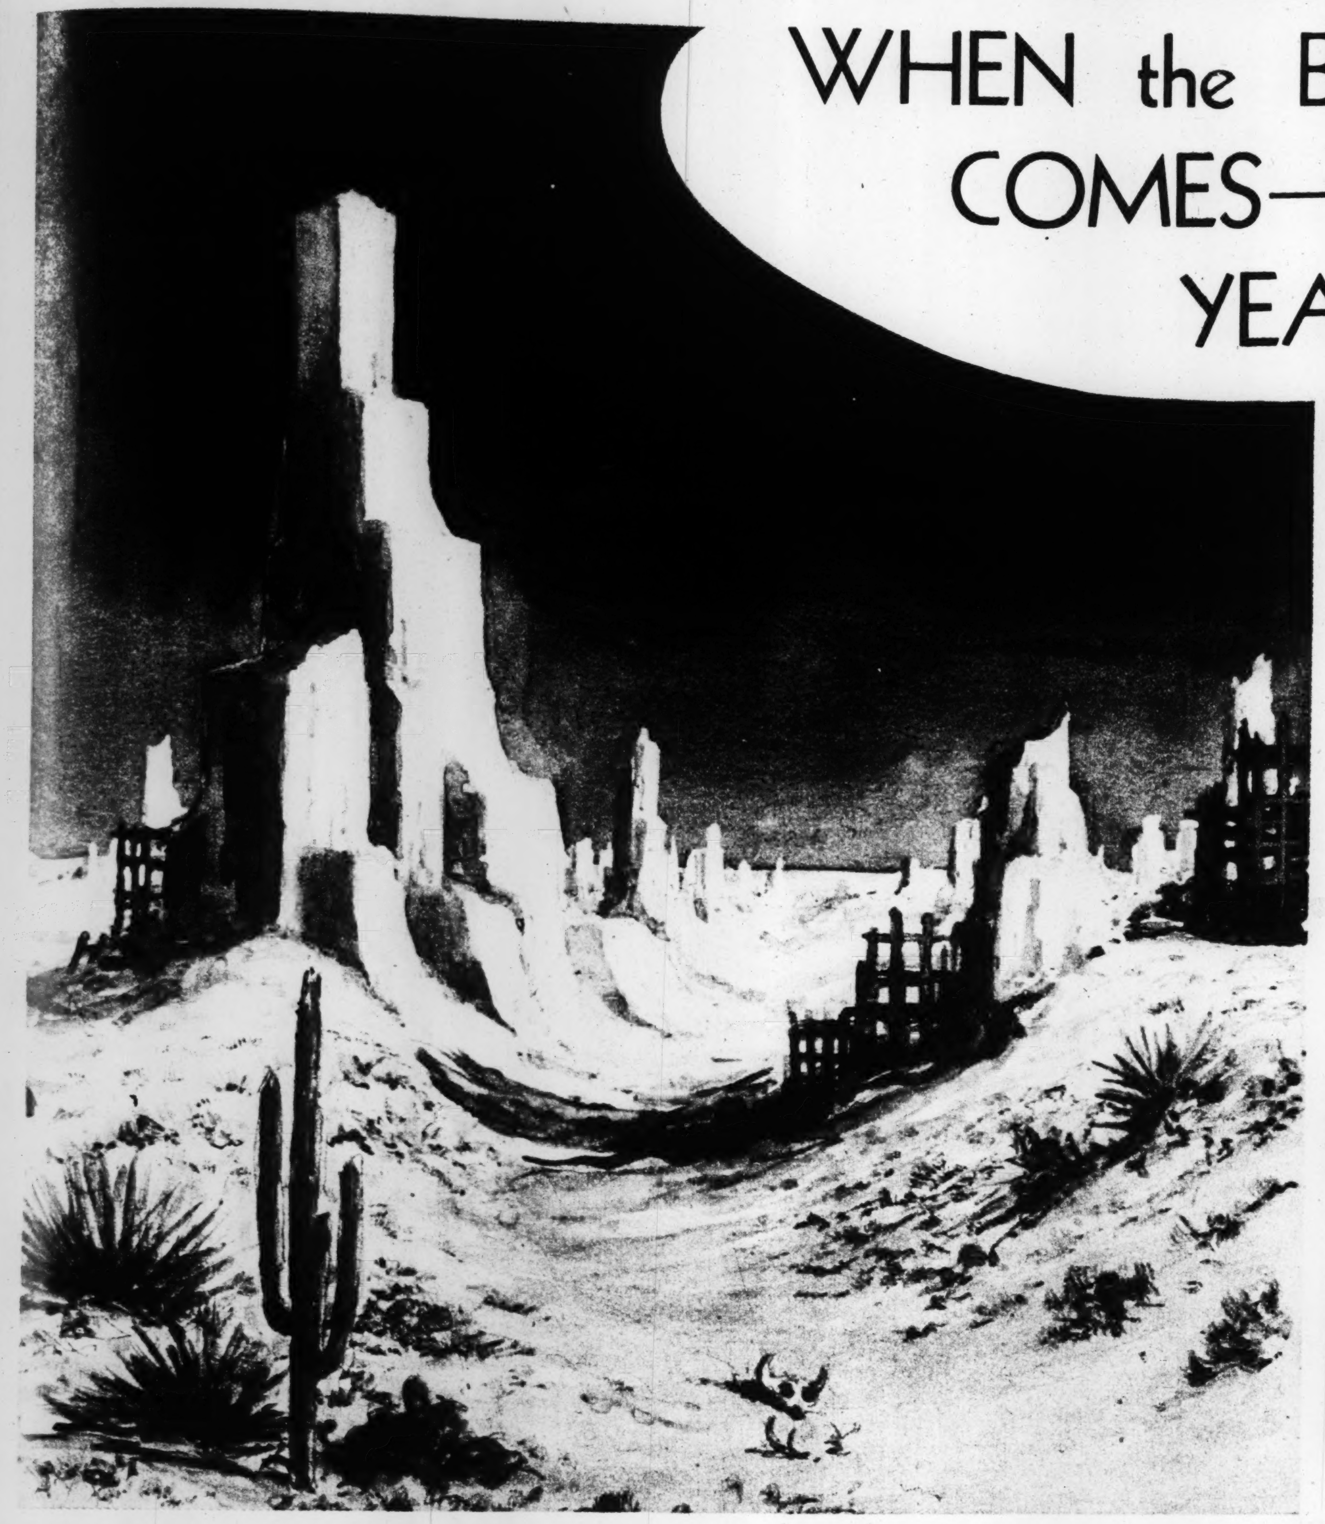
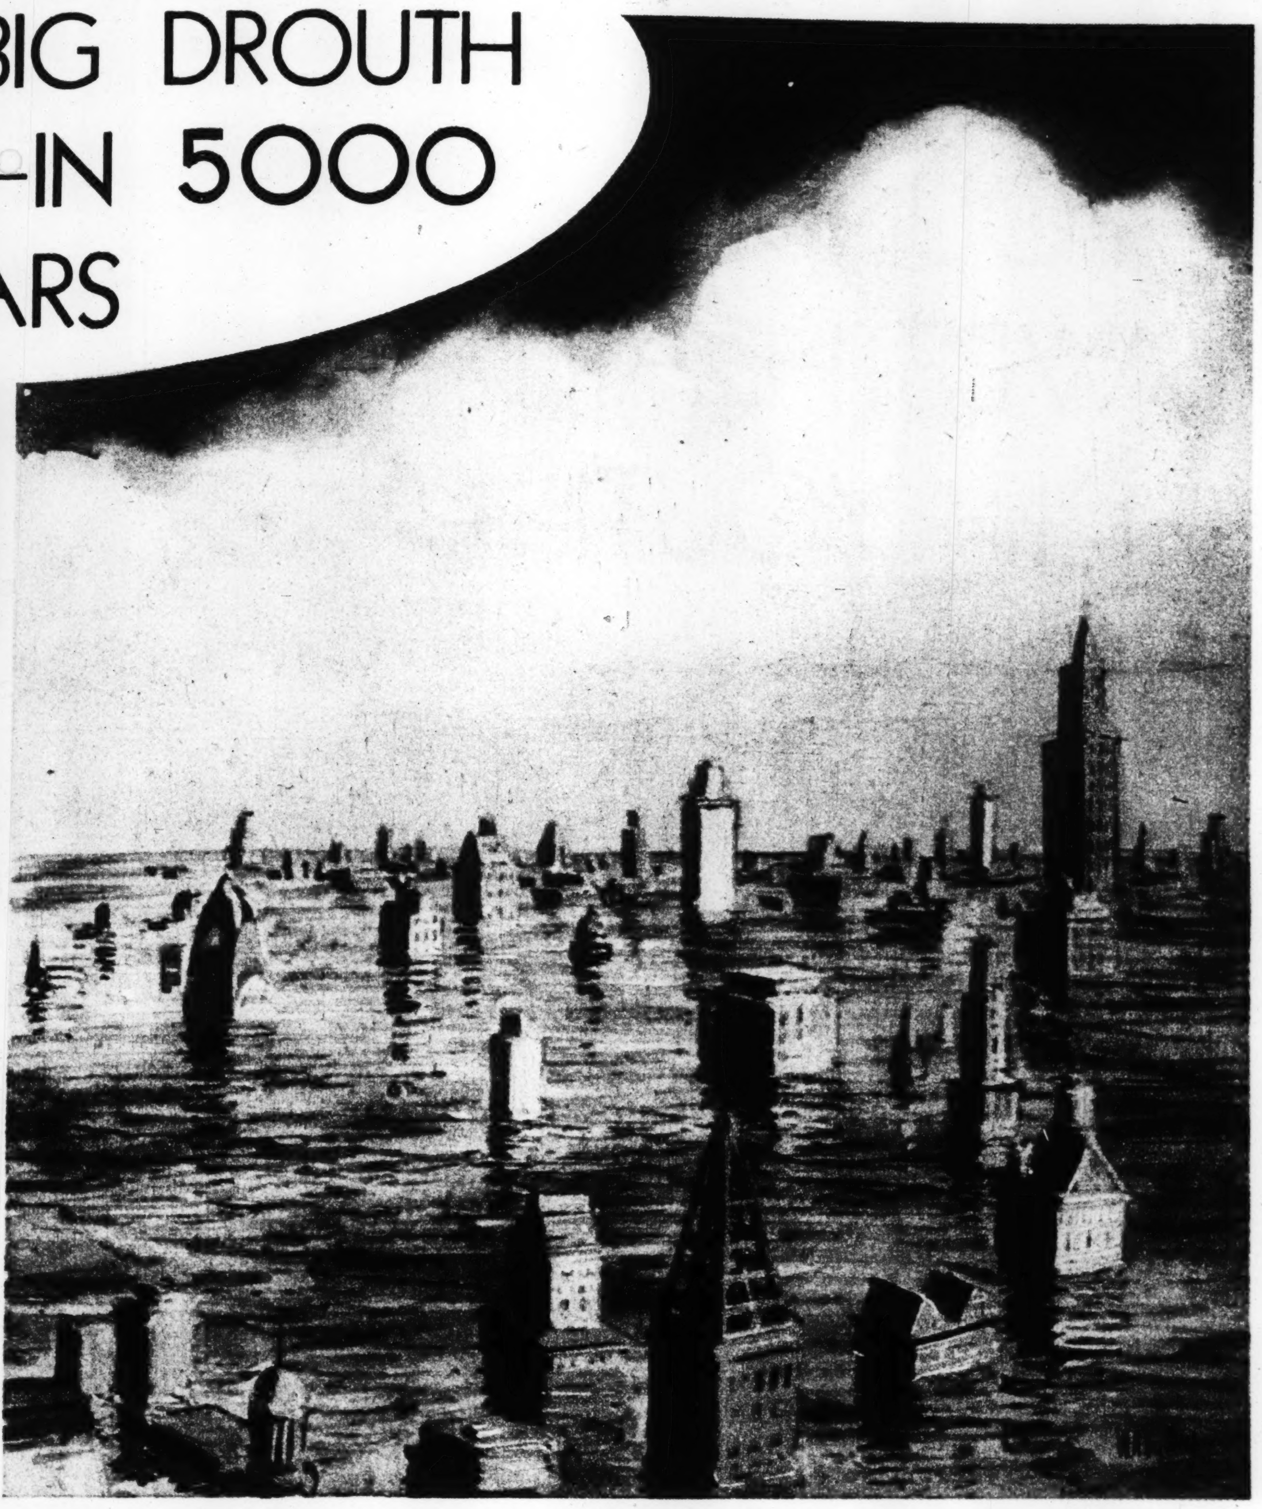
WHEN the BIG DROUTH COMES—IN 5000 YEARS



"The great drouth will spread and as it spreads, cities and farms will be abandoned in its wake."



"Only the towers of the loftiest sky-scrapers would remain visible above the tumbling waters of a deeper and vastly enlarged ocean."

As the Polar Ice Melts, the United States Will Become Largely an Arid Waste, Says Famous Meteorological Expert, and Its Coast Cities Will Be Swallowed Up by the Ocean.

*By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

WASHINGTON, D. C.

NEW YORK, Chicago, San Francisco, Washington will be abandoned and the desolation of a desert will spread across the face of our great cities and farm lands.

Men, women and children will flee as the "great drouth" gradually renders useless for human habitation vast stretches of land in the temperate zone, now the fairest and most fruitful in the world.

Whole populations in America, Europe and Asia will migrate with their portable possessions into the few remaining regions where the rainfall is sufficient for the needs of man and his crops and his livestock.

A fantastic picture conjured up by a sensation-seeking clairvoyant?

A baseless prophecy plucked from nowhere to make a fiction writer's holiday?

Quite the contrary. The vista, grim and amazing though it be, is made on the basis of careful study and analysis by one of the most distinguished scientists and weather experts in the service of the Federal Government.

He is Dr. William Jackson Humphreys, eminent meteorological physicist of the United States Weather Bureau at Washington, twice a winner of Franklin Institute medals, leading figure in a dozen learned societies, member of the U. S. Naval Observatory eclipse expedition to Sumatra in 1901, author of scores of papers and books of the highest scientific attainment, and an internationally recognized authority.

Seated in his quiet office in the Victorian Weather Bureau building at the National capital, Dr. Humphreys unfolded to the writer a breath-taking panorama of the results of a radical change in weather conditions, a change which is now taking place.

"We have found," Dr. Humphreys revealed, "that for the last 50 years the weather in the United States, and in other parts of the world, except the tropics, has been growing slowly warmer. The change is not enough to be perceptible to the average person, but is shown definitely by our instruments and records for this period.

"We have confirmed by modern scientific methods the knowledge that we are emerging from an ice age. Today there are approximately 6,000,000 square miles of ice in the world, as compared with probably 12,000,000 square miles 25,000 years ago.

"Now we have arrived at a time when more ice is melting each year than is being made; in other words, the world's consumption of ice is definitely and considerably above the amount produced each winter.

"Not more than 25,000 years ago, all the United States as far south as southern Pennsylvania, Illinois and central California was covered by a glacier perhaps as great as a mile thick over much of its extent.

"This ice has been receding gradually, and its recession now is being accelerated from year to year.

"For that reason our records show a slight but definite warming throughout the United States over the period covered by our observations at the Weather Bureau. As the ice recedes, precipitation, or rainfall, decreases.

"The time will come when this condition will be acute, and the abandonment of vast areas in the temperate zones imperative. A greater portion of the United States, Europe and Asia will grow increasingly arid, resembling parts of New Mexico and Arizona.

"Then as the recession of the ice continues, wholesale migrations will become necessary."

At this point the writer, becoming somewhat apprehensive, inquired as to whether the monumental sweep, which would take its place with the great world changes of all time, was likely to occur in the near future.

"That all depends on what you call the near future," Dr. Humphreys replied. "If you mean as the individual conceives it, the answer is 'No.' But if you mean historically, the answer is 'Yes.' I believe that we have far fewer years to go before we reach that point than the number of years we already have come since we first began emerging from the ice age.

"I believe that in 5000 years from now, which is a period no greater than written history, our descendants will have to leave this land and go either to the tropics or to the polar regions where precipitation will continue to be present in sufficient quantities to sustain life."

Would it be possible to frustrate Nature in her stentorian command to "Move on!" by an artificial stimulation of rainfall, Dr. Humphreys was asked.

"I am convinced," the distinguished scientist answered, "that man will never be able to 'make rain.' I have studied this question from every conceivable angle, scientific, hocus-pocus, and otherwise, and I feel that rain-making is one of those things that, as the world is at present formed, is definitely outside of man's ken. I don't think he will ever be able to make rain any more than he will be able to pick up the Washington Monument and walk off with it. There are some things that man cannot do because natural conditions simply will not permit.

"SO I do not believe that our descendants will be able to stay here because they will have learned how to make and control rainfall.

"However, they will be able to stave off the eventual migration by improving on certain methods which we already know.

"Thus, we may expect that as the years go on, irrigation will become increasingly imperative. Land which now has plenty of water naturally will need to be fed artificially. The number of acres of irrigated land will rise steadily through the decades and centuries. The regions which have the narrowest margin of rainfall will be abandoned first. Some parts of the United States now could lose 10 inches of rain a year and still have plenty; others can-

'WHO'S WHO' ON DR. HUMPHREYS

Dr. William Jackson Humphreys.

WILLIAM JACKSON HUMPHREYS, physicist, was born at Gap Mills, Monroe County, West Virginia, February 3, 1862, the son of Andrew Jackson Humphreys and Eliza Ann (Eads) Humphreys. He married Margaret Gertrude Antrim of Charlottesville, Virginia, January 11, 1908. He received the A.B. degree at Washington and Lee University in 1886, and the C.E. degree in 1888. He studied physics and chemistry at the University of Virginia, 1888-89, and from 1894 to 1897 attended Johns Hopkins University, where he was a fellow in physics, 1895-96, and received his Ph.D. in 1897. He was professor of physics and mathematics at the Miller School in Virginia, 1889-93; professor of physics and chemistry at Washington College, Maryland, 1893-94; instructor in physics at the University of Virginia, 1897-1905; professor of meteorological physics, United States Weather Bureau, since July 1, 1905; professor of meteorological physics at George Washington University, since 1911; director of the research station at Mount Weather, Virginia, 1905-08; member of the United States Naval Observatory's eclipse expedition to Sumatra, 1901; secretary for Physics of the Electron, International Congress of Arts and Sciences, St. Louis, 1904. He is associate editor of the Journal of Franklin Institute, a fellow of the American Physical Society, the Astronomical and the American Association for the Advancement of Science Society of America, the Seismological Society of America (general secretary, 1924-28), and a member of the American Mathematical Society, the American Meteorological Society (president, 1928-29), the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the Americal Philosophical Society, the American Geophysical Union, Franklin Institute, the Philosophical Society of Washington (president in 1922); and corresponding member of the Meteorological Society of Hungary. He is author of "Physics of the Air," "Weather Proverbs and Paradoxes," "Rain Making and Other Weather Vagaries," "Fogs and Clouds," and "Snow Crystals" (with W. A. Bentley).

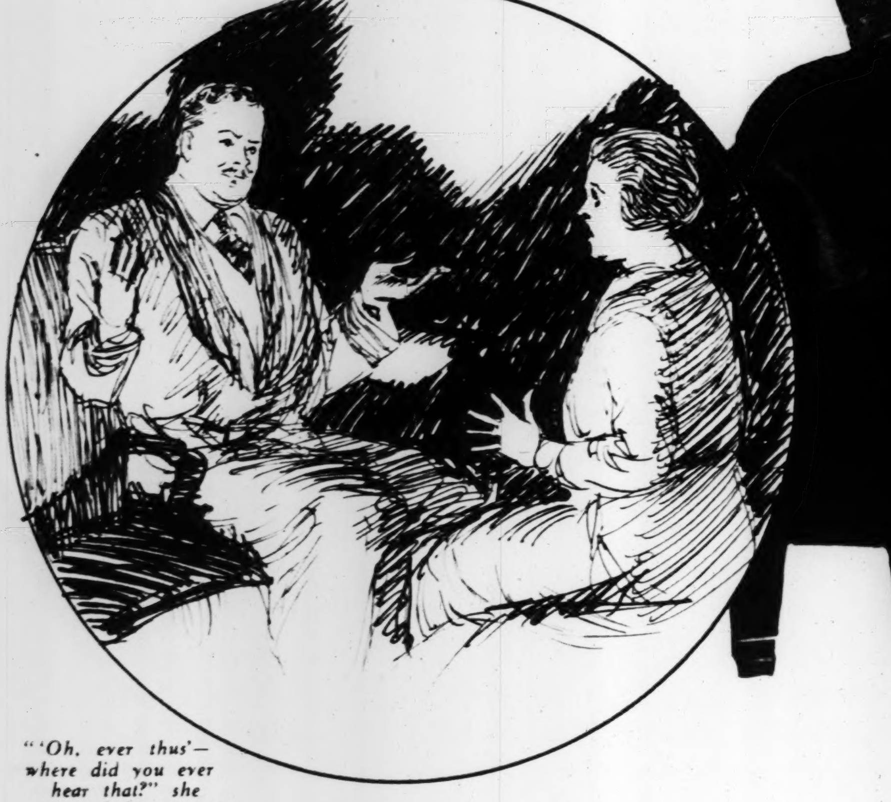
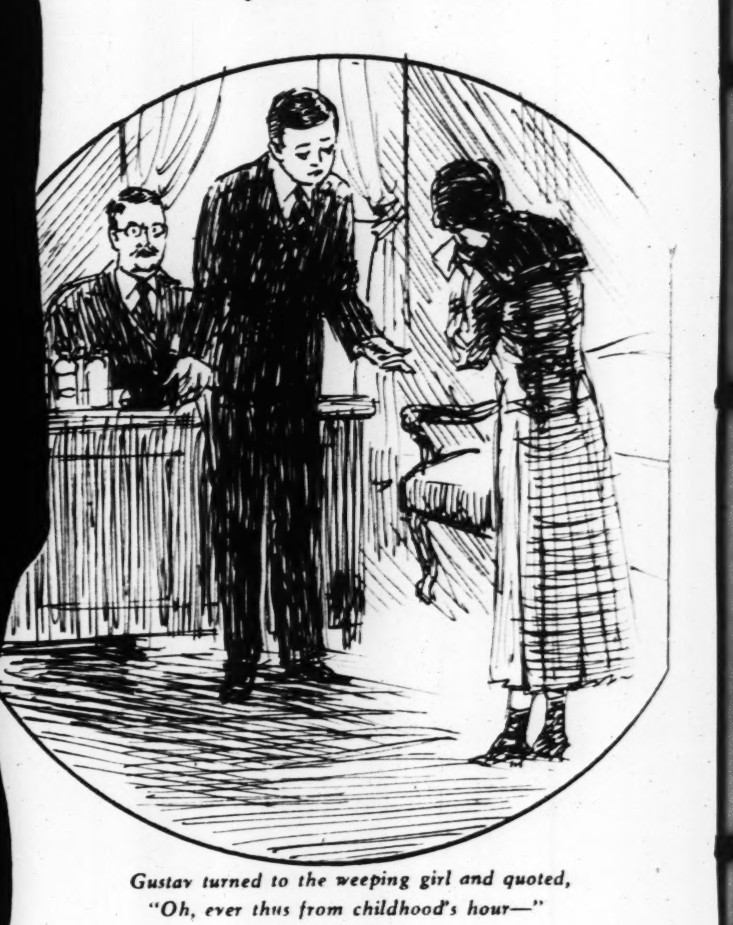
ANSWERED a WANT AD—FOUND the SWEETHEART of his YOUTH

How the Long Arm of Coincidence Led Wilhelm Passek Back to Romance and Marriag After 40 Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Gustav Passek and her son, Robert, by a former marriage.



" 'Oh, ever thus'—where did you ever hear that?" she demanded, sitting upright.



Gustav turned to the weeping girl and quoted, "Oh, ever thus from childhood's hour—"

ROCKVILLE, L. I.

THE log stopped crackling in the grate and the nook off the O'Connor living room grew a shade darker and a little chill. Mrs. O'Connor caught herself nodding. She fumbled at a gray strand and smoothed it back in her pompadour. She folded her arms on her ample bosom.

"Please go on, Mr. Passek," she said, smiling apologetically.

The new roomer, a broad-shouldered six-footer with Prussian erectness, fumbled at the cord of his soft brown lounging robe and sat in reflection for some minutes, the winking embers dancing in his blue eyes. There between the squat andirons passed the cavalcade of his life, the parade he had been describing all evening—a young man in the uniform of the Imperial Army serving in Tsing-Tao under Prince Henry, the Kaiser's brother; a German civilian speaking only the Chinese tongue for almost 30 years while learning to be a merchant of the Orient; an assistant to a Chinese provision dealer shoving a sampan through the body-choked Pei-ho River to get the first food to the Europeans beleaguered by the Boxers in Tientsin.

A MIDDLE-AGED European chatting with the Princess Lee from the Royal Palace in his Pekin store; a prosperous business man with branch offices in many Chinese cities and the key to the mysteries of the Chinese nature; a merchant prince voyaging to India, Africa and South America for goods and works of art to please his wealthy patrons. Then the World War and Allied troops patroling the streets and death to the business of a German; collapse of a fortune, desperate efforts to forestall financial disaster and finally the decision to come to America, with two precious trunks full of ancient Chinese art objects, and little else.

"It is too bad you had to lose so much," Mrs. O'Connor said softly. "Yet in life, one must expect almost anything."

"Ja, ja," agreed the guest, smiling as he broke from his reverie. " 'Oh, ever thus from childhood's hour—' " He gestured in resignation.

Mrs. O'Connor's heart skipped a beat.

" 'Oh, ever thus—'. Where did you ever hear that?" she demanded, sitting upright.

"My dear lady, I have said it instinctively at various times all my life."

"But I have, too," she cried. "Many, many times. I heard it years ago when I was just a child. A young German boy who wanted to marry me said it and I never forgot it. We thought we were in love, you know, as youngsters will. That was in London. Our parents had us sent home. Hm, I suppose that was 35 or 40 years ago. Odd, isn't it?" It was she now who gazed at the blackening log.

She added quietly:

"As he left me, he said: 'Oh, ever thus from childhood's hour—'. Isn't it queer? I can't even remember his name or what he looked like but the line stuck in my mind."

The guest's shadow loomed on the wall like a rising giant.

"Mein Gott, Madam," he cried in crisp gutturals. "Did you used to wear a flat straw hat and ride a bicycle near the Crystal Palace? Are you Lillian O'Brien?"

That was in December. Six weeks later they were married in St. Agnes Catholic Church in Rockville Centre. It was the third ceremony for Lillian O'Brien, twice a widow. Passek had roamed the world a sworn bachelor since that gloomy day in London. But after the almost incredible intervention of the god Coincidence, he gave in gracefully and willingly. If a fiction writer had concocted the romance, he would have been branded an unskilful liar. The chief component, besides the line from old Tom Moore, was an insignificant want-ad in the Nassau County Daily Review.

Coincidence first brought Lillian O'Brien and Wilhelm Gustav Passek together in the early nineties. She lived in County Clare, Ireland, and attended the Ursuline Convent at Waterford. He was a native of Upper Silesia, Prussia. Each had a wealthy uncle and both uncles, strangely enough, were dog fanciers. Even more strangely, both exhibited Dalmatians, or coach dogs, at European shows. Passek's uncle took him to London one year for the exhibition at the Crystal Palace.

IT JUST happened that Lillian was spending her vacation that spring with her uncle, Dr. James O'Brien, who lived on Sydenham road near the exhibition hall. Dr. O'Brien and Passek's uncle, Otto Passek, met over their Dalmatians and continued their friendship over whisky and soda in the physician's study. There Gustav met Lillian and while the uncles pored over pedigrees, the youngsters strolled in the beautiful gardens laid out about the Crystal Palace by Queen Victoria or cycled out of town to picnics.

One afternoon they decided they were in love. It seemed absurdly proper and the notion of an objection to their marriage did not enter their heads. Lillian would go home and tell her uncle and Gustav would call in the evening to receive the uncle's blessing. They would live in Berlin.

But the physician was aghast. He ordered the maid to pack his niece's trunks immediately. By the time the tall German youth knocked on the door, Lillian was all dressed up for her trip homeward.

"Impossible," stormed Dr. O'Brien when the white-faced boy demurred. "You are 15. She is 14. What would your parents think? Marriage is a serious matter and not for children."

It was the Victorian age and no one thought it stilted when Gustav turned to the weeping girl and quoted: " 'Oh, ever thus from childhood's hour—'." Nor when he clicked his heels sharply, bowed from the waist and stalked out.

Lillian left that night for County Clare. Her parents returned her in the fall to the convent at Waterford, where she resumed her studies.

Gustav's uncle was wrathful, too, and sent him posthaste back to his home in Prussia, promising to intercede for him if the romance continued for a few more years undimmed. But Gustav's desire for marriage and his hope of lifelong love died in Dr. O'Brien's study.

He took out his youthful anger in adventure. Germany had just appropriated the Chinese city of Tsing-Tao in Shantung province and youths of good family were being offered commissions to establish the German military colony there. So Passek went to Tsing-Tao with Prince Henry and helped lay out the distant German commercial outpost.

An eight months' trip through China on a survey convinced him he wanted to live there, so he left the army and became a civilian employe of Jae Liang Tching, a wealthy merchant-banker of Tientsin. Tching liked Passek and Passek was able to make a great deal of money for the firm. In the Russo-Japanese War he sold millions of dollars' worth of food and clothing to the Russian Government and from the fortune reaped, Tching rewarded him so liberally that Passek was able to set up in business for himself. Tching gave him unlimited credit and this was the beginning of prosperity for the German. Tching's word was good throughout the Orient.

OVER each of Passek's stores, which sprang up in many Chinese cities, was a sign bearing his name in German script and beside the Chinese name Bashe (Big Strong Man), Te Tsung (German-in-China) and Pa Drze Ku, a literal translation of his name. The other two titles were conferred by Tching.

The day the elderly Princess Lee dropped in marked the beginning of Passek's collection of Oriental art. He won her interest in Italian paintings and sculpture and several days later servants from the palace brought him a gift of an imperial robe, stiff with gold brocade, dating back to the fourteenth century. Other members of the royal family frequented the store and the collection of fabrics and carved figures grew. Once during a revolution Passek hid one of the Emperor's sons from the wrath of the mob.

Money poured into his coffers. Passek traveled widely. He was known to traders in Siberia, Africa, South America, Korea and Calcutta. The Wright brothers flew their big kite at Kitty Hawk, the first subway roared away from New York City Hall, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition opened in St. Louis, San Francisco was leveled by an earthquake, war flared in the Balkans, the Titanic sank on her maiden voyage, Herman Rosenthal died the death of a squealer in a New York doorway and in Sarajevo, Bosnia, a member of an assassination society murdered an Austrian archduke. That was the beginning of the end of Passek's prosperity. While the German troops were flooding Liege and Brussels on the Western front, Japan was wresting the Tsing-Tao outpost

Will Johns, special investigator of the Attorney-General's office.

LAWRENCE, Kansas.

IT seemed something more than a mere coincidence to the authorities of the University of Kansas here that several of the most brilliant students should begin to fail conspicuously to come up to the previous high standard they had set.

Dean Henry Werner, advisor of men, made a few quiet inquiries. The result was a shock that Kansas has not yet recovered from, the beginning of a formal investigation into the development of a drug habit among a considerable number of students. It was shocking, it was incongruous, that this should have happened in the middle of the Middle-West where, by tradition at least, life is healthy and uncomplicated. But Dean Werner and Chancellor E. H. Lindley faced the unpleasant facts and went about it as quietly as possible to stop the practice.

One estimate placed the number of those who had used the drug at roughly between two and three hundred. Chancellor Lindley says frankly there is no way of determining the number with any accuracy whatsoever. The estimate may be too high or it may be too low.

The drug which the Kansas University students used was prepared from the plant known as Indian hemp, commonly called marijuana, and known also as peyote or pellote. There are two kinds of marijuana. One grows in this country, either wild or cultivated. Another type, which produces a stronger effect in the user, is grown in Mexico. It is said that the person who becomes an habitual user of American marijuana eventually resorts to the stronger Mexican type.

The American plant is often found wild in this part of the country along railroad tracks. It sometimes grows to six feet in height and puts out a yellow blossom. The tender, bud leaves are dried and cured and smoked in the form of cigarettes, either of pure marijuana or of marijuana mixed with tobacco. The smoker takes three deep inhales of the smoke into his lungs and gets an effect which lasts from one to two hours.

From the evidence that has been gathered here, by university authorities and by Will Johns, special investigator for Attorney-General Roland Boynton, various users are effected in various ways, depending possibly upon the person's physical condition or temperament. Some have described the effect as similar to that reputed to be induced by the drugs which are derivatives of opium—that is nirvana, a kind of floating, formless oblivion in which the individual is free from all care and distress. Others have said that they received a stimulation from the drug, as from alcohol, a sense of possessing great brilliance and wit. Again it is reported to have an aphrodisiacal effect. The user who takes alcohol while under the effect of marijuana is for the time being virtually insane. Throughout the Southwest, Mexican railway workers sometimes resort to this kind of jag, affording a serious problem for law-enforcement officials.

It is not definitely established that the drug is habit-forming. Some students have said that they used it two or three times and then gave it up without any further desires.

BUT while it may not be absolutely habit-forming, in the sense that opium derivatives are, the physical attack of marijuana upon the body is rapid and devastating. In the initial stages the skin turns a peculiar yellow color, the lips become discolored, dried and cracked. Soon the mouth is affected, the gums are inflamed and softened. Then the teeth are loosened and eventually, if the habit is persisted in, they fall out. Like all other drugs, marijuana also has a serious effect on the moral character of the individual, destroying his will power and reducing his stamina. To the university authorities perhaps the most shocking fact uncovered by the investigation was that several students of pharmacology, who knew very well the fearful effects of the drug, were among the users of marijuana.

"We regret the publicity that this has received," Chancellor Lindley said to the writer, "because it has inevitably put a stop to our investigation. The situation is not so serious as we at first thought it was. We believe we know how it first came into use and we hope that we shall be able to prevent its use entirely."

When he first learned of the use of marijuana in the university, Chancellor Lindley says he went to Governor Alf Landon at Topeka for help. Governor Landon heard his story and sent him to Attorney-General Boynton.

ONE UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA HAD ITS OWN MARIJUANA PATCH.

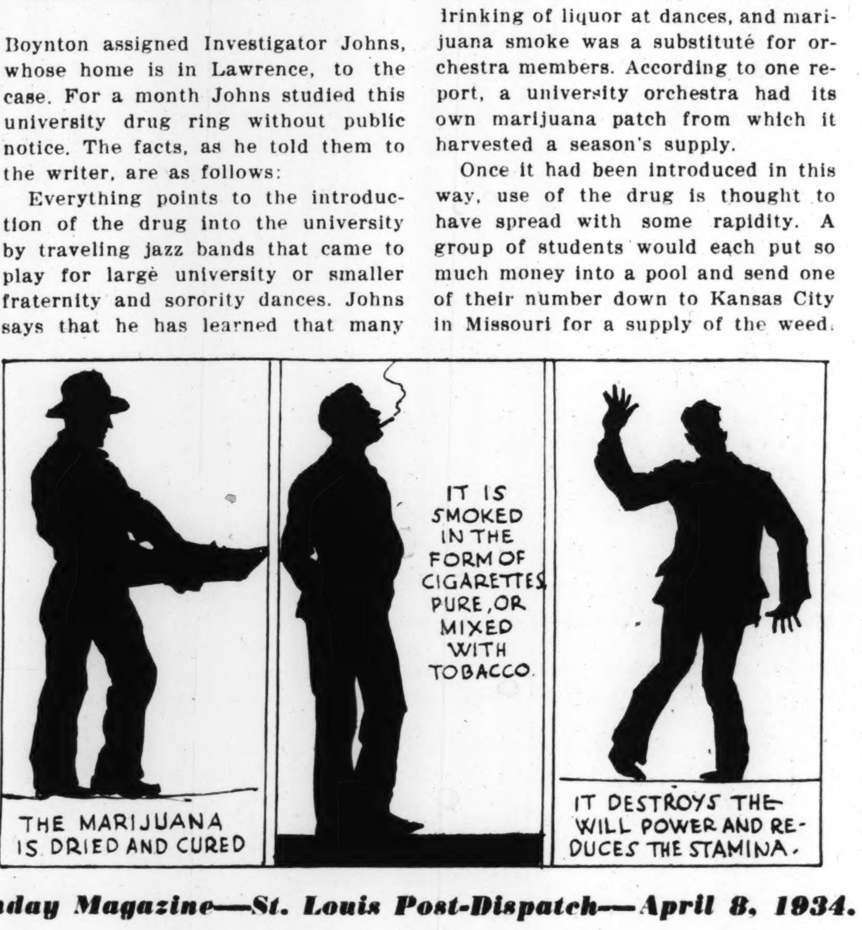
Boynton assigned Investigator Johns, whose home is in Lawrence, to the case. For a month Johns studied this university drug ring without public notice. The facts, as he told them to the writer, are as follows:

Everything points to the introduction of the drug into the university by traveling jazz bands that came to play for large university or smaller fraternity and sorority dances. Johns says that he has learned that many members of jazz bands, not only in this section but generally throughout the country, often resort to marijuana or some other drug to obscure the monotony of their lives, the ceaseless thumping of jazz night after night.

"They take a few puffs off a marijuana cigarette if they are tired," Johns says. "It gives them a lift and they can go on playing even though they may be virtually paralyzed from the waist down, which is one of the effects that marijuana may have."

From traveling jazz bands the use is thought to have spread to local orchestras. A university rule forbade drinking of liquor at dances, and marijuana smoke was a substitute for orchestra members. According to one report, a university orchestra had its own marijuana patch from which it harvested a season's supply.

Once it had been introduced in this way, use of the drug is thought to have spread with some rapidity. A group of students would each put so much money into a pool and send one of their number down to Kansas City in Missouri for a supply of the weed.



THE MARIJUANA IS DRIED AND CURED

IT IS SMOKED IN THE FORM OF CIGARETTES PURE, OR MIXED WITH TOBACCO.

IT DESTROYS THE WILL POWER AND REDUCES THE STAMINA.

In the flop-house section of the city, only an hour away from Lawrence, Johns says that marijuana may be purchased almost as readily as illicit liquor before the repeal of prohibition. This was the Mexican marijuana. It was the custom to buy a tobacco tin of it. But it was also obtainable in cigarettes already rolled, the price being three for 50 cents.

The use spread within special groups where one or two persons became users of the drug. Thus, according to Johns, in one rooming house where there were 12 boys, 11 became users of marijuana, either intermittently or habitually. The twelfth boy, showing remarkable will-power and independence of mind, stayed clear of the habit and laughed at the others when they talked in a rambling or foolish way while under the influence.

Johns says that a few girls at the university also used the drug at one time or another. There were slang expressions on the campus for it—"Do you have any hay?"—"Do you have any of the weed?" While the use of marijuana had a quiet, insidious growth, by far the greater part of the student body knew nothing of it at all and went about the usual life of study and sport and "dates."

The investigation might have gone on to completion without attracting any attention—that was the hope of Chancellor Lindley—if it had not been for the suicide of one of the most brilliant students in the university. This young senior not only had maintained a very high average in his work but he had taken a prominent part in many activities on the campus. Chancellor Lindley says that to his knowledge this boy was not a user of marijuana.

BUT nevertheless the local paper, a few days after he had jumped into the Kaw River and had drowned himself, carried a report of the investigation with the reported fact that a number of the young man's friends had been questioned to determine whether they used the drug. This was enough to give the whole story wide currency.

So far the university has not taken drastic disciplinary action against any of those who have confessed to using marijuana. All of them have denied being habitual users and without exception they have professed to be ignorant of the source of supply. They have been cautioned as to the terrible effects of the drug if its use is persisted in and Dean Werner has put them on their honor to try to stop the practice in every way possible. It is this honor policy which the university follows in most disciplinary matters.

Investigator Johns turned up the startling fact that marijuana had even been introduced into certain high schools in Kansas. He found that it was available to and used by certain high school students in Topeka, Concordia and several other towns. Also its use was reported in one Missouri high school.

Chancellor Lindley sought to check the supply of the drug at its source through the aid of the Federal authorities. But he found that the Federal narcotic law does not cover marijuana and that therefore Federal agents were more or less powerless to help him.

Kansas has felt the menace of marijuana to be so real that a year ago the Legislature amended the law regarding the use of the drug. It was formerly only a misdemeanor to peddle it or use it, punishable by a fine of $100 or 30 days in jail. The amendment made it a felony, with penalties of $1000 or a year in prison or both. The law as it now stands says "That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation or association to plant, cultivate, protect, harvest, cure, prepare, barter, sell, give away or use, or offer to sell, furnish or give away or to have in his or its possession" any of the drug.

SINCE the facts brought to light at the university, Attorney-General Boynton has moved to secure a Federal law or an amendment covering the use of the drug. The response he has received indicates that there will be considerable pressure in Washington for such a law. Senator Arthur Capper has said, "I shall be glad to introduce such an amendment and am asking the Commissioner of Narcotics to suggest its form and where it should be included in the statutes." Representative Harold McGugin has appealed to Attorney-General Cummings for some action.

"Of course, we don't want to put any college students in jail for using marijuana," says Attorney-General Boynton. "That was not the object of the law. We want to check the source of it.

"I have hoped that other and particularly neighboring states, Missouri and Oklahoma, would see the need of a law similar to ours. It is difficult or impossible as it is to keep it out of Kansas."

Kansas is not the only state where outbreaks of marijuana have occurred. In California some months ago in the course of an exposure of the use of narcotics, it was discovered that considerable plots of Mexican marijuana were raised and sold to smokers. In the East, too, it has at times arisen as a danger to the immature.

"I can imagine," says Chancellor Lindley, "some young people who might seek to experiment with this drug, out of bravado or a sense of adventure. But I cannot believe that it would take a very deep hold on them when they are made to understand the very serious consequences. In general I believe that the young people of today are too realistic for this. One sees that in the way in which they have accepted repeal of prohibition. That is, with a perfectly realistic view of the potentialities of alcohol. I cannot believe that the present experimentation is anything more than a passing phenomenon of very limited scope."

WHAT CHICAGO WIVES HAVE BEEN TELLING the JUDGE

New Era in Frankness as a Result of the Change in the Illinois Divorce Laws Has Brought Out Many Novel Excuses for Wanting to Get Rid of a Husband.

Mrs. Irene Peters charged her husband with being an irate bridge partner.

Mrs. Marie Riley said her husband objected to her posing for artists.

Mrs. Faye Bossow, who claimed that her husband hypnotized her, even over the telephone.

Mrs. Marguerite Ellsworth, who wanted a divorce because her salary was garnisheed.

CHICAGO.

"AND now the women are telling all. It is Illinois' new divorce laws that have done it. And there is many a shy, shrinking husband who wishes that the change hadn't been made.

Supposedly the male was to get a break.

He was to have an equal status with women in the divorce courts. That is, he could sue for alimony and for custody of the children.

But the men who fought for those laws must feel pretty silly now. For the chief result has been that women have cast aside all reticence and reserve and have fought back with the primitive ferocity that the female of the species seems able to summon at will. Gone are the peaceful days when the wife whispered into the Judge's ear, wore a heavy black veil and asked to have the papers in the case sealed away from the prying press. Now she smiles winsomely and with a certain beguiling innocence for the newspaper photographers and tells all in a loud voice, all and then some.

Strange as it may seem, the same woman who wouldn't tell her true age to her oldest friend will reveal before a courtroom crowded with strangers the most intimate chapters of her marital misadventures.

Most women hope that the men they marry will turn out to be those so-called masterful males. So Mrs. Faye Bossow, pretty and plumpish Chicago kindergarten teacher, should have allowed no one to put asunder her marriage to Dr. Ernest W. Bossow, an osteopath who also runs a Loop "health" restaurant. For by her own admissions he completely dominated her.

Yet she appeared before Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort the other day, asking him to continue the temporary injunction which he had previously granted, restraining her husband from exerting his mastery over her.

She asserted that Dr. Bossow had hypnotized her into divorcing him last August, and that if the court didn't forbid him from placing her under any more spells she undoubtedly would sign away a lot of valuable property rights which she had acquired at that time.

"How does he hypnotize you?" inquired Judge Desort, who admits that for Chicago divorce Judges the last year has been the hardest.

"He counts to five slowly," Mrs. Bossow thereupon explained.

"She's faking," said Dr. Bossow, who was seated close by, his eyes focused upon his former wife's face.

"Let's see if she is," suggested the Judge, and ordered him to count to five.

"One-two-three-four-five," Dr. Bossow counted as fast as he could.

But Faye was faster. At the count of "one," her body commenced to stiffen; at "two-three," her eyes rolled wildly, and her head snapped back; at "five," her eyes closed and she sat motionless.

"She's faking, I tell you," Dr. Bossow repeated. Then he told the court that he objected to a continuance of the injunction, not because he wanted to keep Faye under his sway, but because he wanted access to a safety deposit box they held jointly.

"That's not true, interrupted his hypnotized ex-helpmate, coming out of her subconsciousness. "He wants to hypnotize me. He can even do it by telephone, or by spreading a sort of paste on my tongue."

BEFORE she could explain about this paste, Dr. Bossow apparently thought "one - two - three - four - five," for under she went again. As she succumbed, her attorney, Balford Q. Shields, regarded her sadly.

"If the court lifts this injunction," he warned, "my client's husband will again get control of her personality."

Dr. Hugo R. Roney, professor of internal medicine in Northwestern University's medical school, told the Judge that Mrs. Bossow's susceptibility to her husband's hypnotic ways was the result of a mental conflict between her conscious and subconscious mind.

"In her subconscious mind," explained Dr. Roney, "she is deeply in love with her husband. In her conscious mind she suspects him of infidelity and thinks their marriage is unhappy and wants to get away from him.

"She has a dual personality—the conscious person is Mrs. Bossow and the subconscious one is 'Crystal,' who has the mind of a five-year-old. As Mrs. Bossow she is not responsible for

Preserving Landmarks of the Old 'HELL TRAIL'

Descendants of the '49ers' Obtain State Recognition of Their Project.

Crumbling adobe ruins of the Vallecitos, California, stage station.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

THOSE who traveled "Hell Trail" from St. Louis to San Francisco in the days before the railroad penetrated the West never forgot it. That journey across desolate plain and burning desert was an ordeal which set its indelible impress on the minds of all who experienced it. It was adventure, danger, hardship and often death. One out of every 10 persons who set out on the trail, it was calculated, would never reach the end, succumbing to privation, hostile Indians or robbers. When a 49er or a later adventurer undertook the hazards of "Hell Trail," or "Inferno Highway," as it was also called, he gambled with fate, his life the forfeit—and a man remembers that.

And now plans are being laid to make future generations also remember this grim, historic trail to the West—and the courage and fortitude of American pioneers who traveled it. A movement is under way to preserve all the old stage stations along the route. Many of them are now crumbling into ruin. Descendants of the 49ers in California have already obtained the co-operation of their State government in the project.

The St. Louis-San Francisco road received the official name of Butterfield Trail after John Butterfield contracted with the United States Government to deliver mail along the route, and established a regular stage service. Bishop and Beale were the surveyors who laid out the route, choosing a southern direction and crossing the Colorado at Fort Yuma, then pushing across the Salton sink to Warner's Ranch, Temecula, San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Fort Tejon, San Jose and San Francisco.

It was over this trail that Captain De Anza traveled in 1774, followed soon by the mission padres and later by Colonel Kearney with a U. S. Cavalry troop.

It was well-named "Hell Trail," for it traversed the great southwestern desert where the bones of men and animals soon decorated not merely every mile, but every 10 feet of the way. Even today, after every sand storm along the fine modern road which parallels the old trail, more bones are exposed.

In the present century a plank road was laid down on the old trail at a cost in human life which was greater than that involved in laying the first railroad through. This old plank road is now in ruins, billowing along beside the level asphalt highway.

Caravans of Arabian camels once conducted regular schedules on the trail, before there was even a plank road. The camels were an experiment of the War Department under Jefferson Davis, an experiment which was unsuccessful.

Under many sections of the vast desert, artesian water has been found and today almost ice-cold water can be had from the deep earth at many spots along the highway. Thus, it is now known that when men were perishing on this desert they were within a few hundred feet of water—but it was at an unattainable depth. It is hard to convey a realization to today's population of what the pioneer travelers across this desert suffered. Their labor was prodigious. The water they carried was always hot. The heat made the nails fall out of their wagons.

When the sand was passed, there came into view a vast area of mud volcanoes, spouting mud and scalding water a hundred feet into the air. These mud volcanoes, the tops of deep-seated volcano cores which were filled around with sediment when the sea once covered this area, have become fairly quiet during the last 50 years, but even today they spout occasionally.

The ruins of the old Araz stage station still stand beside the highway just a few miles west of Yuma. It was the first stop after the fording of the Colorado.

The best remaining evidence of the old trail crosses United States highway number 80, 15 miles west of El Centro, California. A battered sign points to the rutted road as "the 49ers' trail, later the Butterfield Stage Route across the desert." It comes up from the South after passing the Yuma springs, where precious water was obtained from an old oasis.

It is believed that this depot was formerly called Sunset Springs and the Indians once called it Flatrock Springs. It was named Santa Rosa Springs by De Anza. At any rate, the situation, which is about eight miles south of the present highway, was an important point in the route, for it was here that the trail split, the main section going northwest into Carrisco Gorge near

The 'DESERT RAT'S' MILLIONS BACK in COURT

George Campbell Carson Won a Fortune After 20 Years' Litigation—But He Died Before He Found Out What to Do With It.

Mrs. George Campbell Carson.

LOS ANGELES.

GEORGE CAMPBELL CARSON humbly referred to himself as a "desert rat," but he knew that he had invented "the best dad-blamed furnace" for smelting copper that the world had ever seen; and he forced the world—against almost insuperable obstacles—to agree with him. The recognition of his isolated stroke of genius won Carson a fortune of perhaps twenty millions, but it did not win him peace after the twenty years of disheartening struggle spent in obtaining it. He was unhappily married. He didn't know how to use so much money in the idealistic fashion he thought fitting. And now that he has died the fortune is back in court, the subject of an unusually embittered family feud. The shadow of law suits, which he always despised, never really understood, haunts the spirit of this old tramp miner and derelict and millionaire, even in his grave.

The two parties to the present litigation here in Los Angeles are six brothers and their children on one side; Mrs. Carson on the other. The brothers refused throughout his long struggle to give him aid in furthering his invention. The widow attempted, apparently without justification, to have Carson committed to an institution for the insane.

When George Carson's death occurred, not long ago, his brothers and nieces and nephews came from their home in Vancouver, Washington, to attend the funeral. They were armed with a will dated March 3, 1933, making over the entire fortune to them—half to the brothers, half to their children. They are now asking that Homer Carson, one of the nephews, be appointed administrator. Mrs. Carson, said to have been a wealthy woman in her own right, descended from her castle-like home, "Mount Kalmis," and asked that a bank be named special administrator. It is a story which has been re-enacted again and again, but it differs from most will suits because it is dominated by the figure of George Carson, who wanted to use his wealth for entirely humanitarian purposes and was destined to be frustrated in this as he was in all but one of his dreams. However often he failed, George Carson did invent the side-feeding reverberatory blast furnace, and he forced some of the most powerful mining and smelting companies in America to admit that they had used his invention for years without paying him one cent in royalties.

GEORGE CARSON began life on his father's farm at La Crosse, Kansas. It wasn't a good farm. The grasshoppers and the drouth consumed most of the crops. George "figgered it wasn't no place fer me," so he "lit out from home" at the age of 14. For two years he worked on section gangs, but he "didn't like railroadin' " and decided to become a prospector. He followed the will-o'-the-wisp lure of undiscovered ore from Old Mexico to the Yukon. He worked in mines, too, and while he was employed he

How Mrs. Ickes Has Continued to Make Her Own Career

a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

SPRINGFIELD, Illinois.

FROM the gallery, looking down upon the House in session, it is not difficult to pick out the figure of Representative Anna Wilmarth Ickes. She is a tall, commanding woman, ight as a drum major and with ething of a drum major's alert-the course of debate or parlia-

ary maneuvering over a bill in one strategic point to another quick, nervous energy. That has pretty much all the time during recent special session, for she has over the housing bill that will en-

Chicago to clear away some of worst slums with the aid of Fed-money. And in so doing Mrs.
es has demonstrated the possibility of public teamwork between husband and wife as perhaps never before.

For Representative Anna Ickes is the wife of Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior in President Roosevelt's cabinet in Washington, the man in charge of the Public Works' program throughout the country. Secretary Ickes has been working night and day to hasten building projects and particularly housing projects. Representative Ickes here in Illinois speeded the bill through the legislature that will put men to work on great blocks of workers' flats that will go up where there are now only slums.

Thus the careers of husband and wife meet as they have in the past. In a most unusual way these two people have pursued their separate ways and yet have shared, and generously shared, in certain phases of their respective lives.

"It works out this way;" says Mrs. Ickes in her crisp, direct voice, "when I've had the bigger job, then Harold has helped me. And now that Harold has a big job I feel it's my part to help him in every way that I can.

"That's the reason I'm not running for the Legislature for my fourth term. I think he needs me in Washington. Although he doesn't know it yet, I expect to spend all of next summer there, heat or no heat. It isn't that the husband yields to the wife or that the wife yields to the husband. It's simply a workable kind of partnership. Why even if I disagreed with certain of Harold's policies, which it happens I don't, I shouldn't venture in any way to make my criticism known now. It just wouldn't be fair, considering the job he has to do."

Thus these two have for more than 30 years maintained an amicable cooperation even though sometimes their views and occasionally their careers have not been in accord. Just now, for examples, as a Republican member of the House she sits on the Republican side while her husband is in the Cabinet of a Democratic President. And she has let it be known from time to time that she disapproves of Democratic machine politics as they have functioned in Illinois.

"I am a Republican," she says. "In the present session I have voted for all Republican measures, as a regular member of the party. Of course, I don't say that if it came to a choice between an obvious right and wrong, with my party on the wrong side, I should favor my party. Yet, nevertheless, I think there are times when party regularity is important."

It is possible that before the appointment of Harold Ickes to be Secretary of the Interior his wife was better known to the general public—in Illinois at least—than was he. He had never held public office and she had. His political life had all been, in a sense, behind the scenes. Throughout his career he had worked for reform and reform candidates and in many a campaign Mrs. Ickes had helped him.

He managed the mayoralty campaign of John M. Harlan in 1905 and in 1911 he managed a similar campaign for Charles E. Merriam, professor of political science at the University of Chicago. Both campaigns were unsuccessful, as was the campaign which Ickes waged for Hiram Johnson of California, a close friend, for President.

But that wasn't particularly important. The Ickes, husband and wife, worked for ideals and ideas rather than for candidates who might be momentarily successful. Ickes had built up a comfortable law practice. They lived, with their four children, in a Chicago suburb, Winnetka, which is one of the pleasantest suburbs.

If he had shown any willingness to surrender in his fight on Samuel Insull, who ruled Chicago by virtue of his vast utility holdings, he might have made for himself a tidy fortune, as so many less able men of his time and generation did. Once the great Insull approached Ickes with the offer of a retainer—such as he flung prodigally about Chicago. Ickes said no; the fight went on.

Then one day quite unexpectedly Mrs. Ickes was offered, and accepted, an appointment by the Republicans in power at that time as trustee of the University of Illinois. When her term expired, she ran successfully for the trusteeship. Later she resigned this office to run as Representative for the Legislature from her district.

"When he saw that I was in earnest about running, Harold said that of course he would help me. And he did. He pitched right in and gave me invaluable aid.

"My district, you know, is not an easy one to campaign in. They call it sometimes a 'silk-stocking' district. But that isn't correct. For although it takes in Winnetka, it is really a 'shoestring district,' extending way around Chicago on the south, including such industrial towns as Harvey. It even includes a corner of Cicero and a town, a most interesting town, that is wholly Negro. Altogether there are 98 municipalities contained in it.

"OF course, I did have a certain advantage at the start. A very popular Representative decided not to run and I ran, with his consent, in his place. Then, too, I had Winnetka 'plumping' for me. If you don't live in Illinois, you don't know what 'plumping' means. You see in Illinois we elect three Representatives to each district and the voter may cast three votes for one candidate. This is called 'plumping.' I ran about even in the rest of the district and then Winnetka 'plumped' for me which put me in each time."

The Legislation which came to absorb most of her interest was scarcely of a nature which might have been assumed to attract a woman Legislator. One of the towns in her district complained that large industry was polluting a stream that flowed through the town with industrial waste. Representative Ickes went into the whole matter of sewage, factory wastes and stream pollution. The result was a series of measures which she succeeded in putting through the Legislature that for the first time made effective the existing laws against polluting a running stream. As one consequence, action has been taken against industries on the east side of the Mississippi near St. Louis and they have agreed to reduce the amount of waste matter dumped into the river.

Mrs. Ickes has demonstrated that she is a practical law-maker and politician. She admits that occasionally she grows impatient with theorists

A different movie star will make his or her appearance in this space every week. Accompanying will be three costumes this particular player wore in various roles played on the screen. Cut out the player and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress the star in her proper outfits, being careful to assemble each costume correctly. This week's star is Helen Vinson. The three sets of costumes shown here were worn by her in these roles in the following movies: Lucille in "As Husbands Go"; Polly Cass in "The Little Giant," and Iris Whitney in "Midnight Club."

THE CHARACTERS

WOODEN HEAD—A lost wooden decoy duck.

Old man Thunder comes storming back into Hickory Hollow. He is very angry because Mr. Northwind had taken possession while he was away, and had frozen the lakes and streams solid and covered everything with ice and snow. "The very nerve of him," he roars, and he throws his thunder bolts this way and that until he thinks he has driven Mr. Northwind away. Then he sends down his army of raindrops to disperse any snow that might remain. Red Wily, who is a light sleeper, is an interested listener and he raises himself on his elbow as

THE PLAY BEGINS

RED WILY—Just listen to that rain. It is just what I've been waiting for. Hmm. Perhaps I had better get up, this shower will be over soon. (So Red gets up and dresses and we next see him standing in the doorway of his home with a sack in his hand.) Ha! ha! What fine weather for ducks. And how I love roast duck. Yum, yum. I wish this rain would stop. I have some hunting to do. (And it isn't long before Red gets his wish. The rain stops and Red goes hunting. Luck is with him, for we next see him poking his head from behind a tree looking at Dan Quacker, who is talking to Wooden Head as they swim on a pond.)

DAN QUACKER—What's the matter with you? Why don't you talk? Hey! Have you gone to sleep? (Dan turns his head to look at Wooden Head and sees the evil face of Red Wily looking at them. Dan lets out a yell of warning and flies away. But Wooden Head doesn't stir. Red, seeing his dinner flying away, leaps at Wooden Head and catches him, and now we must draw the curtain on the painful scene that follows, and we next see our hero, Wooden Head, still swimming as though nothing had happened. But several of Red's teeth are sticking in the decoy duck's head. Red is on the bank holding his mouth. Dan is flying over Wooden Head.)

DAN QUACKER—What kind of a duck are you? Don't you even have a headache? Why don't you answer?

RED WILY—What kind of a duck is he? I wish I had known before I leaped at him. O-o-o-oh, my poor mouth—O-o-o-o-oh! CURTAIN managed to pick up a smattering of geology and metallurgy. Only once did he make a real strike. In 188[illegible] he discovered at Clifton, Arizona, a really extraordinary out-cropping of ore—what was to become "The Wonderful Mine." Somehow he failed to become an operator. He sold his claim for $1500 and went away after working the mine two weeks. He drifted from town to town, joined an expedition into Mexico and gradually became a more or less regular employe of copper smelting companies.

CARSON never had more than two years of schooling. He did manage to teach himself the rudiments of metallurgy and he gained a good practical knowledge of copper smelting. A keen and independent native intelligence was unquestionably his most noteworthy asset. When he got his first position of responsibility in a smelter at Golden, Colorado, he devoted all his powers to the betterment of the plant.

In those days ore was fed into roasting furnaces from the top. The crude mechanism caused tremendous waste and was disastrous to the workers. Sulphurous gases which killed off the forests surrounding the smelters were expelled through the top of the furnaces past the men who worked at the openings. Carson decided that it would be possible not only to avoid the dangers of this system and increase the capacity of the furnaces, but to utilize the fumes which were so destructive. After studying the type of furnace used in the West, he went to Pennsylvania to get a broader knowledge of the process.

In 1905 he reached the conclusion which eventually resulted in the new type of reverberatory furnace. He realized as soon as his plans were completed that his invention would revolutionize the smelting industry, give the reverberatory furnace a decided lead over its competitor, the blast furnace, and serve a humanitarian as well as an industrial end. The problem was to get someone else to see it.

The following year he spoke to mining and metal men of his plans. He was laughed at. When he went to the larger companies and spoke to experts they were equally skeptical. They couldn't feature such a rough, uneducated fellow as an inventor. At the American Smelting and Refining company he was told to go ahead and build a furnace; if they liked it they would buy the idea. But the cost of such an enterprise would be in the neighborhood of $60,000. Carson owned about $100.

These rebuffs were discouraging, but they did not prevent Carson from going to Washington and securing a patent, though even here there were obstacles. The officials at the Patent Office weren't satisfied with the plans. They made him draw them again—five times. A few of his most optimistic friends advanced him the money to pay for the patent. But the chances of having the furnace adopted were as remote as ever. With his patent rights established, Carson decided to defer further promotion efforts until later. He returned to his former hand-to-mouth way of living.

The drawings might have been filed in Washington forever without Carson's ever reaping their rich harvest. It was a mere stroke of luck that led him one day to pick up a magazine describing the new reverberatory furnaces which had been installed by most of the major smelting and refining companies that dealt in copper. Instead of continuing his desultory attempts to sell the furnace, he now decided to go to a lawyer. This was in 1915, nine years after the patent had been taken out.

With his sketchy impression of the devious ways of the world at business, at law, in industry, Carson was at a loss how to proceed. He had gone to metal companies who were using his furnace and told them they were infringing on his patent. They laughed in his face and he knew that he was again beating his head against the cruel workings of a world he did not understand.

SEARCHING for a lawyer who would undertake his apparently hopeless cause was just as difficult as his original quest for a receptive industrial magnate. He took a room in the Sailor's Rest in San Francisco, one of those ramshackle, seafront tenements where super-annuated seafarers go to finish out their last years. The old sailors considered him a great joke, but they pretended to be interested when he hauled out his dog-eared blue prints and explained again how he would make his fortune.

The lawyers were not so sympathetic. They wanted to know what engineering degrees he had taken.

"I ain't got none," he would answer. "Didn't learn business thataway. But I know furnaces. Hell, I been workin' around them since I was 16, an' I'm 58 years old now."

Then they would look at the list of companies Carson wanted to sue: The American Smelting and Refining Company, the Anaconda Copper Company, Garfield Smelting, Calumet and Arizona, United Verde and United Verde Extension, Phelps-Dodge, the Consolidated Kansas City Smelting and Refining Company and the International Smelting Company. His list read like a roster of America's capital invested in minerals. He was trying to shake a Gibraltar. When they asked him how he proposed to finance such litigation, he would shake his head. Then he would go away.

At last, however, Carson found a generous listener. John H. Miller decided he would represent the derelict inventor. He proposed to start by bringing suit against the American Smelting and Refining Company. If that were successful, they would undertake reprisals against the other concerns on the list. They were all manifestly infringing on Carson's patent, but it was almost impossible to beat down their legal breastworks. Corporation lawyers who knew every trick of procrastination and evasion had the case thrown out of court, appealed, appealed again. The case was brought as high as the United States Supreme Court, and Carson was eventually successful. A corporation was even formed by California capitalists who saw the possibility of making tremendous profits if all the suits should prove successful. And after the settlement of the first, it was impossible for the other actions to fail. Carson retained his right to only one-fourth of the potential proceeds.

When the Supreme Court finally brought its favorable decision, upholding the previous decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals, Carson knew that he was a millionaire, probably many times over. He sighed philosophically and said he really didn't know what he would do with the money. He thought he would build a little laboratory and study chemistry. Perhaps he could give the world another important invention.

Thousands of women immediately wrote proposals of marriage. He said they were wasting their time.

"I don't care how beautiful they are," he said, "I have been a bachelor and hope myself to superintend the rest of my life. I never shined up to any girl yet that I didn't get the mitten."

Nevertheless, in 1927 he did marry. Mrs. Hersee M. Gross of Los Angeles took him as her fifth husband. She said she was 48 years old. He was about 10 years older. She was said to be wealthy; he did not obtain the settlement from the American Smelting and Refining Company until March, 1930. His share of the first claim was only $264,896, though it was apparent he would eventually get between five and twenty millions.

THE three years during which he was actually able to enjoy his fortune were marred by domestic difficulties, one incident of which was his wife's attempt to have him declared insane. The court held there was no ground for considering him so, and the Carsons patched up their quarrel for a time, declaring the incident had been only a misunderstanding.

But the old miner apparently found his wife incompatible. He finally decided to disinherit her. They separated and Carson obtained an interlocutory divorce, one which would not become effective for a year's time. Somehow he never found time to act on his plan to spend his money "in a way that will do good to the masses without bestowing charity," to devote himself to chemical research in the production of synthetic foods and clothes. He never had time for more than that one feat: the invention of a successful reverberatory furnace and the proof that it was he who invented it.

When the Big Drouth Comes—in 5000 Years

"The great drouth will spread, and as it spreads, cities and farms will be abandoned in its wake.

"Where great factories now stand the sands of an arid desert will blow, and where spreading acres now yield a rich harvest of fruits and grain, withered sagebrush will be the only testimonial to their departed fertility.

"Great reservoirs undoubtedly will be built to conserve the precious drops of water. But each year our descendants will note the slow falling of the water in the gigantic tanks. A system of rationing will have to be put into effect, and strict policing will be necessary. Indeed, it is not unlikely that in that day the 'water bootlegger' will make his appearance. For him, however, the punishment will be much greater than for the bootlegger of the late departed era, because the bootlegger of the future will be dealing in a commodity essential to life itself.

"The encroachment of the drouth will continue until even the vast reservoirs are useless, and precipitation becomes virtually nil over the entire land.

"By the year 7000 A. D., unless a great and unheralded change in the nature of world climatic trends takes place, most of the region which we now know as the United States will be unfit for human habitation. The same holds true for much of Europe and a vast stretch of Asia.

"The population of the world then will crowd the Tropics and the Polar regions."

Why will the retreat of the great ice sheet cause the United States to become arid?

Because, Dr. Humphreys explains, when the ice is gone there will be less contrast between the high latitudes and the tropical regions and therefore less wind movement, since that depends upon contrasting temperatures, and because of the lessened wind movement less vapor will be brought to land from the oceans. The consequence will be sharply diminished rainfall. Furthermore, as the great rain producing storms skirt the borders of cold air, they then will move across the world from east to west at higher latitudes, as they do now in summer as compared to winter. That means that in North America they will visit the United States less frequently than now and cross much higher latitudes in fewer number and lessened intensity. The tropical regions will not be affected by this change because they depend largely upon local thundershowers for their rainfall.

Still another tremendous effect of the melting ice will be felt by the coastal cities of the United States. Unless the bed of the ocean sinks—and the likelihood of that taking place on a world-wide scale seems doubtful—the level of the ocean will be raised by an average of at least 150 feet. That means the flooding of great coastal areas. In New York, for example, it would mean that only the towers of the loftiest skyscrapers would remain visible above the tumbling waters of a deeper and vastly enlarged ocean.

Dr. Humphreys makes his predictions with the calm dispassionateness of the veteran scientist who knows the futility of arguing with the facts of life and nature. He presents the picture not as he would like to have it appear, but as it inevitably must appear on the basis of the most advanced scientific achievements of this day.

"After all," Dr. Humphreys points out, "these vast changes have taken place before in the age-old history of our world, and will continue to occur so long as it remains part of an ever-changing universe.

"Of course, it is perhaps true that never before in the history of the world has the fate of so many human beings—at least human beings as we know them—been dependent upon the will of a capricious Nature. It is safe to assume that many hundreds of millions of men, women and children will be forced to uproot themselves and find habitations in distantly removed parts of the world.

"But man always has been a migratory creature. His entire history is a series of migrations. Indeed, within the memory of living men and women the last great migration occurred—that in which a new world in the Western Hemisphere was conquered and populated.

"But that migration will seem on a relatively small scale as compared to the movement which will be necessitated by the increasing aridity of those regions which now are the finest and fairest in the world."

Dr. Humphreys said that the United States Weather Bureau is continuing and increasing its study of this whole tremendously vital question. The bureau, or its successor in the centuries to come, will be in a position to give accurate data with respect to the gradual encroachment of the "great drouth" and will be able to warn the population as the abandonment of blighted areas as dictated by scientific findings.

Man still may not be able to change the course of Nature, but at least he has progressed enough so that he can be forearmed against disaster 5000 years in advance.

where, 20 miles away, the Mountain Springs stage depot was located.

All the way from St. Louis to San Francisco, these ruins of decayed stage depots are found, about 20 miles apart. Vallecitos, Warner's Ranch, Temecula, Oak Grove, all have the remains of depots which were once the centers of the current of humanity which flowed from east to west.

The stages on this route were high and hulking and were drawn by four horses. The drivers perched high above the road. The entire outfit, including the passengers, were covered with powdery dust. They were permitted a few swallows of water at intervals.

Changing horses at regular stops, the stages made the trip from St. Louis to San Francisco in as short a time as 22 days. After Butterfield commenced operations, the stages were the crack transportation of the time, but even they frequently came to grief, from accidents and the activities of "road agents." Those who made the journey were marked as bold men and women.

Mrs. Ickes Makes Her Career

and critics without political or legislative experience.

"Women come here sometimes and laugh at the people in the Legislature," she says, "women who are working for certain measures or something of the sort. They make me so annoyed. I tell them, 'Well, they're your Legislators, you sent them here.' And often they can't even tell me the name of the Representative from their district. I'll take my chances with the men in this Legislature, regardless of what is said about them. Often they know more about how legislation will effect the poor than the theorists and the critics."

While the Legislature occupies a part of her time and her growing family a larger share, yet Mrs. Ickes, out of the boundless pleasure that she obviously takes in living, developed several interests that have become an important part of her life.

ABOUT 15 years ago she suddenly began to suffer from severe asthma. In search of relief she went to a small town in Southern Arizona. This was her first acquaintance with the Southwest and she was strongly attracted to the country and the people. Later she moved to a trading post near Gallup, New Mexico, and built there a small adobe house. She and the trader were the only white people within many miles.

Members of her family were there with her whenever they could. Her children learned to ride horseback on the desert, with Indian ponies. But often she was alone, and as she grew to know more and more of the country, she came to know the Hopi, Navajo and Pueblo Indians of the region, too. Many of them trusted her and became her firm friends.

From this grew a close study of vanishing Indian culture and association with such experts as John Collier, at that time head of the American Indian Defense Association. Mrs. Ickes was allowed to see many of the ancient Indian ceremonials that few, or no, whites are ever allowed to see. One of the Pueblo tribes asked her to make a photographic record of an elaborate ceremonial, since the Indians were afraid that it was losing its purity, becoming "whiteized." She made this record and the photographs are now sealed in her own files, to be shown only when, and if, the ceremony entirely disappears.

Mrs. Ickes became keenly aware of the injustices done the Indian. She developed a strong sympathy for the viewpoint of Collier, who advocated drastic changes in the administration of Indian affairs. The asthma has long since disappeared. She says she had almost forgotten that she ever had it, so strong was her attachment for the Southwest and the innumerable friends she made there, friends who ranged in interest and temperament from Congresswoman Isabella Greenway to Mabel Dodge Luhan and her Pueblo husband, Tony Luhan.

When President Roosevelt was elected in November of 1932, Mrs. Ickes cherished a hope, which she was almost afraid to speak of for fear it would seem too remote a hope, that her husband might be named Commissioner of Indian Affairs. There was a real hope since Ickes had supported Roosevelt and since he was close to other Progressive Republicans, such as Senator Hiram Johnson of California, who had also supported the Democratic candidate. Mrs. Ickes was attending the Legislature in Springfield when not long before the inauguration of March 4, her husband called her on the long distance telephone.

"I've just been named Secretary of the Interior," he said.

She thought he was joking and told him so.

"Well, if you don't believe it, Charley Merriam and John Collier are here and they'll tell you it's true and I'm not crazy."

As Secretary of the Interior, Ickes has had an active part in the direction of Indian matters. John Collier was named Commissioner of Indian affairs. Thus again the careers of these Ickes had crossed. Mrs. Ickes' book on the Southwest, "Mesa Land," has just been published.

"Do I give my husband advice about Indian affairs? Well, I wouldn't put it that way, he wouldn't like advice. But I give him my suggestions, my ideas, when he has time to listen. Which isn't very often.

"That is one reason I have had to give up all hope of running for the Legislature again. There are so many things I can do for Harold in Washington. Three times in three weeks I came from Washington to Springfield for the Legislature and the Ickes' pocketbook can't stand that. I'll miss it terribly. That's the trouble with me. I miss so many places. I know I'll miss New Mexico when I'm in Washington. But I know, too, that I'll have a very busy life in Washington with Harold. You see I like to do so many things. I've never had enough time."

Answered a Want Ad—Found His Sweetheart

from the Kaiser. Allied troops in half a dozen different uniforms patrolled the streets in Pekin. Feeling ran high and even Passek's palace connections did him no good. He was forced to liquidate the business and salvage what he could. But he hung on in the Orient, living off his increment, because the East was his only home. The end of his purse was coming uncomfortably near in 1925 and, at the suggestion of friends, he emigrated to America and applied for citizenship.

Thus Wilhelm Gustav Passek, German subject, became William G. Passek, American, of San Francisco. His talents as a linguist served him well and his background in Oriental art helped him eke out a living. Whatever his straits, he clung to his trunks of statuettes and cloths.

LILLIAN O'BRIEN had beaten him to San Francisco by some years. After graduation, she had become a nurse and inside a few years had married a physician and emigrated to New York. They moved to the West Coast and had two children, a boy and a girl. Before the children were grown up, the physician died and his widow returned to New York, where she established a nursing agency in Rockville Centre. It gathered headway and enabled her to educate the youngsters. Her second marriage was to W. J. O'Connor, an executive of the Interborough subway system. She gave up her work.

A year ago, when the children were in high school, O'Connor died and Mrs. O'Connor went back to her agency. The big 12-room house on South Park avenue proved a burden and she found she had to get paying guests. She inserted an advertisement in the Nassau paper.

By coincidence Passek, having rounded out his first year in New York, went out hunting for quarters in the suburbs on the day the advertisement was published. By chance he had bought a ticket to Rockville Center. By instinct he bought a paper and turned to the classified section. The O'Connor insertion caught his attention and he walked down South Park avenue, sniffed the pines lining the sidewalk with satisfaction and rang the doorbell.

The maid admitted him and he looked about and approved. Mrs. O'Connor was at her office some blocks away. The maid telephoned that a gentleman wanted to discuss renting quarters.

"Tell him I'm sorry but I can't come," Mrs. O'Connor instructed the maid. "My car has a flat tire and I'm too busy—"

There was a pause. The maid returned to the telephone.

"But, madam," she protested, "this gentleman is very curt. He says he is a business man and can't bother with coming back. He says it's now or not at all." For some reason she cannot explain, Mrs. O'Connor left her office and walked home quickly.

The writer found the pair a few nights ago sitting before the fireplace in much the same manner as they had on a memorable December night. Passek brought out some of his art objects—fabrics made before the invention of the needle by an inlaying process, jade pieces, a bronze idol he says is 4000 years old. He found it at the bottom of a deserted well. It is blackened bronze and represents the god of wealth and happiness. Passek placed it on the mantel beside a stein.

"What do you think would have happened if it hadn't been for that fragment of verse—'Oh, ever thus from childhood's hour, etc'?" Passek was asked.

"Why, I guess I would have lived here until my last day without knowing my hostess," he replied, laughing.

Could he recite the whole poem, or stanza?

"Hm, I try," he said, beginning: "'Oh, ever thus from childhood's hour—', or, I forget the rest. You tell him, Lillian."

"—'I've seen my fondest hopes decay,
I never loved a tree or flower
But 'twas the first to fade away.
I never nursed a dear gazelle
To glad me with its soft black eye
But when it came to know me well
And love me, it was sure to die."

"YOU see," boomed Passek, "she has the memory!"

"Well, then, what did Mr. Passek look like when he was a youngster?"

"Why, I don't remember," she replied. "I didn't even connect that first line with him when he spoke it here last December. No, I haven't the faintest picture in my mind of him as he was then."

"But didn't you recognize the name William G. Passek as soon as he came here?"

"No, you see I knew him as Gustav and anyway the name Passek had long since passed out of my mind. It was such a long while ago."

"Ja," mumbled Passek, digging his hands into the pockets of his robe. "A long while ago."

What Chicago Wives Have Told

the act of 'Crystal.' Subconsciously she wants to be 'Crystal'."

Whether or not "Crystal" and Mrs. Bossow deserved the protection of his court was a matter Judge Desort declined to rule upon at that hearing. However, he did admit afterwards that "they" are only one of an increasing number of Chicago wives who, since Illinois legislators granted a new divorce deal to husbands, have sought divorces.

Mrs. Mary Gould Riley, a blonde who is in much demand by Chicago artists for posing purposes, had a unique complaint.

"Not only did my husband object to my posing in the nude for artists all day," she testified, "but he had a peculiar way of manifesting his displeasure when I got home at night."

"What way was that?" interposed the court.

"He would tear off my clothes."

ANOTHER Chicago husband whose alleged actions became a matter of court record was Edward Peters. His brunette wife, Irene, told the Judge on several occasions when she was his partner in cards she overbid her hand, whereupon "he became enraged and threw his cards"—in her face.

Probably the most outspoken wife of all was Mrs. Marguerite Ellsworth, an attractive golden-haired business woman. She was sick and tired, she told the Judge, of being "almost constantly besieged by bailiffs with garnishee orders" against her salary as stenographer, because her husband, Clair, persisted in signing notes he couldn't pay.

Nor was that the only complaint she had against the man whose name she no longer wanted to bear. He pretended to be "a big business man," but he really was jobless.

To the eternal question, "Why do wives divorce their husbands?" Chicago's outspoken wives offer a hundred answers. One wife, the owner of a flourishing baby scale company, recently sought separation because her 200-pound husband insisted upon sitting on the scales which she leased out to the parents of new babies, thereby breaking them.

Another complained that her husband, a Communist, "never spoke to her except to deliver a speech," and wanted her to put their child in an institution "because that is the way they do in Moscow."

In matters of divorce, Chicago husbands may now be the courtroom equals of their wives. But offsetting that advantage is the unhappy fact that the latter are no longer lying like ladies to safeguard the good names of the men they married.

Even if the truth hurts, Chicago's outspoken wives would rather suffer than remain silent.

When you are in pain, seconds count. "Ben-Gay" penetrates through skin, flesh, muscles, directly to the spot of the pain and stays in until the pain disappears. That's why "Ben-Gay" has a faster hyposensitizing (pain relieving) action than its many imitators. If you want sure, fast relief, put the hyposensitizing and antipyretic action of "Ben-Gay" to work—rub it on generously and know quick relief. Be sure to look for the red "Ben-Gay" on the cover.

And Now a SEA SERPENT 'DISCOVERED' in ASIATIC WATERS

From Penang, in the Straits Settlements, Comes the Latest Tale of a Water Monster.

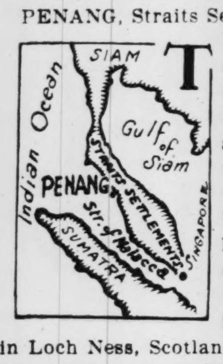
PENANG, Straits Settlements.



THE crop of sea monster stories has been unusually large the past winter. Stimulated, perhaps, by accounts of a huge aquatic beast seen in Loch Ness, Scotland, in December, mariners have been telling of encountering gigantic ocean creatures unknown to science in various other parts of the world—a distinct type of wonder tale that has been cropping up almost since the dawn of history. Off the Pacific coast of the United States, in the Caribbean Sea, in the Gulf of Mexico and on the coast of France these "sea serpents" or whatever they are, have been reported. The casting up of a queer-looking carcass about which naturalists disagreed, on a beach in Normandy, was a notable contribution to the subject.

One of the most interesting of the recent sea monster stories and one which seems to have escaped general observation, is being told here. Several persons have reported seeing a sinister creature of unidentified species in the waters near Penang.

The first to report its appearance was the skipper of a freighter, whose account was published in the newspaper Straits Echo late in February. The mysterious creature was called the "Pulau Rimau Monster" because of the place where it was sighted. While the captain could not give a complete description of it, he declared it was an ocean denizen whose like he had never seen. He had glimpses of a mammoth body and a long neck surmounted by a great head which seemed to have a snout and a huge, gaping mouth.

Some incredulity greeted the report—the usual reaction to such stories—but a few days later it was supported by another eyewitness. Captain R. H. Williams, a Penang pilot, had this to say in a letter to the newspaper:

"I should like to corroborate the story of the Pulau Rimau Monster as told by your representative on Wednesday. I saw the same monster, I believe, out at Muka Head on Thursday morning; I hesitated to tell the story, knowing that people would be incredulous, but now I feel that I should assure you and your readers that there is a monster in these waters.

"I saw it just at the crack of dawn swimming in a westerly direction from Muka Head. I calculated its length at about 60 feet and its beam about 20 feet. It passed near my launch and it was through the launch suddenly rolling heavily that I looked out to find the cause of the commotion. To my horror I saw this terrible brute moving swiftly through the water and lashing the sea into a maelstrom with its huge tail."

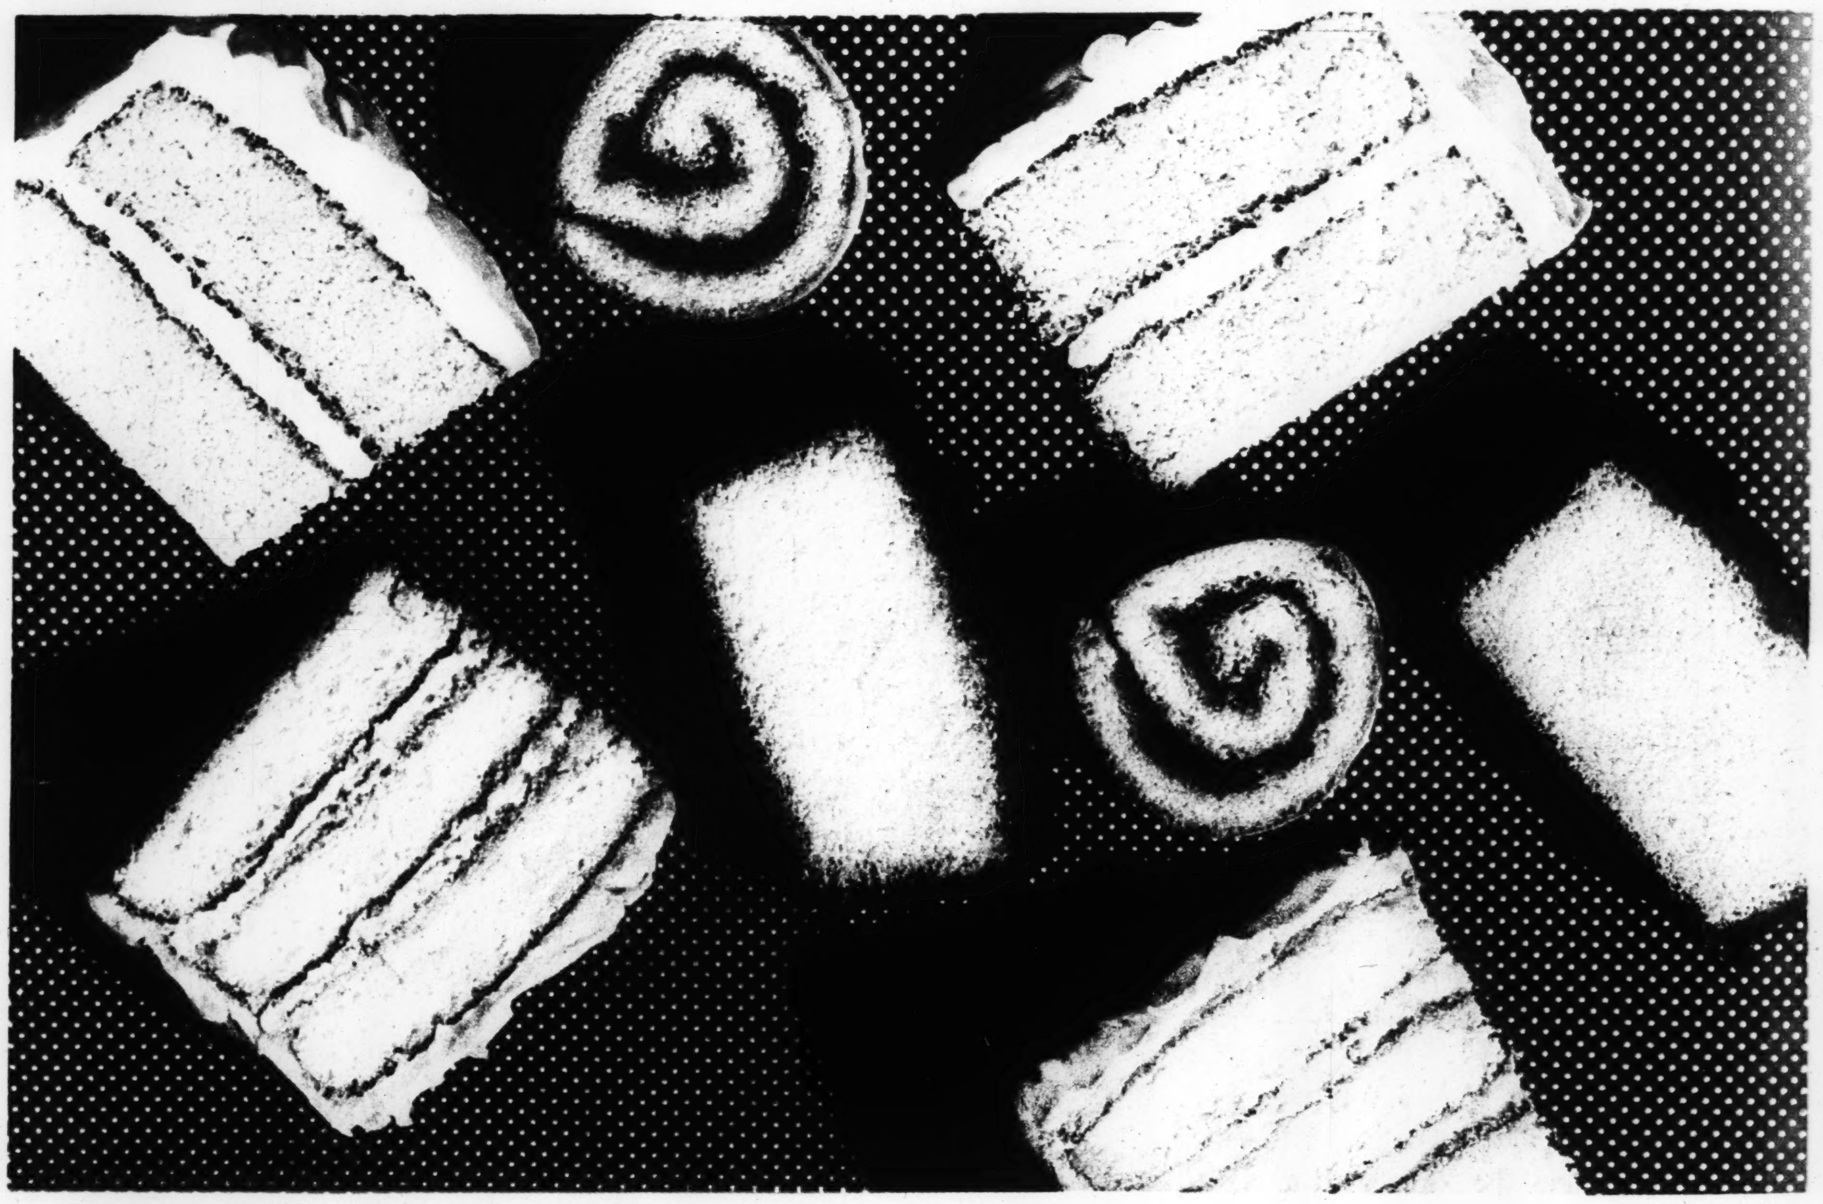
Then an old Malay fisherman was found who said he had seen the sea serpent. He, also, had noted its large, snout-like head and huge mouth. He called it a big snake, but he declared it had large fore feet; he saw the feet clearly, he said, when the monster raised itself out of the water near the swampy shore.

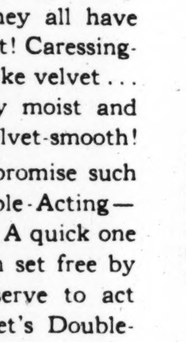
THIS man said he was fishing near shore when a great commotion in the water about 100 yards away drew his attention. As he looked, a long, serpentine neck appeared above the surface, then two powerfully churning feet. The monster's jaws were open wide. It was making rapidly for land. The fisherman pulled in his line and rowed frantically away. He didn't hesitate to admit he hadn't returned to those waters.

These accounts of the Pulau Rimau Monster recall the report made last year by the master of the Australian Commonwealth liner Largs Bay. He said that he saw a monstrous thing rise from the water near Aden, Arabia—a creature with a bulging head and what looked like a snout.

This report, in connection with those recently made at Penang, inevitably leads to speculation as to the possibility that some sort of water dragon of prehistoric form is in the Indian Ocean.

Evidence of a sort that mighty monsters of a kind unknown to man roam the deep is afforded by marks occasionally found on the bodies of captured whales. They are wounds that appear to have been made by claws and teeth that have not been identified with any catalogued sea inhabitant.





Calumet Cakes are famed for it...
"Velvety Crumb!"

THE very first time you make a cake with Calumet Baking Powder you'll learn something new about quality in baking.

You'll discover Calumet's "velvety crumb." And what a discovery! A cake texture so fine and tender—so delicately moist and soft that "velvety" is the only word to do it justice!

Every Calumet cake has it!

Simple one-egg cakes—or gala day Lady Baltimores and Silver Cakes—they all have that same exquisite quality. Feel it! Caressingly soft to your fingertips . . . just like velvet . . . Touch the cut surface! Tenderly moist and elastic . . . Taste it! Velvet-fine—velvet-smooth!

And here's why Calumet can promise such glorious texture. Calumet is Double-Acting—really two baking powders in one. A quick one for the mixing bowl . . . its action set free by liquid. A slower one held in reserve to act in the oven heat. That's Calumet's Double-Action—and it creates cake that is light as a feather and soft as down.

Goes farther, too

Naturally, you use less Calumet than of most other baking powders—the Double-Action makes it go farther. One level teaspoon to a cup of sifted flour is all you need in most recipes.

Ask for Calumet . . . a product of General Foods . . . at your grocer's. Try it in this new Hungarian Cream Cake. And for picture-demonstrations of all kinds of baking, mail the coupon for the remarkable new book described at right!

HUNGARIAN CREAM CAKE

(Chocolate-frosted cake shown above)

2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1¼ cups heavy cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add sugar gradually to eggs, and beat well. Add flour, alternately with cream, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased pan, 9 x 5 x 3 inches, in moderate oven (350° F.) 1 hour and 10 minutes. Spread Clever Judy Frosting on top and sides of cake.

CLEVER JUDY FROSTING

1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
1 egg or 2 egg yolks
¼ cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 to 4 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate, melted
1 tablespoon softened butter

Combine ingredients in order given, beating with rotary egg beater until blended. Place bowl in pan of cracked ice or ice water and continue beating until of right consistency to spread (about 3 minutes).

(All measurements are level.)

"Give us more Pabst-ett!"

They all like it—men, women, children! And it's a wonderful food for them, because of its delicious tangy flavor, its digestibility, its economy, its great usefulness. Pabst-ett, the more-than-cheese food, has been popular since the first day it was introduced. It is rich in vitamin A (same vitamin found in cod liver oil, cream, butter, spinach) and contains the valuable milk minerals (such as calcium), milk sugars and milk proteins of whole milk.

It spreads, mixes, creams easily—yet slices when chilled. Ideal for cooking—melts quickly and doesn't get stringy. Use it in soups, salads, sandwiches, soufflés, with macaroni or potatoes—serve it melted on toast—or just eat it as it is, as much as you want. It's so good, so digestible! Sold at food stores everywhere.

"I advised yeast—her skin cleared completely"

states Dr. Pierre Alexandre Mazeran
(Famous Paris specialist on the Intestines)

FROM all over the world, important personages come to the famous clinic of Dr. Mazeran at Chatel-Guyon les Bains . . . one of the greatest centers in all of Europe for the study and treatment of constipation and related ills.

Dr. Mazeran advises yeast as strongly as he does—because of the results his patients have experienced. To cite one case:

"Young woman. Suffered from a very bad eruption on her face. Had overtaxed her system with cathartics. But as poisons continued to penetrate her system, the eruptions became steadily worse.

"I put her on a yeast regime. In a little more than a week, her intestinal and digestive condition was tremendously improved and her face was almost entirely cleared. A little later, it cleared completely."

Dr. Mazeran also states: "Headaches, colds, fatigue, indigestion, loss of energy and 'bad temper' often warn of poisons in the system. I advise yeast in such cases, also."

"YEAST GIVES ASTONISHING RESULTS IN MOST CASES OF ACNE, BOILS, PIMPLES. IT OVERCOMES CONSTIPATION, WHICH THESE SYMPTOMS USUALLY REVEAL."

Dr. Mazeran has treated many royal patients. He is a well-known authority not only in France but throughout Europe! Dr. Mazeran is also a Chevalier of the French Legion of Honor.

AND HERE'S ANOTHER CASE DR MAZERAN DESCRIBES

"A VICTIM OF CATHARTICS"

"ASTONISHING RESULTS"

"ANOTHER PATIENT," Dr. Mazeran relates, "suffered from cramps, headaches, could eat almost nothing he liked, his color was bad. It required large doses of powerful cathartics for this man to obtain any evacuations at all . . ."

"MY EXAMINATION included tests of blood pressure, kidneys, liver. The trouble came from food wastes remaining too long in the body. My advice was: 'Eat yeast!'"

"SOON the intestines were perfectly clear of clogged waste. His 'come-back' was astonishing. He now eats yeast 3 times a day. None of his symptoms have returned."

OF course, you want clear, healthy skin! And, naturally, you want the well-being that usually goes with a smooth, colorful complexion . . . good digestion, regular bowel movements, loads of vim and vigor!

Well, smooth skin means ridding your blood of poisons. And no amount of pills or cathartics can do that permanently.

But yeast, eaten steadily, gives you lasting, day-by-day regularity in passing off waste from your system.

It acts in two ways. First, by stimulating the muscles of your stomach and intestines. Second, by speeding up secretions which soften fecal matter and help speed it through your body.

As your blood is purified, pimples, boils and acne start to go fast. Headaches disappear. You feel like your old self again—full of energy. Your digestion improves—you're not so "finicky" about what you eat.

Isn't it just plain common sense to try Fleischmann's Yeast? Eat 3 cakes each day—before meals, or between meals and at bedtime—just plain (broken off in small pieces from the cake) or in ⅓ glass of water, milk or soda-fountain drinks. Get it at grocers, restaurants or soda fountains. (It's the richest of food in the indispensable group of vitamins B, D and G . . . so often deficient in our diets.) The sooner you start eating it the sooner you'll feel better!

HE DID?
TAKE IT OVER TO HIM. HE MIGHT BE LOOKING FOR IT.
RAY IS A SWELL GUY, BUT I WOULDN'T GIVE MUCH FOR HIS MEMORY.
HE WAS OVER TO FREDDY'S HOUSE THE OTHER NIGHT AN' DID THE SAME THING.
WELL, I SUPPOSE HE CAN'T HELP IT.
HELLO, RAY. YA LEFT YOUR CAP OVER AT MY HOUSE LAST NIGHT, SO I BROUGHT IT OVER.
THAT'S NICE OF YA. THANKS.

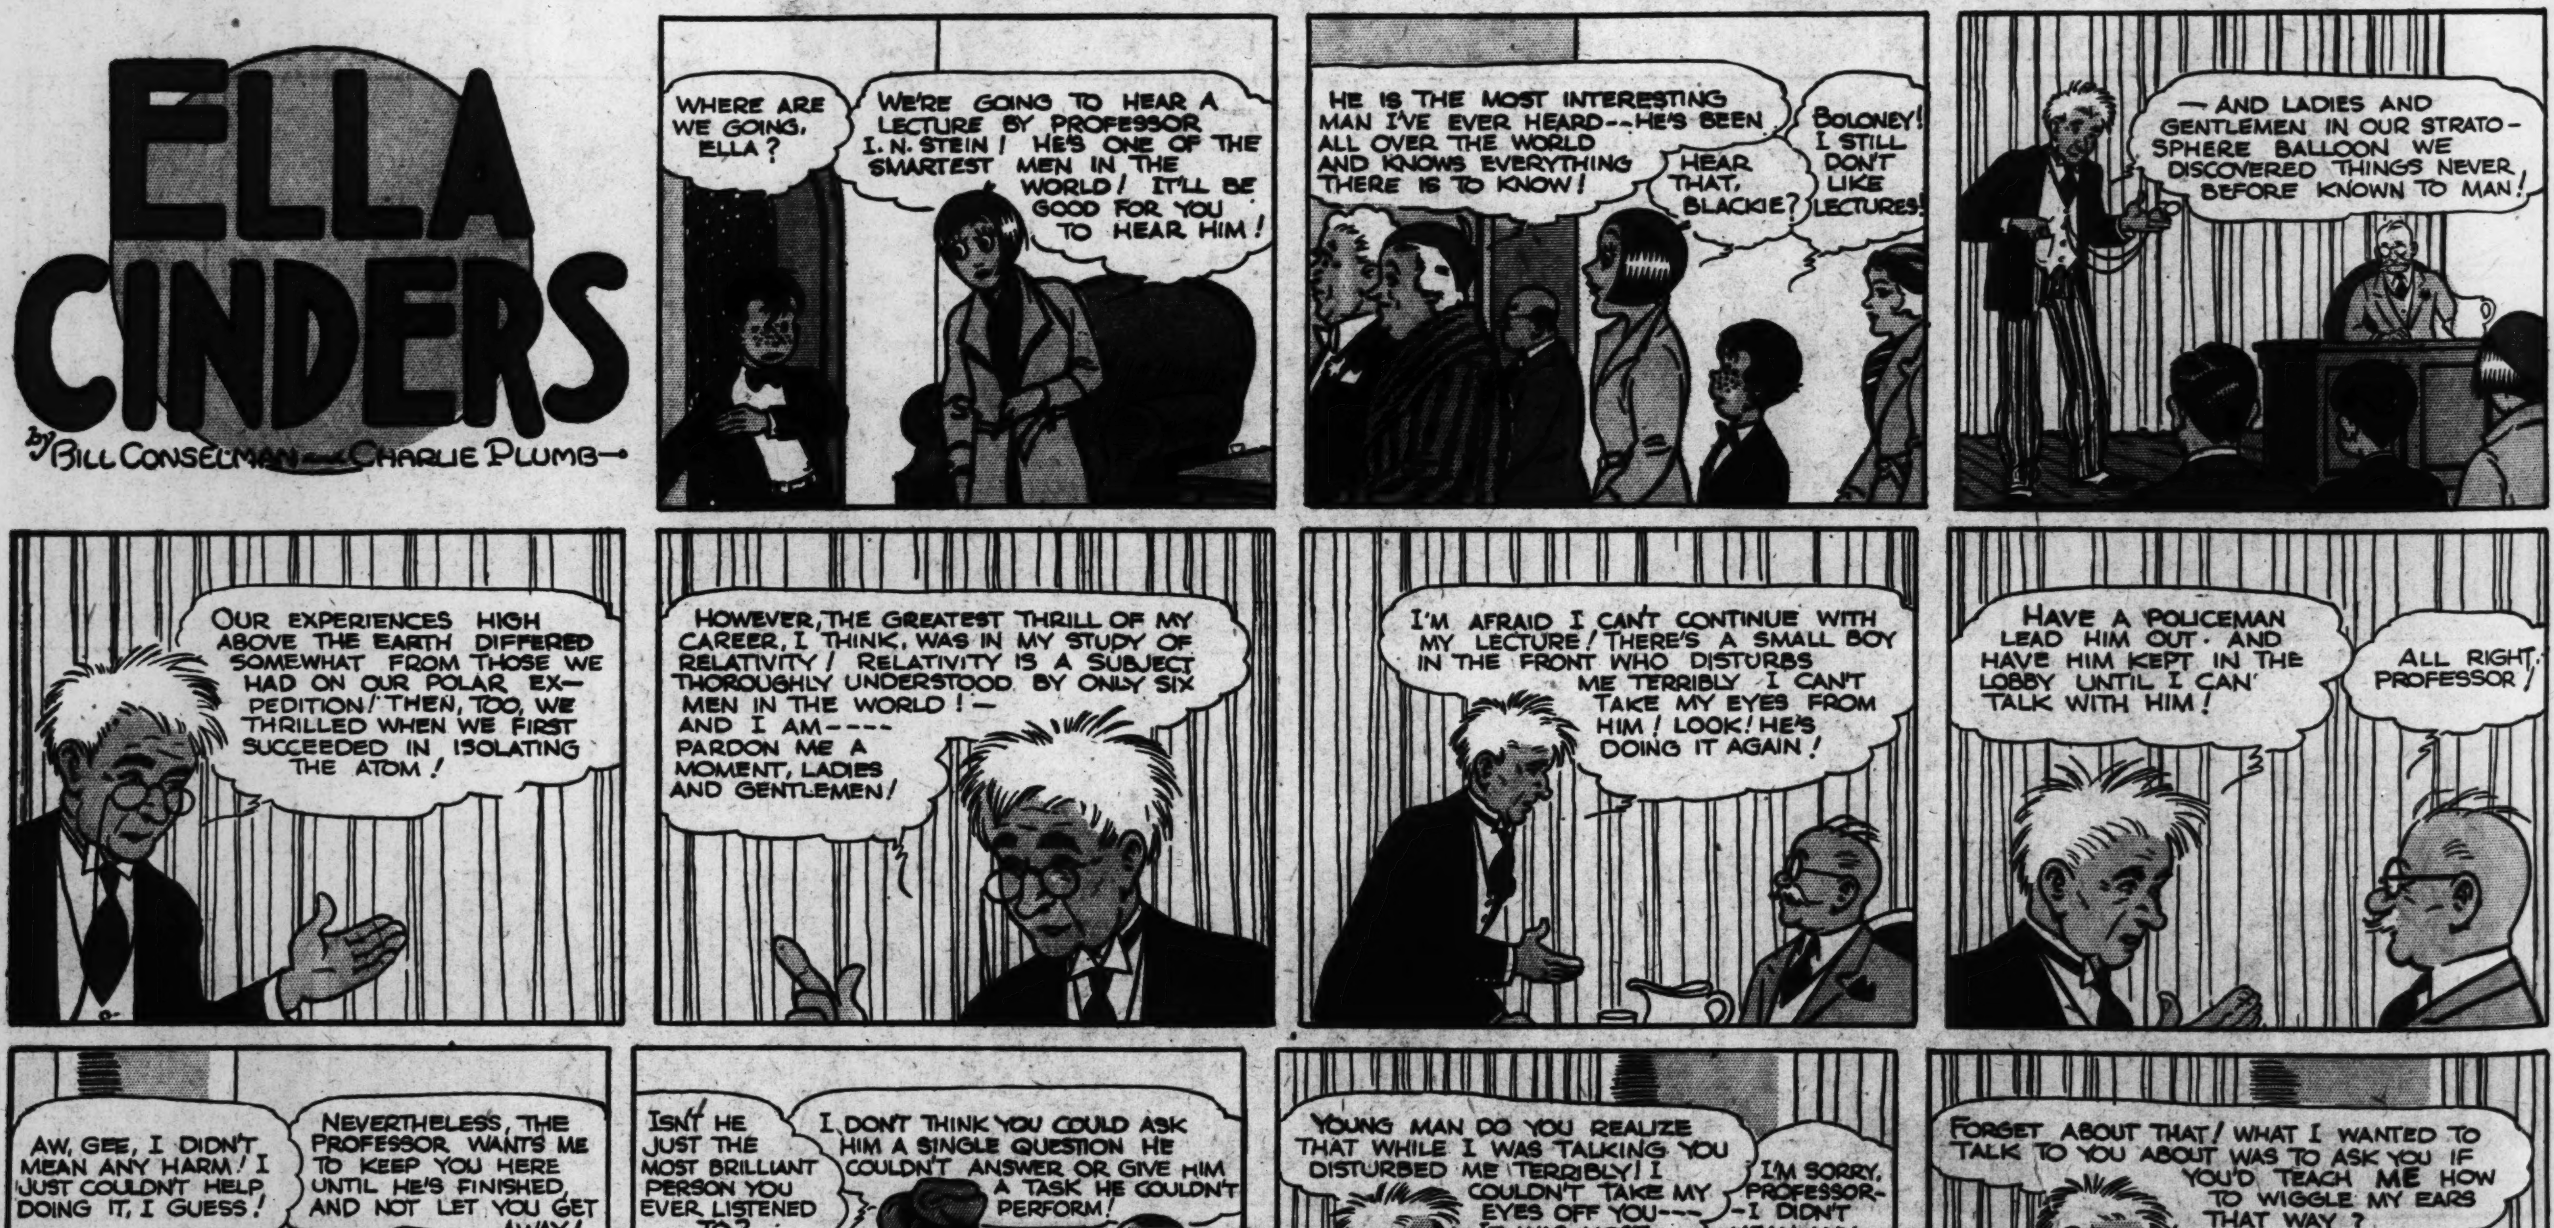
ELLA CINDERS

by Bill Conselman — Charlie Plumb



WHERE ARE WE GOING, ELLA?
WE'RE GOING TO HEAR A LECTURE BY PROFESSOR I. N. STEIN! HE'S ONE OF THE SMARTEST MEN IN THE WORLD! IT'LL BE GOOD FOR YOU TO HEAR HIM!
HE IS THE MOST INTERESTING MAN I'VE EVER HEARD--HE'S BEEN ALL OVER THE WORLD AND KNOWS EVERYTHING THERE IS TO KNOW!
HEAR THAT, BLACKIE?
BOLONEY! I STILL DON'T LIKE LECTURES!
—AND LADIES AND GENTLEMEN IN OUR STRATO-SPHERE BALLOON WE DISCOVERED THINGS NEVER BEFORE KNOWN TO MAN!
OUR EXPERIENCES HIGH ABOVE THE EARTH DIFFERED SOMEWHAT FROM THOSE WE HAD ON OUR POLAR EX-PEDITION! THEN, TOO, WE THRILLED WHEN WE FIRST SUCCEEDED IN ISOLATING THE ATOM!
HOWEVER, THE GREATEST THRILL OF MY CAREER, I THINK, WAS IN MY STUDY OF RELATIVITY! RELATIVITY IS A SUBJECT THOROUGHLY UNDERSTOOD BY ONLY SIX MEN IN THE WORLD!— AND I AM---- PARDON ME A MOMENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN!
I'M AFRAID I CAN'T CONTINUE WITH MY LECTURE! THERE'S A SMALL BOY IN THE FRONT WHO DISTURBS ME TERRIBLY. I CAN'T TAKE MY EYES FROM HIM! LOOK! HE'S DOING IT AGAIN!
HAVE A POLICEMAN LEAD HIM OUT. AND HAVE HIM KEPT IN THE LOBBY UNTIL I CAN' TALK WITH HIM!
ALL RIGHT, PROFESSOR!
AW, GEE, I DIDN'T MEAN ANY HARM! I JUST COULDN'T HELP DOING IT, I GUESS!
NEVERTHELESS, THE PROFESSOR WANTS ME TO KEEP YOU HERE UNTIL HE'S FINISHED, AND NOT LET YOU GET AWAY!
ISN'T HE JUST THE MOST BRILLIANT PERSON YOU EVER LISTENED TO?
I DON'T THINK YOU COULD ASK HIM A SINGLE QUESTION HE COULDN'T ANSWER OR GIVE HIM A TASK HE COULDN'T PERFORM!
YOUNG MAN DO YOU REALIZE THAT WHILE I WAS TALKING YOU DISTURBED ME TERRIBLY! I COULDN'T TAKE MY EYES OFF YOU--- IT WAS MOST ANNOYING!
I'M SORRY, PROFESSOR- -I DIDN'T MEAN ANY HARM!
FORGET ABOUT THAT! WHAT I WANTED TO TALK TO YOU ABOUT WAS TO ASK YOU IF YOU'D TEACH ME HOW TO WIGGLE MY EARS THAT WAY?

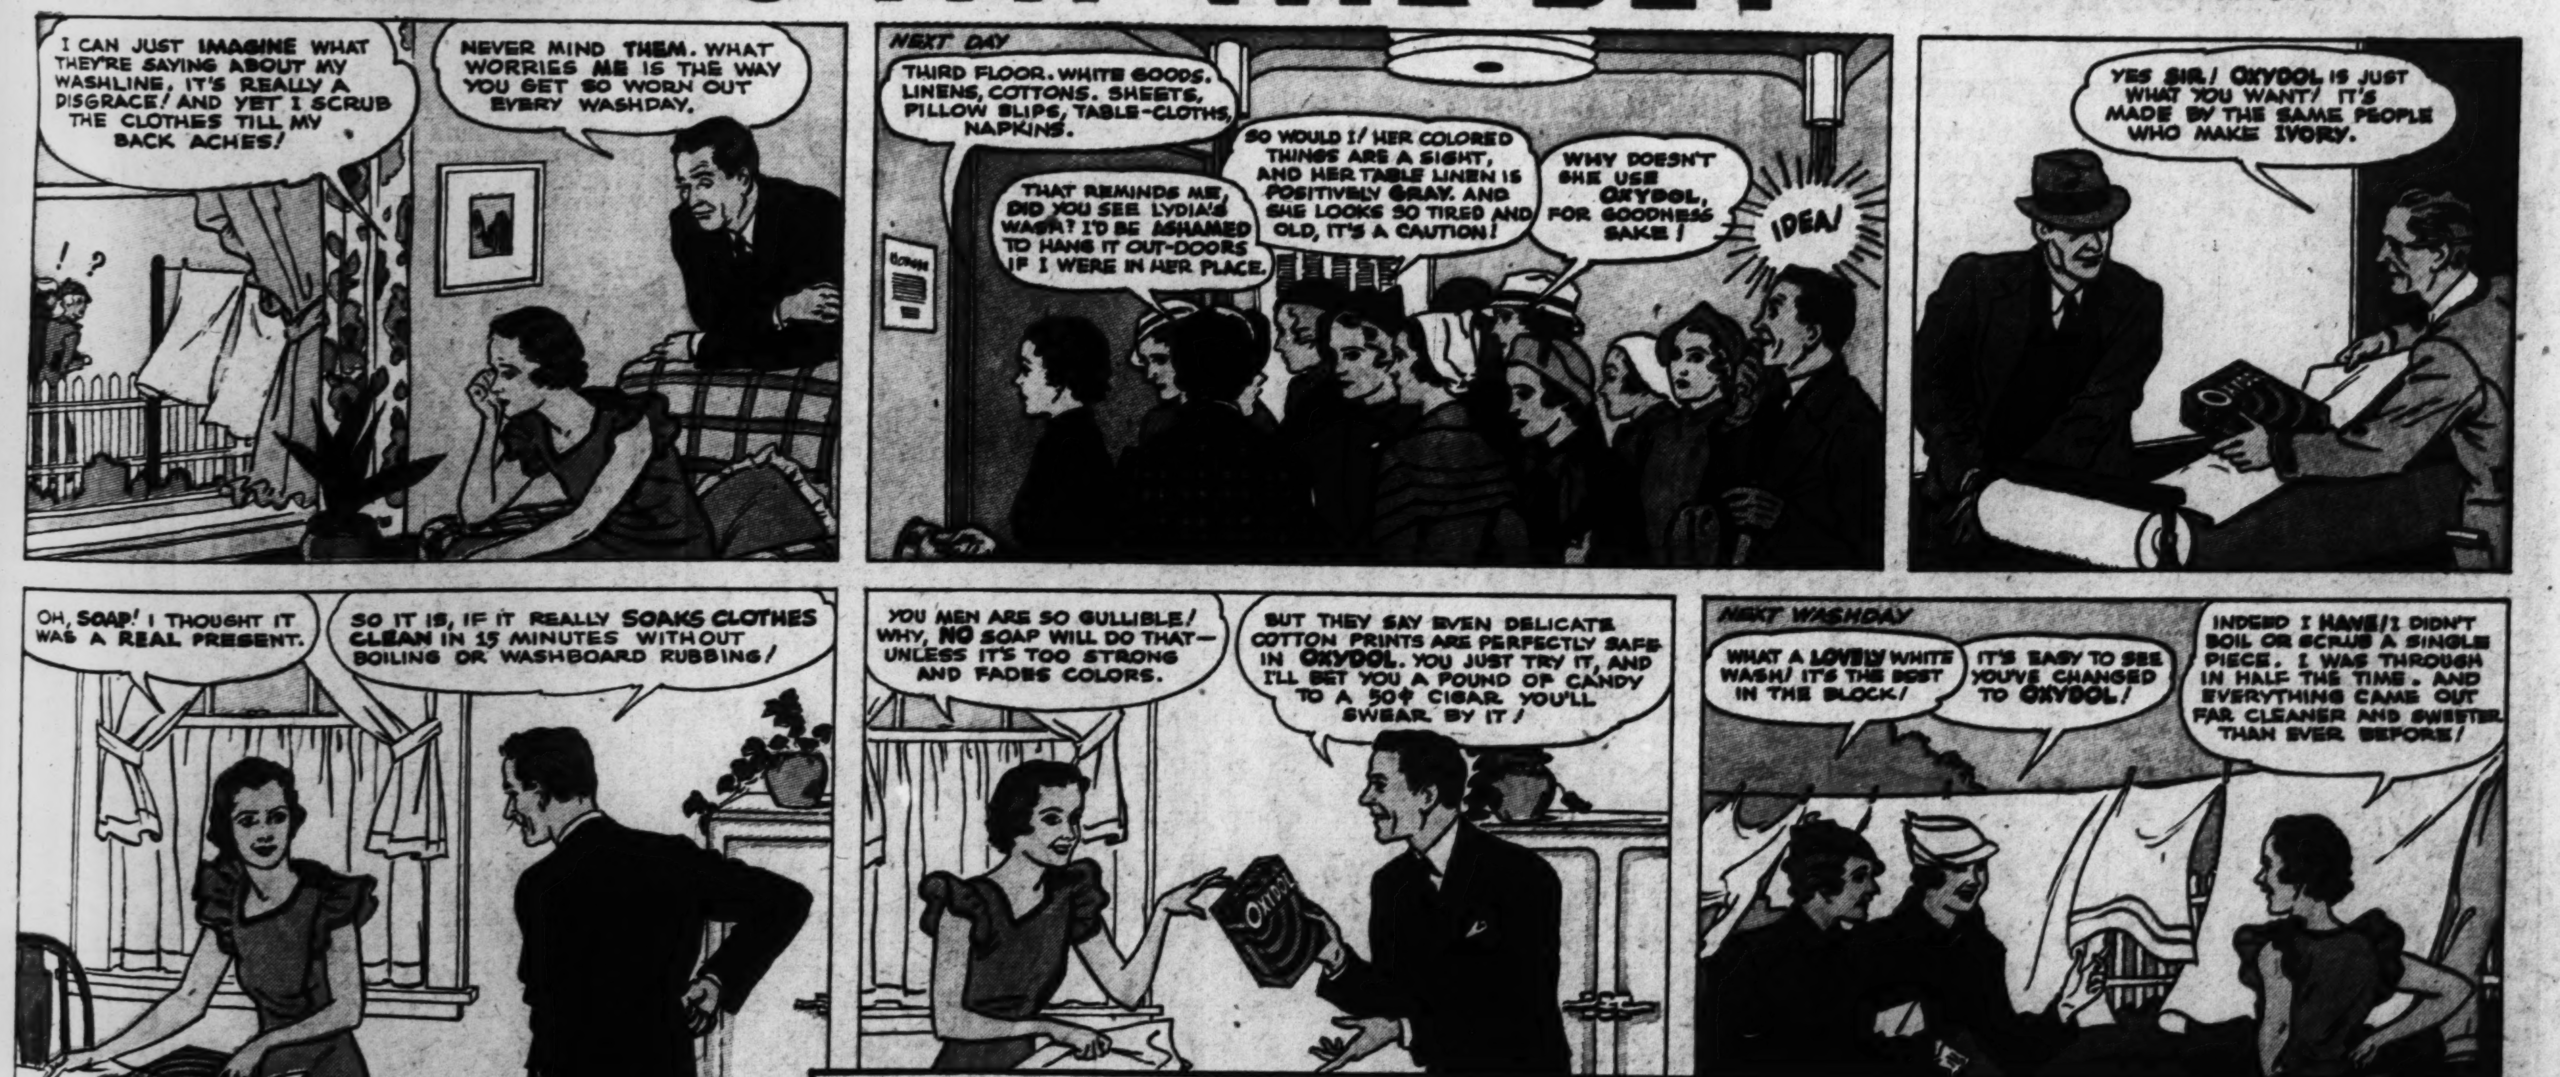
THAT PROVED HER HUSBAND RIGHT



I CAN JUST IMAGINE WHAT THEY'RE SAYING ABOUT MY WASHLINE. IT'S REALLY A DISGRACE! AND YET I SCRUB THE CLOTHES TILL MY BACK ACHES!
NEVER MIND THEM. WHAT WORRIES ME IS THE WAY YOU GET SO WORN OUT EVERY WASHDAY.
NEXT DAY
THIRD FLOOR. WHITE GOODS. LINENS, COTTONS. SHEETS, PILLOW SLIPS, TABLE-CLOTHS, NAPKINS.
THAT REMINDS ME, DID YOU SEE LYDIA'S WASH? I'D BE ASHAMED TO HANG IT OUT-DOORS IF I WERE IN HER PLACE.
SO WOULD I! HER COLORED THINGS ARE A SIGHT, AND HER TABLE LINEN IS POSITIVELY GRAY. AND SHE LOOKS SO TIRED AND OLD, IT'S A CAUTION!
WHY DOESN'T SHE USE OXYDOL, FOR GOODNESS SAKE!
IDEA!
YES SIR! OXYDOL IS JUST WHAT YOU WANT! IT'S MADE BY THE SAME PEOPLE WHO MAKE IVORY.
OH, SOAP! I THOUGHT IT WAS A REAL PRESENT.
SO IT IS, IF IT REALLY SOAKS CLOTHES CLEAN IN 15 MINUTES WITHOUT BOILING OR WASHBOARD RUBBING!
YOU MEN ARE SO GULLIBLE! WHY, NO SOAP WILL DO THAT— UNLESS IT'S TOO STRONG AND FADES COLORS.
BUT THEY SAY EVEN DELICATE COTTON PRINTS ARE PERFECTLY SAFE IN OXYDOL. YOU JUST TRY IT, AND I'LL BET YOU A POUND OF CANDY TO A 50¢ CIGAR YOU'LL SWEAR BY IT!
OXYDOL
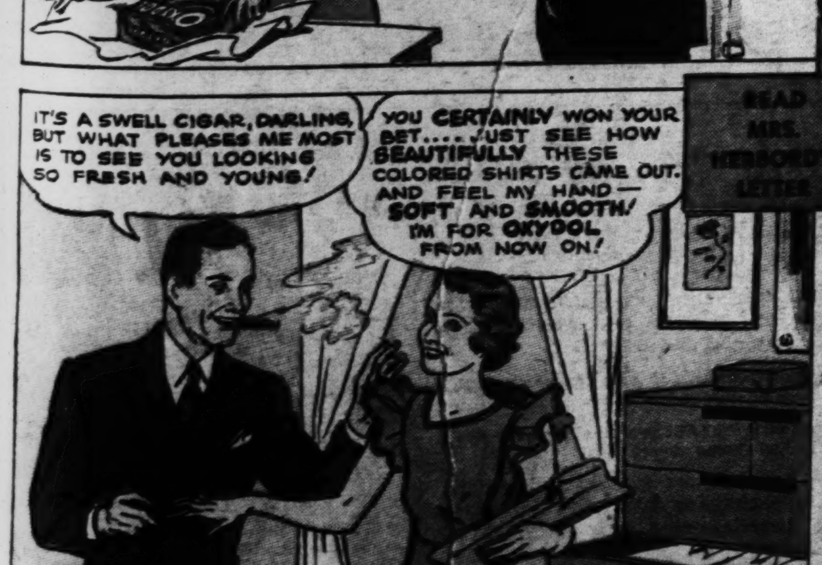
WHAT A LOVELY WHITE WASH! IT'S THE BEST IN THE BLOCK!
IT'S EASY TO SEE YOU'VE CHANGED TO OXYDOL!
INDEED I HAVE! I DIDN'T BOIL OR SCRUB A SINGLE PIECE. I WAS THROUGH IN HALF THE TIME. AND EVERYTHING CAME OUT FAR CLEANER AND SWEETER THAN EVER BEFORE!



IT'S A SWELL CIGAR, DARLING, BUT WHAT PLEASES ME MOST IS TO SEE YOU LOOKING SO FRESH AND YOUNG!
YOU CERTAINLY WON YOUR BET.... JUST SEE HOW BEAUTIFULLY THESE COLORED SHIRTS CAME OUT. AND FEEL MY HAND— SOFT AND SMOOTH! I'M FOR OXYDOL FROM NOW ON!
READ MRS. HERBORD'S LETTER

(AN ACTUAL EXPERIENCE FROM REAL LIFE)

"Blue Mondays" Ended for Kansas Woman

No Washing Machine, Yet No More Back-Breaking Rubbing, Either!

MRS. HERMAN HERBORD
Protection, Kansas

"I do not have any blue Mondays since I began using Oxydol. It seems to soak right down into the clothes and get every trace of dirt, and sometimes grease, out of my husband's clothes. I do not have a washing machine, but with Oxydol it doesn't take any more back-breaking rubbing. My clothes come out so white and smell so fresh and clean ...."

IF you, too, want the far faster, far whiter way in washing that Mrs. Herbord has found—then you are urged to try this latest discovery of the Procter & Gamble experts, makers of famous Ivory—the New and Improved OXYDOL!

It does 3 things no other soap can do or has ever done:

Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. Hence, gives you your afternoon free!

Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades WHITER, by the scientific whiteness-measuring Tintometer test. Whiter EVEN than other granulated soaps (heretofore considered "whitest washing") can do in TWO washings!

Yet, due to its utterly new and improved formula, colors won't fade; fabric won't wear out! Even cotton prints and children's dainty frocks are safe. Yet, despite its amazing cleaning power, it leaves hands soft, finger nails lustrous and uncracked.

It works without back-breaking rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt. OXYDOL SOAKS dirt out in 15 minutes. So you never have to scrub and boil clothes clean.

Thick 3-inch Suds in Any Water

OXYDOL is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it's sold. The OXYDOL you get here already contains just the right amount of water-softener to fit the water you use. You can see the results in the suds. OXYDOL multiplies 500 TIMES in suds! Makes rich 3-inch suds in any water, hard or soft!

And OXYDOL is economical. Many ordinary granulated or flake soaps cost 8% to 30% more for the same amount of soap!

Make This Test

Get OXYDOL from your grocer and make this two-way test: (1) With a ruler, measure OXYDOL's thick suds and compare with the suds made by your usual soap—note how long they last; (2) watch the clock to prove to yourself that OXYDOL does soak out the dirt in 15 minutes!

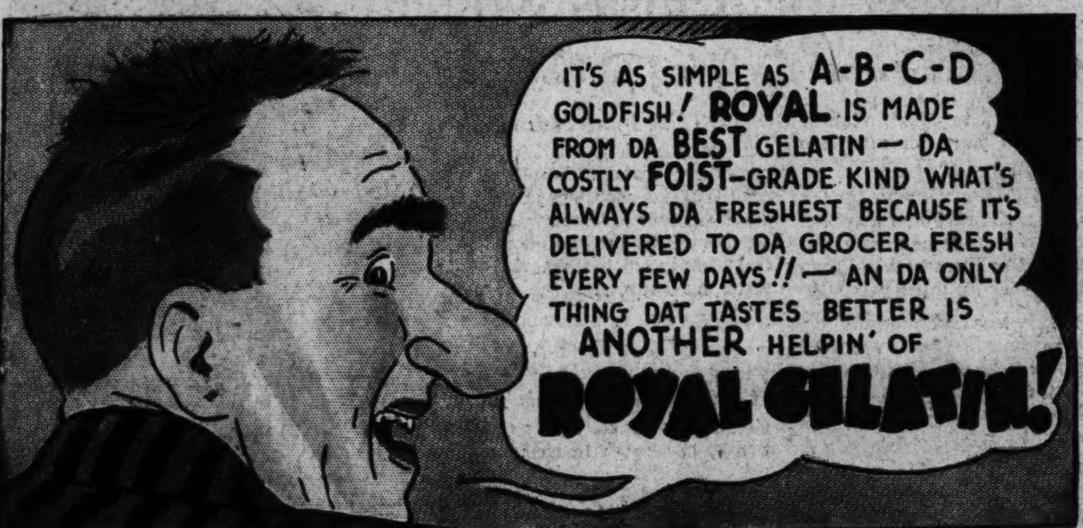
HUMILIATIN'! DAT'S WHAT IT IS! HERE I AM A REPORTER AN' NOTHIN' TO REPORT!!
IS THIS AN IDEA! EVERY WOMAN IS INTERESTED IN COOKIN'! ESPECIALLY DESSERTS! I'LL FIND OUT WHAT'S DA FAVORITE DESSERT OF DA MAJORITY AN' SPREAD DA NEWS ALL OVER DA FRONT PAGE — BOY, WILL THEY EAT IT UP!!
3 HOURS LATER
HOLD DA PRESSES! I GOT DA BEST STORY SINCE DA ARMISTICE! LISTEN! I ASKED 400 HOUSEWIVES WHAT'S THEIR FAVORITE DESSERT AN' DA VERDICT WAS UNANIMOUS- ROYAL GELATIN!!
SO WHAT?
I KNEW YOUSE WAS A SKEPTIC, BOSS, SO I BRUNG ALONG DA PROOF! LOOK! DIS IS ORDINARY GELATIN. NOW I ADDS DA HOT WATER — NOTICE ANY-THIN'??
I'LL SAY I DO! - IT HAS AN AWFUL ODOR!
BOSS, YOU SAID A MOUTHFUL! I KNOW BECAUSE I GOT A NOSE FULL!!
ORDINARY GELATIN
NOW I POURS DA ROYAL GELATIN IN HOT WATER! AN' DAT AIN'T A SMELL— DAT'S FRAGRANCE!
IT SURE IS! IT'S JUST LIKE SMELLING THE FRESH FRUIT! BUT HOW DO YOU ACCOUNT FOR THE DIFFERENCE?



IT'S AS SIMPLE AS A-B-C-D GOLDFISH! ROYAL IS MADE FROM DA BEST GELATIN — DA COSTLY FOIST-GRADE KIND WHAT'S ALWAYS DA FRESHEST BECAUSE IT'S DELIVERED TO DA GROCER FRESH EVERY FEW DAYS!! — AN DA ONLY THING DAT TASTES BETTER IS ANOTHER HELPIN' OF ROYAL GELATIN!

If you think gelatin desserts are all alike
Just SMELL the difference!

FRESH! FADING... ALMOST GONE!

Fruit flavors fade out quickly. The older the gelatin, the weaker its fruit flavor. That's why Royal Quick Setting Gelatin is rushed to grocers by the same fresh-food delivery system that carries Chase & Sanborn's Coffee. With Royal, you can count on an abundance of real fruit flavor!

THE next time you make a gelatin dessert, smell the vapor that rises when you add the hot water.

With ORDINARY gelatin desserts, you'll notice an unpleasant odor.

But with ROYAL, you'll get just the de*lightful aroma* of real fruit.

And Royal tastes as good as it smells! If the package says "Cherry"—it tastes like cherries—ripe and juicy. If it's "Lemon," you get the unmistakable tangy flavor of real lemons.

ROYAL Quick Setting GELATIN DESSERT LEMON FLAVOR

SEVEN FLAVORS: Lemon, Orange, Lime, Pineapple, Raspberry, Strawberry and Cherry. Also Royal Chocolate and Vanilla Puddings, made with healthful arrowroot.

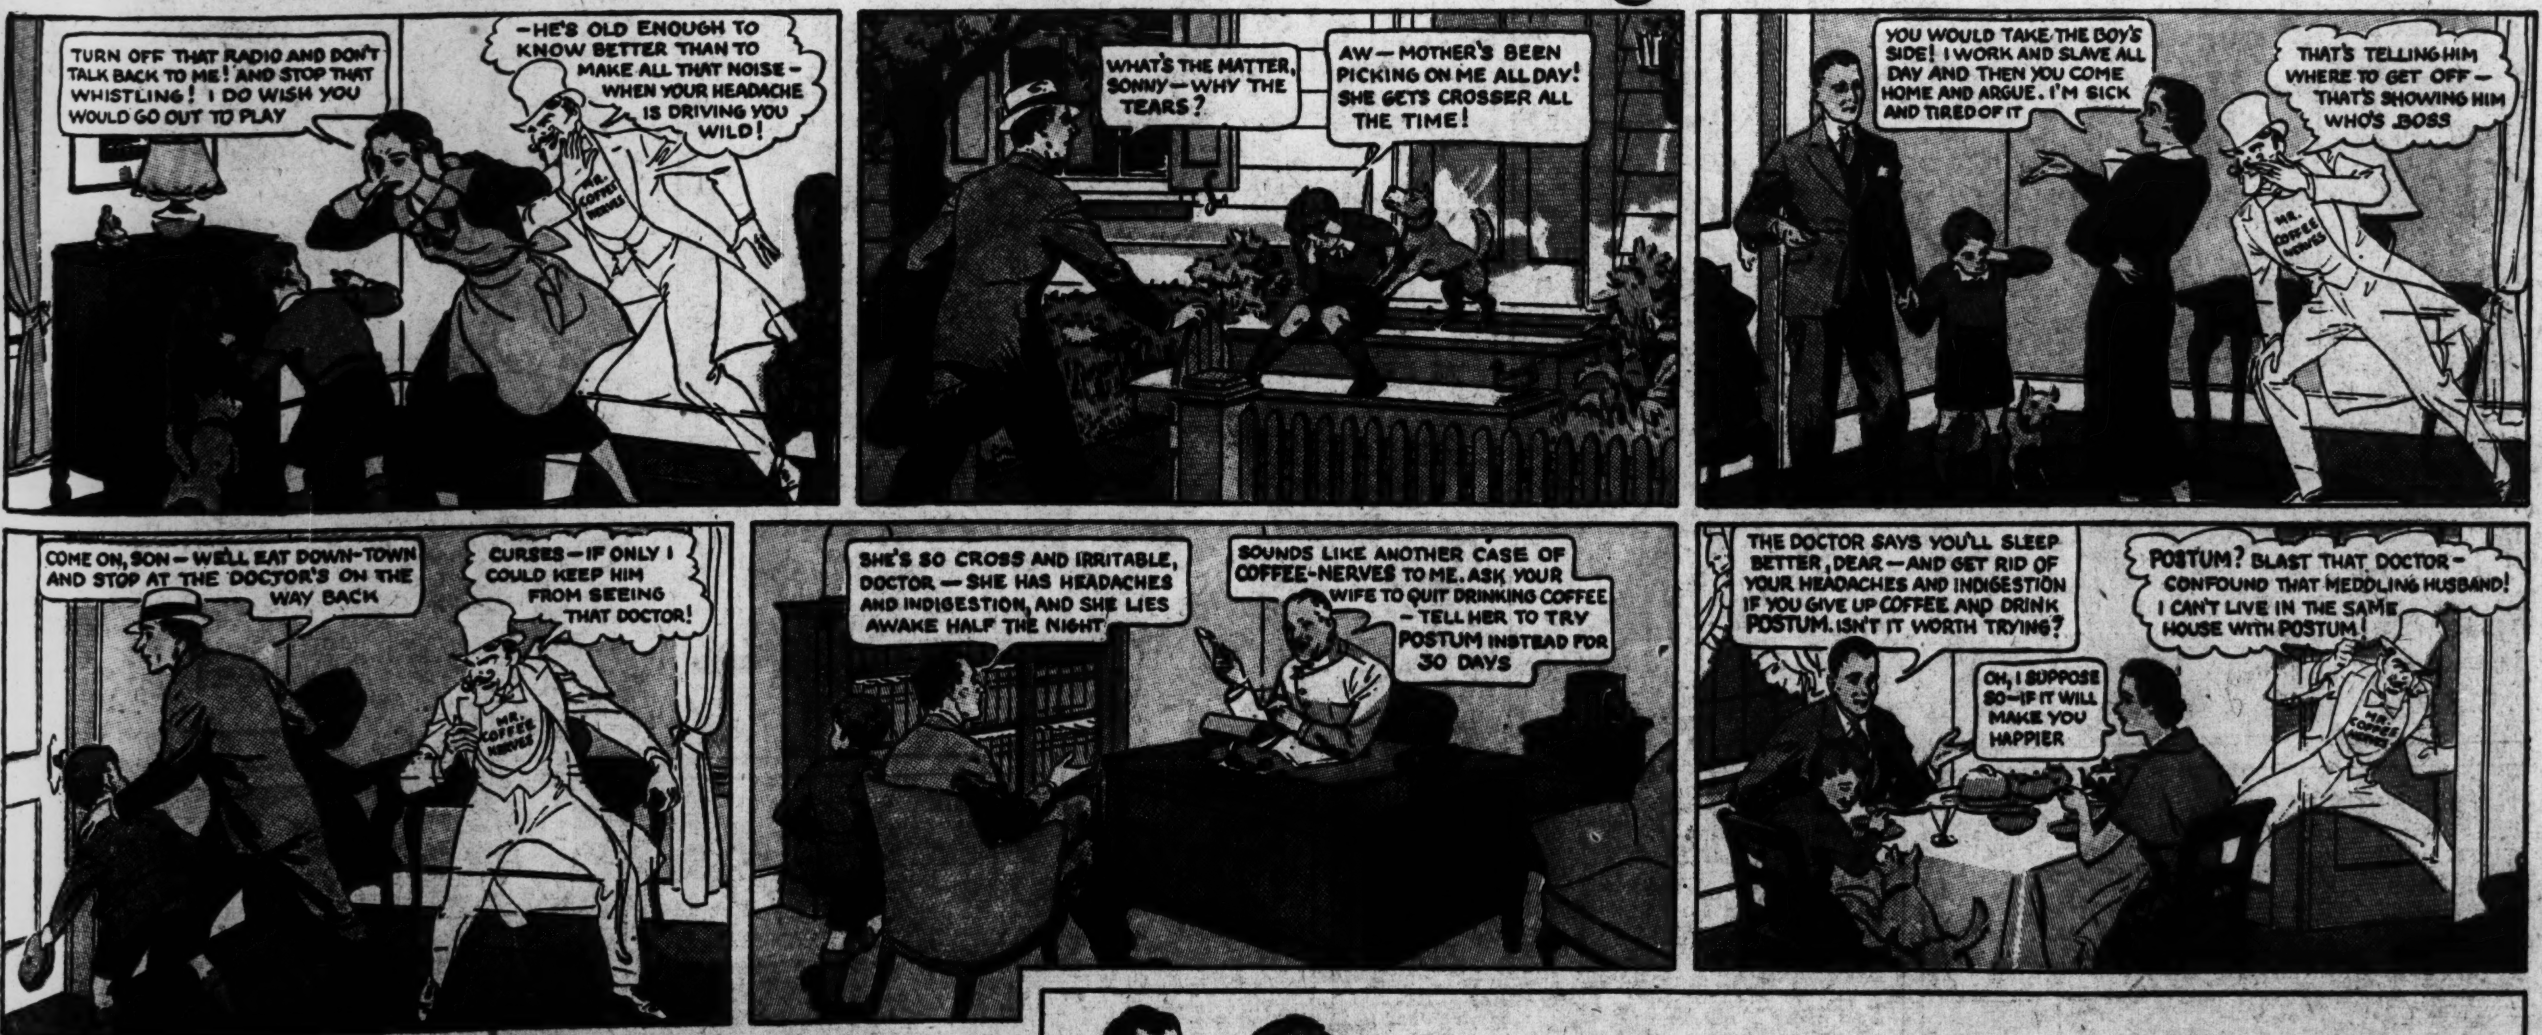
Mr. COFFEE-NERVES . . . foiled again

AN ADVERTISEMENT of GENERAL FOODS



TURN OFF THAT RADIO AND DON'T TALK BACK TO ME! AND STOP THAT WHISTLING! I DO WISH YOU WOULD GO OUT TO PLAY
- HE'S OLD ENOUGH TO KNOW BETTER THAN TO MAKE ALL THAT NOISE - WHEN YOUR HEADACHE IS DRIVING YOU WILD!
MR. COFFEE NERVES
WHAT'S THE MATTER, SONNY - WHY THE TEARS?
AW - MOTHER'S BEEN PICKING ON ME ALL DAY! SHE GETS CROSSER ALL THE TIME!
YOU WOULD TAKE THE BOY'S SIDE! I WORK AND SLAVE ALL DAY AND THEN YOU COME HOME AND ARGUE. I'M SICK AND TIRED OF IT
THAT'S TELLING HIM WHERE TO GET OFF - THAT'S SHOWING HIM WHO'S BOSS
COME ON, SON - WE'LL EAT DOWN-TOWN AND STOP AT THE DOCTOR'S ON THE WAY BACK CURSES - IF ONLY I COULD KEEP HIM FROM SEEING THAT DOCTOR!
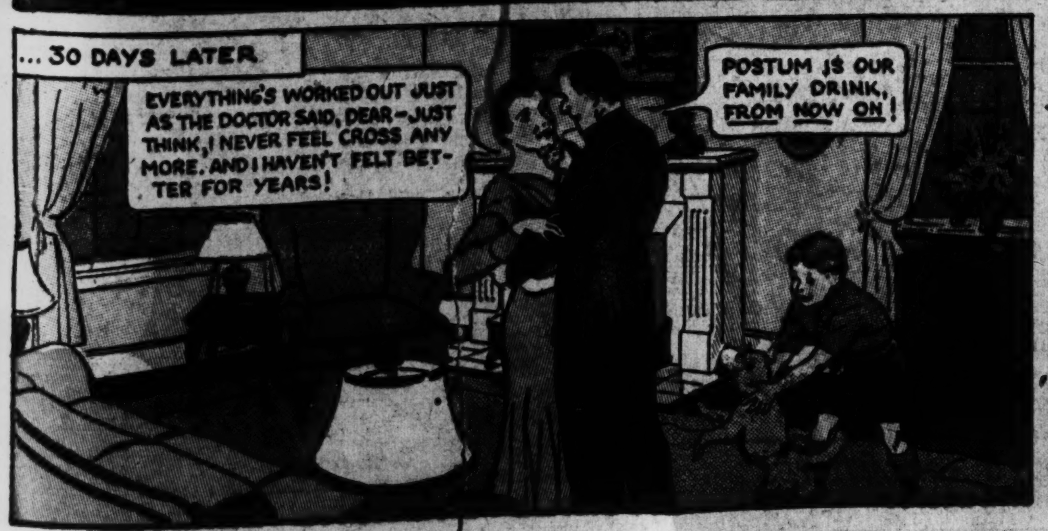
SHE'S SO CROSS AND IRRITABLE, DOCTOR - SHE HAS HEADACHES AND INDIGESTION, AND SHE LIES AWAKE HALF THE NIGHT
SOUNDS LIKE ANOTHER CASE OF COFFEE-NERVES TO ME. ASK YOUR WIFE TO QUIT DRINKING COFFEE - TELL HER TO TRY POSTUM INSTEAD FOR 30 DAYS
THE DOCTOR SAYS YOU'LL SLEEP BETTER, DEAR - AND GET RID OF YOUR HEADACHES AND INDIGESTION IF YOU GIVE UP COFFEE AND DRINK POSTUM. ISN'T IT WORTH TRYING?
OH, I SUPPOSE SO - IF IT WILL MAKE YOU HAPPIER
POSTUM? BLAST THAT DOCTOR - CONFOUND THAT MEDDLING HUSBAND! I CAN'T LIVE IN THE SAME HOUSE WITH POSTUM!



... 30 DAYS LATER
EVERYTHING'S WORKED OUT JUST AS THE DOCTOR SAID, DEAR - JUST THINK, I NEVER FEEL CROSS ANY MORE. AND I HAVEN'T FELT BETTER FOR YEARS!
POSTUM IS OUR FAMILY DRINK, FROM NOW ON!

"Daddy—what did the doctor mean when he said it might be coffee that was making Mother cross?"

"Well, you see, coffee contains caffein. And caffein is a drug that robs many people of sleep, gives them headaches or indigestion, makes them nervous and cross. That's why boys and girls, and many grown-ups, too, should never drink coffee."

"But why did changing to Postum make so much difference in Mother?"

"There's no caffein in Postum—so it gave her system a chance to throw off the ill effects of the drug. Then her headaches and indigestion went away; she wasn't nervous any more, and she could sleep soundly again."

TO BE SURE, there are many people who suffer no ill-effects from coffee. But there are others who cannot safely drink it—perhaps you are one. The caffein in coffee may be working, night and day, to rob you of sleep, to upset your digestion, or to undermine your whole nervous system.

If you suffer from loss of sleep, headaches, nervousness or indigestion; or have any other reason to suspect that coffee disagrees with you, why don't you try Postum for 30 days? You'll find it a delicious drink—and it may be a real help. A product of General Foods.

A STOCKING RUN!
HERE'S MY CHANCE!
I'M SO GLAD TO HELP YOU- LUX CUTS DOWN STOCKING RUNS! I'LL SHOW YOUR MAID HOW TO USE IT!
BUT IF YOU ONLY WILL, I SHALL BE FOREVER GRATEFUL, YOU LOVELY CHILD
SEE, JUST DIP THE STOCKINGS IN THESE LOVELY LUKEWARM LUX SUDS-NEVER, NEVER RUB WITH CAKE SOAP. LUX SAVES THE ELASTICITY OF THE SILK, SO IT GIVES INSTEAD OF BREAKING INTO RUNS SO OFTEN WONDERFUL! MY MISTRESS IS A ROYAL PRINCESS-SHE WILL REWARD YOU FOR THIS!
YOU MUST COME TO MY PALACE IN SYLMANIA-THERE I WILL REWARD YOU FOR YOUR WONDERFUL LUX SECRET
OH, PRINCESS, I'D LOVE TO! I KNEW LUX WOULD HELP YOU CUT DOWN STOCKING RUNS JUST AS IT HELPS MILLIONS OF GIRLS ALL OVER THE WORLD
LUX EVERY DAY HELPS KEEP RUNS AWAY
LUX
SAVES STOCKING ELASTICITY

"Believe me, it's true, girls! Lux cuts down stocking runs because it saves the elasticity of silk—stockings give instead of breaking into runs so often.

"Don't take chances with cake-soap rubbing or with soaps which contain harmful alkali. Lux hasn't any harmful alkali. Safe in water—safe in Lux!"

P. S. "If wives would Lux their husbands' socks, they'd wear longer, too!"
